The German newspapers in the Rhineland printed in great detail the stories of the allied plans for an advance. Their reports seemed to improve on Marshal Foch's plans. They told about how airplanes were ready to bombard Berlin and other German cities, how people would be interned on all sides,

Belgium Gets First $500,000,000 Reparation; Great Powers to Float the Bonds Germany Gives

PARIS, June 24.—Arrangements by which Belgium is to have priority up to $500,000,000 in the reparation money received from Germany were formally concluded this afternoon by the Council of Four.

Furthermore, President Wilson, Premier Lloyd George, and Premier Clemenceau agree to ask their respective national Legislatures to take over the bonds which are to be issued by Germany for reimbursement of Belgium for all the money she was compelled to borrow as a result of being forced into war by Germany's violation of her neutrality.

This arrangement will practically wipe out Belgium's war debt by allowing her to realize at once on the bonds. The three great Allies will collect on the bonds from Germany later.

This method of aiding Belgium was suggested by the American delegation several months ago.

One paragraph of Article 232 of the original peace treaty prescribed that "in accordance with Germany's pledges, already given, as to complete restoration of Belgium, Germany undertakes, in addition to the compensation for damages, elsewhere in this chapter provided for, to make reimbursement of all sums which Belgium has borrowed from the allied and associated powers up to Nov. 11, 1918, together with interest at 5 per cent. per annum on such sums."

The United States had loaned Belgium about $218,000,000 at the time the armistice was signed. In addition Belgium obtained considerable amounts from Great Britain before we entered the war. These total about $700,000,000.

WILSON ANXIOUS TO LEAVE

Realizes the Difficulties Raised by Senate and Wants to Combat Them.

By RICHARD V. OULAHAN.

PARIS, June 24.—Reports of the overthrow of the Bauer Ministry in Germany, together with difficulties of a physical nature have brought the council of the great powers to the decision that there is a strong possibility that the signatory ceremony may not take place until Friday.

This postponement is very vexatious to President Wilson, who is anxious to leave for home as soon as possible. He had hoped to be able to depart from Paris today.

One reason for the delay is the inability of the German plenipotentiaries to arrive at Versailles before Thursday. The evident intention of the German Government was to have Herr Haniel von Haimhausen, acting Chairman of the peace delegation, (who remained at Versailles after the departure of Count von Brockdorff-Rantzau and the other fully accredited plenipotentiaries for Weimar to consult the Ministry) the sole signatory for Germany. To that end he was designated as temporary plenipotentiary. His real position is chief of the secretariat of the German peace mission.

To this procedure the Council of great powers objected. They held that Dr. von Haniel von Haimhausen was not of sufficient rank or importance to justify him in acting for Germany when the allied signatories would be men of such prominence as President Wilson, Premiers Clemenceau and Lloyd George, Baron Makino, Viscount Ghiad, and Foreign Ministers Lansing, Balfour, Pichon, and Sonnino, to mention only a few of them.

But Haniel von Haimhausen solved the problem for them. He let it be known today that he would not sign the treaty in any event. In the best informed quarters information is obtained that this was due to a message from his wife to the effect that if he signed the treaty he need not return to Germany. Thus Frau von Haniel von Haimhausen has saved the foremost statesmen of the allied nations the embarrassment of informing Germany that a man, apparently chosen to act for the German Government in the formal acceptance of the allied conditions, would not be acceptable as a signatory.

President Wilson's desire to return to America as soon as possible is due especially to his anxiety over the opposition to the peace terms and the League of Nations in the Senate and the effort to create sentiment in this country against American acceptance of the treaty in its present shape.

The President is, of course, fully aware that any amendment to the treaty or the League covenant will keep the United States out of the League and leave it still technically at war with Germany until the amendments are accepted by all the other signatory Governments—an impossible situation that cannot be overcome, according to opinion here, without negotiations extending over several years. Even at that, it is doubtful if the other signatory Governments would accept the Senate changes.

The course of Senate Republicans has caused the President to instruct Colonel Allied Representatives Consider the Act a Violation of National Faith.

COBLENZ, June 24.—A telegram from Berlin this afternoon says that the French flags captured by the Germans in 1870 have been burned in front of the statue of Frederick the Great in Unter den Linden.

German officers and soldiers of a guard cavalry division entered the War Museum and took out the flags, already packed to be delivered to the French under the terms of the treaty. A crowd carried the flags down Unter den Linden, singing "Deutschland Uber Alles" and "Die Wacht am Rhein." They soaked the flags in gasoline and burned them, while thousands marched up and down the streets rejoicing.

Coblenz newspaper extras are out giving an account of the incident, and residents here are openly showing their satisfaction. Among the flags burned was one captured from Napoleon I. in 1814.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, June 23.—A telegram from Berlin received in Copenhagen by the Exchange Agency states that a number of soldiers belonging to the German Black Guard Cavalry Corps entered the Berlin Arsenal today and seized all the old French banners preserved from the war of 1870 and those captured from 1914 to 1918, which, according to the peace terms, were to be handed back to France. They were afterward burned.

The news of the destruction of the fleet apparently caused the burning of the banners. There is reason to believe that the reactionary German elements are preparing a number of similar coups in order to destroy as many as possible of the articles to be delivered to the Allies.

The nervous tension in Berlin this afternoon is great, and the streets are crowded with people.

PARIS, June 24.—Word of the burning of French battleflags by the Germans has been received here. Peace Conference opinion is apparently unanimous that this is a distinct violation of the Peace Treaty, as that document stipulated that the flags should be returned to France by Germany.

It is probable that a commission will be appointed to consider taking action in the matter.

Article 245 of the Peace Treaty, in the original draft, stipulated that within six months after the treaty took effect Germany must restore to France the trophies, works of art, &c., carried from France by the German authorities in the Franco-Prussian War, "particularly the French flags taken in the course of the war of 1870-71."

Urge Dutch to Hold Kaiser.

LONDON, June 24.—An Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Copenhagen says that the German Officers Association has asked the Dutch Government not to deliver the former Emperor to the Allies. In a telegram, officers of the Association said:

"We can protect the Kaiser with our bodies, but we rely upon the generosity of the Dutch people."

CLEMENCEAU ALONE TO TALK

PARIS, June 24.—The German delegation which will sign the Peace Treaty will arrive at Versailles Friday morning, according to information reaching the French Foreign Office. It is thought probable in French circles that the signing of the treaty will take place at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon.

According to Liberté, Hermann Müller, the new German Foreign Secretary, will head the delegation to sign the treaty.

The information regarding the time of arrival of the German delegation was made known to Premiers Clemenceau, Lloyd George, and President Wilson, while they were at Versailles this afternoon, looking over the arrangements for the signature of the treaty.

M. Clemenceau and Paul Dutasta, General Secretary of the Peace Conference, drove to the château at 2 o'clock, where they were joined by Major Gen. Mordacq, head of the military cabinet of the Ministry of War, and William Martin, Chief of Protocol. Arthur J. Balfour, the British Foreign Secretary, came twenty-five minutes later, followed soon afterward by President Wilson and Baron Sonnino of the Italian Peace Delegation.

The party visited the Hall of Mirrors, where the treaty is to be signed. Later they went to the apartment of Louis XIV., where M. Clemenceau had an attendant open a window and the Premier, President Wilson and Mr. Balfour stepped out upon the balcony, overlooking the Court of Honor. A detachment of American soldiers and a crowd of visitors below cheered them enthusiastically.

Plans for the ceremony attending the signature of the treaty were considered by the Supreme Council today. President Wilson favors making it as simple as is consistent with the nature of the event, and the original plans for the conclusion of "the second peace of Versailles" have been materially modified at his suggestion.

The plenipotentiaries will be seated on a raised dais in the centre of the Hall of Mirrors in the Château of Versailles.

M. Clemenceau will open the ceremonies with a brief introduction. No speech is expected from the Germans.

William Martin of the French Foreign Office, as master of ceremonies, will then carry the treaty to President Wilson and the Premiers, who will sign at their seats.

After the treaty is brought back to a table expressly assigned for signatures, the names of the other delegates will be called, and they will advance and sign opposite seals which will have been previously affixed to the instrument.

The order in which the allied delegates will sign after the signatures of the President and the Premiers are attached will be according to the alphabetical order of the names of the countries they represent.

It is expected that the signing will require two hours. The seals of all the delegates will be affixed in advance; many of them are already in the hands of the French Foreign Office. President Wilson is using the President's seal, which is an eagle, with the words, "Seal of the President of the United States."

Like President Wilson, M. Vandervelde, representing Belgium, is using an official seal—the Belgian coat of arms encircled by the words, "Minister of Justice." The German delegates will sign after the Allies.

The French treaty experts regard the Chinese and Japanese seals as the most artistic. These are chiefly the names of the delegates in Oriental letters and are adorned with flowers and quaint figures.

When the signatures are completed the Entente party will emerge on the terrace at the side of the palace, where all the great fountains will be playing in the gardens. The Germans will leave on the side where they entered.

The Supreme Blockade Council met today to decide on a date when the blockade of Germany should be lifted. One element, it is understood, favors the day when the treaty is ratified, but it is believed that the council will probably decide to lift the blockade with the signing of the treaty.

The announcement of Germany's acceptance of the treaty threw the Hotel de Crillon, American headquarters, into wild confusion. Because of the uncertainty as to the date on which the treaty would be signed, experts, officers and clerks who will return on the George Washington with President Wilson were ordered to be ready to leave tonight.

Consequently, trunks, bookcases and military bags were today tumbled into the corridors in great disorder and American soldiers rushed about in an effort to get baggage to the stations as quickly as possible so that the personnel of the mission might be ready to leave at once.

FRENCH SEE TASKS AHEAD.

Newspapers Express Relief at Peace, but Are Not Jubilant.

PARIS, June 24.—In such headlines as "Really Peace at Last," does the press of Paris express its relief at the formal end of the great war. Editorial writers embroider their text with comments in keeping with the principles professed by their respective newspapers, but none of the writers are exactly jubilant. Underlying all is the feeling that the task that lies ahead is almost equal to that of winning the war.

"The task," says Alfred Capus, in Le Figaro, "is not above the strength of this nation, which comes out of the war with a prestige which remains only to be converted into prosperity."

"Peace is something more than a contract between the belligerent powers," continues M. Capus. "It is also a mental state. It contains, if we know how to extract the essence in full, a policy and a social philosophy whose formulae emerge day by day. Our intellectual life for a long age to come will be founded upon it. From it we shall draw out new methods of feeling and thinking."

Le Journal lauds the soldiers whose work now is crowned. It says:

"How many fell without knowing and without even dimly foreseeing the reward for their sacrifice! You heroes of the Marne, the Yser, Verdun, and the Somme, it is you who have broken the indomitable arrogance of the Germans! It is you who enabled mankind to glimpse, if not to prepare for, an era of lasting peace!"

After expressing pleasure over the approaching signing of the treaty for the sake of humanity, Humanité, the official organ of the Socialist Party, denounces the conditions of the treaty.

"It is cynical and dangerous mockery," it says, "to give to what was called a war for right a conclusion of violence and iniquity. The nations, France above all, had believed in the grand promises with which the courage of the combatants was sustained for nearly five years. They believed especially in the words of President Wilson, who, much more than Prussian imperialism, is the conquered of today."

The paper concludes by declaring that the Socialists, as Bebel and Liebknecht did in Germany in 1871, accept no responsibility for a peace "odious and clumsy and dangerous for France."

NO GERMAN DELEGATES YET.

Difficulty Found in Getting Men to Sign Treaty.

WEIMAR, June 24, (Associated Press.)—The plenipotentiaries who will sign the Peace Treaty for Germany have not yet been chosen. They may, however, be named tomorrow. It is still proving difficult to find men who are willing to affix their signature to a document which is to be such a momentous historical record.

Dr. Haniel von Haimhausen, who was designated Sunday as the German representative to sign the treaty of peace, has telegraphed his resignation from Versailles rather than attach his name to the instrument.

VERSAILLES, June 23.—A member of the German delegation said today that, while Dr. Haniel von Haimhausen had full powers to sign the treaty on behalf of Germany, he believed that, in view of the gravity of the act, a member of the new German cabinet would come here to sign the treaty.

how the good American food would stop coming if the Allies went ahead. The natural conclusion the editors reached from all this was: "For God's sake, sign."

Far different from the apathy reported in Berlin was the sentiment of the Rhineland. Crowds flocked about the newspaper offices waiting for the latest editions or the newest bulletins. Every development at Weimar was watched with keenest interest as the Rhinelanders "rooted" for Erzberger and the signature of the treaty.

FOCH WAS AT ADVANCED POST.

Cancels Promptly Appointment to Tell of Allied Advance.

COBLENZ, June 23, (Associated Press.)—Marshal Foch, the allied Commander in Chief, heard the news of the vote passed by the German National Assembly on Sunday in favor of accepting the peace terms while he was at his advanced headquarters at Kreuznach, in the French area of occupation. The Marshal visited Mayence Sunday and conferred with his Generals regarding final plans for the march into Germany.

The Generalissimo returned to Kreuznach to keep an appointment with several American newspaper correspondents with whom he was to discuss the proposed activities of the allied armies if the Germans did not accept. The Marshal got the Weimar report from Paris by telephone at 7 o'clock Sunday night. What his impression was is not known, as he canceled his appointment with the correspondents and did not give out a statement.

WEIMAR, June 23, (via Copenhagen.)—Within half an hour, beginning at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon, the National Assembly decided that "the Government was empowered to sign the treaty, as was resolved yesterday."

The Entente's rejection of the German Government's note containing two reservations had made it doubtful whether yesterday's resolution applied to the altered situation, though no mention of any reservation had been made in it.

The house was nearly as crowded as yesterday and in just as solemn a mood when President Fehrenbach opened the session and explained the situation. Prime Minister Bauer was the first speaker and he again enlarged on Germany's desperate situation.

"We must be honest," he said. "We must not conceal from ourselves the fatal consequences. This document will degrade our people as never any people were degraded in history.

"Only four hours divide us from another war which would leave no hope whatever. This we must avoid in all circumstances. Therefore, I am asking that you declare that the Government was empowered by yesterday's resolution to sign."

Reactionaries Refuse to Yield.

After Premier Bauer, Herr Schiffer, Democrat, and Herren Schulz and Heinz of the reactionary parties, declared in a few words that their parties had not changed their attitude against signing, but they would pledge that even those who favored signing were actuated by the highest patriotic motives. Contrary to all expectations, the Centrists offered no further explanation of their attitude, though it had been rumored all the morning that they were ready to break away because the Entente had rejected the reservations.

There was a little wrangling between President Fehrenbach and the reactionaries regarding the method of voting, the latter demanding that the house be polled. Herr Fehrenbach managed to have his way.

In accordance with prearrangements, he called on those in favor of affirming that nothing had been changed in the status quo of yesterday to rise from their seats, and it was easy to see that they were in the majority. It was generally believed that if the names of the voters had been recorded the result would have been different.

Herr Fehrenbach then expressed the hope that the German people would never doubt that those who voted for signing acted from the purest patriotic motives and that nothing would be undertaken against them, which hint was meant for the reactionaries.

Alarm at Officers' Attitude.

"For the rest, we must place the fate of our unfortunate Fatherland in God's hands," he said. Adding: "I propose now an adjournment for an hour to draw up a message to our soldiers, as has been suggested by various parties."

The seats were quickly vacated, perhaps because a rumor had been spreading that a large number of officers and some troops were en route to Weimar, determined to take the whole Assembly captive because they were unwilling to consent to the extradition of the ex-Kaiser and his Generals. It could not be learned how much truth there was in this rumor.

This much was certain, however, Herr Noske, at various Cabinet sessions lasting all last night and until noon today, had declared that all his officers threatened to retire if peace were signed without reservations, and because he had been unable to persuade them to remain he wished to leave the Cabinet. With the greatest difficulty he was persuaded to defer his decision.

All morning Noske telephoned to his Generals in the East, Berlin, and other places begging them not to commit any rash act, with what result remains to be seen.

Cabinet in Danger of Split.

The whole Cabinet was several times on the point of splitting, and the Centrists could only be persuaded with the greatest difficulty not to break away from the majority. About 4 o'clock in the afternoon it was rumored that railway connection with Berlin had been interrupted either by strikers or by militarists.

When the convention reassembled, President Tehrenbach's clerk read a message to the soldiers, in which the people's representatives thanked them for what they had done for the country, and expressed the hope that they would not desert in this hour of trial, though their honor was touched more than anybody else's. It is noteworthy that the Independent Socialists refrained from raising a protest on this.

The Times correspondent, conversing with General Merker, who watched the proceedings from the stage, was told by him that the attitude of the volunteer army had been grossly misrepresented. He and most of the officers would continue to serve the country as long as they were needed, he said, but when order was finally restored they would retire because they could not serve longer than was absolutely necessary a Government which extradited Generals to the enemy.

Bauer Hopes Treaty Will Recall.

BERLIN, June 23, (Associated Press.)—Addressing the National Assembly at Weimar today in reference to the unconditional signature of the Peace Treaty, Gustav Bauer, the Premier, said that a "defeated nation was being violated body and soul to the horror of the world."

"Let us sign," he continued, "but it is our hope to the last breath that this attempt against our honor may one day recoil against its authors."

The delegates to the Assembly seemed disheartened and crushed. This was emphasized when even those opposed to signing made their protests in an apparently hopeless way as if it were a matter of course. The Assembly listened with apathy to the announcement that it had been decided to sign without conditions.

President Fehrenbach made a desperate rhetorical attempt to inspire hope in the future, but failed to stir a single delegate to applause.

ERZBERGER WON VOTES BY RESERVATIONS MOVE

No Conditions Attached to Assembly's Action on Sunday, Despite Bauer's Speech.

By GEORGE RENWICK.

WEIMAR, June 22.—There was a slight surprise for the National Assembly today when Premier Bauer said that the Government would sign the Peace Treaty under two reservations, for it had been clearly understood last night that all reservations had been dropped and that the Government's policy was unconditional agreement to sign.

It transpired behind the scenes, however, that the addition of the two reservations to the Government's declaration was merely a little piece of Erzbergerian tactics. Erzberger, greatly desirous of strengthening and increasing the Assembly majority in favor of signing, had persuaded the Government overnight to have these two points inserted in the Premier's statement.

They were in the nature of pious wishes merely. They were "not worth fighting for," nor was it intended that there should be any fighting for them. They were concessions to a certain slice of opinion in the Middle Parties. They meant nothing, in fact, though the rumor did run through the lobbies that Erzberger, having been in touch with the other side, put forward the two best. He whipped the Majority Socialists would be accepted.

The Assembly became distinctly tired after a couple of hours of speeches similar to those it had listened to scores of times. The theatre was for a while rather more than half empty.

Haase's speech brought all the members back to their seats. He was at his best. He whipped the majority Socialists to anger by his unmerciful handling of them on such questions as who was responsible for the war.

He calmly put forward his motion "That the National Assembly agrees to the signature of the treaty of peace," making no reservations. For a while the members were nonplused as to what was going to happen, but it was not long before the delegates saw that here again was a little piece of tactics. When Haase's resolution was put forward Erzberger did not move a hair. Bauer looked supremely unconcerned, and President Fehrenbach appeared to take the resolution as a matter of course.

There was little more speaking, and the debate closed. Amid some protests Haase's resolution was first voted on, and the President, after a tense moment or two, rang his bell and announced in quiet tones: "Three hundred and eighty votes, of which 227 are for and 138 against the resolution."

By a majority of 90 the National Assembly had thus declared in favor of signing peace without reservations, yet there was no cheering, but a load of anxiety seemed to be lifted from every one's shoulders. It was the end of a nightmare.

The Government then asked for a vote of confidence, and secured a majority of 147. So Germany will sign and the reservations will not matter. Behind the strongly supported Government there stands a large majority of the National Assembly in favor of unconditionally signing.

The size of the majority in the Assembly in favor of acceptance outright surprised everybody, and doubtless Erzberger feels justified in that little piece of tactics, which mollified some doubters, and made them vote as he wanted.

AMERICA MUST DECIDE LEAGUE, SAYS GIBBS

Without Us It Will Be a Mockery and the Present Peace a Prelude to New War.

By PHILIP GIBBS.

LONDON, June 23.—England at peace after years of sacrifice and with the memory of a million dead is not forgetful tonight of what the world owes to American troops, who made victory certain and fought in great battles which for the first time brought peace in sight.

On my visit to the United States I ventured to speak of the world's need for Anglo-American friendship as a guarantee of some kind of a league of nations, which still seems to me the only hope of stricken humanity. Without America's support that League will be a mockery, and peace itself will be but a prelude to a new epoch of war and of anarchy worse than war.

So it is the United States which will decide now the destiny of many peoples and their own, and the English soldiers who fought side by side with American comrades look for a brotherhood in the ideals of peace and good-fellowship across the Atlantic where the spirit of liberty has wings.

FRAU VON HANIEL FORBIDS SIGNING

House not to participate officially in the sessions of the League of Nations Organisation Committee, which meets soon in London. Colonel House is the American member. He may make suggestions, but will not vote or otherwise commit the United States formally to any action taken. This presents a very embarrassing situation, for it places the United States—which expected to take a prominent part in the organization of the League—in the position of being a virtual outsider, and leaves it impotent to overcome any action to which it is opposed.

If there were any assurance that the Senate would accept the League covenant, trusting to future agreements in the governing bodies of the League to make modifications that would bring the League principles into harmony with American sentiment, Colonel House would be able to participate fully in the deliberations of the organization committee.

The abandonment of support of the Knox resolution by Senate Republicans naturally causes gratification in the American peace contingent, but this gratification is coupled with concern over the attitude of ex-Senator Root. Mr. Root was regarded by the American Peace Delegation as one of the best friends of the League of Nations.

Should his suggestions that the Senate make definite reservations to the League covenant be adopted the United States would be in the position of having hampered the success of the League, in the belief of most, if not all, of those here officially as associates or advisors of President Wilson in the peace negotiations. It seems to be a very general belief in the American contingent that if the Senate makes a reservation to Article X. of the covenant the whole League structure will be endangered and the League itself will become nothing more than a debating society.

It is mainly on account of these considerations that the President is so anxious to return to America. All his associates here realise that he has a hard task ahead and the physical strain of his contemplated speechmaking tour to arouse sentiment in behalf of the treaty and the League will be all the greater in view of the fact that he is tired out after his many months' hard work as one of the principal peacemakers.

PARIS CELEBRATES IN TUMULT OF JOY

CANNON HAULED IN STREETS

On the Edges of the Throngs Women in Mourning for Lost Ones Weep Silently.

PARIS, June 23, (Associated Press.)—Long months of strain ended late this afternoon when a note announcing Germany's acceptance was delivered to the Supreme Council of the conference.

The announcement in the early morning of the Council's decision to refuse a further extension of time in which Germany might answer opened a day of extreme tension. It was generally known to the public and conference diplomats that only a few hours separated them from the portentous decision.

First light came in a press dispatch from Weimar about noon, stating that Germany had decided to yield, but nothing was heard from Versailles until just after 3 o'clock P. M., when a telephone message from Versailles then announced the arrival of the German reply, which it was known to a few of the initiated was favorable. The first definite announcement, however, was made to American correspondents at the French press headquarters at Quai d'Orsay at 4:50 o'clock, it being stated that an affirmative reply had been delivered to Colonel Henry, liaison officer between the Germans and the Peace Conference, who was bringing it to Paris by automobile.

It was not long after the reply had been received and opened before the Supreme Council that guns began to boom from the ports around Paris and rejoicing crowds began to stream through the streets, having been apprised by the sound of cannon that the Germans had accepted the allied terms.

Allied flags were flung out as if by magic from windows. Automobiles, loaded with cheering doughboys and excited poilus, dashed through the thoroughfares. Church bells throughout the city were pealing everywhere, and cheering, animated throngs gave evidence of the joy with which the Parisian crowds welcomed the end of the long years of agony and tension.

The celebration soon assumed a more tumultuous character and by 8 o'clock in the evening Paris seemed bent on indulging in an excited demonstration of joy.

Bands of students had taken possession of the German trophy cannons, ranged on each side of the Champs Elysées from the Arch of Triumph to Place de la Concorde, and were dragging them in a procession through the city, each cannon carrying its burden of cheering youths.

Special editions of newspapers with huge captions "Peace Has Come" were snatched from news sellers by excited Parisians going home from work.

High carnival reigned in the boulevards far into the night and scenes enacted at the time of the armistice were repeated and, indeed, intensified. Dense throngs swayed back and forth, shouting, singing and waving flags. Autotrucks loaded with American soldiers, armed with every noise-producing element, threaded their way through the masses.

From the windows of packed cafés floated patriotic strains, the orchestras playing tirelessly, urged on by the revelers.

Women in mourning, to whom the official end of the war brought remembrances of those to whom the struggle had brought but wooden crosses, were observed here and there in the noisy crowds, weeping silently.

The City Hall was brilliantly lighted and in the square before it and in other open spaces improvised jazz bands appeared and informal balls began, only to be stopped by the unsympathetic poilus, who declared that dancing was not authorised except on July 14.

The news was announced in all theatres and motion picture houses, the bands striking up the allied anthems amid the cheers of the audiences.

Celebrations over the German decision to sign were nowhere more enthusiastic than at Lille and other cities and towns in territory wrested from the Germans. Newspapers printed special editions, cheering crowds paraded the streets, and the houses were decked with allied flags.

At Toulon, Brest, and other naval ports warships announced the news to the people by firing salutes of twenty-one guns. In all the cities Government buildings were illuminated.

LONDON TOOK NEWS CALMLY.

Editorial Warning Against Trusting Germans Too Much.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, June 24.—London took the news of the German assent to the Peace Treaty with astonishing calmness. The evening newspapers published extras about 7:30 o'clock, just as lines were forming up at the theatre and the hotels were filling with diners.

People bought copies, glanced at the few lines of late news, and thrust the papers into their pockets, then went about their business or amusement in the usual leisurely fashion and showed no intention of letting a little thing like the settlement of peace worry them.

At the Eagle Hut a dance for soldiers and Y. M. C. A. women workers was in full swing. They knew nothing about it at all. They were at peace in London, and what happened on the Rhine was nothing to them.

So as a sensation the surrender of Germany fell flat.

On the whole there seemed no disposition to regard it as a rollicking peace.

"Everybody is satisfied to have peace, but nobody is satisfied with the peace," was one cynical remark.

"Our losses are overwhelming and few of us are in a mood for rejoicing," said a London clergyman. "Our gains have yet to be counted. The future is uncertain."

The Daily Chronicle said editorially:

"So comes to an end the historic war with Germany. Let us hope that matters will go smoothly in the closing stage and that the Germans will see the wisdom of carrying out without friction or chicane the few mediate measures of surrender, territorial and military, to which they now stand committed. The Scapa outrage, however, stands as a warning to us not to be too sanguine.

"The comments of the German press on it are full of instruction. Some of them exult in the deed. Others express alarm at the probability of punishment, but apparently it does not occur to a single German newspaper that the scuttlers perpetrated an infamous breach of the trust reposed in them. Whether it is a question of hacking through, as when Belgium was violated, or of trying to redeem shame by bravado, as in the present instance, one argument which has no weight with the German against any course of action is the fact that he promised not to do it.

"It is because this piecrust conception of promises has become second nature to Germany that she poisoned all the processes of diplomacy and made herself the pariah of the nations. There is as yet no evidence that her revolution has altered her misconception of national honor. The showing is all the other way."

LONDON, June 24, (Associated Press.)—Profound distrust of Germany is the predominant note in London press comments on the German Government's decision to sign the treaty. It is contended that the Germans proved themselves treacherous throughout the war, the latest instance being the sinking of their fleet in Scapa Flow, and, therefore, it would be premature to celebrate peace until the treaty is actually signed. Even afterward, it is said, the Allies must be continually on guard until the last penalty is paid.

The Herald, a Socialist organ, says:

"Germany cannot and will not keep the treaty, because it is based upon force instead of justice."

FIRE ON BERLIN FOOD MOBS.

No Casualties There, but 11 Killed and 37 Wounded at Mannheim.

BERLIN, June 23, (Associated Press.)—Police and soldiers who intervened in food riots in the northern suburbs of Berlin today exchanged shots with mobs of men and women, but there were no casualties.

A number of shops were plundered.

Reports from Mannheim say that eleven were killed and thirty-seven wounded in rioting there on Sunday. Two hundred persons were arrested.

TITTONI WILL SIGN PEACE FOR ITALY

MARCONI IS A DELEGATE

He Says Premier Nitti Is Most Friendly to America—Has High Regard for President.

ROME, June 23.—The new Italian delegation to the Peace Conference, it was announced tonight, will leave here Wednesday and expects to arrive in Paris in time to sign the treaty of peace with Germany. The delegation is composed of Foreign Minister Tittoni and three Senators, Vittorio, Scialoia, Guglielmo Marconi, and Maggiorino Ferraris. Marquis Giorgio Guglielmi, a member of the Chamber of Deputies, will be Secretary of the delegation.

"Francesco Nitti, the new Italian Premier, is undoubtedly a statesman who is most friendly to America," said Marconi today in speaking of the new Cabinet.

It is known that Signor Nitti wishes to establish close financial, economic, and commercial relations with America to bring about the resurrection of Italy from the consequences of the war. He has the highest regard for President Wilson, having been acquainted with him as a fellow-educator, as well as a politician. The two men were cordial when Signor Nitti visited America in 1917 as a member of the Italian mission headed by the Prince of Udine.

The newspapers favorable to Baron Sonnino, former Minister of Foreign Affairs, and the Nationalist press are unfavorable to the new Cabinet, maintaining it is not particularly keen to uphold Italy's claims, but Tommaso Tittoni, the new Foreign Minister, has declared:

"A satisfactory peace for Italy must be such as will allow her to conclude equitable treaties, insure her raw materials for her industries, protect her emigration, and safeguard her position in the Adriatic and Mediterranean, besides giving her her legitimate colonies."

Impartial political observers agree that the downfall of the Orlando Ministry was due to Italy's disapproval of the handling of the nation's affairs at the Peace Conference. When Signor Orlando returned from the conference in April the Italian Parliament signified by a vote the country's attitude of insistence upon Italian claims, but after six weeks more at the conference the Italian delegates completely failed in their task.

"The new Government must go to Paris with a firmer resolve to secure the ends for which Italy fought," said Captain Gabriele d'Annunzio, the Italian poet-aviator, today. "Woe to it if it should return without having accomplished this mission! Italian claims on the Adriatic must be allowed. This is the dictum of the Italian people, which has been expressed several times by the people and Parliament."

TURKS SUBMIT THEIR PLEA.

Autonomy for Arabia and Palestine —Will Give Up Armenia.

PARIS, June 24.—The Turkish delegation, which appeared before the Council of Ten on June 17, sent the council today a detailed memorandum which it promised at that time to draft.

This memorandum gave at length the plea for the continuance of the old Turkish Empire, which was made orally before the council at the hearing last week.

The memorandum states that the Turkish Government is prepared to recognise the independence of Armenia and to grant some form of autonomous government to Palestine and Arabia, under Turkish Governors.

SAYS PEACE MUST END WAR FOR ALL TIME

Philip Gibbs Pleads That Faith Be Kept with the Millions Who Died.

LONDON, June 24.—The word "peace" means most now to the men who fought and still remain alive. It will make them think back to those years of war when thought of peace was a kind of weakness tempting them to despair, because there was no sign of it; those early years of trench warfare, when the greatest advance was 200 yards or 500; those years of intolerable boredom punctuated by hours of dreadfulness not good to remember, followed by other years when each big battle began with the hope of a quick finish, and only led to new ridges, new slaughter, new abominations.

The soul of England will be silent for awhile at this news of peace, or should be so, in remembrance of those who fell to give it, that million of dead boys of ours who belong to the great ghost army which will forever haunt the fields of battle, and all that other youth of other nations—how many millions more—who joined those ranks in multitudes.

I think of them on the Somme, around Arras, on the way to Passchendaele, south of St. Quentin, and in other fields where I saw them lying, so many of them. I think also of those young Belgians I saw upon the Yser and in Dixmude and Pervyse, and other Flemish towns, and of the French whose sacrifice was vast through all the war and amazingly heroic, and of the Americans who came fresh and splendid into the last phase and offered their youth also to the devouring monster of war.

So now—peace. But to my mind, and to most of us who saw that war stripped of all illusions in its naked and terrible reality, this peace will be a mocking thing, luring us on to another epoch of damnable strife unless the ideals for which the first men fought, for which all of them fought whether conscious or not of their mission, are fulfilled in the hearts of the peoples and in the philosophy of their leadership.

"A war to end war," "a war to kill militarism," "a war for the liberties of the world's democracy"—if those watchwords are not fulfilled, then these million men of ours who died and all others will be cheated in their graves, and that army of ghosts above the stricken fields will demand vengeance upon dishonored and disgraced humanity.

The cult of hatred must give place to something higher than that, or Europe will be soaked again in blood. Out of the agony there must come new wisdom, or the folly of men is incurable and there is no hope for the world.

The fighting men of all nations who went through that dark adventure, these ways of hell, must be the leaders of peace, as they were the heroes of war. For the world needs peace and the remembrance of life's beauty.

ANXIETY IN ENGLAND OVER LEAGUE FIGHT

OTHER OBSTACLES SERIOUS

By MAJOR GEN. SIR. FREDERICK MAURICE.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, June 24.—Reports coming from the United States on the discussion of the League of Nations have aroused deep anxiety in Britain, and not only amongst the many who regard the league as the only hope for the future, almost every one among us, whether he believes in the efficacy of the league or not, sees that the future of the world depends greatly upon the relations between ourselves and the United States. Most of our responsible statesmen have laid stress on this fact, and those who had been on official missions to the United States have spoken enthusiastically of the growth of good feeling for Great Britain among the American people and have emphasized the vital importance of fostering it by all available means.

We have, most of us, believed that the mutual understanding and comradeship developed out of our common effort against the common enemy had linked us indissolubly together, and it therefore, comes as a great shock to find that a great deal of the old, unfriendly criticism of Great Britain and things British still prevails. I do not believe there is any cause for alarm, provided we realize we have a great deal of leeway to make up, and that the long past cannot be wiped out in a day. We have forgotten George III. and the burning of Washington, but America has not, and we are far too apt to assume that, because we have nothing but friendship toward America, the converse must be the case.

During my travels in the States I met a considerable number of men who had gone out from England to the States as boys or as young men and who have become American citizens. They told me they had left home feeling they were going to friends, and had been amazed on arrival to find the amount of prejudice which existed against England.

Taught to Distrust England.

The plain fact is that a majority of Americans have been taught at school to regard England as a bully and a natural enemy of American liberty. Nor can we hope that the effect of the comradeship in the war will be as potent in America in altering preconceived ideas as it has been in changing our ideas in regard to France. America never felt herself to be in any real danger from Germany, as we did, and there has been no tie of common adversity to knit us together.

Pershing's legendary, "Lafayette, we are here," represented the general feeling of the American public that the American armies were coming to Europe to pay a debt to France, and there was certainly no general anxiety to rush to our aid. The popular feeling was, rather, that we had made a bad mess of things and that America was going to put them straight. At the time of our disasters in the Spring of 1918 it was a common joke among the American soldiers that the letters A. E. F. on their shoulders meant "America where England Failed."

We should therefore remove from our minds any idea that America's action in coming into the war at our side implies that the past was forgotten and that we and all our ways would be welcomed with unqualified approval. If we start from that basis, we can appreciate much better what the war has done and is still doing to bring us together and can discount more calmly any little ebullition of anti-British feeling in the United States. If we still live in the clouds and do nothing to cultivate the crop of friendship, which is growing very satisfactorily, we may find ourselves back where we were.

I believe that the silly talk which has been heard amongst us that the next war will be between us and the United States and that America, far from having any sentimental regard for our friendship, is set upon beating us in the world's markets by any means, fair or unfair, comes from those who did not realize the facts of the American feeling for us and were surprised when they discovered it.

Effect of German Propaganda.

We have to remember that the censor was as potent in America as he was here, and that, little as we yet know of the real doings of our armies and fleets, America knew still less. During the early part of the war we told America nothing, while German propaganda was very skillful and active, and when we did organize distribution of information we had allowed Germany to establish a position from which we have not even yet altogether ousted her.

Some Englishmen and a great many Canadians who, being nearer, have heard more than we have, have been made very indignant by statements that America won the war. During the war one of the most insidious and dangerous forms which German propaganda took was to depict us as playing our traditional role of selfishness of standing back to pick up the plums while the other fellow climbed the tree.

"King George will fight to the last Frenchman," was a lie which got a long start, and Americans also really believed that England was keeping her sons back and allowing the Australians, Canadians, New Zealanders, Scotsmen, and Irishmen to do all the fighting. We had only ourselves to thank for giving the enemy chances of which he was clever enough to make good use of, and we had hard work to get the truth known. Now, after the war, German propagandists are still busy, and they find a fruitful field for their labors in playing upon international jealousy by pointing to each of the Allies as claiming more than a fair share in the winning of victory.

Credit for Winning the War.

I am certain informed American opinion makes no boast that America won the war, though it recognizes with perfect justice that we could not have won the war when we did and as we did without America. As more and more American troops come home the true story of the events of 1918 is becoming more and more widely known. Our own part in the struggle is becoming more and more appreciated. The fact is more generally recognized that the war was won by combined and not by individual effort and that there is sufficient glory to be shared without jealousy.

Nothing could be more generous than the tributes which have been paid to our army and navy by American officers of both services who served with us and have returned home, and the best sign of all is that the most cordial appreciation comes from those who have been longest with us. The good effect of this occasionally gets a setback from men in the ranks who have not been able to adapt themselves to our ways. I remember meeting an American private who served with us and asking him what he thought of the British. His answer, "Those lemon-suckers! Why, they drink tea!" fairly floored me, till I discovered he had been given our rations and didn't like them.

Despite such checks, the movement in America is certainly toward rather than against friendship with us. There is, however, plenty of work for us to do. If we have felt that America did not appreciate our part in war, America also feels that we have not shown an appreciation of what she did.

Haig's Official Dispatches.

The fact that Sir Douglas Haig's last dispatches said very little about America's help has been adversely commented on in one of the most popular American weeklies. Just before I left America we were accused of reverting to our old habit of ignoring every one else and claiming all the credit to ourselves, an accusation which strikes us as curious when we remember how much we have lost of prestige during the war by not blowing our own trumpet. But the fact that for years Englishmen believed they alone had won the battle of Waterloo has not escaped notice across the Atlantic.

It is natural that a nonmilitary people like the Americans should not understand that Sir Douglas Haig's dispatches were official military reports of the doings of his army, and would not concern themselves with the doings of our allies. And we can reply that Pershing's victory dispatch says very little about us.

These things show how misunderstandings arise. I do not think it is necessary for us to talk much more of our own achievements. We can safely leave that to Americans who know; but we can help by showing that we appreciate the doings of the American troops.

Most Englishmen know that the arrival of the American troops turned the balance of strength in our favor, that the American troops fought with great distinction at Château-Thierry and Belleau Wood, that Pershing won a brilliant victory at St. Mihiel, that two American divisions helped us to break through the Hindenburg line, and that the Americans fought their way from Verdun to Sedan, but very few are aware that an American division was in the centre of Gourand's army when it broke the great attack in the Champagne on July 15, 1918; that nearly half the force with which Foch made his great counter stroke of July 18, which first turned the tide of the war, was American; that American divisions drove the Germans back from the neighborhood of Rheims, and that American troops were on our left in Flanders in the final advance. These things were not reported in the communiques at the time, and our information about them since has been very meagre.

Ireland a Stumbling Block.

I do not think we need fear that the Americans will not appreciate us if we appreciate them. One of the things most wanted today to complete the process of bringing our nations together is that we should show we know what America did in the war.

This is a simple matter. But there is another obvious need, which presents the greatest difficulties; we must have a policy in regard to Ireland which we can explain to the American people. At present Ireland threatens to reopen all the rifts which comradeship in the war is closing.

GOD BE THANKED, SAID RHINELAND

Weimar Assembly's Decision Eagerly Watched For, but Accepted Apathetically.

RESULT HAD BEEN FORECAST

And Every One Used the Same Phrase of Gladness as If They Had Been Instructed.

By EDWIN L. JAMES.

COBLENZ, June 24.—"Der Krieg ist aus! Gott sei dank!" said an aged German as he stood in front of the Coblenzer Zeitung's bulletin board at 5:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon and read the little sheet there with the ink still wet upon it.

He heaved a sigh, gave his thanks that the war was over, and went his way, while others crowded about to read a dispatch from Weimar saying that the National Assembly had at last taken the final and decisive vote.

What that old German had to say was typical of the Rhineland's reception of the news of the end of the war. It was apathetic.

Hundreds heard the news and passed on without having much to say. There was no cheering, there were no shouts of approval or of disapproval. It did not seem to make much difference except that there was an end to something that had brought many troubles. There was no rejoicing, there was no bemoaning. One might almost say that such important news got a reception that was almost stupid.

The Americans seemed to manifest ten times the interest than the Germans did. Yells that were just yells came from clusters of doughboys as they received final news. Officers gathered to discuss the great finale and went on about their business.

The event seemed like a great Fourth of July celebration which is much advertised and does not come up to expectations. Out in the bridgehead area the 3 o'clock order countermanding the advance, planned to start at 5 o'clock, had convinced the doughboys that their promised advance into Germany had been called off.

Toward dinner time the cafés and beer gardens along the Rhine were filled with the usual well-contained Germans, who ate enormous dinners to the tune of heavy music and drank their usual amount of Rhine wine. Americans paid some extra attention to the wine cards, and in the clubs there were some parties. But as a whole celebration of the end of the war was a very tame affair.

Perhaps it was because the whole affair had been discounted. From the time the news of the fall of the Scheidemann Cabinet was received Friday morning, together with information that Eerzberger was in the saddle at Weimar, there never was any doubt among the Rhinelanders that the Peace Treaty would be signed.

The formation of the Bauer Cabinet on Saturday confirmed the general opinion that everything would end smoothly.

Sunday brought the report, published in extras of the newspapers, that the Assembly had voted for unconditional acceptance of the terms. This proved an error, because the Assembly's acceptance was predicated upon the elimination of several clauses from the treaty.

Yesterday morning's papers carried the news of the refusal of the Allies to accede to changes in the treaty and Clemenceau's ultimatum. The noon editions told of the decision of the Cabinet to accept unconditionally and at 5:20 P. M. came news of the final action by the Assembly.

The Germans already today are beginning to ask when the Americans are going away and are expressing regret that they are leaving, because their places will be taken by other allied troops.

The American soldiers also are anxiously awaiting authoritative information as to when they will get away from the Rhine, now that the last spice has been taken out of the situation.

The hotel portor has just brought in today's mail. "Der Krieg ist aus," I said. "Gott sei Dank," he said.

It was what the old man in front of the board said and what practically every German, man, woman, and child, says. It is as if some one had instructed them all to say just that, as they were apparently instructed to say what a fine man Wilson was when the Americans first came here.

The newsboy on the street corner says: "Gott sei Dank." The girl in the cigar store feels the same way about it, the head waiter is also thankful, the hotel manager sings the same tune, the cab driver says that he is glad and the merchant, baker and the candlestick maker join in the chorus, "Der Krieg ist aus; Gott sei Dank."

WAITED 49 YEARS, SAYS CLEMENCEAU

PARIS, June 23.—"We have waited forty-nine years for this moment!" exclaimed Premier Clemenceau as he opened the dispatch announcing that Germany would sign the treaty at the meeting of the Council of Three this afternoon.

"For forty-nine years," he continued, "the mailed fist of the reitre (German trooper) who has governed Germany has menaced the world. Whether the man's name was Bismarck or William II., it was still the same reitre of the Middle Ages surrounded by soldiery and drunk with pride.

"Be careful; keep your powder dry. Be careful. Remind the world that it is living on a barrel of that powder.

"This reitre's dogma was that might is right; that a State's only obligation is its own interest; that treaties do not exist when they clash with the interest of a State, and get rich by any means. We know from witnesses who were at the side of William II. that when he learned of the Sarajevo tragedy he who posed as a keeper of peace cried:

"'The hour has struck. Now we shall see what an army is.'"

This story of how the Premier received the news was told at a dinner given by the Economic Commission in honor of the French delegation by Etienne Clementel, former Minister of Commerce and Agriculture, tonight. The Minister concluded his speech with a eulogy of the League of Nations, which he said was "at present the world's hope."

"Toward this magnificent and impressive innovation," he said "I ask you to direct all your thoughts and to uplift your hearts in this great act of faith, hope, and love."

VENIZELOS PLEADS FOR NATIONS LEAGUE

DEPLORES OPPOSITION HERE

Is Sure It Is Based on Misunderstanding—Treaty and Covenant Cannot Be Separated.

By CHARLES H. GRASTY.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, June 24.—M. Venizelos, the Greek Premier, by many regarded as the foremost statesman in Europe, today gave me the following statement regarding the League of Nations:

"In my opinion, Europeans have no wish to interfere in the internal or political affairs of America, but this League of Nations is not internal, but international. It would be unthinkable for America to be against the principle of a League of Nations.

"In the application of this principle America was indeed the pioneer, for under Secretary Root, and perhaps before, she began to negotiate treaties of arbitration. These treaties were identical in principle with the League of Nations which now, following the great war, has been embodied as an integral part—I may say, looking into the future, the principal part—of the treaty.

"I permit myself to say that the outlook in Europe would be one of utter despair without the League of Nations. All the men in the trenches were ever ready to fight and endure hardships during those four and one-half years because they were told that this was the war that would end wars. The chief instrumentality for the accomplishment of this result is the League of Nations, and there would be very real danger of a spread of Bolshevism among these men, who would be disappointed if the great purpose of their efforts and hopes were not achieved.

"If these great masses of men who now constitute the backbone of our European population found that nothing had been done, and we were returning to the old system of armament, it would certainly prepare the ground in Europe for Bolshevist tendencies which at the best are all too disquieting.

"We shall have in future either a sincere effort to prevent war under the League of Nations or we shall be menaced by internal crises and civil wars. If our democracies see looming before them the possibility of other great wars, the result will be a social conflict and upheaval that may be worse than the international war itself.

"America has shown no selfishness in this war, but even if she had, and considered the matter from a selfish standpoint, America has an equal interest with Europe in seeing that Bolshevism does not spread. This war has shown that the world has been brought together so closely that we are like one great household, and in such conditions it is impossible for any member of that household to hold aloof. America cannot be an onlooker in any future war.

"Opposition to the League of Nations involves opposition to the treaty as a whole. I understand there is a sentiment in some quarters to separate the League of Nations from the rest of the treaty terms. This is an impossibility, for the League of Nations is the treaty, and the treaty is the League of Nations. The basis of the whole peace is the League of Nations, and the covenant and the other terms are inextricably bound together.

"It therefore is not possible to separate the covenant from the rest of the treaty terms. If this were attempted by the legislative authority in America, and there was failure to ratify the terms as a whole, Germany would say—and truly say—that the treaty was not sanctioned by one of the parties, and she would proceed to evade its provisions.

"I allow myself to say that opposition in America arises in large measure, if not wholly, from a misinterpretation of the significances of the clauses of the covenant and lack of full understanding of the extent to which the treaty depends on the covenant for the working out of the terms. I am sure that when the President returns and explains all this there will be general agreement."

Of the Monroe Doctrine clause M. Venizelos said:

"Perhaps we have not been very happy in wording this provision, but I am sure I can speak for every one in Europe when I say that in the mind of no European statesman is there any reserve whatever on this subject. We all want to leave the American position absolutely untouched. Nobody had any thought of interfering with the Monroe Doctrine.

"I finish by saying that I fear that America has not yet an exact idea of the greatness of her position. You have taken such a position in the world that you cannot ignore its responsibilities.

Do You Know What the Felt Is For?

The bottom of your foot is just one curve after another; it scarcely has one straight line. The inside sole of the ordinary shoe is exactly the opposite; it is straight and smooth thru-out, in no way conforming with the sole of the foot. The weight of your body necessarily flattens out the natural curves of the foot—the very thing nature rebels against.

That is just the thing the cushion of felt prevents. It conforms with the sole of the foot, curve for curve, properly maintaining the natural shape of the sole. This feature cannot be found in any other shoe.

DE VALERA SEEKS A $5,000,000 LOAN

Sinn Fein Leader Declares Half Is to be Raised in Ireland.

WANTS 'RECOGNITION' MOVE

Former Dublin Professor of Mathematics Issues "Statement of Presidential Policy."

Eamonn de Valera, "President of the Irish Republic," as they say in Dublin, announced yesterday that the first bond issue of his unrecognized Government would be for one million pounds sterling, or about $5,000,000, and would be floated half in Ireland and half abroad. He added that the flotation of the loan would be secondary only to the prime object of compelling the United States Government, through the force of public opinion, officially to recognize his "republic" as such.

One interesting disclosure which de Valera made yesterday, unwittingly, was the fact that he left Ireland on June 1. But he did not add to this statement—it had been sandwiched in between two bits of Irish history—when his attention was called to it; unless, of course, an extremely pleasant smile and a protracted stare out of the window can be considered as additional facts.

Instantly, Professor de Valera named the sum he sought to raise, he was asked to explain the use to which the money obtained in America and elsewhere was to be put "by the Sinn Fein party."

"Remember," he replied, "that I am not representing a party. The money is not to be used for any party, but for the development of the Irish Commonwealth. We will have to equip consulates and embassies in the various countries, France and Switzerland. The money will not be used as former money raised in America was used—for political fights between parties. It will be used for purely national purposes."

Dr. de Valera was cautioned that if he raised money in the United States for the prosecution of Irish national aspirations that it would be a violation of American laws and might lead to serious complications between this country and Great Britain.

"The law of humanity," he replied, "is more fundamental, and I would appeal to that. When municipal and international laws conflict with humanity, I regard them as no law."

The direct question: "Will American money, obtained through bond sales, be used to buy guns for the Irish Volunteers?" was then put to him.

Answers Question Vaguely.

"It will be used for the Irish Republic," he answered somewhat vaguely, and when light was sought on whether this might be interpreted as including the maintenance of "a military establishment," he supplemented his statement by saying, "It will be used for the full administration of the Government of Ireland."

Dr. de Valera denied most emphatically that any foreign money, "Russian or German," had ever been used in furthering the Sinn Fein movement. He was especially vigorous in denying that any German money had even found its way into Ireland and thence into Sinn Fein coffers. And when the professor had settled all thoughts on that particular topic, he was requested once again to clear up the misapprehensions about his citizenship. He said:

"I am an Irish citizen in so far as I am willing to lay down my life for the Irish Republic."

The first "official" day of the Irish rebel leader was a decidedly busy one, what with interviews morning, noon and night, and the answering of hundreds of letters which have found their way into the Presidential suite in the last two days. One thing, however, that Dr. de Valera was not bothered with was crowds; there was no onslaught of enthusiastic Irish patriots on the Waldorf desk, due, perhaps, to the fact that seeing the "President" henceforth will be by appointment only.

The Dublin instructor in mathematics was up early, almost with the sun, and he immediately plunged into his correspondence in his shirtsleeves. He granted his first interviews of the day in his shirtsleeves, and this was hailed as proof of his democracy. Later in the day, however, he put on his coat.

It was probably about the time that Alderman Burke, down at City Hall, offered a resolution tendering "the freedom and welcome of our city and its citizens to Eamonn de Valera, the elected President of the Republic of Ireland, and we urge our fellow-citizens to join us in their heartfelt felicitations." The resolution was unanimously adopted, which probably didn't excite Dr. de Valera very much, since he modestly declared that he wanted his mission and the cause of Irish freedom put forward rather than himself.

At his first talk, Professor de Valera, remarking on the dictum of the Government that he must obey the law, said that he never had any intention of doing otherwise. He also said that he was certain "that the American people will not stand for any interference by British tools."

When he was queried about a tale that he had walked out in front of British officers and stepped into a seaplane, taken a short hop out to a waiting yacht, crossed over, and hopped into America on another seaplane that was waiting around for the "Presidential yacht," de Valera thought it was as good a joke as anybody.

In another prepared statement the Sinn Fein chieftain declared that Ireland desired the closest possible commercial and political ties with the United States, and that he had come here to establish these connections. He again compared Ireland's struggle to the American fight for independence, and said he was confident that full support would be obtained here. He said that he regarded the most important thing that America could do toward aiding the Irish cause would be to recognize it "officially."

Sees Ireland Like Belgium.

"Today," he continued, "Ireland is being governed absolutely for the benefit of England. What news is received in this country regarding Ireland is sent you through tainted channels. The British Government by military force virtually has possession of the machinery of the Government and prevents our Deputies from carrying out their form of government. The occupation of Ireland by the British is similar to what the German occupation of Belgium was—they control the machinery of government by military force."

He then produced figures to show that it cost more per capita "to be kept in subjection in Ireland" than it cost for liberty in Switzerland, Serbia, and Greece. As to any thought that the "President" fears an arrest here, he let it be known unmistakably that he would not furrow his brow over that.

"The President," said one of those in the entourage," has been in Washington, as you know, and while there he saw many influential men, men more powerful than some of President Wilson's appointees. We have no fear of an arrest. His safety is assured here."

At the night session of interviewers de Valera was located in new quarters. Up on the eleventh floor of the Thirty-fourth Street side of the Waldorf the new suite is, and, in point of luxury, the new apartment outranked the former "Presidential" apartments by many pounds of gilt, a heap more fancy clocks, no end of French vases, and the like. It is dainty enough to be quarters for Irish fairies, let alone an Irish President.

One of the first things Professor de Valera did was to issue a "Presidential Statement of Policy," and all of it was as follows:

De Valera States Policy.

"Our first duty as the elected Government of the Irish people will be to make clear to the world the position in which Ireland now stands. There is in Ireland at this moment only one lawful authority, and that authority is the elected Government of the Irish Republic. Of the other power claiming authority we can say, adapting the words of Cardinal Mercier:

"'The authority of that power is no lawful authority. Therefore in soul and conscience the Irish people owe that authority neither respect, nor attachment, nor obedience. The sole authority in this country is the authority of our own Government, the authority of the elected representatives of the Irish nation. This authority alone has the right to our affection and to our submission. • • • The acts of the usurper have in themselves no authority, and such of those acts as affect the general interests, and to which we may give ratification, will have authority only in virtue of such ratification which alone gives them judicial value.

"'Toward the persons of those who hold dominion among us by military force we shall conduct ourselves with all needful forbearance. We shall observe the rules they have laid upon us so long as those rules do not violate our personal liberty, nor our consciences, nor our duty to our country.

"'Our attitude toward the powers that maintain themselves here against the expressed will of the people shall then, in a word, be this: We shall conduct ourselves toward them in such a way as will make it clear to the world that we acknowledge no right of theirs. Such use of their laws as we shall make will be dictated solely by necessity and only in so far as we deem them for the public good.'

"In order to secure for our de jure Government, and for the Irish republic which the Irish people have willed to set up, the necessary international recognition, we shall send at once our accredited representatives to Paris to the Peace Conference and to the League of Nations. We shall give them all necessary authority, and that they may proceed there in a manner befitting their character as the representatives of a nation, we shall apply for the necessary safe conduct to enable them to pass through the naval and military cordons with which the power in occupation of our country has surrounded us.

"We shall send also to other countries a number of duly accredited Ambassadors and Consuls to see that the position of Ireland is understood, as it truly is, and not as English propaganda would represent it, and in general to see that the interests of Ireland in these countries are in no way neglected. We shall thus resume that intercourse with other peoples which it has been the chief aim of English statescraft to cut off, and which, indeed, English power has succeeded in cutting off for over a century.

Shall Follow Own Course.

"At the present time of general world reconstruction it is most important that the material interests of the country at home be also looked after, and by Irishmen. It will be the duty of our Ministry to secure the co-operation and to co-ordinate the activities of the various bodies which have taken voluntarily on themselves the safeguarding and advancement of those interests. Toward English legislation interfering with these interests we shall act in accordance with the general principles I have already indicated, that is, we shall act as we think best for the general good.

"To measures such as the English Ways and Communications bill, designed, as regards Ireland, to prevent Irishmen from using the national resources of their own country, to benefit their own nation, handing over on set purpose to an English bureau complete control of the communications of this country so that they may be used solely in the interests of England—to such measures we shall offer all the resistance we can command as being both injurious and unjust. It will be the special duty of our Director of Trade to examine, in co-operation with public bodies, how best to make our resistance effective.

"The Ministers and Directors at the heads of other departments—Labor, Industries, Agriculture, Local Government—will similarly be charged with seeking co-operation with all interested in their departments. The Minister for National Defense is, of course, in close association with the voluntary military forces which are the foundation of the National Army.

"It is obvious that the work of our Government cannot be carried on without funds. The Minister of Finance is accordingly preparing a prospectus, which will shortly be published, for the issue of a loan of £1,000,000 sterling—£500,000 to be offered to the public for immediate subscription, £250,000 at home and £250,000 abroad, in bonds of such amounts as to meet the needs of the small subscriber."

Asked About Interest.

As Professor de Valera read his policies he was interrupted at this point with a request to supply the public with the rate of interest of the first issue of Irish Republic bonds; also when they would be payable.

"As to the rate of interest, I can't say just now," he said, "but the interest will start six months after the British troops evacuate Ireland. That will be stated on the certificates."

Then, returning to the prepared statement, he read on:

"I think that what I have said is a fair outline of our program as it stands at present. An outline is all we are prepared to give, and so I have not attempted to go into details. The working out of the details will be the immediate concern of individual Ministers and of the Cabinet as a whole. When they are ready we shall bring them formally before you for your approval and sanction. In asking the Dail—the Irish Assembly—to approve of our program as I have stated it, I feel that I need not remind you how short is the term that the present Ministry has been in office nor how our best energies are being absorbed with the international situation of the moment."

Quizzed by questions, de Valera talked of the League of Nations, President Wilson, Sir Edward Carson, and referred to "the scanty larders of English jails." Of the League he said that Ireland was in favor of such a league, "if it be a democratic one." He said he did not think that the League in its present form satisfied Ireland, and that he thought it did not meet the aims for which the Allies fought. He said the covenant was faulty since it did not contain an Irish provison.

"I am a bit disappointed that President Wilson did not apply his Fourteen Points to Ireland," he remarked, rather sadly, "but he still has a great opportunity. If President Wilson is sincere"—he interjected a laugh—"he wouldn't mind, in fact will be pleased, to be pushed along rather than dragged from behind."

In Sir Edward Carson the Sinn Fein saw a good friend of the Irish cause, "because of his unreasonable attitude," and as for the English penal commissary, de Valera said the meals were so small he had reached the stage where an appetite was an event and food a nonessential after his experience in sundry jails.

Last night de Valera met Justice Daniel F. Cohalan and other prominent Irish-Americans in a private conference to map out his program in America. Tonight he will distribute the diplomas awarded to graduates at the Carmelite School, 336 East Twenty-ninth Street. The rector of the parish is the Rev. Peter Magennis, who is President of the Friends of Irish Freedom.

The Major J. McBride Branch of the Magennis organization, located at 127 East Ninety-sixth Street, yesterday petitioned Mayor Hylan to declare July 5 a holiday in recognition of the Irish Republic. They also suggested that the Sinn Fein flag float over the City Hall on that date. The Mayor did not announce yesterday what he was going to do about it.

VISIT SURPRISED PRELATE.

Cardinal Gibbons Found De Valera and Party Awaiting Him.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Md., June 24.—The fact that Eamonn de Valera, head of the Sinn Fein Republic, paid a visit to Cardinal Gibbons last Friday was not known here until the statement was received by the newspapers last night from New York as given out by de Valera's secretary. No one connected with the Cardinal's household had given out any information on the subject. De Valera was accompanied by his secretary, H. J. Boland, and a number of prominent Irishmen, who evidently accompanied him to Washington and stopped off in Baltimore for a short time in order to pay their respects to Cardinal Gibbons.

"When I returned to Baltimore last Friday from Westminster," said Cardinal Gibbons this evening, "I found a party of gentlemen waiting for me. I did not know any of them, but Mr. de Valera was one of them, and he introduced himself to me. I had not been advised of his coming, and so his visit was in the nature of a surprise.

"He told me that he had come to pay his respects, and so we chatted for some time in a most pleasant manner. Not once did he touch upon the Irish situation, and there was nothing in his visit to indicate that he had come to talk upon important matters. I cannot recall who the gentlemen with him were, as they were strangers to me."

Cardinal Gibbons would not express any opinion about the Irish situation or what effect Mr. de Valera's visit would have on the Irish in this country.

GIVES DEGREE TO DE VALERA.

De Pauw University Confers Honor of Bachelor of Laws.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Ill., June 24.—De Pauw University today conferred the honorary degree of Bachelor of Laws upon Dr. de Valera, head of the Sinn Fein. The text of the degree was telegraphed to de Valera tonight at the Waldorf-Astoria, New York.

"We are very happy to confer this degree on President de Valera," said Father Francis McCabe, head of the University. "We are hoping also that the President of the Irish Republic will be in Chicago soon. When he comes we will give him the welcome he deserves."

REPORTS LOSS OF $300,000 IN JEWELS

She alleges that she placed in this box on that date, the day of her husband's death, jewelry of considerable value, and that when she went to the box on June 13 to remove the jewelry a part of the same was missing.

Discussing the case later, W. H. L. Edwards, a member of the law firm, said that he was mystified by the case because so few clues were available. Little progress had been made in the investigation, he said, and no facts had been established about the disappearance of gems from the vault. Deacon Murphy, another member of the law firm, said that nothing could be added to the formal statement because no facts had been learned.

Employes at the hotel said that the vault where the safe deposit boxes are located is open at all hours, but that it would be difficult for any unauthorized person to enter even the first inclosure behind the offices at night because the six men are on duty there. One is a watchman, they said, and is armed. A watchman also is at the main door of the hotel all night, and employes and guests pass to and fro in the promenade all night.

Police Deny Report Was Made.

The police of the East Fifty-first Street Station, as well as detectives who are assigned to the Twenty-ninth Precinct, denied last night that any report of a robbery at the Biltmore had been made to them in the last two weeks. They said they did not consider it probable that Police Headquarters would withhold from them any report of a theft of such magnitude in their precinct. It was admitted at Police Headquarters that several detectives under the direction of Deputy Commissioner Lahey had been investigating the report.

At the home of Mrs. Millhiser, at Deal Beach, N. J., it was said that she would not give out the details of the loss, but would leave that for her counsel, Stanchfield & Levy, of 120 Broadway. At the office of John B. Stanchfield the only comment forthcoming was that an investigation was being conducted by members of the office staff. At the offices of Isaac Gimbel, who is an uncle of Mrs. Millhiser, it was said yesterday that no news of the loss had been received. Mrs. Louis Gimbel of 805 Park Avenue said she could give none of the details of the loss, because she did not know them.

Mrs. Millhiser came to this city from Richmond, Va., with her husband and two daughters, about a year ago. They lived at 870 Park Avenue before moving to the Biltmore early this year, and Mr. Millhiser had an office at 50 East Forty-second Street. Mr. Millhiser died in the Mount Sinai Hospital on May 20. He was a nephew of the Gimbel Brothers. Mr. Millhiser was President of the Richmond Cedar Works, Rosemore Manufacturing Company, Bedford Pulp and Paper Company, Gulf Red Cedar Works, and the Wilts Veneer Company, and a Director of the Albemarle Paper Company, B. S. Johnson Publishing Company, and other concerns.

The will of Mr. Millhiser was filed yesterday in the Surrogate's office. The widow, Mrs. Regina Greenwald Millhiser, receives nine-tenths of the income of the residuary estate, and the remainder was bequeathed to the daughters, Julie de Ferne, 17, and Elizabeth Gimbel, 13. The instrument provides that on the death of Mrs. Millhiser the estate is to be divided equally between the two daughters. The will also bequeathed $10,000 to Edgar Leigh Lambeth, of 169 West Eighty-first Street, "if he be living and in my employ at the time of my death." A petition filed by Mr. Stanchfield estimated the estate at more than $10,000.

College Erecting Memorial to Son Who Died in Army Camp.

Special to The New York Times.

RICHMOND, Va., June 24.—Mrs. Clarence Millhiser was Miss Regina Greenwald of Philadelphia, a niece of the Gimbels, and was very popular in society here. Mr. Millhiser was the heir of his brother, Augustus, who had been President of the Richmond Cedar Works, manufacturers of icecream freezers and buckets, here. Up to the time of his death, May 20, at Mount Sinai Hospital, New York, Mr. C. Millhiser was President of the concern.

Two daughters are with Mrs. Millhiser. Richmond College here is erecting a $60,000 memorial gymnasium to Roger, a son, who left the school, entered the army, and died in a training camp from influenza. It is believed that the fortune of Mr. Millhiser was not more than $20,000,000.

PESSOA PLEDGES TRADE TIES HERE

Brazilian President-Elect Says His Aim in Office Will Be to Develop Them.

TELLS OF OUR HELP IN PARIS

Party Comes Here Today and Will Receive an Official Welcome.

WASHINGTON, June 24.—The development of close commercial relations between Brazil and other countries, the United States in particular, was declared today by Dr. Epitacio Pessoa, President-elect of Brazil, to be one of the aims of his coming administration. In his last public address in Washington, made at a luncheon given in his honor by Secretary Redfield, Dr. Pessoa said:

"The demonstration I now receive from the highest personification of American commerce is among the most pleasant that your proverbial hospitality could afford me. One of the intentions that I take with me, for my term of office, is exactly that of developing, as closely as possible, the commercial relations of Brazil with friendly countries.

"And the United States has two undeniable titles to our sympathy. Firstly, they have always been one of Brazil's trade friends. From the first phase of our independence and through the course of our political history, the closest relations of amity have always existed between the two nations.

"Even now, at the Peace Conference, friendship showed itself more than once in a positive and eloquent fashion. Brazil's interests always met with the firmest support on the part of the United States, as did the American points of view with the Brazilian delegation.

"Secondly, Brazil sees, in the vitality of your people, in the power of expansion, in the extraordinary energy, that same energy that in 1787 decided the colonization of the Northwest and conquered a new world for the Union, the same energy that in 1862, when independence was but gleaming, led your fragile ships to the doors of Tripoli and, with Decatur's bravery, assured the liberty of your home trade, showing to the whole world what future you might expect for the 'Star-Spangled banner' fleet.

Suafield for Brazilian Trade.

"That same energy led the frontiersman to wipe out the division line between the Atlantic and the Pacific, and today leads the representatives of your trade victoriously across the frontiers of every continent, in all these and in the marvellous capacity of the American people, Brazil sees the widest possibilities for the development of her commerce and produce.

"Such are the sentiments by which I am moved. Brazil is certain that she may count on the entire reciprocity of those sentiments by the United States, and that the continuation, more and more intimate, of the relations which unite our two countries will stand for both as another factor of civilization and progress."

Secretary Redfield, speaking at the luncheon, emphasized the cordial trade relations that have long existed between the United States and Brazil and prophesied that these relations would be strengthened in the future.

The festivities in honor of President-elect Pessoa ended tonight with a reception at the Pan American Union, given by Acting Secretary of State and Mrs. Polk. Dr. Pessoa, his wife and daughter, and several other members of the party were guests at a dinner at the home of Acting Secretary Polk, while the remainder of the party were entertained at dinner at the home of Assistant Secretary of State Breckinridge Long. Following these dinners the reception at the Pan American Union was held.

Comes to This City Today.

Tomorrow President-elect Pessoa and his party will go to New York City. They will leave the Warder residence, on K Street, where they have been stopping, at 9:15 o'clock in the morning. The train bearing the party will leave Washington at 10, and will arrive in Jersey City at 3:30 o'clock in the afternoon.

There the party will board a Government vessel and proceed to the Battery, in New York City. From the Battery the party will be escorted to the City Hall, where ceremonies of welcome will be held.

After the City Hall ceremonies the guests will go to the Waldorf-Astoria, where they will stay while in New York. Mayor Hylan will give a dinner in honor of the Brazilian party at the Waldorf at 8 o'clock tomorrow evening.

On Thursday there will be a luncheon by the Pan American Society of New York, of which John Barrett Moore is president, at the Hotel Astor at 1 P. M. At 7 P. M. Thursday the party will leave the Grand Central station for Niagara Falls. No stopovers have been planned between New York and Niagara Falls.

On Friday the program allows for a three house' visit to the Falls. After ward the ladies of the party will return to New York and all the others will proceed to Ottawa.

Returning from Ottawa, the members of the party will stop at Boston, where they will be the guests of the city, and will return to New York about July 1, preliminary to their departure for Rio on the battleship Idaho.

MAXIMILIAN'S WIDOW IS 79.

Believed to Have Been in Ignorance of the War's Events.

BRUSSELS, June 23, (correspondence of Associated Press).—Charlotte, widow of Emperor Maximilian of Mexico, was 79 years old today. She is in good health and lives at the Château de Bouchot, near Antwerp, which was unharmed by the Germans.

She seems to have remained in ignorance of the happenings of the last five years, and only manifested anxiety when the big guns thundered during the siege of Antwerp.

The Princess is unaware of the death of her brother, King Leopold of Belgium, and called her nephew, the King, and the Queen "Prince and Princess Albert" on a recent visit. She never touches the piano, but plays cards, and listens to the gramophone.

The word death is never mentioned in her presence, and when, one by one, her old friends and servants die, she is told that they have gone on a 'long journey." Her tragic indifference makes it impossible to tell whether she understands or not.

CZECHS IN SIBERIA ARE DISCONTENTED

PARIS, June 23, (Associated Press).—The transfer of 60,000 to 70,000 Czecho-slovak troops to their homes from Siberia is now becoming a pressing problem for the Entente.

These soldiers, exhausted by years of fighting, are eager to return to their newly-formed republic, which needs their help against the Hungarian Bolsheviki, and have become so dissatisfied and restless that their usefulness in Siberia is believed to be at an end.

Some of their regiments have become infected with Bolshevism, and a general spread of Red ideas is feared if the men are kept from their homes another winter.

An equal number of other foreign troops will be required to police the transsiberian route from Omsk eastward if the Czechs are withdrawn. The problem of transporting the Czechs via Vladivostok and thence by sea to the Mediterranean is a difficult one.

It has been suggested that they might be sent westward over the transsiberian line and given an opportunity to fight their way through the Bolsheviki in Russia, either by the Ekaterinburg-Petrograd route, or by the way of Samara through Ukraine. Military experts on allied staffs are apparently confident the Czechs could cross Russia if provided with supplies and permitted to make their way westward to their homeland.

HUSBAND WAS ALIEN ENEMY.

Represented Himself as American, Says Wife—Judge Annuls Marriage

Justice Edward R. Finch of the Bronx Supreme Court yesterday annulled the marriage of Mrs. Barbara Grube of 521 East 157th Street to Edward F. Grube of 249 West 127th Street because the latter in marrying her had represented himself as an American citizen, instead of revealing that he was an alien enemy. Mrs. Grube is 52 years old and her husband 50.

In appealing to the courts for aid in dissolving the marriage, Mrs. Grube stated that Mr. Grube in courting her had declared all along that he was a real "true blue" American citizen. She said that she had accepted him on that basis, and that after the marriage last January she learned by chance from a registration card found in her husband's trunk that he was an alien enemy. She asked for the annulment on the grounds of fraud and deceit, declaring that she now found that she, the wife of an alien enemy, was an alien enemy herself in the eyes of the law.

On the witness stand Mr. Grube admitted that he was an alien enemy, but declared he was perfectly willing to become an American citizen as soon as legally possible.

Richardson in Brest from Archangel

WASHINGTON PLANS BIG PEACE FOURTH

Peace" and include more than thirty elaborate floats. The third division of the spectacle will be the presentation of symbolical tableaux on the Capitol steps, with a preface of a great chorus singing peace songs.

These tableaux will be divided into five spectacles. The first will represent "Peace" and will consist of 100 heralds, accompanied by a trumpet chorus and bands, followed by a figure of Peace with a dove. The second spectacle will represent "The March Up to Liberty" and will symbolize the creation of the small nations which have attained their liberay through the action of the Peace Conference.

The third spectacle will represent "The Meeting Ground of Capital and Labor." In this tableau "Intelligence" and "Unselfishness" will march down the steps to meet "Capital" and "Labor" and all will kneel before "Justice," "World Service" and "Brotherly Love."

The fourth spectacle will represent "In God We Trust," the motto of America, this thought representing the unbroken chain of States which will welcome the uniformed men back to the pursuits of peace. The fifth spectacle will represent "Onward and Forward, Reconstruction and World Liberty," the climactic thought of the entire series of tableaux, showing all of the flags of the world together, surmounted by the symbol of brotherly love.

It is understood that arrangements are now being made to transport the floats and tableaux to New York for representation there. Later they may be presented in Chicago and other large cities.

John Barrett, Director of the Pan American Union, is Chairman of the Committee on Arrangements. His participation indicates the interest which the embassies of the various Central and South American countries are taking in this unique celebration.

That Daily Balance

Selling to so many customers it is necessary for J. Seligman, Secretary of Cohen, Goldman & Co., manufacturers of men's clothing, 694 Broadway, New York City, to know just what each customer owes.

Under the old pen-and-ink bookkeeping system it took considerable mental figuring to tell whether a customer's credit was good or not. Now Mr. Seligman can tell at a glance, as the Burroughs Bookkeeping Machine extends automatically a daily balance on each account.

The daily balance feature is only one of the many advantages of Burroughs Bookkeeping.

Cohen, Goldman & Co. also get daily proofs of posting, statements out promptly, posting up to the minute, quick trial balance.

The change from pen-and-ink bookkeeping to Burroughs bookkeeping is simple and easy. The operation of the machine is largely automatic and very simple.

When the Burroughs man calls on you, give him a few minutes of your time. His experience is at your service and it costs you nothing to talk with him. He may save you time and money.

SAYS EDUCATION WILL MODIFY PRICES

MUST INCREASE OUTPUT

Great Need Is More of Everything for Everybody, New York Man Tells Iowa Bankers.

Special to The New York Times.

FORT DODGE, Iowa, June 24.—Speaking before the Iowa Bankers' Association today, George E. Roberts, assistant to the President of the National City Bank of New York, declared that the remedy for industrial discontent throughout the country lies in education of the people in sound economic principles. He said the discontent was engendered by the present scale of high prices which seemed to be rising without necessity.

"Raw materials, foodstuffs, and labor are the factors making for higher prices," said Mr. Roberts, "and machinery, capital, improved processes and management are influences tending to hold prices down. The investment of new capital is everywhere a modifying influence, tending to hold down these rising prices, but strangely enough the discontent engendered by the rising prices is directed almost wholly against capital.

"This tendency in foodstuffs and raw materials has put the whole industrial organization under strain. Wage-earners and salaried people have felt their pay was not going as far as formerly and have wanted more. Business men have found their costs increasing and have pushed up the price of what they had to sell. Everybody has been reaching out to recoup himself, and discontent has been growing because of a common feeling that something was wrong and that somebody was to blame.

"The most unfavorable position the wage-earner can occupy is that of being constantly obliged to get wages increased to hold his own, and he has been in that position for twenty years.

"People wonder why it is that with all the improvements made in industry the results in living conditions are not more apparent. The advocates of socialism say there is a lack of distribution; that there is a fortune of $100,000,000 in one place and poverty in hundreds of homes. The answer to that is that all new accumulations of capital are employed in improving and enlarging the facilities of production, and yield results for the common welfare. The earnings and profits of the past have provided the industrial equipment of today and without that equipment living conditions would be worse than they are.

"Nevertheless, the fact is that with all that has been done, the results do not seem adequate. It is as though there was a brake on the machine somewhere, as though the belts were slipping and failing to transmit the power.

"Take the railroad situation as an example. Since 1900 an enormous amount of capital has been poured into the railroads to improve them. Some of the principal lines have been almost rebuilt. Great gains in the efficiency of motive power have been made. Large economies have been accomplished, but there has been no reduction in the cost of transportation. The fact is that all the great economies achieved by invention and the investment of new capital were swallowed up in higher wages, and wage increases to a great extent, if not in toto, were swallowed up by the increase in living costs.

"I want to call attention to what I believe to be the chief factor in the social situation, the economic pressure and unrest occasioned by the rising cost of the common necessaries of life.

"If the workers in each industry set their aim on doing just as little work as possible, there will be less of everything for everybody. What we want is more of everything for everybody. The secret of social advancement is in increased production. We want thirty bushels of wheat to the acre instead of fifteen; seventy-two bushels of corn in Iowa instead of thirty-six, 300 pounds of butter fat to a cow instead of about 150, locomotives that will draw 100 cars to a train instead of fifty, machinery that will make ten yards of cloth where it now makes five, and so on all around the circle.

"The theory of the day seems to be that each industry belongs to the particular people in it, without regard to interests of the rest of the community. This is a theory which would divide society into warring groups and classes whose interests would be in conflict. The remedy for this is education in sound economic principles. There is no security for civilization except as the natural laws which govern the production and distribution of wealth and make for the evolution of society are understood.

"We are hearing a great deal now to the effect that a new era has begun; in which the common people will fare better, that labor is about to have a larger share of the joint product of labor and capital than in the past. We all hope that is true, but it can only be brought about by increasing the production of the good things that are to be divided. You can't divide any more than all there is."

WILL EXCHANGE PRODUCTS.

Relief Administration Outlines Arrangements Made in Central Europe

The American Relief Administration, of which Herbert Hoover is the Director, has arranged an interchange of products between various Central European nations which have a surplus and those which are suffering from underproduction. Edward Rickard, Joint Director of the administrator, gave out a letter yesterday written by Mr. Hoover to Premier Paderewski of Poland outlining arrangements which will mean the resumption of Poland's textile industry.

The resumption of the textile industry will give employment to about 250,000 men and will permit an interchange of products with the farming districts.

Describing the work of promoting the interchange of commodities between Central European nations for the stimulation of trade, Mr. Rickard said that, in addition to the movement of foodstuffs into various States, the American Relief Administration had arranged for sales of sugar by the Czechs to the Jugoslavs, the transport of salt from German-Austria to Jugoslavia, oil from Galicia to German-Austria and the Czechs, coal from Czechoslovakia and Prussian Silesia into German-Austria, furniture from German-Austria to Jugoslavia, oil and oil products from Rumania into Jugoslavia and Hungary in return for food products, and fabricated steel from Vienna and Hungary into Jugoslavia.

WANT LLOYD GEORGE TO RETURN HOME

Critics of the Government Are Pressing for Action on Vital British Problems.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, June 23.—After the signatures are actually affixed to the Peace Treaty the flood of criticism which has been withheld for patriotic reasons will be unloosed and many members of Parliament, which meets again tomorrow, are preparing pointed questions. There is a strong demand that Premier Lloyd George should return and himself undertake the task of justifying the peace which he has helped to make, instead of leaving the task to Bonar Law. The fact that other peace treaties besides that with Germany remain to be made and that several outstanding questions, such as Constantinople, in which Great Britain has peculiar interests, have yet to be settled, is not held to justify what is described as "government from Paris by telephone and airplane."

Mr. Balfour and the competent staffs, it is argued, can look after British interests in Paris, and the Prime Minister ought to come home and tackle some of the domestic problems which have already waited too long.

The Irish question stands in the front rank of these questions, and the Government is being summoned by the Asquithian Liberals to indicate its policy, if it has one. A number of the Coalition Liberals are growing restive and there are reports that some of them hold that their pledge to support the existing Government was only for the duration of war and automatically lapses with the signature of peace.

The Scapa Flow scuttling promises to set the hornets buzzing around the heads of the Government. The French suggestions that the British Admiralty did not take adequate precautions to prevent the loss of the warships, because their disappearance was in line with the British naval policy, has prompted a demand for a searching inquiry.

Some Englishmen would have welcomed drastic steps by the Allies as a response to the German violation of the armistice, and great curiosity is felt as to the character of the notes addressed by General Nudant to Baron von Lersner.

Most of the papers draw the moral that the new Germany is no different from the old in its regard for scraps of paper.

SEES G. O. P. AS ONLY HOPE.

Poindexter Says Republican Mission Now Is to Save the Republic.

Senator Poindexter, Republican, Washington, told the Fifteenth District Republican Club in this city last night that "the mission of the Republican Party in the immediate future is to save the Republic from the process of national disintegration in progress during the present Administration."

Denouncing "Democratic vacillation and weakness in dealing with Mexico," Senator Poindexter said the Republican Party should elect a President who would fulfill the responsibilities the Nation had assumed in Mexico, and "reassert American honor and self-respect so that our citizens lawfully in that country would not be forced to ransom their lives with money."

Senator Poindexter advocated repeal of "the act of the Democratic Congress and President internationalizing the Panama Canal," repudiation of "the promise of the Democratic Administration to haul down the American flag in the Philippine Islands," repeal of the extraordinary powers vested in the President during the emergency, and speedy reduction of war taxes through elimination of waste and inefficiency and the framing of a tariff bill to protect industry and maintain wages."

Turning his attention to radical agitators, the Senator said it should be the first care of a Republican Administration to stamp out of the country the propaganda of anarchy and revolution.

"The alien advocates of enforced communism and confiscation," he said, "should be returned at once and without exception to the country whence they came, and their aiders and abettors in this country, the so-called 'parlor Bolsheviki,' who contribute money to the revolutionary cause, and the officials of the Government, of high and low degree, who have encouraged Bolshevist activities should be exposed and punished."

TO KEEP LEAGUE OUT OF TREATY

the Senate would be precipitate in attempting to declare a state of peace to exist in advance of ratification of the treaty with Germany.

Senator Hitchcock, ranking Democratic member of the Foreign Relations Committee, regards the Fall resolution merely as a means of gaining time for debate on the League covenant.

Prospects of Fall Resolution.

While Republican Senators were inclined to believe today that they could put through the Fall resolution, Democratic Senators placidly maintained that it would be defeated, if pressed to a vote. Republicans are prepared to make a bitter fight for it and will urge the immediate resumption of trade relations with Germany and Austria-Hungary on the ground that the United States should not be deprived of equal advantage with co-belligerents, who, through early ratifying of the treaty, might be able to enter into commercial relations with the former enemy.

More than one Republican leader predicted today that the Fall resolution would muster the requisite forty-nine votes in the Senate necessary to pass it. As it is a joint resolution it would have to pass the House and also require the signature of the President, if adopted. Favorable action upon the resolution by the Senate, it was declared by Republican leaders, would undoubtedly be acquiesced in by the House Republican majority.

While Senator Lodge today would not discuss the tentative program of opposition to the League covenant, he declared the situation was "satisfactory." He said the controversy over the matter of reservations, as against direct amendment of the covenant, was merely one over methods.

"An effective method will be found to eliminate from the treaty, as it affects the United States, the objectionable features discussed in Mr. Root's letter," said the Senator. "The opposition to the League covenant as it now stands is stronger than at any time. We undoubtedly will have the votes to amend it, and it will be amended."

Senator Lodge takes the ground that reservations through a qualifying resolution would have the same effect as direct amendment. His prediction that the Senate would amend the covenant was interpreted to mean that he expected it to be done through the former method.

If the Allies Should Refuse.

Senator Knox does not agree, he said today, with the viewpoint of those Senators opposing the League who believe the proposed qualifying resolution would refer the matters to be put under reservation back to the League of Nations Council or to the Peace Conference for determination. But to make sure that this eventuality would not nullify the qualifying resolution, he would advocate the clause making the participation of the United States in the League of Nations under the treaty contingent upon acceptance of the reservations by the allied nations.

"It may be safer, perhaps, to adopt that course," said the Senator. "Mr. Root does not think it necessary, and I agree with him. But some Senators are in doubt about it, and to make the point certain I am willing to have the clause inserted."

"If the allied nations should decline to accept the reservations, what would happen?" was asked.

The Senate battle on the League of Nations is now expected to subside until President Wilson returns and the treaty of peace is submitted. Flashes of debate may develop, but Republican leaders are inclined to wait for the President's return before plunging into the next stage of the fight.

"The United States, in that event, would be outside the League of Nations," replied Mr. Knox, with a smile. While the Senate is debating the treaty, with its League covenant, President Wilson will be making speeches calling upon the country to support his effort for ratification of the entire treaty. While Republican Senators will make speeches of their own opposing the League, the original idea, talked of last week, to follow Mr. Wilson up with a flourish of special trains and a coterie of speakers, has been abandoned. Whatever speeches Republicans make will be as individuals, and no spectacular attempt will be made to pursue the President.

BEVERIDGE ASSAILS LEAGUE.

Says It Would Take Warmaking Power from Congress.

BEDFORD, Penn., June 24.—Albert J. Beveridge, former Senator from Indiana, speaking here tonight on the League of Nations, before the Pennsylvania Bar Association, preferred many objections to the covenant. Among other things he said:

"Section X. of the Covenant would bind us to go to war to defend from 'external aggression' territorial boundaries fixed up by the Big Four as well as old boundaries recognized by that body, and to support the 'political independence' of the powers governing those territories. If this is not the true purport of that section, what is the real meaning of it? But our Constitution gives Congress the exclusive power to declare war.

"As a member of the Superstate which governs us—Section X. of the covenant or the war power of our Constitution? Both cannot stand—they are absolutely irreconcilable. By the covenant we would be pledged to make war whether we wish to do so or not. If Congress should refuse would we not break our treaty? And would not this invite retaliation? Would it not, as the very least and certain result, bring upon us the hatred of the nation we refuse to support and the distrust of all other nations?

"What is our danger of war if we do not enter the League? For more than a century no foreign nation attacked us until, in desperation, the lawless German Government perpetrated that folly and crime; and during that century we made no showing of our strength and unity such as we have displayed to all the world in this war. If, without such a demonstration of our solidarity and might we were not attacked for a hundred years, is it probable or possible that we will be assailed again so long as memory remains of our tremendous and successful efforts during the last two years?"

ASSERT 7,000 ON STRIKE.

Refusal of Knit Goods Workers' Union's Demands Brings Action.

It was announced yesterday by the Knit Goods Workers' Union, Local Greater New York, of the Amalgamated Textile Workers of America, 31 Union Square, that between 7,000 and 8,000 knit goods workers went on strike yesterday morning following refusal of the manufacturers to grant the demands of the workers for a forty-six-hour week and an average increase of 20 per cent. in wages.

A little more than one-third of the manufacturers, it was said, had agreed to the demands, and their shops were not affected by the strike. Union officials said that the principal objection raised by manufacturers was to the minimum scale, but they were hopeful of reaching an agreement in a short time.

Launch Section of Dry Dock.

The fifth section of the new six-section dry dock, under construction by the Morse Dry Dock and Repair Company, was launched yesterday from the Morse Annex Yard, at the foot of Sixty-seventh Street, Brooklyn. The section, which is 100x300 feet, contains more than a million feet of lumber. With the completion of the sixth section before the end of Summer, the Morse Company will have the largest dry dock in the world, according to shipping records. It will be 750 feet long with a lifting capacity of 30,000 tons.

SEES HER FIANCE BURN IN AIRPLANE

Lieut. Watson and Mechanic Die in Flames as Young Woman Waves Greeting.

PLANE ONLY 200 FEET UP

Flier Was Making Regular Daily Visit Over Sweetheart's House When His Engines Stopped.

Special to The New York Times.

RYE, N. Y., June 24.—Lieutenant Shelby Watson, an aviator stationed at Mineola, and his civilian mechanic, Morris Ireland, were burned to death this morning when the airplane in which they were flying fell to the ground in flames at Rye Beach. A young woman, who, it is said, was the fiancée of Lieutenant Watson, witnessed the accident from the veranda of a nearby house. She fainted at the sight, and has been hysterical since recovering consciousness.

According to friends of the aviator he has been in the habit of flying every morning to the house occupied by Mrs. Ruth Davis Parker on Pintard Avenue, New Rochelle, where the girl he was going to marry was spending the Summer. It was his custom to fly low at this point and signal the young woman from the machine.

He left Mineola Field at the usual time for his trial flight in a Curtiss H machine. Those who witnessed the accident said the officer had made one turn over the house of Mrs. Parker and was going over again, not more than 200 feet above the ground. The noise of the engine roaring so close at hand summoned hundreds to the windows and porches to see what the aviator could be doing so close to the ground, among them Mrs. Parker's guest, whose identity has not been divulged.

She had scarcely looked out, handkerchief in hand, when the airplane seemed to falter. The steady blasts of the motors ceased and the machine turned nose downward and plunged to earth.

As they fell the two occupants were seen to raise in their seats in a vain effort to free themselves, but the fall was too sudden, and the machine landed with the pilot and mechanic underneath. The plane burst into flames almost the instant it touched the ground, and rescuers reached it too late to save the men caught in the wreck. They were burned beyond recognition.

Lieutenant Watson, it was said, had recently returned from eighteen months' duty in France. There, he said, he had had plenty of practice in low flying and the chances he took coming so close to the ground at Rye Beach did not seem to worry him.

No one at Rye could be found who knew the young woman whom the Lieutenant came over to see. She has been visiting Mrs. Parker for a few weeks, and casual acquaintances at Rye said she had told them that she and the aviator were to have been married last Saturday. Mrs. Parker denied that her guest was the wife of the officer, refusing at the same time to give any information. Colonel Archie Miller, in command at the aviation field at Mineola, said yesterday that he had not heard that Lieutenant Watson had been or was to be married.

Lieutenant Watson was 35 years old and lived in Rogers, Texas. His mechanic, Ireland, was the same age and lived in Westbury, L. I.

TANK CORPS CLUB BENEFIT.

Noted Actors to Give Entertainment for Veterans' Organization.

A frolic and rally, at which entertainment will be furnished by a number of well known theatrical stars and vaudeville performers, will be held Sunday night at the Hudson Theatre in Forty-fourth Street, for the benefit of the Tank Corps Club of New York, which is composed of veteran soldiers of the Tank Service of the United States Army. The club, which has a membership of about 400, in addition to maintaining rooms at 17 East Forty-first Street, has been aiding the families of members of the Tank Service who were killed in France.

The Commander in Chief of the American Expeditionary Forces, General Pershing, paid the following tribute to the work of the "Tankers," after the San Mihiel offensive:

Brig. Gen. S. D. Rockenbach, Chief of Tank Corps, First Army, A. E. F., France.

My Dear General: Please accept my sincere congratulations on the successful and important part taken by the officers and men of the Tank Corps in the first offensive of the First American Army on Sept. 12 and 13. The courageous dash and vigor of our troops has thrilled our countrymen and evoked the enthusiasm of our allies. Please convey to your command my heartfelt appreciation of their splendid work. I am proud of all of you.

Sincerely yours,
JOHN J. PERSHING.

TRAFFIC COURT LESS BUSY.

Marked Falling Off in Number of Auto Law Violators.

A falling off in the number of cases was noted in the Traffic Court yesterday. The total was 278 cases, as against 519 on the same day a week ago.

"Did you come all the way from Monticello to answer this summons?" asked Magistrate House. The defendant said that he had traveled 125 miles to appear in court, and because of this the Magistrate fined him $10, the minimum fine for his offense.

The drivers of two colliding automobiles were each fined $10. Neither one thought to signal the other just before the collision.

The wife of Ned Wayburn, the theatrical producer, appeared for the second time yesterday in the Long Island Police Court to answer a summons for speeding her auto at thirty-two miles an hour. She was summoned on Sunday by Policeman Arthur Clair in Jackson Avenue, Corona, at the same place where he had stopped her in January. When the Magistrate learned this was the second offense he imposed a fine of $50, which was paid.

DR. TUGGLE MAY LIVE.

Condition of Physician Shot by Wife Remains Unchanged.

Dr. Thomas Tuggle, who was shot by his wife, Mrs. Jennie B. Tuggle, at their home, 523 West 149th Street, Monday night, has no more than an equal chance for recovery, attending physicians at St. Laurence Hospital announced yesterday. It was said that the physician was resting comfortably, notwithstanding the fact that his condition is serious. A number of relatives visited him at the hospital, but none of them would discuss the tragedy.

Dr. Tuggle had just returned from a call late Monday night, when his wife, who is believed to be temporarily deranged, attacked him. Holding her young adopted son in one arm, and a revolver in her right hand, she fired four shots at the doctor. Two of the bullets took effect, one of them finding lodgment in the left breast and the other in the left side of the head.

When questioned by Detective Sergeant James Doyle of the West 152d Street Station, after her arrest for felonious assault, Mrs. Tuggle said she had fired at her husband because a spirit had told her to do it. She is being held in Bellevue for observation. The couple have been married for fifteen years.

FIND TRAINA IN HOUSTON.

To be Brought Here on Murder and Holdup Charge.

Special to The New York Times.

HOUSTON, Texas, June 24.—Braggio Traina, wanted in New York for the robbery of the Knickerbocker Waiters' Club, 787 Sixth Avenue, and the murder of George J. Griffith, a Canadian soldier, on the night of September 7, was arrested today by Detective Bertram Maskiell of New York and three local detectives following a fight with five women at the home of the prisoner's uncle.

Detective Maskiell has been in Houston for more than a month. When the detectives entered the house they were attacked by the women who were there, but Traina, who was sitting in a corner of the room, did not take part in the fight.

Traina admits taking part in the robbery of the Knickerbocker Club, but declared that he did not fire the shot that killed the Canadian soldier.

Traina waived all rights to resist extradition and said he was willing to go back. Detective Bryson of Houston will probably go with the New York detective. Traina is one of six under indictment in New York for the robbery of the club and murder of the Canadian soldier. Of the six implicated, five have been arrested and one is at liberty.

HELD FOR THEFT OF STOCK.

Judah Rubenstein Charged with Taking $6,200 in Stocks.

Judah Rubenstein of 342 Georgia Avenue, Brooklyn, who had been employed for the last two months as a messenger by the Exchange Messenger District Service of 52 New Street, was arrested last night, charged with the theft of 100 shares of the Allied Packing Company stock, valued at $6,200.

On June 18, at the time of the alleged theft, the messenger was working for the firm of Babcock, Rushton & Co. of 7 Wall Street, having been sent there as extra messenger for the day by the Messenger Company. The police say that the messenger was sent out with six envelopes containing stock at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. Five of the envelopes were delivered, but, it is alleged, the sixth, addressed to Ehrich & Co. of 67 Exchange Place, and containing the packing company stock, disappeared and has not been located since.

CALL DR. WILKINS IN OWN DEFENSE

Physician Tells the Jury with Emphasis That He Did Not Kill His Wife.

REPEATS BURGLAR STORY

Admits on the Cross-Examination That the Alleged Assault Produced No Bruises.

MINEOLA, L. I., June 24.—Dr. Walter Keene Wilkins took the stand today in his trial for the murder of his wife, Julia, on the night of Feb. 27 in their home at Long Beach. Repeating the story he told the reporters and detectives when the murder was discovered, the physician was unshaken in his testimony when court closed this evening. He will be on the stand again tomorrow.

Outlining the events that led up to the arrival of himself and his wife at their home, he testified how he had found the vestibule door ajar. He said this had aroused his suspicion and he had advised his wife to stay outside. He related how he had stepped into the hallway and had been seized at the throat by a man.

With ex-District Attorney Charles Wysong of counsel for the defense as questioner, Dr. Wilkins told how the robbers had stolen his wallet, a stickpin, and a watch. He also gave testimony to discount the charge that he had sent blood-stained clothing to a cleaner's establishment.

"Dr. Wilkins, did you kill your wife on Feb. 27?" was the last question of Mr. Wysong.

"I did not," was the emphatic reply.

District Attorney Weeks then began his cross-examination of Dr. Wilkins, his first questions relating to the murdered woman's personal appearance. He then asked why the Wilkins home had been so neglected and was informed that this had resulted because the couple had been unable to hire a servant.

"Did you ever mention to any one that burglars had injured you by putting their knees on your back?" he asked.

"I told Mr. White," said Dr. Wilkins, "that I had a pain in my heart from the burglar putting his knee on me."

"Did you ever have so much as a speck or a mark on your head after you had fallen a couple of feet?"

"No," said the witness, "I don't think there was a mark on my head."

Before the examination could go further, Justice Manning announced an adjournment and directed that Dr. Wilkins resume his testimony tomorrow.

Opening the case for the defense this morning, Mr. Wysong made the usual motion to dismiss the indictment on the ground of lack of sufficient evidence. After this was denied he went over in detail the early life of his client. He disclosed that Dr. Wilkins was born on a farm near Bangor, Me., and tracing his career down to the night of the murder, recounted the story which the physician himself later told on the stand.

Mr. Wysong promised to produce witnesses, as yet unknown, who would shatter the State's case against the physician.

ACQUITS MRS. HANGLIN.

Finds Her Not Guilty of Murder of Babe Burned to Death.

The jury hearing the evidence in the case of Mrs. Cora Hanglin, charged with murder in the first degree as a result of the death from burns of Paul Esdorn, a three months old baby given into her care after its mother had died, last night brought in a verdict of not guilty.

Mrs. Hanglin, in telling of the death of the child, said that she had left the baby in a gocart by the fireplace while she helped her husband get his breakfast. When she returned, she said, she saw smoke and found the child's head and shoulders in the fireplace. She covered his burns with sweet oil, but they were too serious for her to save him. The Court instructed the jury before it left the room not to return a greater verdict than guilty of manslaughter.

PLAYWRIGHT PAYS $50 FINE.

Wilson Mizner First Insists on Being Shown He Was Speeding.

Wilson Mizner, the playwright and producer, of 142 West Forty-fourth Street, Manhattan, paid $50 fine in the Jamaica Police Court, yesterday, for speeding in his automobile, Motor Cycle Patrolman Charles Steinert told the court the Mizner car was making thirty-eight miles an hour when he halted it, near Jamaica.

"That's impossible," said Mr. Mizner. "My car won't make that speed. If it will, I'll give it to you for your local hospital drive."

Magistrate Harry Miller ordered Motor Cycle Patrolman Martin Claire to go out with Mr. Mizner and find out how fast the car would go. Claire drove and the playwright sat beside him. Claire told the Magistrate when he returned that he had reached a speed of forty-five miles an hour.

"Are you satisfied by the test?" inquired the Judge.

"I'm satisfied and convinced," replied Mizner. He paid the fine, left the courtroom, and started to his car.

"I thought you were going to give the car to the hospitals if it made more than thirty-eight miles," said Steinert.

"Oh, that was a joke," the playwright is quoted as replying, as he drove away.

MRS. WHITSON WINS DECREE

Court Grants Separation, Giving Son to Mother.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., June 24.—Supreme Court Justice J. Addison Young today signed a decree of separation in the case of Mrs. Adeline G. Whitson against her husband, Charles F. Whitson, son of the late Gilson Whitson, Vice President of the National City Bank of New York City. The matter of counsel fees and alimony will be left to the decision of a referee.

According to the decree, the habits of Whitson, his use of liquor and morphine, and the abandonment of his wife and son 8 years old, whose custody the court granted to Mrs. Whitson, were the grounds on which the decree was granted.

SAYS JEWS STARVE IN PARTS OF RUSSIA

HAS PROOF OF POGROMS

Asch Asserts That Shocking Evidence Will Be Presented to a Special Committee.

Scholom Asch, the Yiddish writer, who has just returned from a tour of inspection of the condition of the Jews in non-Soviet Russia, especially Lithuania, painted a heartrending picture of starvation and destitution to an audience that packed the auditorium of Cooper Union last night. While the speaker, who delivered his address in Yiddish, intimated that he had shocking evidence of pogroms, he said that he would present it to a special committee for later action, and would confine himself last night to the problem of relief. One of the outstanding needs of the hour, he asserted, was that the United States Government co-operate with the Jews in America in opening up a channel of communication so that the Jews in Lithuania might send personal word of their plight to their relatives here and in return receive direct aid.

The meeting was held under the auspices of the Jewish People's Relief Committee. Abraham Zucker, manager of the committee, presented Alex Kahn as Chairman, who in turn introduced Mr. Asch. At the conclusion of Mr. Asch's report Mr. Kahn presented to Felix Warburg, Chairman of the Joint Distribution Committee, of which the Jewish People's Relief Committee is a part, a check for $250,000, as one of the periodical donations of the People's Committee to the Joint Committee. A similar amount was given four months ago, and $1,000,000 more is pledged before the end of the year. Others present in an official capacity were Dr. Judah L. Magnes, Albert Lucas, Arthur Lehman, and representatives of all the Jewish dailies and weeklies.

In opening his address Mr. Asch declared that he could give the Jewish people present only a hundredth part of what he had seen, and that he could only feebly transmit to them the cries of anguish that went up from those on the other side who were stretching out their hands for aid. He emphasized the fact that they were stretching them out to the very people in the audience, for he had the addresses of hundreds who had relatives living not far away from where the meeting was being held.

"In Holland today," the speaker said, "there are thousands of Jews in concentration camps. The Dutch did their best to keep out of their country the refugees from the East, who wished to use Holland as a gateway to America, but despite their best efforts the pressure was so great that many, many Jews filtered through. In many cases they were women with husbands in America, and children with fathers in this country, but they were not allowed to come over.

Lithuania Suffers Most.

"Lithuania has suffered comparatively more than any other province of former Russia. The expulsion of the Jews at the very beginning of the war was not soon to be forgotten, and according to the Jews themselves, it was more terrible than when they were driven out of Spain more than 400 years ago. Hundreds of thousands of Jews had to leave their homes within twenty-five hours. They had lived there for hundreds of years, and in one day and one night they were uprooted, not only the healthy, but the sick. The beds had to be carried out of the hospitals with their sick occupants, and when they died they had to be left on the road without burial. When the Russians stopped fighting, 50 to 70 per cent. of the Jews returned to the site of their homes. In the smaller towns the percentage was even smaller. The rest of them are in Russia, Siberia, and heaven knows where. Thousands have perished of hunger, cold, and disease.

"Those that got back found their property destroyed, stores entered, homes devastated. In the interval between the departure of the Russians and the arrival of the Germans, the local Christian population took advantage of the Jews and carried away all their property. Even furniture, bedding, doors, and windows were stolen. Wooden houses were taken apart and carted off. Homes were practically erased.

Only Rich Get Food.

"The hunger in Kovno was indescribable, and I am talking of only a few weeks ago, when I was there to see it. The fear of pogroms, which has made the population panicky throughout the whole section, has made commerce impossible. Workers have no tools or materials or agricultural implements. They cannot be obtained at any price. There is little food, and only the richest of the rich can think of getting it. The Hoover Commission has done a splendid work in behalf of the children's institutes and the pregnant mothers. It has brought in white flour, thus alleviating the conditions somewhat. But the public in general, the workers and tradespeople, are literally starving.

"In Kovno, on the 19th of May, the public kitchen distributed among 1,100 people the following meagre amount of food made into a soup: One and a half pounds of barley flour, one and a half pounds of barley peas, fifty pounds of barley cereal, and four pounds of fats. I have seen the soup and have tried to taste it, but it was impossible for me to swallow the half teaspoonful that I put in my mouth. Those in line were mostly women and children, many of whom gave me the names of relatives in America, and they asked me to use my influence to see that at least a few potatoes were included in the mixture they were being fed. None dared ask for bread. They had long lost hope of getting it, and it was no longer in their minds. I have seen bread sold in Kovno by women whose children were tugging at their skirts crying for a piece of it, and when I asked these women why they did not give it to them, they answered, 'It is not my bread. It belongs to those people. How can I give what does not belong to me?'

"From starvation and lack of food thousands have developed spotted typhus, 3,000 of them in Kovno, and 500 are crowded in a hospital built for 200. The physicians have no instruments, no gauze, no cloth, and they cannot even obtain shirts for the sick.

"The one demand of the people is that they be allowed to communicate with their relatives in America. They want no charity, but only the support they are entitled to. My message is that we must undertake to build hospitals and send the necessary supplies to fight epidemics, to send food for the nourishment of the people, to give them the education they are entitled to, to establish co-operative workshops, to send them raw material, tools, and implements, including sewing machines. By all means we must see that this Government co-operates with us in opening up channels of communication so that relatives may get in touch with each other and do individually what we can not hope to do as a body."

COCCHI NOW ACCUSES HIS WIFE OF MURDER

Gives Vivid Account of Miss Ruth Cruger's Death to Bologna Court.

REPUDIATES CONFESSION

BOLOGNA, June 24. (Associated Press.)—Fighting for acquittal, Alfred Cocchi, charged with the murder of Ruth Cruger in New York in 1917, presented to the court and jury a vivid description of the killing of the girl. He contended that his wife was the guilty one. He explained that he had made his former confession for her protection, but declared that, now that she had abandoned him, he would tell the truth.

Cocchi stood in a large open space in Bologna's ancient courtroom of Assizes before the bench, demonstrating for Judge and jury, by means of lawyers, clerks and desks, how the crime was committed. He walked from one end of the space to the other, showing with his hands the various places in his bicycle shop. Though extremely nervous, he poured out his account without the slightest hesitation, speaking fast throughout the entire length of the presentation of his case, which lasted for forty-five minutes.

Cocchi related the incident in his shop, and then said:

"I was talking to the Signorina. My wife struck her on the back of the head with one of my tools. It was not I who struck the fatal blow, it was my wife. I hid the body to protect my wife."

To this, Signor Bagnoli, President of the Court, retorted: "But the American tribunals have exonerated your wife and found her innocent."

Cocchi answered: "It is impossible for anyone to call her innocent. Nobody could have an opinion on the affair unless he were there to see it."

The President then declared that Cocchi had not been moved by altruistic motives in his actions, and said:

"Cocchi, if you wanted to do the right thing you would have protected the children who bear your name. You were their breadwinner. If your wife was guilty you might have let her suffer, and protected your children."

Asserts Mrs. Cocchi Is Innocent.

Assistant District Attorney John T. Dooling, who was designated by District Attorney Swann to investigate the death of Ruth Cruger, said last night that the charge made by Cocchi that Mrs. Cocchi had murdered the girl was absolutely false.

"It plainly shows what a cowardly assassin will do to save himself, when he places the commission of the crime on his wife, the mother of his boy," Mr. Dowling said. "We have in our possession original letters written by Cocchi himself disproving the charge he now makes against her. There is not the slightest justification for Cocchi giving such testimony.

"Mrs. Cocchi was examined exhaustively by the Grand Jury, which by its action in not returning an indictment against her, exonerated her. I myself examined her at length and had her movements checked up for months before the girl disappeared until days after the body was found and I am convinced of her innocence."

In a confession alleged to have been made by Cocchi in Italy some time after he had fled to that country, a copy of which is in the possession of the District Attorney, the Italian admitted his guilt, saying that he had killed the girl when she spurned his advances.

Ruth Cruger, who was a student in the high school and lived with her parents at 180 Claremont Avenue, disappeared on Feb. 13, 1917. She was last seen entering the bicycle repair shop of Alfredo Cocchi, at 542 West 127th Street. Despite an investigation by the police, her body was not found until four months later when laborers, working under the direction of Miss Grace Humiston, a woman lawyer, exhumed the body of the girl in the floor of the Italian's shop.

Cocchi fled to Italy ten days after the disappearance of the girl. Following his indictment efforts were made to have him extradited here for trial, but Italy refused to grant the request because of the law set forth that Italian-born defendants who have fled to Italy must be tried there.

SAZONOFF MAY VISIT HERE.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 24.—M. M. Karpovich of the Russian Embassy, who went to Paris with Ambassador Boris Bakhmeteff to participate in the deliberations of the Russian delegation, returned to Washington today. Ambassador Bakhmeteff is expected back within three weeks, when the work of the Russian delegation will have been practically completed.

Sergius Sazanoff, Foreign Minister of the Omak Government, may visit the United States on his way back to Russia. He went to Paris from Ekaterinodar, the seat of the Denikin Government, of which he is also Foreign Minister, and was at one time Foreign Minister of the Imperial Russian Government. Since the accession of Kolchak to power at Omsk the Denikin Government has given its adhesion, and at the same time announcement was made of the appointment of Sazanoff as Foreign Minister at Omsk.

It is the impression among Russians here that the formal recognition by the allied and associated Governments of the Kolcak Government has been indefinitely postponed, owing to the check received by the Siberian armies before Ufa at the hands of the Bolshevist forces.

Announcing the Reopening of the Buffet Chantilly

Specializing in Ice Cold Foods for Summer Service

Last season Gimbels Buffet Chantilly, with its specially planned menus of delectable chilled viands, was the most popular Luncheon Resort of All New York. This year, again, the Buffet Chantilly—named, as you remember, in honor of the famous Vatel and that other Buffet, prepared by the Great Master of Cookery for Louis Fourteenth—is once more ready for the pleasure of its admirers—old and new.

The presiding genius of the Gimbel Restaurant—the clever woman who originated the idea of Gimbels Buffet Chantilly—is still in charge of its fortunes. To her initiative and skill si due, this year, the success of Gimbels "Little Tea Room"—whose chintz and lovely china, restfulness and delicious cookery have made it the "Toast of the Town."

Just as last season in the Buffet Chantilly, the same corps of able assistants, the same splendid chef efficiently serve from the large receptacles just what tempts you most among the deliciously crisp, appetizing salads—the savory meats—the succulent lobster, which, among other luscious things, have been so carefully prepared and so artistically arranged under the expert direction of the "Lady of the Manor."

This Sample Menu gives you an idea of the treats in store for you—treats that even the "Grand Monarque" would deem "Fit for a King."

ELECTRIC SERVICE

An investment that pays for itself at once

BUILDINGS were once divided in these two classes—the brick and the frame. Today, Manhattan classes them differently—those wired for electric service and those unwired.

Electric service is modern. All new buildings are equipped with it. Therefore, it has come to be synonymous with all that is new and up-to-date. The very atmosphere which it creates is one of cleanliness and progress.

A building being worth what a buyer will pay for it, and a buyer normally basing his judgment on what his eyes tell him—the shrewd owner gives his building a bright new coat of paint before he puts it on the market. He is thereby able to sell at an increase of price which pays for the paint many times over.

What paint does for the outside of a building, electric service will do for the inside. Electric fixtures have an air of class about them. Beautiful lighting effects are made possible and rooms can be decorated in light cheerful colors.

And it is an improvement so easily made. The entire building can be wired without causing one cent of expense for repairs or redecoration. There is no fuss or muss; the wire-man is a "dirtless" workman.

And now—as to the expense. It is almost certain to cost less than you expect. A postal-card or telephone request (Stuyvesant 4980) will bring our representative to you. He will tell you how inexpensively and easily your property can be electrified. And if the investment involves a greater immediate expenditure than is convenient, we may perhaps be able to arrange terms.

A Peace Vision of American Business

The War came. What happened?

Nearly 5,000,000 Americans were called to arms.

More millions were called from the pursuits of Peace to the pursuits of military supply.

And yet the demands of War were met. Civilian needs were met. All this tremendous added production was drawn from a depleted labor body and existing resources.

New methods of manufacture conserved by-products which helped establish self-sufficiency in industries once dependent on imports.

New processes and the discovery of dormant wealth further established American economic independence.

Standardization pruned from industry many glaring inefficiencies.

WE became a nation of co-operators. Competing manufacturers worked together in complete harmony. Private Industry loaned to Government Service scores of its best brains.

Thrift took new root in American lives. Approximately 20,000,000 people bought over $23,000,000,000 of Liberty Bonds.

Everybody pulled together—for America. National need erased party lines and class lines. Hyphenates largely disappeared. Foreign-born Americans became real Americans. Polyglot peoples fought and died under one flag—the American flag.

Now a definite, tangible Peace is with us

As we apply to the works of Peace the lessons taught us by the stress of War, let us not forget the one which, to America as a nation, perhaps means more than any other—the lesson of Thrift.

The history of France—our friend and partner in Victory—records in a telling way the national value of the homely gift of saving.

Today, France, imposing war indemnity on Germany, mocks the belief of Bismarck that his 1871 indemnity of 5,000,000,000 francs would ruin French industry.

France survived to triumph over Germany largely because of the economic strength with which the nation was fortified by the individual saving habits of French men and French women.

As a result of the War we now possess the germ of what France already had—the gift of thrift. Let us not fail to cultivate it until it becomes a national habit.

We as individual American men and women may well expect to share bountifully in the fruits of American Industry if we each make our own contribution to its soundness by the continued practice of thrifty living.

ARMY ENLISTMENTS SET NEW RECORD

50,000 IN TWO MONTHS

Officers Expect Full Contingent Called For to be Completed Within That Time.

The Army Recruiting Service announced last night that a new peace-time record for enlistments had been set on Monday, when 659 men were accepted throughout the country, for enlistment in any branch of the service chosen by them, and in any foreign country where American troops are now stationed. This exceeds the mark of 513 established last Wednesday.

"If the present rate of applications for enlistment in the army keeps up," said Major C. B. Howard of the Recruiting Service, "it will not be more than two months before the contingent of 50,000 men is made up. In February the War Department asked for 50,000 men to serve in the American Army in France and on the Rhine, so that the men there could be relieved and returned to their homes. In the first two days of the recruiting drive, beginning only ten days ago, that contingent was made up, and the War Department immediately issued orders to the Recruiting Service to recruit another contingent of 50,000 men.

"The Recruiting Service attributes this extraordinary run of enlistments to the offer of the army to allow any man to choose his branch of service and to express his preference for service in foreign countries. The educational opportunities of the service have appealed to the men, and old officers in the service have said that the result has been the enlistment of a high class of men. The promises of the army to the men will be carried out."

It was announced yesterday by the Recruiting Service that 290 men were required at once for service in the Philippines and the Hawaiian Islands. Men who express preference for service in either of those places will be sent to the Presidio in San Francisco to be outfitted and to be put through a short course of preliminary training before they are assigned to units in their chosen fields.

Of the 211 men sought for the Hawaiian department 93 are wanted for the Air Service and 20 mechanics and 98 chauffeurs for the Motor Transport Corps. Nineteen men are wanted for the Ordnance Department in the Philippines and 60 for the Motor Transport Corps. Men are also needed for other branches of the service in both the Philippines and Hawaiian departments.

One of the men who enlisted yesterday at the station at 461 Eighth Avenue was John J. Kelly, who had received his discharge from the regular army only a few days ago in Philadelphia. He had come to this city for a visit before enlisting, but while he was asleep in the waiting room of the Pennsylvania Station some one took from his pocket a wallet containing about $90 in cash. Without his money he was unable to extend his visit, so he crossed Eighth Avenue to the recruiting station and signed up for another period in the army. Luckily, the thief had left him his discharge papers.

"I was going back again, anyway," said Kelly, "but I wanted to spend my discharge money and have a good time here seeing New York. I had a good time in the army before, and learned a lot, and if I couldn't have enlisted again I would have been up against it without any money. But I'm back in again, and I'll be darned if everybody doesn't seem glad to see me."

An unusual application for enlistment was received yesterday from Louis Depleals of 90 Thirty-first Avenue, Brooklyn, who said he wished to enlist in the Veterinary Corps, so that he could learn something about meat inspection. Depleals said he had been working in a packing house and that the foreman of his department had said that he had acquired during service in the army all his knowledge about meat inspection. The foreman advised Depleals to enlist in the Veterinary Corps.

Captain Robert M. Mullings of the Veterinary Corps, who is now attached to the Recruiting Service, said that Depleals would be able to learn all about meat inspection in the army while he was receiving pay of at least $30 a month, with clothing, quarters, and medical attention. He said that the inspection service covered not only that of meats bought for the use of the army, but of buildings and other places where strict rules of sanitation were required.

"When a man has been through the Veterinary School and completed the course, there he is put to work on inspection with experts and thus fitted to perform the same duty that is done by inspectors employed by the Bureau of Animal Industry," said Captain Mullings. "Many a man has gone out of Government service into private employment at a good salary, because while in the service he has learned not only the veterinary end of the work, but has absorbed the strict Government regulations which apply to the production of all good articles. This knowledge cannot be gained in a day, nor a week, nor a month. It is acquired only by study and hard work, but when a man has it nobody can take it from him."

A recruiting rally will be held at noon today on the steps of the Sub-Treasury. The speakers are to be Martin Vogel, Assistant Treasurer of the United States, and Major Cornelius W. Wickersham, who was Assistant Chief of Staff of the 77th Division. Music will be furnished by two army bands.

NEW RED CROSS STATIONS.

Wool Distribution Tents Opened in St. Paul's and Trinity Churchyards.

Red Cross tents, from which wool will be distributed every day at noon, were opened yesterday in Trinity Churchyard and St. Paul's Churchyard, with exercises conducted by the respective rectors, the Rev. William T. Manning, D. D., and the Rev. J. P. McComas, D. D.

The tents are branches of Auxiliary No. 2, which has its headquarters at St. Paul's Parish House, 29 Vesey Street. Wool for sweaters and socks will be supplied from these tents to business women of downtown New York. Members of the auxiliary will be in charge each day. Mrs. Thomas Noyes, workroom director of Auxiliary No. 2, is in charge of both tents.

EXPECT TO PREVENT MALARIA ENTIRELY

Rockefeller Foundation, in Review, Sees Complete Conquest of Disease Possible.

TELLS OF EXPERIMENTS

Mastery Over Yellow Fever Is Likewise Foreseen—Campaign in Ecuador.

The possibility of virtually eliminating malaria and of mastering yellow fever are the outstanding features of the second installment of the review of the Rockefeller Foundation for 1918, made public yesterday. The foundation has been at work in various districts of the United States. It tested the possibility of ridding a community of malaria by carrying out anti-mosquito measures in four towns in Arkansas. The purpose has been to stimulate other towns to take similar measures at their own expense, and as an evidence that it is well within the means of a community it was shown that the per capita cost was only 44 cents.

By draining or filling pools, by ditching sluggish streams, and by oiling surface water which could not be otherwise dealt with the breeding of the anopheles (malaria-carrying) mosquito was almost wholly prevented. Thus the sole means by which malaria can be transmitted was eliminated.

The results, as tested by the number of calls made by physicians on persons who were suffering from the disease, were striking. In Hamburg, Ark., the number of calls fell from 2,312 in 1916 to 59 in 1918, a reduction for the period of 97.4 per cent., and the work was done at an extremely low per capita cost.

"One could not ask for more convincing proofs," the foundation states, "that a community may rid itself of malaria on terms which cannot be wisely rejected. It is not surprising that towns and villages are making appropriations for other than trained sanitarians can be found to undertake the work of malaria control."

The report tells how the work was carried on with the closest co-operation of the United States Health Service and the State Health Boards, and that during this year the movement will be extended in Mississippi to the whole of Sunflower County, which will bear half the expense. As to significant features of the work, the report notes the "striking posters, popularly written and illustrated pamphlets, newspaper articles, instruction in the schools, public lectures, and the sale of standardized quinine at low rates by all druggists. It has even been suggested that all individuals who are found free from malaria germs be given buttons as badges of immunity."

The attack on the seed beds of yellow fever began with the appointment of General William C. Gorgas, on his retirement from the office of Surgeon General of the United States Army, as director of the yellow fever work of the International Health Board, with freedom to carry out the recommendations of the Special Yellow Fever Commission, of which, in 1916, he was the chief. Systematic attempts were to be made to destroy the disease at its sources, and before the end of 1918 General Gorgas set out upon a preliminary journey to Central America.

A yellow fever epidemic had broken out in Guatemala in June of last year, and Dr. Joseph H. White was sent down to handle the situation.

"He was cordially received," says the report, "granted full authority and given necessary aid. Quarantine was established, physicians were drafted into service, and all well-tested measures for the control of yellow fever were promptly put into effect. The epidemic was brought under control, so that when on Sept. 19 Dr. White was compelled to return, infection was left at only one point. The resident representative of the board took charge and continued appropriate measures. On Dec. 14 he reported that no yellow fever remained in Guatemala. The success of the campaign was largely due to the substantial aid of the Government of Guatemala and the magnificent work of the local Governors.

"The diagnosis of yellow fever is a difficult task. Some of the symptoms closely resemble those of other diseases, notably infectious jaundice. The germ of yellow fever has never been identified, so that laboratory tests cannot be used to determine the presence of the malady. In order that first-hand studies and investigations might be made in the field, a commission of five men with laboratory equipment was sent to Guayaquil, Ecuador, in June, 1918, for a stay of two months. As a result of this trip important information was secured with respect to the sanitary conditions in Ecuador and concerning the bacteriological, chemical, and clinical aspects of yellow fever.

"With the hearty co-operation of the Government of Ecuador and of the municipality of Guayaquil, measures for yellow fever control were actively inaugurated Nov. 27, 1918. The attack is being directed against the stegomyia mosquito, by which alone yellow fever can be communicated. By the end of December 125 men, divided into squads of five each, were systematically at work in the City of Guayaquil.

"It is hoped that measurable results in the reduction of infection will be disclosed in the near future. Yellow fever is being pressed further and further into isolated areas. This seems to be one disease which by persistent activity may be brought completely under control."

PEACE LEAGUE'S DENIAL.

Did Not Have $1,000 a Day to Spend, Its Answer to Charges.

In answer to charges that it had spent $1,000 a day on publicity to promote the League of Nations, the League to Enforce Peace announced yesterday that it "unfortunately" had to expose the poverty with which it had had to struggle since its birth, June 17, 1915.

"In those four years," the statement says, "we have spent only $547,000—a daily average, not including Sundays and holidays, of about $460. We don't mind confessing that the League to Enforce Peace gladly would spend $1,000 or $10,000 a day if it could get the money. Millions have been expended in propaganda work to help win the war. Half a million is a paltry price to pay for a League of Nations to keep the war won.

"The league received this half million from more than 6,500 individual contributors and from nearly every city and town in the United States. In a nation-wide campaign, lasting four years, it has been spread very thin; but in every nook and corner of this country it has started the little pebbles rolling, rolling together into the avalanche of public opinion that is thundering toward Washington."

Hunting for Missing Soldier.

BOSTON, June 24.—The disappearance of Harold W. Leyden eight days after his discharge as a member of the 504th Engineers, a New York organization, with which he had served eighteen months overseas, was under investigation by Army Intelligence officials and the local police today. His sister, Miss Elinore Leyden, said her brother left home a week ago tonight to make some purchases and had not been seen since.

DIVES FROM TRAIN TO ESCAPE PRISON

James McKay, Third Offender, Is Caught Three Hours After Desperate Plunge.

SERVING 20-YEAR SENTENCE

Captured as He Entered Schenectady, Bruised and Bleeding—May Go to Dannemora.

Special to The New York Times.

OSSINING, June 24.—James McKay, a Sing Sing convict who had served exactly four months of a straight twenty-year sentence received in Brooklyn, leaped out of a moving New York Central train while being transferred to Auburn Prison with fifty-six other prisoners and escaped at Amsterdam this afternoon.

McKay is a notorious robber and a third offender, despite the fact that he is but 22 years old. Although cut and bruised in the daring jump, he managed to run about four miles along the highways. His freedom was brief, however. Within three hours the police of Schenectady recaptured him as he was entering that city. McKay did not relish the idea of going to Auburn, because life is not as congenial there as in Sing Sing. Moreover, he would be further away from relatives and friends. He evidently was inspired to escape by the recent escapes of John McAllister, a Sing Sing burglar who made his getaway by the old ruse of leaving a "dummy" in his cell.

Like the "dummy" trick, leaping out of a train in motion is also an old dodge of Sing Sing prisoners seeking freedom. It works successfully every few years. Back in 1873, when Edward S. Stokes, who shot James Fisk over Josephine Mansfield, was being transferred to Auburn Prison, a convict tried to escape this way. Edwin Emmerly plunged out the window near Utica and Stokes saw him ground to death under the wheels.

The draft was sent from Sing Sing today in charge of Thomas Wheeler, rated as a good keeper. It was Wheeler who recently took Vincent Gaffney, the notorious jailbreaker who gave the New York police so much trouble, from Sing Sing to Dannemora Prison. Six hours after the special carload of prisoners left Sing Sing Guard Arthur Ferguson called up Warden Edward V. Brophy on the long-distance telephone and informed him of McKay's escape. The train had left Schenectady for Utica and was beginning to get up good speed when the robber jumped up out of his seat.

Since long-term prisoners are always handcuffed together in pairs when going on a draft, McKay is presumed to have slipped his hand out of the "bracelet" that bound him to his fellow prisoner. He dived, head foremost, out the opened window. Cuts and bruises on the face, together with blackened eyes, indicate that he landed in the cinders on his head. The train quickly stopped the train. Keeper Ferguson ran to the nearest telephone and started sending out an alarm to the police of Amsterdam, Schenectady, Albany, and other nearby places. Ferguson then telephoned the news of the escape to Warden Brophy. While the train attendants were printing cards with McKay's picture and description, to be broadcast, and Warden Brophy was arranging to hurry guards toward Amsterdam to recapture the fugitive, the Chief of Police of Schenectady telephoned that McKay had been taken into custody there. A Schenectady newspaper man, who had been given McKay's description, recognized the prison uniform and noticed the fugitive's injuries as he approached him. He was quickly placed under arrest and lodged in the city jail. Warden Brophy sent a guard to Schenectady later to bring McKay back. Of all the prisoners who have escaped from trains, none was ever caught so promptly.

McKay was sentenced Feb. 26 last for twenty years by Judge Nash in Kings County Court. Assistant District Attorney Louis Goldstein prosecuted him. It is alleged to have, with the aid of eighteen-year-old Mary Clancy, lured a sailor to a house on Smith Street, Brooklyn. There McKay and accomplices assaulted and robbed the seaman of $125. For her part in the plot the girl was sent to the Bedford Reformatory. McKay, when arrested, lived at 66 Smith Street, Brooklyn. He will very likely go to dreaded Dannemora Prison now, and may also be prosecuted for jail breaking.

315-Lb. Sturgeon Taken in Hudson.

HIGHLAND, June 24.—Frank Reichert exhibited to friends here today a sturgeon weighing 315 pounds which he caught in the Hudson River nearly sixty miles above New York City. Fishermen cannot recall when a fish of this size was ever caught before so far from the mouth of the river.

is thin and cool. Made to fit but loose fitting. The "split" belt is a feature of extraordinary appeal to men. It holds the seat tightly closed and perfectly smooth. When unbuttoned, the seat opening is extra large and convenient. There is absolutely no pulling or binding or uncomfortable feeling whatever.

The Gibbs Split-Belt Union Suit is made of fine, soft cotton interlooped and keeps the body cool by absorbing the perspiration and carrying it away from the skin. This is in direct contrast to muslin and nainsook garments which when saturated cling to the skin causing the pores to become choked with irritating perspiration with the accompanying discomforts.

Gibbs Split-Belt Union Suit is as carefully made as a tailored suit. Low neck, sleeveless, knee length.

A Situation We Are Striving to Improve

If you could visit the Goodyear factories, and yourself see the immense productive forces in action there, you would wonder how and where the enormous volume they deliver could find a market.

Over the shipping platforms, rumbling onward from the stockrooms to the waiting cars, day after day passes a total of finished product the largest of its kind in the world.

This total has been steadily growing since the conversion of our plants to a peace basis, when they were launched upon the heaviest production schedule of Goodyear Tires they had ever attempted.

Not only has this schedule been accomplished, but it has been repeatedly exceeded—our present output, for example, approximates the tremendous figure of 25,000 finished tires per day.

We give you this picture of our activities that you may know we have left no practical thing undone to satisfy the insistent demand for Goodyear Tires.

Yet notwithstanding all our preparations, made in anticipation of an extraordinary business, there still are hardly enough Goodyear Tires to go 'round.

Possibly you yourself have experienced some difficulty in getting Goodyear Tires for your car, as many Goodyear Service Station Dealers' stocks are very low.

If you have had such difficulty we ask you to absolve the dealer from any fault in the matter whatsoever—his shortage is due to our inability to build enough Goodyear Tires to meet public needs.

The situation is one we are striving constantly to improve—our every day effort is to bring production nearer the point where supply will equal demand.

Until this is actually effected, we suggest that you anticipate your future requirements by placing a reservation order with your Goodyear Service Station Dealer.

Such action now will guard against any possible disappointment later, and will avert any inconvenience this temporary shortage might otherwise occasion.

In the meantime we are using every proper means to expand our production, in an endeavor to make Goodyear Tires as easy to get as they are worth while to use.

SEES PROPAGANDA IN SETTLEMENT HOUSES

Secretary of Evangelistic Committee Asks Lusk Body to Include Them in Inquiry.

SENATOR JUSTIFIES RAIDS

L. W. W. Shuns Courts—Hugh Frayne to Tell More of Radical Efforts Among Union Labor.

The legislative committee investigating seditious propaganda has been asked to make a thorough investigation of the college settlements which are operating in the poorer part of the city. The formal demand was made to Attorney General Charles D. Newton, counsel for the committee, by Charles A. Starrr, Secretary of the Evangelistic Committee, an interdenominational body.

Mr. Starr told the Attorney General that in his opinion the committee should seek light on the question of whether these settlements, maintained by voluntary contributions, do not use the funds contrary to the expectations of many of the donors, for the purpose of teaching radical and un-American doctrines to those who come to these institutions for guidance.

Attorney General Newton promised Mr. Starr that he would lay his request before the legislative committee when it meets again tomorrow.

Senator Clayton R. Lusk, Chairman of the committee, who returned yesterday from his home in Cortland, said that more of the documentary matter seized in the recent raid on the Soviet Russia Bureau would be placed in evidence when the committee resumes its hearings tomorrow. He said that possibly some of the secret agents of the committee may be placed on the stand to testify regarding the results of investigations upon which they have been engaged for some weeks.

Hugh Frayne, organizer for the American Federation of Labor, who already has testified before the committee, would be recalled, Senator Lusk said, to further define the aims and objects of various radical organizations for the benefit of the committee. Mr. Frayne for eighteen years, has been investigating radical propaganda among union workers for the American Federation of Labor.

Senator Lusk visited the rooms at the Hotel Prince George in East Twenty-eighth Street and the Hotef Imperial at Thirty-first Street and Broadway, where Archibald E. Stevenson, Secretary of the Union League Club and associate counsel of the committee, was at work with Deputy Attorney General Samuel A. Berger tabulating and arranging the mass of printed matter and correspondence seized in Saturday's raids on the Rand School of Social Science, the Left Wing Socialist headquarters in West Twenty-ninth Street, and the headquarters of the Russian Branch of the I. W. W. in East Fourth Street. Senator Lusk said the tabulation was principally for the purpose of making the return the law requires to the Magistrates who issued the search warrants.

"They have not had time to examine closely the documentary evidence in the custody of the committee," said Senator Lusk. "From what cursory examination I have been in a position to make, I maintain that all these raids were justified, as will become apparent when the matter seized is put in evidence before the committee."

Commenting on the resignation of Dr. Alessandre H. Carasso, who recently announced his resignation as official interpreter and translator of the Lusk Committee, because he did not approve of its methods, Senator Lusk said:

"Dr. Carasso was excused for a whole afternoon to go to his home in Brooklyn. He went instead to the Soviet Russia Bureau. This was before the raid on the headquarters of the Bolshevist envoy. After that we felt that the committee could not take Dr. Carasso into its confidence. That is the reason he is no longer with us."

The members of the State Constabulary who had been on guard at the Rand School were withdrawn yesterday and the place assumed its wonted aspect. The same was true of the headquarters of other organizations raided last Saturday by the State troopers.

Magistrate Alexander Brough, who issued most of the search warrants under which the raids were made, said yesterday that he had granted an adjournment until next Monday of the hearing on the motion to vacate the search warrant issued for the Soviet Russia Bureau, made by George Gordon Battle on behalf of L. A. C. K. Martens, the Bolshevist envoy in charge of the bureau. Magistrate Brough did not announce at whose request the further delay was granted.

From their raided headquarters, at 27 East Fourth Street, the Russian I. W. W. yesterday issued a statement in which they announced that "they would not take their grievances against the Lusk Committee into court. "We have decided not to resort to law courts to get our rights," the statement said.

After the bitter experience of the last three years we have come to realize that all efforts to secure justice through any of the legal channels in America is futile."

Albert De Silver, Director of the National Civil Liberties Bureau, sent out a written protest against the raid on the Rand School yesterday. He commented on the fact that the search warrant under which a truck load of propaganda literature was seized set forth that the various organizations in that building "had in their possession certain papers and documents intending to use the same for the purpose of overthrowing the Government by force and violence and other unlawful means."

"To any one who is familiar with the activities of the organizations having their offices at 7 East Fifteenth Street such a suggestion is nothing more or less than nonsense, and while these raids are of no particular consequence, beyond the annoyance they have caused to certain innocent people," said Mr. De Silver. "I should like to point out that it should not be possible for Mr. Stevenson to secure search warrants by such a simple method as having one of his subordinates make oath to a bizarre conclusion. It is time for those who issue search warrants to put a stop to the activities of silly busybodies who wish to pry into other people's private affairs unless proper cause can be shown."

Waving a red hat is not a violation of the law, Magistrate Charles E. Simms ruled in the Yorkville Court yesterday in dismissing a charge of disorderly conduct against Lizzie Robitch, a Bronx milliner, who had been arrested at the Left Wing Socialist rally in Madison Square Garden last Friday night for using her headgear in lieu of the prescribed red flag. Celia Pollsuk of 356 Crimmins Avenue, the Bronx, who was with her and was charged with disorderly conduct for trying to prevent a detective from arresting her, was fined $10. Joseph Lasken, a waiter of 32 East Thirteenth Street, who was arrested at the meeting and charged with disorderly conduct, was sent to the workhouse for fifteen days. The detective who arrested him testified that Lasken struck him.

Inspector Owen Egan of the Bureau of Combustibles is spending most of his time these days unwrapping harmless packages, and it has been rumored that he will shortly apply for a department store expert to assist him. Yesterday he received a hurry call from the offices of the Cunard Steamship Company, 24 State Street, where something suspicious rested on the desk of Sir Ashley Sparks, President of the company.

The titled executive was chary of opening a small box that had arrived in the mails from Canada. Egan took it back to his laboratory and placed over it cover. A delicious aroma of blended tobacco arose from the interior and the inspector stopped his investigation and telephoned to the steamship line.

"Did the package, old top, will you?" a voice answered, "and Sir Ashley will send his man right up to fetch it."

DELAY GALLI-CURCI TRIAL.

Divorce Suit Put Off to Fall to Oblige New York Witnesses.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, June 24.—Trial of the divorce suit of Amelia Galli-Curci against Luigi C. Curci has been set aside until Fall. It was to have opened today in the court of Judge Jacob H. Hopkins.

Inability of three New York business men, witnesses for Mme. Galli-Curci, to come to Chicago at this time is ascribed by Mme. Galli-Curci's attorney, James L. Synum, as the reason for the continuance. One of the New Yorkers, according to the lawyer, is ill. The other two are detained by business.

FERGUS FALLS, Minn., June 24.—State military authorities in charge of the tornado-stricken district of this city today had compiled a list of fifty dead. They estimate the total death list at "not less than sixty" and the financial loss at $3,000,000.

GOMPERS SAYS TEST OF LABOR IS AHEAD

DISCUSS 5-DAY WORK WEEK

"Hangover" Business of Annual Convention Taken Up by Federation's Executive Council.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, June 24.—The Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor today finished the "hangover" business of the thirty-ninth annual convention, which ended yesterday. "Just ahead is the most critical trial of labor," President Samuel Gompers said tonight after the day's conferences. "Labor in America has demonstrated emphatically during the last two weeks that the patriotic zeal and the citizenship that actuated it to give gallant aid to the Government throughout the war has not been succeeded by any kind of radicalism. There was not a single session of the convention but showed that labor will not countenance radicalism in its ranks. It frowns upon such disturbing influences. All it asks is a fair deal. It will demand nothing more nor less, and it believes employers generally will meet it half way."

The possibility of a five-day work week in many trades was discussed today. The urgent necessity of spreading out the work of many crafts to provide employment for idle civilians and returning service men was debated, and although no final decision was reached as to any particular craft, several leaders said this was the only plan that would materially relieve the situation in many branches of industry.

The coal miners are particularly affected. The sudden end of the war and the mild Winter cut down the demand for coal to such an extent that hundreds of miners have not worked a shovel for months. This condition obtains in other crafts to a smaller degree. The Executive Council does not urge less than an eight-hour day, but is convinced that a Saturday holiday would help provide employment for thousands of idle men at this time, and would bridge across the readjustment period.

The committee expects to remain in conference until Thursday, when it will go to Washington to take up several subjects referred to it. The effort to settle the telegraph strike will be taken up with Postmaster General Burleson. The proposed board of employers and labor leaders suggested in bills now in Congress also will be brought to a climax. Just now the labor leaders do not favor the board which came as a suggestion of Basil Manly, joint Chairman of the War Labor Board, but they admit that their objections are due to ignorance as to just what the jurisdiction of the board would be, and that they may find merit in the proposal.

FLEXNER SOUNDS WARNING.

Says Demobilization Is Providing New Carriers of Disease.

Special to The New York Times.

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., June 24.—That the demobilization of the American Army is providing new carriers of communicable diseases which must be regulated was the statement of Dr. Simon Flexner of the Rockefeller Foundation, who spoke at the opening session of the New York State Sanitary Officers' Convention here today. He said that any soldier who had passed through an epidemic of meningitis might be a carrier of the disease and might start a new epidemic upon his return home. He advised that all carriers be segregated.

Commissioner of Health Herman M. Biggs is presiding at the conference and addressed today's gathering. It was the opinion of several of the speakers that the great burden of the white race today is war on tuberculosis and venereal diseases.

Elect Dr. Wishart President.

WOOSTER, Ohio, June 24.—Trustees of Wooster University today announced that Dr. Charles Frederick Wishart of Chicago has been elected President of the university, to succeed Dr. J. Campbell White, who resigned some time ago. Dr. Wishart is pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church, Chicago, and is President of the General Education Board of the Presbyterian Church.

ROB H. H. VREELAND'S HOUSE

Daylight Burglars Get $50 Cash and Jewelry Worth $1,000.

Special to The New York Times.

BREWSTER, N. Y., June 24.—While Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Vreeland were taking a nap in their country home, Resta-While, in Brewster today burglars entered and stole $50 in cash and $1,000 worth of jewelry.

The intruders got their loot in the bedroom of Mr. Vreeland, and disturbed neither him nor Mrs. Vreeland. The family had opened the house only a few days ago. The fingerprints found by Sergeant Charles Broadfield and Trooper C. E. Lamotte of the State Constabulary on the windowsill indicate that the burglars effected an entrance by raising a bedroom screen. The intruders left some clues, according to the State Constabulary, by which they hope to bring about their arrest.

Dismiss Charges Against Teacher.

JAMAICA, L. I., June 24.—Charges against Francis J. Ellsworth, for twenty-four years principal of the Far Rockaway High School, were dismissed last night without a hearing by the School Board of District 48. The complainants, members of the Mothers' Club of the school, had not prepared their case, and the board declined a further postponement. The charges, which were presented last November, included disrespectful treatment of the flag, discourteous and erratic treatment of teachers, pupils and parents, and "provincial and antique methods."

Justice Keogh's Hip Broken.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., June 24.—An X-ray examination has shown that Supreme Court Justice Martin J. Keogh, who slipped and fell in the hall of his home last Thursday, sustained a fractured hip bone. Part II. of the Supreme Court, over which he was presiding, has been adjourned for the term.

Sending German Sailors Home.

Note the thickness of the tread left after giving 17,221 miles of service.

After giving 17,221 miles of service, this Mason Maxi-Mile has no blisters and shows no sign of tread separation. Note the good condition of the tire. This 34 x 4 was used on a Studebaker Big 6 touring car, and run over all kinds of dirt and macadam roads.

THE Mason Maxi-Mile Tire is the result of four years' steady development by the master tire builders associated in the Mason organization.

The first purpose of these experienced men was to produce the tire that would give maximum mileage. No expense, either in experimenting, materials or labor was spared to accomplish this result.

Every detail of design, material and construction underwent testing, experimenting and improving until the tire measured up to the standard these men set for it.

The liberal adjustment basis of the Maxi-Mile guarantees the purchaser a 5000 minimum mileage. Users find, however, that the nominal figure of the adjustment basis is quite forgotten in the large surplus mileage they secure.

Give the Mason Maxi-Mile a trial on your car. You will enjoy greater riding comfort and economy, and be convinced that

A Widely Quoted Farm Paper

WHY DO some local newspapers—such as the Louisville Courier-Journal and the Springfield Republican—have national influence?

Because millions of readers who have never seen a copy of the Courier-Journal or the Republican have read reprints, quotations, extracts from these papers; because Exchange Editors, trained to recognize values, have freely clipped from their columns.

FARM LIFE is a national farm paper, a "class" paper; it goes only to farmers. But as the Courier-Journal and the Republican have prestige beyond their local territories, so FARM LIFE has prestige beyond its "class" territory—and for the same reason: Exchange Editors clip freely from its columns and millions of city readers interested in farming know FARM LIFE through Exchange Editors of the great dailies. Such a compliment reflects the estimate of men who know and appreciate the human interest and helpfulness of FARM LIFE'S pages.

If your product will contribute to the happiness and prosperity of FARM LIFE readers, a FARM LIFE representative will gladly call and tell you more about FARM LIFE.

MRS. SKEELS TAKES WITNESS STAND

Nurse, Accused of Murdering Miss Gay, Tells of Her Career.

HAD THREE HUSBANDS

Testifies Patient Had a Skin Disease for Which She Took Bromide Preparation.

LAWRENCE, Mass., June 24.—Speaking in such a low voice that it was found necessary to move her chair close to the jury box, Mrs. Bessie M. Skeels, on trial for the murder of Miss Florence W. Gay, testified in her own defense today. She will resume the stand tomorrow morning.

Because her physicians said they feared for her health, Mrs. Skeels was allowed to remain seated even when taking the oath. She told of the principal incidents in her life and described conditions in the Gay home in Andover where she attended Miss Gay and her mother as a nurse.

Mrs. Skeels said that she went to the Gay home on Thanksgiving Day, 1916, as a substitute nurse for Mrs. Gay, was soon engaged permanently and remained until February, 1918. Mrs. Gay, she said, was helpless and Miss Gay was very thin, nervous, and hysterical, having frequent crying spells. She said that Miss Gay's face was disfigured by a skin ailment and that her hands were sore. For this, she said, Miss Gay took a bromide preparation in quantities.

In the Summer of 1917, the witness said, Miss Gay suffered from what Mrs. Skeels believed was bronchial pneumonia, but would not have a doctor, so, she, as nurse, took charge of the case. At that time, she said, Miss Gay acted very queerly, often locking herself in the bathroom, and at one time running about unclothed. Against the patient's wishes, she said, Dr. Charles E. Abbott of Andover was called in and he said that she was suffering from a mental and physical breakdown.

Mrs. Skeels testified that she had been married three times and that she divorced her first husband, Nathaniel Townsend, after three months, on the grounds of intoxication and desertion. Her second husband, Frank Skeels, was manager for a sewing machine company in Dayton, Ohio. She took courses in nursing at Dayton, Columbus, and Cleveland.

Mr. Skeels's health was bad, the witness said. They came to Lawrence in 1905 and he died three years later, leaving no life insurance, but about $2,000 in cash. Her father died in 1916 and left her $100 life insurance.

In the period between Mr. Skeels's death and her taking up nursing, the witness said, she supported herself by giving readings, teaching elocution and physical culture, and sewing. Later she kept a lodging house. It was a picture of that house, she said, that she had shown Dr. George H. Sexsmith at her brother's home in Bayonne, N. J., and concerning which Dr. Sexsmith had offered testimony previously.

In opening the defense Mrs. Skeels's counsel announced that he would show that it was from Miss Gay that Mrs. Skeels received the suggestion that she obtain Fowler's solution, an arsenical preparation for treatment of a skin disease.

The death of Mrs. Skeels's brother, Albert J. Wilkins, at Bayonne, N. J., from lead poisoning, for which she is under a murder indictment, would be shown, counsel said, to be due probably to occupational conditions, the result of his work in an oil plant.

Medical Examiner George B. Magrath, of Suffolk County, testified that in his opinion Miss Gay's death was due to "poison by arsenic." He said that more than one dose had been administered because a dose of the amount found in the liver would have caused death before the poison reached that organ.

He attended the autopsy of the body of Albert Wilkins in New Jersey, he said. An examination of the organs revealed an acute change, due to something, he did not know what. From what he had since learned it was his opinion that poisoning in the Wilkins case was caused by lead. Cross-examined, he said that from his inspection of the bodies of Miss Gay and Wilkins, he found no adequate cause of death, and relied wholly on chemicals for the conclusions he had reached.

$401,000,000 FOR R. R. FUEL.

Cost in War Year Shows an Increase of One-Half.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., June 24.—The coal consumed by American railroads in 1917 would, under ordinary conditions, have cost about $265,000,000, delegates to the American Railway Association Convention were told today, but because of the war, the severe Winter and the increased mine prices, the cost was $401,000,000, an increase of more than 50 per cent. over the previous year.

In this connection, the fuel economy and smoke prevention experts reported that it was significant that in 1917 the cost of fuel for yard engines alone represented 80 per cent. of the total burned by all engines in 1899.

PREDICTS LABOR UPHEAVAL.

Vanderlip Says Task of Preventing Chaos Rests on Capital.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, June 24.—Labor disturbances not unlike those which have upset European politics are to be expected in America, and upon capital rests the task of preventing chaos.

That is the prediction of Frank A. Vanderlip, until recently President of the National City Bank of New York, who was in Chicago today, after having delivered the commencement address at the University of Illinois yesterday.

Capital, Mr. Vanderlip thinks, must recognize the propriety of labor's claim for a larger voice in industrial affairs. It must allow this claim and then see to it that the worker is brought into such relations to his job that he will work honestly and sympathetically.

The present dissatisfaction of labor is resulting in chaos, the financier said, because workers are losing interest in their jobs, and are deliberately reducing production. Labor as well as capital is cheated by such a state of affairs, Mr. Vanderlip pointed out, for capital can divide with labor only the product of their joint efforts. When labor reduced this product it reduces its share of the whole.

"Labor's demands for shorter hours, shop committees, and representation are just so far as they relate to the conditions surrounding the workmen," he concluded. "I do not think that labor wants a voice in determining industrial policies."

GRIFENHAGEN HELD UP.

Ex-Sheriff Robbed in Broad Day in Tenth Avenue.

Ex-Sheriff Max S. Grifenhagen of 720 Riverside Drive was held up and robbed yesterday while walking north in Tenth Avenue, between Thirty-first and Thirty-second Streets. The former Sheriff was on his way from his bottle factory in Tenth Avenue at Twenty-fifth Street to see a tenant in a building he owns at Tenth Avenue and Thirty-third Street. As he passed a high board fence he was seized from behind and his arms were pinioned. At the same time a young man stepped in front of him and quickly went through his pockets. He took a wallet containing $16, but Mr. Grifenhagen saved the contents of his left-hand pocket by twisting the wrist of his assailant. In this pocket were some important papers and the badge presented to him when he was in office.

"It all happened so quickly that I hardly realized what was up," said Mr. Grifenhagen. "There were several men standing in front of an express office across the street, but they hesitated to come to my assistance when they say ten or twelve men standing near by, evidently part of the gang."

None of the men, said Mr. Grifenhagen, was more than 20 years old. "When it comes to persons being held up in broad daylight on crowded thoroughfares," said the former Sheriff, "it is time that something was done by the police."

The police are said to be investigating.

HOLD SHIP FOR BABY BUGGY

Cunarder Uses Freight Tackle to Take Perambulator Aboard.

The sailing of the Cunarder Royal George was delayed for a few minutes yesterday while Thomas Eccles of Hartford, Conn., a belated passenger, was having a baby carriage hoisted on board. Eccles, who is an inventor, with his wife and five months-old infant, arrived at the Grand Central from Connecticut twenty minutes before the steamer was scheduled to sail. Racing to the pier in a taxicab, Eccles and his family got there just as the gangplank was being hauled in.

When the family got on board, it was discovered that the baby carriage had been left on the pier in the excitement. Deckhands threw a rope from a hoisting mast to the pier and the carriage was lifted on board. The liner then started on her way to Liverpool.

Frank William Alte of Winnipeg, and his wife, who are on their honeymoon trip, also narrowly missed the steamer, arriving at the pier two minutes before the gangplank was pulled in. Other travelers on the steamer were Sir Christopher Needham, Commander W. H. Wilkes of the Royal Navy, and R. W. Hale, Secretary of the Bar Association of Boston. The Royal George carried 480 passengers.

SCHOOL PRINCIPAL CLEARED

Mothers' Club Fails to Proceed with Charges Growing Out of War.

Sanford J. Ellsworth, who has been Principal of the Far Rockaway High School for twenty-four years, was cleared on Monday night by the local board of charges made against him six months ago by members of the Mothers' Club of his school that he once kicked the corner of an American flag out of his way, instead of picking it up, thereby acting disrespectfully to the colors; that he was discourteous to visitors, erratic in his treatment of the children, humiliated the teachers, and failed to co-operate in local war work and with the Mothers' Club. It was also alleged that his methods of teaching were antiquated and that he failed to display aggressive loyalty.

The charges were dismissed because the complainants said they were not ready to proceed, though three of them were present.

Guggenheims Buy Oil Holdings.

RANGER, Texas, June 24.—The Gates Oil Company has sold its oil holdings in the Ranger Field to the Guggenheims for $1,500,000. Nearly 400 acres of leases in the heart of the proved area are embraced in the transaction. The purchase of these holdings marks the entry of the Guggenheims into the oil industry.

URGE CATHOLIC EDUCATION

ST. LOUIS, June 24.—The secular system of education in the United States was denounced as "patterning after the German idea" and as "materialistic" by speakers at the annual convention of the Catholic Educational Association here today.

The Right-Rev. Thomas J. Shahan, rector of the Catholic University at Washington and President of the association, said that present day education resulted from modern materialistic philosophy, and that such philosophical systems had brought "Europe into ruin and misery, from which it would not recover for centuries."

"It is the Christian moral example," he said, "the Catholic education and spirituality that must be relied upon to counteract the effects of this philosophy."

In a paper written by Cardinal O'Connell it was declared that State monopoly of education had made Prussia what it is today. The Cardinal attacked the constitutionality of a Government controlled system of education on the ground that religious freedom was safeguarded to citizens of the United States.

"In the matter of education, particularly, we are patterning after the German idea," he said, "a program which is being marked out by American educators who have received their training in German universities. Under our Constitution religious freedom is guaranteed to all citizens, and the Government should not interfere in matters pertaining to religious education.

"The present tendency of centralization in matters of government would enthrone the pagan idea that 'the State is a god and for it the individual exists.' It is not so under our Constitution, as it was drawn up on the principle that the State is the servant, and not the master."

Archbishop Glennon of St. Louis said that religious education was the best method of building up a manhood to serve the country in the future, whether in peace or war, and surveyed the part which Catholics played in the war.

"He is not a patriot," Archbishop Glennon said, "who would declare that every school that teaches faith in Christ must be faithless to America, or that one who denies the supremacy or completeness of purely secular training is an enemy of his country."

Office Space
For Your Entire Record Department at Storage Warehouse Rentals

YOUR important Business Records—where are they kept? Are they safe from fire, theft and destruction? Are they away from your place of business where they belong in case of possible destruction to your building? Are they easily accessible? Are they taking up valuable space that could be utilized more profitably? Are they costing you two-thirds more than they would if they were kept in a Special Record Room at Pioneer?

These are questions that vitally concern every executive of Big Business today. Never in the annals of business have office rentals in Lower Manhattan and its environs commanded such exorbitant prices.

Move Your Surplus, Duplicate, and Active BUSINESS RECORDS
PIONEER

YOU may be enjoying the protection of a long-term lease; if so, that is your good fortune, but when it expires is there any reason to suppose that your next lease will not be made at a much higher rate? Should not good business judgment prompt you to make Pioneer your Record Headquarters right now as a guarantee of the future?

You have always wanted to put your Record Department on a basis of improved efficiency—here's your opportunity at Pioneer:—

With this advertisement is made the first public announcement by the Philadelphia Public Ledger of an expedition vitally important to every manufacturer and business man in America.

JAMES H. COLLINS

Traveler, Writer and Business Expert

of international fame, will spend perhaps a year—whatever time is necessary,—in Central and South America upon a mission of the utmost importance.

I expect soon to see the development of an international trade practice that does not now exist, except sporadically, in America. We shall see American international commerce expanding along permanent, safe lines,—the result of a scientific ground-work.

Mr. Collins goes in response to a great national need.

I believe that America is entering the most difficult of all her fiscal and commercial periods.

Work must be provided for our people.

The cost of living must be lowered by increasing the quantity of manufactures and raw materials.

An enormous national debt must be met and the interest thereon provided for out of earnings.

Confidence and friendship must be built up between the Americas.

The United States must come out of her corner. We must breed and train a race having the world-vision.

We must get access to new sources of raw materials and new markets for finished materials.

We must learn to know new peoples,—their likes and dislikes, their traditions, their strengths and weaknesses, their histories, their prejudices, and their opinions about ourselves.

These things we must get not only for our own benefit but for theirs.

The interests of all nations are now bound into one bundle. We must watch that bundle.

Its name is Commerce.

As our Chief Executive has said in an address at Turin, Italy: "The plans of the modern world are made in the Counting House. The men who do the business of the world now shape the destinies of the world."

Mr. Collins possesses this large vision of the place of international commerce in America's future life. He has imagination, knowledge, the critical sense. His letters will be intensely human and readable, and above all, vitally useful to the manufacturer who wants to find, develop, and keep a foreign market for his goods.

Through his daily column you will come to know Latin America and its people. You will have an inkling of the secrets upon which England and Holland and other nations, expert in foreign trade, have built their wonderful and permanent structures of world commerce.

Mr. Collins has already sailed. His articles will begin about September first. Authoritative foreign and domestic business news, not found elsewhere, is now appearing daily.

WAR BRIDES TAUGHT AMERICAN WAYS

Y. W. C. A. Worker, Just Back from France, Says 10,000 Soldiers Were Married in Europe

1,000 HOUSED AT BREST

That there is more work to be done by the Y. W. C. A. abroad in the process of demobilization than at any time in the entire war was the report made at an all-day meeting of the War Work Council of the Young Women's Christian Association at the National Headquarters, Lexington Avenue and Fifty-second Street, yesterday, by Mrs. James S. Cushman, President of the Council, who has just returned after five months abroad, where she visited Germany, England, and France. Miss Sarah Lyon, who is in charge of the work among the women on the other side, as head of the Overseas Department of the Y. W. C. A., gave interesting details of what is being done and what will be done.

One of the important lines of work that is receiving much attention just now is that among the foreign brides of the American soldiers. There have been conflicting reports about the number of American boys who have married, but Miss Lyon says there are at least 10,000 of them. The American Government is aiding in looking after these young women, and barracks vacated by the soldiers at Brest, Bordeaux and St. Nazaire have been given up for their use. Most of the brides know little or nothing of America, and they are being instructed in various useful arts in the course of their stay at the barracks. English, geography, the laws of America and American cooking are being taught.

There are 1,000 brides at Brest alone. They are being sent across first class by the Government, and on each steamer there are delegated a certain number of Y. W. C. A. Secretaries to look after the brides. One of the Secretaries travels constantly back and forth, accompanying one lot of brides and returning for another. Another woman in Paris is head of the bridal department. The Secretaries at the camps are called Bridal Camp Commanders.

Much work is being done for the nurses who are being demobilized and who must be housed, fed, and entertained until they can return home. At a camp for nurses at Savena five Y. W. C. A. Secretaries are required to care for their needs. Many of the nurses make more or less extended tours of France, and for them a special hostess house with an information bureau has been established at Rheims. There have been more than 30,000 American women in France, including nurses, Y. W. C. A. workers, telephone and telegraph operators, quartermasters, Government clerks, and representatives of different organizations.

Miss Lyon told of the continued work among the French women during the transition period. Munition factories are being changed into button and ribbon factories, and there is a general shifting from war to peace time work. The Foyers which have been run for the munition workers are as much needed now as at any time during the war, she said. In Rheims a clubhouse has been provided for the French women, and there are sewing machines and ironing boards for their use. Wealthy women are receiving the refugees as they return.

Miss Lyon said that the Bohemian Commission, on which were Miss Ruth Crawford and Miss Emily Klein of New York and Miss Lois Downs of Pittsburg, was the guest of the Czechoslovak Government at Prague. They are to open a Summer training camp outside Prague, where they will train women university students in recreational and social service work. Miss Lyon is sending a woman to Armenia, the first Y. W. C. A. worker to go there, and in the near future twenty-one women will take up work in Russia, Lithuania, and three at the request of these Governments.

In Warsaw, Poland, a Y. W. C. A. comission has been working for some time preparing a house which the Polish Government will support, and the Y. W. C. A. will run for the Polish Gray Samaritans, Polish-born women from this country, who have been trained as social workers and nurse aids.

Dr. Katherine B. Davis, who has just returned from abroad, announced that a conference on the "Morals of the World" would be held in this city on Sept. 16, at which thirty women physicians from different parts of the world would attend

MAY RESTORE FERRY LINE.

Commissioner Whalen to Reconsider 92d Street Route's Condition.

Grover Whalen, Commissioner of Plants and Structures, has decided to reopen the question of operation of the ferry known as the Ninety-second Street Ferry, between East Ninety-second Street, Manhattan, and Fulton Street, Astoria, in Queens, in order to give property owners and business associations of the Yorkville district in Manhattan and the Astoria section of Queens an opportunity to show why the service should be resumed, and also to determine the advisability of the city giving some aid to the New York and East River Ferry Company, which holds the franchise for the ferry. The matter was before John H. Delaney when he was commissioner of this department, but he had presented an adverse report to Mayor Hylan and the Board of Estimate.

Commissioner Whalen yesterday sent notices to interested parties both in Manhattan and Queens that he has assigned department engineers to the work of making a survey of the premises and floating equipment of the ferry company, so that they could accurately inform him of conditions, and that he would go over the entire situation with the property owners before submitting a report to Mayor Hylan. The ferry company stopped operation early this year, declaring that it could not continue to bear the financial loss attendant upon operation.

The announced intention of the New York & Queens County Railway to demand a new contract with the city if it is to continue to operate its cars over the Queensboro Bridge after next December introduces a new element into the situation. If this operation should cease a greater necessity for the operation of the ferry will be created.

YOU, too, would look like this if you had just raced a mile. But do you know that every day of your life you use even more energy than this?

You do not feel acute fatigue because the loss of energy is spread over an entire day. But unless you take care to protect yourself from needless exhaustion, permanent lines of fatigue will form in your face sooner than you expect.

You can do much to conserve your energy. You can eliminate one of the greatest causes of fatigue. You can avoid pounding around all day with hard, nail-studded leather heels on still harder pavements and floors.

Replace your hard, unyielding heels with O'Sullivan's Heels of live, springy rubber. O'Sullivan's Heels absorb the shocks that tire you out. They relieve the jolts and jars that make a burden of walking.

To secure the great resiliency and durability of O'Sullivan's Heels, the highest grades of rubber are "compounded" with the best toughening agents known. The "compound" is then "cured" or baked under high pressure.

It is this special process that has, since the making of the first rubber heel, established O'Sullivan's Heels as the standard of rubber heel quality.

O'Sullivan's Heels are guaranteed to wear twice as long as ordinary rubber heels; and will outlast three pairs of leather heels.

Go to your shoe repairer today and have O'Sullivan's Heels put on your shoes.

O'Sullivan's Heels are furnished in black, white or tan; for men, women and children. Specify O'Sullivan's Heels, and be sure that you get O'Sullivan's—avoid the disappointment of substitutes.

With every step on hard leather heels you are pounding away your energy

Absorb the shocks that tire you out

Camel Cigarettes

CAMEL Cigarettes meet your taste in many new and unusual ways. You quickly become fond of them—they are so refreshing and cool and fragrant.

You see, Camels are an expert blend of choice Turkish and choice Domestic tobaccos which guarantees the most delightful cigarette qualities that have ever been put into a cigarette. Your test will prove that you prefer the expert Camel blend to either kind of tobacco smoked straight.

Camels blend not only frees the cigarettes from any unpleasant cigaretty aftertaste or any unpleasant cigaretty odor but it assures that remarkable mellow-mild-body! And, you'll be interested to know that no matter how liberally you smoke Camels they will not tire your taste!

Camels are a cigarette revelation! Prove that yourself! We suggest right here that you compare Camels with any cigarettes in the world at any price for quality and for satisfaction!

Camels are sold everywhere in scientifically sealed packages of 20 cigarettes or ten packages (200 cigarettes) in a glassine-paper-covered carton. We strongly recommend this carton for the home or office supply or when you travel.

New York's New Pictorial Daily Newspaper Appearing for the First Time Tomorrow Morning. At All Newsstands—2c

SINCE we announced that we would pay $10,000.00 in cash for a photograph of the most beautiful girl in Greater New York or suburban districts—$2,500.00 to the second prize beauty—$1,000.00 to the third prize beauty—thousands of photographs of New York girls have been sent to us.

The first pictures of these beauties will be published in tomorrow's issue of the Illustrated Daily News—New York's new pictorial daily newspaper. Look for them. Will yours be among the first?

A New "Picture Paper"

The Illustrated Daily News will be published for the first time tomorrow morning, Thursday, June 26th. It will contain the news of the world in pictures. It will be in tabloid form, printed on high grade paper. It will be sold on all newsstands at 2c per copy.

London has two "picture papers." They are read eagerly because they present the news quickly and accurately. New York will have a similar newspaper in the Illustrated Daily News. It will be published every morning—except Sunday. Newsdealers throughout Greater New York and suburban districts will sell it at 2 cents per copy.

OUR OFFER:

1st Prize Beauty, $10,000.00
2nd Prize Beauty, 2,500.00
3rd Prize Beauty, 1,000.00

We will pay the above sums in cash, for three photographs selected by the judges appointed to decide this contest—D. W. Griffith, Harrison Fisher and George M. Cohan.

There is no charge whatever. No entry fee. Nothing to pay.

THE SINKING OF THE GERMAN FLEET.

Caretaker Admiral VON REUTER, by whose order the surrendered German fleet at Scapa Flow was scuttled by stealth, was the officer who protested that it "was not in keeping with the "idea of chivalry between two honor-"able opponents" that the flag of Germany should be hauled down when her ships that had yielded without a fight were laid up at the British base pending negotiation of a treaty of peace. Admiral BEATTY pointed out that the armistice merely suspended hostilities, a state of war still existing between Germany and the Allies. "Under the circumstances no enemy "vessel," he said, "can be permitted to "fly its national ensign in British "waters while under custody." The armistice provided that German surface warships designated by the Allies and the United States were to be disarmed "and thereafter interned in "neutral ports or, in default of them, "in allied ports to be designated by "the Allies and the United States. "They will there remain under the "supervision of the Allies and of the "United States, only caretakers be-"ing left on board."

Admiral VON REUTER, having done what his proud countrymen describe as a "handsome deed" and made "a fine gesture," seeks to justify himself by giving to the word "interned" a meaning it was never intended to have in the text of the armistice, forgetting that the fleet which might have gone down fighting preferred the abasement of surrender. Also this Admiral with the perverted German mind invents a state of actual warfare with the victors who had dictated peace terms to his country, and orders the disarmed battle fleet, of which he was the caretaker, to be sunk at anchor during the absence of the British fleet for practice exercises. He imagines that the sneaking act will redound to the glory of the German Navy as an exhibition of martial spirit and defiance of the foe, confusing the "handsome deed" with death in battle on ships that refuse to yield, for which seamen are rightly called heroes.

The armistice had been extended, not ended, as the Caretaker Admiral professed to believe; if there had been a lapse, which to men of normal minds was inconceivable, no state of actual warfare could have existed; and the Caretaker Admiral must have read that article in the Peace Treaty depriving Germany of any title to the fleet, and he must have known that the condition would have to be accepted. Isn't it characteristic of the German warrior that he can work himself into a frenzy of virtuous indignation over the hauling down of the German flag on a surrendered fleet in an enemy port and prate of an abuse of chivalry, but can distend his bosom with pride when he sinks that anchored fleet beneath the waves by opening the seacocks, and call it glorious war?

The British are right when they say the "handsome deed" was a "deliberate violation of the armistice" and "treachery." But whatever the scuttling may be called, it reacts with the effect of infamy upon the German name. The Admiral orders his fleet sunk as an act of war, and then hoists the white flag on the boat he escapes in to induce the foe defied to save his sailors from drowning. German officers shoot down seamen who obey a British order to close the open valves, and these same officers, safe on British decks, click their heels together and salute one another with a feeling of having done a historic thing that would ring through the ages and shed unfading lustre upon German arms. Crews rowing away from the sinking ships awake the echoes with arrogant "Hochs!" It was a pitiful business, a grotesque scene! Human nature, in this case racial, is poor indeed that demeans itself so shamefully.

An example should be made of Admiral VON REUTER. He should be tried by an allied tribunal. He deliberately violated the armistice and destroyed property worth hundreds of millions of dollars that had passed from the possession of Germany, had been forfeited. The exulting German people, whose standards of right and wrong are so hopelessly confused, should be taught the lesson that the deed was not "handsome," but despicable. And the German reparation bill should be increased by the value of the destroyed fleet to the Allies and the United States. To say that it was well sunk is to beg a great moral question.

THE SOCIALIST QUARREL.

Whether or not Senator BORAH undertakes to split the Republican Party by running an anti-League ticket, there is one party split that has already occurred, and it is a large and genuine one. It is the split in the Socialist Party. Already the Michigan Socialists and the foreign-language branches have been expelled from the party, and it is war to the knife. The majority of the Socialists are moderate compared with the rebels, who would overthrow the Government by force. This majority may not seem very moderate to people outside the party, but its doctrines find expression only in words and have been intended to stop there. The minority, which expects to make itself a majority, corresponds to the Bolsheviki.

According to the statement issued by the National Executive Committee of the Socialist Party, the Left Wing has been engaged in an "or-"ganized and systematic attempt of "nation-wide scope to capture the "party organization by fair means "and foul." It has defied national conventions, national referendums, the national constitution, and the decisions of the National Executive Committee. As the Socialist Party differs from others in having an almost military organization, these are acts of rebellion.

Persons outside the Socialist Party will not be greatly interested in that feature of the case. But the cause of the internecine war in the party lies deeper and is, in fact, fundamental. It is of great interest to outsiders, for it is the effort of organized revolutionists to capture the machinery of a political party and the resistance of that party, which is not revolutionary—at least not in the violent sense.

The expelled branches still call themselves "Socialists," despite the fact that the rules of the party give them no right to the name. They explain that they are the Left Wing. But in this country no such distinctions are recognized; it is not the habit of our mind. A man either belongs to a party or he doesn't. When ROOSEVELT bolted in 1912, his followers did not call themselves the "Left Wing of the Republican Party." They called themselves "the Progressive Party." If Mr. BORAH organizes his threatened party, he will not call it a "Left Wing." If a faction which has split off from the party runs a full ticket and tries to defeat the party at the polls, then in the American view it is not a wing but a new party. So, if the revolutionists choose to persist in calling themselves the "Left Wing of the Socialist Party," they will find themselves classified in the American mind as the "Left Wing Party," and as having nothing to do with Socialists. They might choose a more euphonious name for their new party, since this is inevitable. Why not "the Revolutionary Party"?

One thing is sure, the Socialist Party is split; and if it remains split its effectiveness in the campaign of 1920 is likely to be greatly diminished.

JUDGE GARY'S LABOR VIEWS.

There would be no labor question if labor and capital practiced what Mr. GARY preaches. The placidity with which he discusses the subject is equally admirable and amiable. Nobody would imagine that he is the administrator of what labor's leading organization has called its "worst enemy," and with which there is now pending a difference of opinion on contentious subjects. In the hands of another than Mr. GARY, or in another manner than his, there might result a repetition of regrettable incidents. But there is no reason why the Federation and the Steel Corporation should not reach an understanding, or even an agreement, if both should show the spirit of accommodation, and neither seek to dominate the other, or to exploit the public by co-operation in the nature of conspiracy to sacrifice other interests to theirs.

"Doubt in regard to wage rates "should be resolved in favor of the "employé," said Mr. GARY, and he is the head of a "soulless corporation" which cut dividends and maintained wages. He has shown himself equally open-minded and generous on other conditions of employment, first of all because it is right, but not less because it "pays big in dollars and cents "for the employer to maintain work-"ing conditions which are beneficial "to the employé." He testifies to the results of this policy in arousing and supporting the loyalty and efficiency of 300,000 employés of a single corporation, many of them foreigners from enemy countries. It was, he said, "a magnificent exhibition of "reciprocal sentiment and industrial "co-operation. * * * A demon-"stration that labor in this country is "intelligent and honest in thought "and performance, and that it may "be depended upon to assist actively "in the maintenance of good govern-"ment." The Federation has won much praise for its restraint of the radicals among it, but here is testimony that outside the Federation there is equally good public spirit.

The way to promote good relations between labor and capital is to recognize what is good in either, but also to condemn what is bad. We fancy that Mr. GARY would be less of an industrial pacifist and optimist if he were confronted with the conditions in Winnipeg or Seattle. In both cases the form was that of a strike, but the objective was a revolution, a new social order. Strikes are not to be approved as a referendum in countries where there is a free and honest ballot. Reasonable combinations of workers for the improvement of working conditions are favored by law and public opinion, but when their procedure is unreasonable and intolerable it should be denounced as such.

A few days ago the people of Pittsburgh filed a suit for $2,035,000.78 damages against the Amalgamated Association of Street Railway Employés. The case is novel in that it demands reparation to the public by a union for damages by the interruption of a public utility by a strike and conduct in support of the strikers' demands which are not to be justified by the right to improve working conditions. In this city the strike decreased the revenue of the street car companies by $3,246,556, and the damage by the disturbance of community life was larger, although not capable of such precise statement. How can unions expect non-unionists to think that it is the right of labor to inflict such losses and deny responsibility for them, if the conduct is unlawful? The newspapers report a case where unionists caused the discharge of higher employés and refused to work under them because they were faithful to the interests of the employers. That is not mentioned as a characteristic of unionism so much as of human nature of a bad sort, and which calls for discipline when shown among unionists as well as among capitalists. There is not a double standard, so that either labor or capital may do what it disapproves in the other.

It is agreeable to applaud Mr. GARY's philosophy of the relations between labor and capital, and to welcome his testimony that the evil spirit is scarcer than most think, and that the majority of "labor" is up to the standard of American citizenship. Yet it is necessary to remember that a union of 400,000 members, the largest single union, has been condemned in the courts, and has put up $800,000 in bonds to answer for conduct which the Federation with 3,000,000 members approves so unreservedly that it demands that the law shall be changed. Would Mr. GARY say that the law or the conduct should be changed? And what should be public opinion regarding any union which puts its class interests above the public interest? That calls for condemnation wherever found or whenever practiced.

THE RETURN OF THE NATIVE.

We have received as a visitor no less a person than EAMONN DE VALERA, born upon this island, long absent in foreign parts, where he went into politics, and now returned to his home town with the laudable purpose of raising some money. It is a little hard to see just why he should want to raise money; advertisements of the Irish Republican Party have assured us that Ireland is enormously wealthy. But John Bull, we are told, drains Ireland of its wealth and gathers it all into his own capacious coffers; then why should Americans contribute more to go the same way? However, money is only a part of it. Professor DE VALERA is also looking for moral support for the organization which he represents, the Irish Republic, the sovereignty, dignity, and praiseworthy character of which have already been formally recognized by the New York Board of Aldermen, the Senate of the United States minus JOHN SHARP WILLIAMS, and the Soviet Republic of Russia, acting through the much-enduring and intensively investigated Mr. MARTENS.

Mr. DE VALERA is a professor of mathematics, and his historical monograph given to the press upon his arrival suggests that as a historian he is an excellent mathematician. We may pass over his observations on American history; they are such as we heard in profusion from organs subsidized by the German Embassy in the early part of the war; consider, rather, his remarks upon the lately oppressed nationalities. To these peoples, he says, America has always been a friend. "The Latin races, "as well as Poland, Hungary, and "Greece, are now free States. Ire-"land will similarly be free unless," &c.

The gentleman's enthusiasm for Hungary is easily explicable; but his remarks about Poland, Greece, and the rest deserve some study. Poland has been freed from alien rule, Greece has been freed from an autocrat, certain fragments of the Latin races have been freed from the Hapsburgs, within the last two years. Where was the Irish Republic in those days? Many thousands of Irishmen—men like TOM KETTLE and WILLIAM REDMOND—were dying for the freedom of the world; and for the sake of the memory of those men, if for no other reason, justice is due to Ireland. But where was the Irish Republic? The Irish Republic came in on what looked like the winning side; and now that, contrary to all expectation of those days, the Kaiser has been beaten, it is still trying to be on the side of the winners.

Such persistence is not devoid of merit; but it was a little tactless of Professor DE VALERA to tell us how much better off Ireland would have been under the rule of "Kaiser, Emperor, or Czar." It is six months since fighting ceased, but the Kaiser is not yet a popular hero in this country. Our distinguished visitor has hitched his wagon to a fallen star.

SHIPS FOR REPARATION.

Germans may be asking themselves whether the infamous destruction of their naval fleet at Scapa Flow will affect to their disadvantage the Reparation Commission's demands for the construction of merchant ships in German shipyards. The peace agreement provides that within the coming three months the Commission shall notify the German Government as to the amount of tonnage to be built in each of the two succeeding years. At a later date the quantity to be constructed in the three years following is to be specified. The Commission is restrained only by a maximum limit of 200,000 tons in any one of the five years. It may be inclined to insist upon delivery of all that the accepted terms will permit, but 1,000,000 tons will be less than one-twelfth of the tonnage destroyed (12,116,000) by German U-boats and mines, and it is admitted in Berlin that the shipyards, increased in number and enlarged since 1914, can easily do the work.

Reviewing the evidence of growth, the Berlin newspaper Vorwärts said, in the last year of the war, that "Ger-"many's shipbuilding industry is sure "of a five or six years' boom after "peace is declared." Fourteen new yards, it continued, had been added to the twenty-two old ones, and there were to be six more, for nearly all of which the land required had been bought or leased. The first work at one of these was to be the construction of twelve large and fast steamships for the transportation of ore and other raw material. In those days, not very long ago, PHILIP HEINEKEN, Director General of the North German Lloyd Company, was predicting that British and American ships would not be allowed to "penetrate territories re-"served for the German and Austrian "lines." Companies were increasing their capital to meet the cost of new ships. Those engaged in trade in the Baltic and along the borders of the North Sea had been declaring dividends ranging from 10 to 40 per cent.

Confirmation of such statements is now found in a report recently sent to our Department of Commerce from Stockholm by Consul General HALSTEAD. This includes the published results of an investigation made by the Berliner Tageblatt, which says that there are now thirty shipbuilding companies, with a capital of 163,600,000 marks, while at the beginning of the war there were only eighteen, with $3,300,000 marks of stock. Here is a capital increase of 96 per cent., and nearly two-thirds, or 63 per cent., of the added investment was for new construction. When conditions now are compared with those before the war, this German newspaper finds that reserve funds have risen from 15.96 to 21.09 per cent. of the share capital, while average profits are 23.64 per cent., against 6.93 per cent. in those days, and the average dividend for shareholders "is "now 9.77 per cent., against a pre-"vious 4.7 per cent."

This growth took place, and ambitious plans for the future were made, while the Germans were sinking 4,700 merchant ships belonging to their foes and the neutrals. It was not foreseen that the predicted "five or six years' boom" in the shipbuilding industry "after peace is declared" would include five years of construction for reparation account. Germany has many shipyards, well equipped, and cannot reasonably complain if the Commission decides that the quantity built and delivered shall be all that the peace agreement allows, or 200,000 tons in each one of the five years.

A POLITICAL PARALLEL.

Americans who have contemplated with some distaste the recent acrimonious course of politics in this country, where impossible motives are daily ascribed to opponents through partisan bias, where a carelessness of fact is lamentably common, and where foreign relations of the highest importance are used as the football of contests with domestic adversaries, may be cheered by a reminder that we are not alone in these diversions. That something of the sort may happen anywhere appears from a passage in the entertaining critique of Mr. ORLANDO's policy published by the Secolo of Milan. The Secolo disapproves of ORLANDO in his controversy with Mr. WILSON as much as our Republican friends disapproved of Mr. WILSON in his controversy with ORLANDO; and as one of the shortcomings of the former Premier the Secolo cites the reaction in America, where it says that.

WILSON's antagonists found themselves driven to uphold him on the Italian question simply on account of the violent and indecent campaign which ORLANDO had permitted the Italian press to foment against the head of the American State.

Now, we all know that "WILSON's antagonists" did all they could to assist what the Secolo calls "a violent and indecent campaign"; Senator LODGE discovered the Italianity of Fiume as soon as the President said it ought to go to the Jugoslavs; leading Republican newspapers became highly pro-Italian, regardless of their previous attitude, as soon as it was discovered that the President disagreed with the Italian Government. ORLANDO, indeed, seems to have had more enduring support in America than at home.

But since the Secolo disapproves of ORLANDO, it readily accepts the theory that the Republicans rallied loyally behind the President, who had been challenged by a foreigner—just as readily as the Republicans took up the view, which may or may not have been more accurate, that all Italy, without regard to party lines, had united behind the Premier who had been challenged by a foreigner. Politics is politics, the same yesterday, today, and forever.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Changes of Habits Distasteful.

Among the difficulties, and not the least serious of them, that are encountered by even the wisest and best intentioned of reformers is the antagonism of those whom they are sincerely desirous to help or protect. This fact is strikingly illustrated in an article on "Health and Hygienic Standards of Industrial Workers," contributed to American Medicine by Dr. CARL SCHEFFEL, who has devoted much study to occupational diseases and the methods of preventing them.

There are, he writes, many thousands of workers sufficiently intelligent and educated to appreciate the need of hygienic working conditions, and to comply cheerfully with regulations designed to promote their health and safety. He declares, however, that there is a still greater number—"a great majority," he calls it—who will utilize only under constant compulsion and supervision the means provided for minimizing or removing the dangers of their trades. The seemingly insuperable objection in their minds to these things is that their use is a bother or a trouble, and they are particularly disinclined to make even small changes in their established habits of work.

That disinclination to change old customs is by no means confined to "labor," but it is perhaps more obvious there than in other social classes and its effects are apt to be more serious. Even though those effects take the forms of disease and untimely death, precautions at all "troublesome" often are viewed by workers with hostility and resisted as the unnecessary impositions of exacting employers. In such cases resort to compulsion is the alternative to the continuance of unhealthful conditions and habits, but compulsion is always unsatisfactory, as its invariable tendency is in some degree to embitter the relations between employer and employé.

Sanitation in Shops Not Enough.

According to Dr. SCHEFFEL, the way of the industrial reformer is apt to be roughest when he attempts to establish in shop or factory conditions of cleanliness more strict than those existing in the homes of the workers. This the latter are sure to resent, partly because they can see neither reason nor utility in it, and partly because they do see in it an implied criticism of their own private and domestic habits. Hence it is, as Dr. SCHEFFEL says, that industrial and municipal cleanliness go together, and the latter is the essential foundation of the former.

In towns where the streets are dirty and the yards are depositories of household wastes, attempts to make the factories models of cleanliness are nearly hopeless, while in towns where the principles of sanitation are known and enforced by the authorities the good example thus set will be followed in the factories as a matter of course. Thus alone can imaginary grievances against the employer be avoided. Mayors, Aldermen, and health officials can perform their duties safely if they know them.

The worker should not get all of his education in sanitary matters from his employer, for the present relations between capital and labor, unfortunately, are not often such as to cause instruction from that source to be received with gratitude or heeded with docility.

This Duty Too Long Neglected.

So great will be Europe's demand for lumber, as soon as peace is really established, that the destruction of American forests is likely soon to be at a rate much faster than before the war, and even that rate, as we have been warned a thousand times, was rapid enough to constitute a real national danger and a great one. Colonel HENRY S. GRAVES, Chief of the United States Forest Survey, has just returned from abroad, and he gives warning that unless instant precautions in the way of regulating and restricting the exportation of American lumber, especially its finer grades and varieties, are taken, not enough will be left here for our own needs and several of our important industries will find their supply of raw material limited or cut off. This means both a further elevation of prices already approaching the prohibitive point and unemployment for large groups of skilled workers.

To regulate and restrict lumber exportation is doubtless an immediate, and probably the only, way to guard our own interests, but it is not pleasant to think of turning deaf ears to the demands of lands whose needs are so much more desperate than our own. To be thus ungraciously and selfishly cautious would not be necessary if the United States had not for many a year been sinning against light as regards the preservation of its forests. The art of cutting down woods and still having them has not been unknown here, but it has been practiced only to an extent shamefully small, and the result is that now we cannot help our neighbors without robbing ourselves of what little lumber we have left. Throughout the greater part of the country there still survives without much modification the colonial idea that the best thing to do with woods is to clear the land on which they stand, and reforesting is still described here as an "experiment," as if there were strong doubt as to its practicability and utility.

Training Explains Conduct.

A Berlin paper, commenting on the sinking of the German warships, says of the men who did it that "they acted in the spirit in which they had been trained." That statement is indeed true, but in a way not intended by the Berlin paper. It doubtless was training that made natural and even inevitable the utter disregard shown by Admiral VON REUTER and his subordinates for the obligations that had been assumed by them when they accepted the terms of the armistice and took their fleet on its last voyage across the German Ocean.

Was it also training that made them prefer a safe to a dangerous way of saving that fleet from becoming the property of their enemies? To say that they preferred the safe way because it was safe would be unjust, for German sailors, like German soldiers, fight to the death when they choose to do so, and they have often chosen. The safe instead of the dangerous way they did prefer in this instance, however, and why they did it is, and probably always will be, incomprehensible outside of Germany.

There, seemingly, it is understood by everybody, and not only that—the choice is applauded!

STATE INCOME TAX LAW.

Wherein It May Be Expected to be Remedied.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I wish to correct an impression that may have been conveyed by your editorial article of Friday, June 20, on "State Income Defects," in which you state that "Mr. Powell argues that income taxes and property taxes should be assessed as taxes always have been assessed, i. e., by local officials, whereas the income tax is administered by the Controller, a State official."

Your article evidently referred to an address that I made at the National Tax Conference in Chicago on June 18, in which I called attention to the legal and constitutional defects of New York's personal income tax law passed by the Legislature of 1919. The impression conveyed by your article was that I approved of an income tax assessed by local assessors, whereas as matter of fact I stated that such a tax could not be effectively administered by such officers, but would require a strongly centralized tax system for proper administration. My personal opinion is that the courts will hesitate before nullifying the new law, and thereby setting aside millions of dollars of income tax assessments because, as far back as 1778, local assessors taxed incomes.

The important point in my address at Chicago was not that the "home rule" principle was invaded by the new law, but that it violated the Federal Constitution in several important particulars. The State of New York has copied in its income tax law a provision taken from the Federal law, under which a resident of the State (like a nonresident alien under the Federal law) does not receive the personal exemption of $1,000 or $2,000. There is a distinction between the authority of a State over the citizens of another State and that of the United States over a nonresident alien. A citizen of one State is entitled to all the privileges and immunities of every other State, and the State of New York cannot by an income tax limit the interstate activities of residents of neighboring States doing business here. Neither can it adopt a different rule of taxation for residents than it does for nonresidents.

In computing the amount of the net income of a nonresident, the new law does not permit the deduction of all losses, although a nonresident may have sustained losses in other States to such an extent as to reduce his entire income so that were he a resident of the State he would not be required to pay any income tax at all.

The most difficult point in the New York law, and the one that has created most opposition, is the situs of the income of a nonresident's salary or earnings from professions or occupations. Professional or occupational earnings largely derived from the talents, intelligence, or ability of those who receive them cannot be given an artificial situs in the State where the salary is paid or controlled. The State, it is true, may under its police powers pass a law imposing an excise tax on various businesses, professions, or occupations, but, if it does, the law must be general and affect all businesses, professions, or occupations of residents as well as nonresidents.

The Controller of the State has already proceeded to make the law "constitutional" by establishing a method of apportionment under Regulations, Article 266, Subdivision 3, (a,) (b,) and (c,) dependent on the time employed and the volume of business done in the State, and applicable to brokers, salesmen, agents, clerks, bookkeepers, laborers, &c. Here, undoubtedly, is the entering wedge which must affect the salaries, commissions, and fees of the nonresident class of the personal service group or wage earners.

I have no doubt that the Legislature will repeal the obnoxious discriminating provision as to nonresidents, and perhaps also the withholding provision. The Government of the State has already assured the authorities of New Jersey that measures will be taken to relieve the situation. If this phase of the personal income tax is not remedied, the question is bound to go to the United States Supreme Court, which must ultimately determine the conflicting rights of jurisdiction among the several States in such cases as these.

SONG OF THE PEOPLES.

We are the People! We, who broke
In ages past the stubborn yoke
Of Aryan kings, that fell upon
The painted walls of Babylon.
On Freedom's sacrificial fire
We offered Nineveh and Tyre.
Proud ancient temples, built to stand
For tyrant gods, have felt our hand,
And crumble now in dust that speaks
The vengeance man for bondage wreaks.
Rome, fallen, witnesses our might
To surge toward liberty and light,
And down the ages we have slain
The hope of every monarch vain
With power. Pharaoh and Caesar fell,
And Alexander. Lo! the knell
Of tyranny for kings to heed
Rang long ago at Runnymede,
And St. Helena stands to show
The way that lustful emperors go.
Oh, blind, vainglorious, little Powers
Who dared to match your strength with ours,
Could you not see in centuries done
The way that all your mates have run?
Did you not know our mighty cause
Is justice, liberty, and laws
Of brotherhood, to make earth whole?
One King is ours, one hope, one goal!
We are the People! None prevail
With us! God's Freedom is our Grail!

HILDA MORRIS.

FROM PROF. HERRON.

He Explains His Statement on President Wilson's Fiume Decision.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In a dispatch published in THE TIMES of May 8, your Rome correspondent states that the implication of certain words of mine concerning the Adriatic question was to the effect that President Wilson, in his decision against Italy, was at best the tool of a group of international financiers. Permit me to say that nothing can be further from the truth than the statement of your correspondent. It must be that he had not read the words in question, and had been very grossly misinformed about them. In the most specific statement I made upon the Italian controversy, published originally in the journals of Rome, I stated that "I would not have anything I said so interpreted as to make me seem to doubt the President's profound and disinterested sincerity in this or any action he has taken. I am certain he has been animated only by what he believes to be for the best interests of Italy. I know he cherishes for the Italian peoples no other than a feeling of affectionate admiration and sympathy.

"But, having said this, I do not wish, on the other hand, this statement to be interpreted as a retraction of what I have said on Italy's behalf. Although I did not know the President's mind about the matter, although I had no thought whatever of presuming to contend with him or criticise his decision, I none the less believe that those upon whom he depended for his information have misinterpreted the Italian problem."

No one in Europe, and no one in America, has upheld the President's integrity of purpose more than myself—no one else has so pledged him to these struggling nationalities. No one would more certainly than myself resent the raising of any question as to the President's personal honor in any decision he may make. And it is entirely needless for me to say that no man on this planet is further removed from the reach of material or financial considerations than Woodrow Wilson.

It does not follow, however, that his judgment of European questions is always infallible—especially as his judgments must depend in a large degree upon the opinions of the incredible "experts" who have swarmed Europe as a positive pest, and who have no actual knowledge of these nationalities, no actual knowledge of human beings, no actual knowledge of modern economic and political processes.

When I state that the whole Dalmatian question, the whole Russian question, the whole Polish question, and all of the other problems that the Peace Congress has so lamentably dealt with, are at bottom financial questions, I am not for the moment discussing the righteousness or unrighteousness of this international finance; I am only stating the fact that the nations are today caught in the conflict between great rival groups of financiers for the possession and exploitation of the raw materials and undeveloped resources of the world.

The peacemakers of Paris, the Governments and Parliaments of the world, and every one of us for that matter, are more or less pawns in the hands of this international finance. But it does not follow that legislators or peacemakers, or unimportant individuals like myself, are consciously working for any special financial group. Nor does it follow that all the financiers are wrong in trying to shape the decisions of the Peace Conference. I am sure I could pick out half a dozen financiers in New York City who would have made a vastly better and more intelligent and durable peace, and would have laid a much surer foundation for social reconstruction, than the Paris Conference has done.

A Protest.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

As an American-born citizen and taxpayer I wish to enter formal protest, through the medium of THE TIMES, against the holding of such radical meetings as was held at Madison Square Garden last Friday evening under the auspices of the Socialist Party, and through the rights of a citizen, demand that immediate action be taken by the proper authorities, and also demand that immediate action be taken by Congress and a bill passed prohibiting any such meetings as these, in the future.

At last Friday's meeting, which was attended by some 6,000 persons, the overthrow of the Government of the United States was openly agitated, and President Wilson bitterly attacked. From all appearances the greater majority of those attending were of foreign birth, and that such meetings should be permitted by the police is against all understanding of any intelligent person. These meetings may go in Russia or Germany, but will not be tolerated here. They must be stopped, by all means.

The writer is also protesting direct to Senators Calder and Wadsworth, as well as the Congressman from his district, and demanding immediate action by the Government authorities. It is, indeed, high time that something was done in regard to the various radicals in this country, and every American citizen will agree with me.

Hardly Fair.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The Republicans should take notice. A new weapon against the Administration has been discovered. The Ghosts have been heard from. Margaret Cameron, in an article in the June Harper's, tells of "Signs and Portents" revealed to her through her unconsciously moving pencil. Superior Intelligences, guiding her pencil, enabled her to write on the evening of Nov. 5, 1918, before the count had been completed, the hour being half past 9, to be exact, that the country had decided not to elect a Democratic Congress. "Mary K.," communicating with her from a higher plane of existence, revealed Republican tendencies. Out of the unseen came this: "We have won. The elections have ended and they have answered Wilson. Wilson stands properly rebuked before the world. The people have spoken." Margaret Cameron thus learned, ahead of all other mortals, the result of the election. It appears that the Immortals are Republicans and are working for that party, that they are against the President, that they approved of a Republican Congress. What chance will the Democrats have when the opposition stump speakers in the next campaign can assure their hearers that the Immortal hosts are on the side of the Republicans?

Statistics on Armenian Population.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Isya Joseph, in his letter in THE TIMES, while criticising Dr. C. F. Gates on a nonessential point, agrees with him in declaring as difficult the establishment of an Armenian State on account of "the numerical minority" of the Armenians. I desire to point out certain facts in regard to the Armenian population.

Your correspondent quotes the Encyclopaedia Britannica to prove that the Armenians form less than 25 per cent. of the total population in the six provinces which will constitute part of the United Armenian State. A French writer, M. Marcel Leart, compiling from authentic documents the number of Armenians and other races inhabiting this territory, showed that of 2,615,000 mixed population, 1,018,000 were Armenians, and 666,000 Turks. The discrepancy between the number of Armenians as given by the Encyclopaedia Britannica and M. Marcel Leart can be explained by the fact that the Turkish Government kept two Armenian censuses, one, true, for collecting poll tax, and the other, false, for presentation to European diplomats with the object of convincing them that the Armenians were in a minority.

RADICALS FOR TYRANNY.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Norman Thomas is reported in the papers this morning as, in the course of a speech favoring the Bolsheviki, attacking Admiral Kolchak as responsible for the "Death Train" which carried several thousand helpless prisoners from the Ural front to Nikolsk under the most awful conditions, being opened en route only to throw out the dead. In common fairness he should make sure of his facts before making wholly erroneous charges. There are enough complexities in the Russian situation to confuse the onlooker without twisting the facts. Admiral Kolchak was not in power when the death train was sent through. It was a case simply of local officials in one town after another refusing to receive the train in their towns, as they had no place to put the people and feared typhus. That train was one of the most terrible things that has happened in history, but it is false and indefensible to blame Kolchak for it.

I have lived in Bolshevist Russia and in Siberia. I speak the language and know the people. I know that the mass of the people who think at all on political subjects wants a Constituent Assembly to decide what sort of a Government Russia is to have. They hate Bolshevism and they hate monarchy. The Bolsheviki will not give them a Constituent Assembly, because a freely elected Constituent Assembly representing the Russian people means the destruction of Bolshevist power. As they cannot satisfy this desire of the people, the Bolsheviki capitalize the hatred of the people for monarchy. In absolute control of all organs of expression and in possession of a wonderful propaganda system they would be fools not to use every possible method to identify Kolchak with monarchy, and every outside assistance to Kolchak as a foreign attempt to fasten on Russia again the terrors of the old régime.

Kolchak, on the other hand, is pledged before the whole world to call a Constituent Assembly. He will do it as soon as he gets the chance. That is what he is fighting for, much to the disgust of the monarchists. No one pretends that Kolchak's Government will be permanent, least of all Kolchak himself. It is true that Kolchak has not great popular support. There is no one now in Russia who has, and no one will have till there is a new mandate from the people through a new Constituent Assembly. We have got to deal with the facts as they are, and it is to the interest of Russia that that power that can and will grant the people freedom to determine their own Government should win. This the Bolsheviki both in theory and in practice will not do.

I am in favor of freedom of speech. I believe in allowing the free publication of papers like the Dial and the Liberator. I believe the repressionists are pursuing a fatal policy. But for men to agitate for the overthrow of a Government whose amazing toleration allows them to preach revolution in public in favor of a Government in which the slightest open expression of disapproval of a course of action which has brought ruin and tears to the whole people over which it rules is met with instant and severe punishment, seems to me the denial of all reason. Has Mr. Thomas never heard of the Committee for the Fight Against Counter-Revolution in Moscow or the Committee of Poverty? Men speaking of the Bolshevist Government in Russia as the Bolshevist supporters speak of the American Government in America would be immediately thrown into Petropavlosk or shot. What an absurdity for men to be passionately fond of free speech in America and fear, hate and destroy it in Russia. Surely Mr. Thomas as an American believes in freedom. Why, then, defend an absolute autocracy as an apostle of liberation? Bolshevist Russia is an absolute autocracy. It denies individual freedom of thought, word, and act.

The defense of Bolshevism in America seems to rest on a vision of what, in its best and finest philosophical form, it should be, and not upon what it is. The same men cannot be oppressors in Russia and liberators in America.

BARBUSSE'S APPEAL

And the American Intellectuals Who Have Signed It.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I was very much amused at the list of American "intellectuals" who signed the noble appeal of M. Barbusse to "scorn hatreds of all kinds and join hands for the tasks of tomorrow."

Quite aside from the notorious pro-Germans and pacifists on the list there is not one first-rate name among them. But how could there be? No one responded more spontaneously and loyally to the demands for layman service after we entered the war than the first-rate authors and poets of America, to say nothing of other artists and of editors. Presumably they are the "intellectuals" if we care to use the absurd overworked term. They spent a good part of their time writing propaganda, and those capable of such service neglected their own work entirely and took slimly paid jobs in Washington. Therefore, no Americans have a clearer idea of the Hun and all his ways than those whom M. Barbusse calls upon to enroll under his white and yellow banner. They may no longer actively hate the Germans, for the Germans are down and out, their teeth drawn. But their scorn and contempt remain unmitigated. So does their understanding. While they are perfectly willing to feed them, both out of prudence and in obedience to the common dictates of humanity, they purpose to have nothing more to do with them, now or ever. Money follows along the line of least resistance, and no doubt German commerce will be benefited accordingly, but personal relations will never be resumed except in such cases as where we have an individual opportunity to make sure that such as hold out the olive branch to us are absolutely sincere in their own scorn and contempt for the old régime and all its abominations. There will be very few.

As for the "intellectuals" of Germany, all men and women in this country who are not only intellectual but intelligent, (and honest,) have perhaps a greater contempt for them than even for the former military caste. The last, criminal as it was, had a certain magnificence, as all mighty scoundrels have; but the "intellectuals" showed themselves craven, atrophied, of a lower rate of intelligence than even our own half-baked pacifists, who at least had the excuse of inferiority in education.

Germany has demonstrated that she not only is as savage as in the days of Genseric and Attila, but that she is the stupidest of all modern nations. It is odd that such an appeal should come out of one of the most intelligent. But then there are different degrees of intellectualism in France as elsewhere.

No doubt the second-raters all over our own country will rush to get their names into print, but I doubt if France will feel particularly proud of the new alliance.

DEVERY'S MOURNERS THE LOWLY AND HIGH

POLICE BAND AND ESCORT

Mass in Church of St. Mary Star of the Sea, with Choral Service by Police Glee Club.

Attended by a large concourse of sorrowing friends and acquaintances, including a large number of the "old gang" who frequented the famous "pump," at Twenty-eighth Street and Eighth Avenue, members of the judiciary, a former United States Ambassador, business men, police officers, in fact, men from every walk of life, funeral services were held yesterday morning at Far Rockaway for William S. Devery, whom the late Mayor Van Wyck declared to be "the best Chief of Police New York ever had."

Many of those who went from the vicinity of the old "pump," under the emblem of which Devery ran for Mayor in 1903, are said to have had difficulty in scraping together the necessary money to pay their fare to Rockaway, but so great was their love for their former chief and so eager were they to pay a last sad tribute of respect to him that any sacrifice would have seemed small.

Following a brief service at the home in Mott Avenue at 9:30 o'clock, the body was taken to the Church of St. Mary Star of the Sea, a mile away, where a solemn requiem mass was celebrated by the rector, the Rev. Herbert Francis Farrell, who had been a close friend of ex-Chief Devery for many years. He was assisted by Father Martin O'Malley as deacon and the Rev. John H. Bemelmans, sub-deacon.

In the Funeral Procession.

Leading the cortège was the Police Band of 100 pieces, which played "Nearer, My God, to Thee," as it left the Devery home. Following the band was a police escort of 550 men, every one a former friend and subordinate of the dead chief. The honorary escort was headed by Police Inspector Thomas J. Kelly of the Seventeenth District, which includes Far Rockaway.

Among those who were in the funeral procession were Supreme Court Justice Victor Dowling, Justice Otto A. Rosalsky, Judge Joseph Mulqueen of General Session; Abram I. Elkus, former Ambassador to Turkey; ex-Fire Commissioner Nicholas Hayes; Deputy Fire Commissioner Charles W. Culkin, Police Chaplain Blum, John Reisenweber, former Tammany Leader ("Billy") Shannon, former Police Commissioner Thomas McAvoy, Joseph Cassidy, former President of the Borough of Queens; former Police Captains John Cooney, Stephen McDermott and Joseph Geoghegan; "Bob" Nelson, John Cray, Richard Butler, "Father" John Daly, former Chief Inspector James E. Dillon, Dr. Philip O'Hanlon and Deputy Commissioners Wallis, Leach, Leahy, Porter, and Harriss.

Police Commissioner Enright, who was the first to send his condolence to the bereaved family, was not present. It was said he was attending his daughter's graduation exercises. In the procession also was Frank Goodwin, now Clerk of the City Court, but formerly Devery's bitter antagonist in the primaries for the leadership of the old Ninth District, in Manhattan.

The choral service at the church was led by the Police Glee Club of eighty members, with Erasmus Neilson acting as organist.

Mrs. Devery Prostrated.

Mrs. Devery, the widow, was so prostrated by grief she was unable to attend the services at the church. She was under the care of two physicians. Their daughters, Mrs. Anna Fink and Mrs. Herbert Oliver, occupied the seats of the chief mourners with several of Mr. Devery's grandchildren and other close relatives.

Interment was in Calvary Cemetery, the procession leaving the church shortly after noon. Police Band and escort accompanied the body as far as the edge of the town. The coffin was placed in a steel case and put into the public receiving vault. Taps were blown by Policeman George Kretschman, who was attached to Mr. Devery's staff when he was Chief of Police.

The honorary pallbearers were William H. ("Big Bill") Edwards, Collector of Internal Revenue; Caleb M. Van Hamm, managing editor of The New York American and President of the Andiron Club, of which Mr. Devery was a member; Eugene D. Woods, owner of the Jamaica race track; Police Lieutenant John T. Howard, Justice Peter F. Smuck, Sheriff Thomas F. Foley, Captain Thomas Diamond, retired; ex-Alderman Edward Glennon, Helmuth Kranich, Matthew J. Corbett, William Henkel, William Shannon, Inspector John D. Herlihy, and Paddy Hore, who has been for forty-five years in the Police Department.

SMALL STATES DELAY TREATY WITH AUSTRIA

French Replace Americans in Reparations Parley—Another Austrian Protest.

PARIS, June 24, (Associated Press.)—The question of reparations is still delaying completion of the Austrian treaty, owing to the difficulty of aligning the small eastern States on any general scheme for a division of the financial obligations and the claims resulting from the breakup of the Hapsburg monarchy, with consequent elimination of its responsibility for reparations.

American experts have conducted negotiations with representatives of the States inheriting parts of the Hapsburg domains, including Poland, Czechoslovakia, Jugoslavia, and Rumania, for several weeks, but the results have been unsatisfactory to the Council of Four, and French experts are now trying their hand.

The problem is decidedly complicated, because, on the one hand, it is planned to charge these States with a share of the Austro-Hungarian financial responsibilities proportionate to the area and resources of the Hapsburg territories acquired by them, under the guise of "contributions to the cost of the war of liberation," while, on the other hand, Rumania and Serbia are entitled to offsets for reparations due them.

Poland and Czechoslovakia are not entitled to reparations under the general principle of the Austrian and German treaties, which limit reparations to the actual belligerents during the war.

Certain changes in the permanent reparations commission are also being made, to adapt it to Austrian conditions. The German treaty provided only for Serbian membership in certain contingencies. But to all these States seats and votes will be given when their interests are involved.

All sums delivered from Austria, Hungarian, and Bulgarian reparations will be pooled with the proceeds of the German reparations for division among the interested States in proportion to proved claims. This is a departure from the plan contemplated in the German instrument, which provided for a division according to prearranged quotas, the original apportionment assigning 55 per cent. to France and 25 per cent. to England, the other States receiving smaller percentages. Belgium will be left with a prior charge on the reparations pool amounting to 2,500,000,000 francs, in addition to repayment of her debt to the Allies by a special German bond issue.

The Council of the Peace Conference today received another note from the Austrian delegation at St. Germain.

The note entered a protest against the proposal in the peace terms for the liquidation of private properties in certain parts of the old Austro-Hungarian Empire.

HOUSE'S TRIBUTE TO WRITERS

Told Them Things, He Says, He Would Not Tell Other Friends.

By CHARLES A. SELDEN.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, June 23.—It may now be revealed that a conference between Colonel House and the American correspondents has been a daily occurrence since the early days of the Peace Conference. It may also be said that they have been the surest and frankest sources of information the American people have had of the developments in Paris for the last six months.

When Colonel House came in this evening he began by saying:

"I am afraid that this is our last meeting. I want to add that this relation I have had with the American correspondents has been one of the happiest things of the whole conference to me. I've told you everything. I've told you things I wouldn't tell my other friends, because you have judgment and a sense of proportion."

There was not much to tell this evening, for with the announcement from Versailles three hours before that the Germans would sign everything seemed finished but the ceremony. So Colonel House called in Paderewski and Ambassador Page, who were waiting in the next room, leaving it in doubt whether he was showing Paderewski to the correspondents or the correspondents to Paderewski.

After Paderewski left Colonel House made a remark which revealed the fact that he was interested in the rebirth of Poland long before he began work for her at the Peace Conference.

"Paderewski and I have been good friends for a long time," he said. "Four years ago we began the study of maps together, to see where Poland ought to be."

SAY GERMANS INTEND TO KEEP UP WAR IN EAST

PARIS, June 24, (Associated Press.)—The Polish High Command has forwarded to Premier Clemenceau a copy of a German official telegram which it intercepted in Silesia. The telegram reads:

POSEN, June 21.—The Government will sign (the Peace Treaty.) Nevertheless, Horsing in Silesia and Wig in Western and Eastern Prussia will proclaim war against the Orient. The Goevrnment officially will oppose, but semi-officially will support, the business in every way.

Horsing and Wig are Prussian High Commissioners in Silesia and East and West Prussia, respectively.

The Polish command points out that in order to prepare them for the results of these manoeuvres the Germans advised them from Versailles that notwithstanding their efforts toward pacification, civil war appeared inevitable to them.

CLEMENCEAU TO RESIGN.

PARIS, June 24.—Premier Clemenceau has expressed his intention to resign from office as soon as the treaty is promulgated, feeling that he has accomplished the task for which he assumed the Premiership, says Marcel Hutin in the Echo de Paris.

It is expected that Parliament will ratify the treaty late in July.

Government Reaps Big Cloth Profit.

WASHINGTON, June 24.—The Navy Department has sold blue flannel cloth at a profit of nearly $400,000 over the average cost price, it was announced today. The total quantity offered for sale was 836,255 yards, and the amount realized was almost 20 per cent. more than the original cost. More than 400 bids were received and 107 bidders attended the sale in person. The department has large quantities of other textiles which will be offered for sale shortly.

Brazil Receives Haitian Diplomat.

RIO JANEIRO, June 23.—Official recognition was given to Luiz Morales, Jr., Haitien Consul General to Brazil, by the Government today. He is the first Haitian diplomat officially received by the Republic of Brazil.

ARMY OF 400,000 VOTED BY SENATE

Committee Amendment Adopted Raising House Provision for 300,000 in Army Bill.

HARE'S SALARY LIMITED

WASHINGTON, June 24.—Without a record vote the Senate tonight adopted committee amendments to the Army Appropriation bill providing for an average army of 400,000 men for the year beginning July 1. The bill as passed by the House provided for an army of 300,000. Secretary Baker had recommended that the total be 500,000.

The Senate by a vote of 27 to 22 adopted an amendment offered by Senator France, Republican, of Maryland, and modified by Senator Reed, Democrat, of Missouri, limiting the salary of C. W. Hare, Director of Sales and in charge of disposal of surplus war materials, to $12,000. Mr. Hare now is being paid at the rate of $25,000 a year.

During the discussion Senators McKellar, Democrat, of Tennessee, and Reed criticised the manner in which war materials were being disposed of by the Government, especially the surplus supply of meats, estimated to be worth $65,000,000. Senator McKellar called attention to a newspaper item which said that all bids for this meat had been rejected because they were too low, and charged that the packers were being especially favored by the War Department in the disposal of this meat. He asserted that Mr. Hare "is the only man in the United States that can be found who says that this meat must not be sold so that the people can get the benefit, but that it must be put on the market so that only the packers can get it."

"Did Mr. Hare make the restriction that it can only be sold in carload lots?" asked Senator Lenroot.

Chairman Wadsworth said he did not know, but asserted that if this meat were sold in smaller quantities or if the Government were compelled to open stores for the purpose of retailing it a much larger appropriation would be required. He said that applications for bids had been sent to 40,000 retail dealers and others by the War Department.

"I cannot see," he added, "that anybody is criminally negligent in this matter. I don't think that the Secretary of War or the Director of Sales can be particularly blamed for the public's refusal to buy these goods."

Senator Reed criticised the sale of $20,000,000 worth of airplanes for $2,000,000 by the War Department, and said he thought some explanation of this matter should be made. While opposing any attempt to break the market, he also favored the sale of surplus automobiles by the War Department to relieve the present shortage in production.

The Senate accepted the committee amendment authorizing the War Department to turn over to the Red Cross medical and hospital supplies not needed by the American expeditionary forces for relief work in Europe.

Without a record vote, the Senate approved a committee amendment authorizing the War Department to proceed with the purchase of camp sites negotiations for which are pending.

The House specifically prohibited these transactions in passing the bill, and stormy debate preceded Senate action. The controversy centred about the purchase of the site of Camp Benning, Columbus, Ga., which was disapproved in a resolution adopted last March by the Military Committee of the late Senate.

Lenroot Again Attacks Baker.

Discussing the purchase of the site of Camp Benning, Senator Lenroot, Republican, of Wisconsin, renewed his charge that Secretary Baker had been guilty of a breach of faith.

"The Secretary of War," the Senator said, "had no more moral right to take these millions of Government money to purchase this land than I would have the right to steal so much money from my neighbor. No one dreamed there would be any such violation of trust as to use money appropriated for war purposes to buy land for a peace program to which Congress never had given approval. Such a violation in peace times by a public official would come very close to leading to his impeachment."

Senator Smith, Democrat, of Georgia, defended Secretary Baker's action, declaring Mr. Lenroot's attack "utterly inexcusable." Senators Owen, Democrat, of Oklahom, and New, Republican, of Indiana, also criticised the Secretary.

Senator Owen, Democrat, of Oklahoma, declared the department's method of caring for war supplies was "infinitely scandalous," while Senator King, Democrat, of Utah, said "somebody in the War Department ought to be punished for this wasteful and willful expenditure of public money" in the purchase of unnecessary lands.

An amendment by Senator Robinson, Democrat, of Arkansas, authorizing the department to purchase 960 acres as the site of an aviation camp in Arkansas was adopted without a record vote.

By a vote of 33 to 20 the Senate restored a provision stricken out in committee to prevent use of stop watches or similar time-measuring devices in work done under contract for the War Department.

Committee amendments retaining during the coming fiscal year the present organization of the War Department were accepted by the Senate.

Upon a point of order raised by Senator McKellar, Democrat, of Tennessee, who contended it was general legislation inserted in an appropriation bill in violation of the rules, the committee amendment recommended by Secretary Baker authorizing the President to appoint a committee to represent this country at a meeting of the International Aircraft Standards Commission in Paris this month was eliminated. The amendment would also have authorized the payment by the United States of a proportionate share of the expense for the maintenance of a permanent office of the commission in Paris.

After remaining in session until late tonight the Senate finally recessed until tomorrow without finally passing the bill.

Efforts to make General Pershing a permanent General for life failed when an amendment proposed by Senator Chamberlain, Democrat, of Oregon, conferring upon him that rank was eliminated on a point of order raised by Senator King, Democrat, of Utah.

TO TRY ENVOYS' ASSAILANTS

PARIS, June 24, (Associated Press.)—The Military Government of Paris has ordered the commencement of legal proceedings against persons whose names at present are not known in connection with the alleged attacks on members of the German peace delegation as Count von Brockdorff-Rantzau and the other Germans were departing from Versailles for Weimar recently.

The Temps says an administrative investigation has established that the affair was greatly exaggerated, that the offensive attitude of the Germans brought the first demonstrations by the crowd, and that it is doubtful if stones were thrown at their carriages. It adds that it is certain no obstacles were placed in the road leading to the railway station.

Several persons present at the time of the departure of the Germans from the station at Noisy-le-Roi gave evidence that neither Dr. Theodor Melchoir nor Mme. Dornbluth showed signs of bruises.

WHITE PLAINS, June 24.—The will of Alonso J. Hart, whose family founded the Village of Hartsdale, was filed with Surrogate Slater at White Plains today. The estate amounts to $250,000 in personal property. The estate is distributed between Mr. Hart's wife, his two sisters and several nephews and nieces. The sum of $8,000 was left to the New York Orthopedic Hospital and $8,000 was bequeathed to the White Plains Hospital to be used for the support of the maternity ward.

T. P. SHONTS BETTER.

Interborough President, Operated On Sunday, Rests Comfortably.

Theodore P. Shonts, President of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company, who has been desperately ill at his home, 930 Park Avenue, and was operated on Sunday for empyemia, which developed from pneumonia, was reported late last night to be improved. He spent a comfortable day, and while he was not considered out of danger, it was said that his condition was much more encouraging.

W. L. Peppermann, private secretary to Mr. Shonts, said that the attending physicians had reported Mr. Shonts's condition as "somewhat improved."

A slight chill three weeks ago later developed bronchial pneumonia, accompanied by pleurisy. When empyemia developed an operation was decided upon, and this was performed on Sunday by Dr. J. Bentley Squier of 49 East Forty-ninth Street, and Dr. John F. Erdmann of 60 West Fifty-second Street.

SHIRTMAKERS MAKE DEMAND

Letter to Manufacturers Calls Working Conditions Unsatisfactory.

The Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America at their headquarters, 31 Union Square, last night, announced that a letter embodying the demands of the workers employed in the shirt-making industry had been sent to the manufacturers. The letter explains that the shirt makers have organized to obtain relief from what they assert are unsatisfactory working conditions. The letter asks that a reply be sent on or before next Monday.

The demands of the workers are for an increase in wages, reduction of the working week, and collective bargaining. At present the shirt workers claim they are the only ones among the clothing workers who do not enjoy a forty-four-hour week.

WM. McADOO OPERATED ON.

Chief City Magistrate William McAdoo was operated on yesterday afternoon as the result of an injury to one of his feet when he was struck by an automobile on one of his customary walks in Staten Island several weeks ago. An X-ray photograph showed the bone in his foot to have been dislocated, and the operation was for the purpose of replacing the bone. Since the accident Magistrate McAdoo had been compelled to walk with a heavy cane. The operation was performed by Dr. William A. Downs and Dr. Fellowes Davis, Jr., both of 424 Park Avenue.

It was said that it would be at least a week before Magistrate McAdoo would be permitted again to leave his home.

"HEINIE" ZIMMERMAN WEDS.

Giants' Third Baseman Marries Miss Bertha K. Noe in the Bronx.

Henry Zimmerman, third baseman of the Giants and popularly known as "Heinie," and Miss Bertha K. Noe were married at 9 o'clock last evening at the parsonage of the St. Matthew's Lutheran Church, 156th Street, near Melrose Avenue, by the Rev. William T. Junge.

During the day Mr. Zimmerman and his fiancée visited the Municipal Building and obtained their marriage license.

Miss Esther Baldock stood up with the bride at the ceremony and the bride's brother, Joseph Noe, acted as best man. Later the couple had a bridal supper at a downtown hotel. They will reside at the Monterey, Ninety-fourth Street and Broadway.

The bride is 24 years old and the daughter of Charles Noe, of 490 East 167th Street, the Bronx. Mr. Zimmerman is 33 years of age.

MRS. M. B. KNOX WED AGAIN.

Announcement of the second marriage of Mrs. Mary Bowler Knox on May 28 to Max Howell Behr has been made. The bride's first marriage to Philander C. Knox, Jr., son of Senator Knox, which was a runaway match, and their divorce several years afterward, created much interest at that time.

Mr. Behr, whose wife died about a year ago, has been residing at the Yale Club, this city. He is a graduate of the Yale-Sheffield School, class of '05.

MISS GEER WEDS SATURDAY.

Her Marriage to Capt. Coler, Royal Air Force, in Grace Church.

Mrs. John W. Kiser, Jr., is to be Miss Geer's only attendant. Major Harry P. MacKeen, C. G. A., of Halifax, is to act as best man. The ushers will include Olin P. Geer, brother of the bride; Charles P. Barton, Benjamin C. Helm, and C. Roberts Coxe.

DINNER TO J. McE. BOWMAN.

His Bachelor Farewell Attended by 250 Guests at the Biltmore.

A farewell bachelor dinner for John McE. Bowman, the hotel proprietor, was held last night at the Hotel Biltmore. Mr. Bowman and Miss Clarice Paterson, daughter of Mrs. Myra D. Paterson of 51 West Eighty-seventh Street, are to be married on Saturday.

About 250 guests were at the dinner, which was held in the music room suite, and prominent hotel men of this city and from all parts of the United States gathered to honor Mr. Bowman. After dinner the guests were entertained by a musical and vaudeville program.

Hine—Graham.

The marriage of Miss Isabel Graham, daughter of Thomas Boyd Graham, and Francis Foster Hine of this city took place yesterday afternoon at the home of the bride, 209 West Ninety-seventh Street, the Rev. Neely Ross officiating. It was a quiet home wedding on account of mourning. Mr. Hine comes from Brewster, N. Y., and is with the Mutual Life Insurance Company.

Miss Swain Weds H. M. La Mont.

Mrs. Mary Horsman Swain of 157 West Fifty-seventh Street, youngest daughter of Edward I. Horsman, and a sister of the late Edward Horsman, was married yesterday afternoon to H. Murray La Mont at the Hotel Plaza at 4 o'clock. Only the immediate families and a few intimate friends were present. Mr. and Mrs. La Mont will reside at 137 East Sixty-sixth Street.

DR. W. C. WOOLSEY COMMITS SUICIDE

Former Army Surgeon Found Dead in Apartment by Woman Who Says She Was His Wife.

POLICE ARE SEEKING HER

Disappears After Calling Physicians and Giving an Incorrect Address.

Dr. William C. Woolsey, who recently returned to the United States as a Major in the army, ended his life yesterday afternoon in an apartment in the Mohawk Apartment Hotel, 379 Washington Avenue, Brooklyn, by shooting himself in the mouth with an automatic army revolver, according to the police. He was 41 years old.

A young woman, who told physicians whom she summoned that she was Dr. Woolsey's wife, said she found him dead when she entered the rooms about 5 o'clock. She had seen him previous to that about 2 o'clock in the afternoon, she said. After telling of this, she left the rooms. The police and medical examiner are anxious to find her for further questioning.

Dr. Sidney Smith of 370 Washington Avenue and Dr. William A. Jewett of 380 Washington Avenue were summoned by the woman who said she was Mrs. Margaret Woolsey. To the police she said her home was at 88 Lafayette Avenue, Brooklyn. At that address it was said that Dr. Woolsey did not live there, although he was known, and that his wife died a year ago while he was in France. No one in the house knew of a second marriage.

The Superintendent at the apartment hotel said Dr. Woolsey moved into an office in the building the first of the month, but did not live there. He did not know whether the physician was married or single.

DENY 'DRY' CRIME DECREASE

Georgia Reports Conditions Worse Than Before Prohibition.

A communication was received yesterday by the Association Opposed to National Prohibitions, 19 West Forty-fourth Street, from one of its members in Marietta, Ga., which shows that, although Georgia has been in the prohibition columns for a considerable length of time, criminal conditions in Atlanta are admitted by Solicitor General John Boykin to be worse than they ever were prior to prohibition.

"The amazing revelation has been made by Solicitor General John Boykin," says the Marietta correspondent, "that 200 criminal cases have accumulated for investigation by the Grand Jury in addition to the vast number already acted upon within the last few months and now awaiting trial. Fifty of these cases have been prepared for the consideration of the Grand Jury, but many of them will have to be passed over until succeeding Grand Juries may take them up for investigation. The Solicitor General has explained publicly that because of the rapidity with which the criminal cases are piling up, the courts can only take up for the present the heavy and most important ones, meaning felonies, such as murder, burglaries, &c., while the minor ones must be left untouched."

Commenting upon the report of its member from the Georgia city, the Association Opposed to National Prohibitions, made this further statement:

"We have similar reports from cities that are dry. We recently quoted the prosecuting attorney of Washington, D. C., and showed that crime conditions in the Capital of the nation since it was voted dry have swamped the courts. Indiana was picked by the prohibitionists as a model prohibition State, and they have sought to show a decrease in crime in Indianapolis, but they have overlooked the great mass of litigation piled up by violations of the prohibition law itself."

DALLAS-BOSTON FLIGHT.

Seven Army Planes Covered 3,276 Miles in 2,091 Minutes.

WASHINGTON, June 24.—Announcement was made by the War Department today that the seven de Haviland airplanes, which have been engaged in the flight from Dallas, Texas, to Boston, Mass., covered the distance of 3,276 miles between the two cities in 2,091 minutes, and maintained an average speed of 92.96 miles an hour for the whole journey. They left Dallas on May 15 under command of Colonel H. B. Claggett, and arrived in Boston yesterday. The schedule made by the seven planes was as follows:

From.	Miles.	Minutes.
Dallas to Oklahoma	208	105
Oklahoma to Camp Funston	300	170
Camp Funston to Topeka	60	45
Topeka to Kansas City	67	45
Kansas City to St. Joseph and return	80	70
Kansas City to Belleville	285	200
Belleville to Indianapolis	210	145
Indianapolis to Chicago	165	100
Chicago to Milwaukee	80	40
Milwaukee to Minneapolis	300	195
Minneapolis to Milwaukee	375	290
Milwaukee to Indianapolis	300	151
Indianapolis to Dayton	110	65
Dayton to Cleveland	200	102
Cleveland to Buffalo	185	132
Buffalo to Albany	260	150
Albany to Boston	130	66
Total	3,276	2,091

While the seven de Havilands were being supplied with fuel before starting on the last leg of the Dallas-Boston flight, Colonel Claggett telephoned to Colonel Archie Miller, commanding the aerial activities on Long Island, to send up some parts and make minor repairs to one of the planes. In sixty-five minutes an airplane arrived at Albany, a distance of 110 miles. Fifteen minutes were required to make the repairs and sixty minutes later the airplane was back at Hazelhurst Field, covering the 220 miles in 125 minutes, not counting the fifteen minutes required for repairs. This unique work was accomplished by Lieutenant R. C. Kilpatrick as pilot, in a de Haviland 4, accompanied by Major J. F. Miller.

92,624 PUT IN JOBS.

70,623 Others Notify Federal Employment Service of Placement.

Dr. George W. Kirchwey, Director of the United States Employment Service for the State of New York, announced yesterday that the placing of soldiers and civilians by the United States Employment Service showed a substantial increase for the week ending June 21 over the figures for the previous week.

With returns from Alabama, Nebraska, New Jersey, and Texas missing, the service in the other forty-four States and the District of Columbia received applications from 104,286 workers, 92,624 of whom were directed to jobs and 70,964 notified the service of placement.

In the same period 24,622 soldiers and sailors asked the help of the Federal Employment Service, 22,132 of whom were immediately referred to places and 16,103 reported back that they had been placed. Placements for the week show an average of 2,000 more than the weekly average placement rate, it was announced.

GERMANS WANT TO EMIGRATE

Many Planning to Come Here—Talk of Treaty Nonfulfillment.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

THE HAGUE, June 23.—The cry that the Germans fear they cannot fulfill the conditions of the peace treaty, even if they are signed has been re-echoed by the populace. There is still a large number of Germans who are violently opposed to the signing of peace and who would prefer partial occupation by the Allies, believing that the delay would create such confusion in allied countries that Germany would get better terms and that the country thus occupied would have to be fed.

An Industrialist, who has just arrived from Berlin, said to THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent:

"The influence of the reactionaries has been getting stronger in the last few weeks, while the independents are also increasing. The latter hope that a downright reactionary Government will merely lead to a second revolution in Germany, when the Independent Socialists' hour may come.

"Many majority Socialists are going over to the Right, fearing that the Socialist programme can never be fulfilled. The Socialists' main idea lately has been the maintenance of the unity of the country, and they class as traitors all those who talk of constituting independent republics.

"Some urge that Germany declare herself bankrupt immediately after signing peace.

"There is a large army of Germans in the East preparing to fight for the Lower Silesian frontier, and all Germans with estates have joined the armed frontier guard. There is also much talk of emigration, especially to America; but the people will fear that the Government will not spare ships for years for this purpose, so that schemes for emigrating to Russia are being formed."

THE TIMES correspondent is constantly asked how soon Germans will be able to go to America.

There is certainly no sign of a repentant spirit up to the present. After the armistice and the formation of the new Government the extensive system of German propaganda was somewhat neglected and its funds became very low. Propaganda in neutral and enemy countries has now been stated again with considerable zeal and vigor under Baron von Schenck, who was formerly an active and well-known agent at Athens.

KUN HEEDS FOCH'S ORDER.

Will Call Magyar Army Out of Czech Territory, It Is Said.

Copyright, 1919, by The Chicago Tribune Co.

VIENNA, June 23, (Delayed.)—It is reported from Budapest that Bela Kun has accepted General Foch's ultimatum, sent through General Pelle, to evacuate Czechoslovak territory and retire behind the demarkation line on June 25.

He agrees to carry out the evacuation within four days.

BUDAPEST, June 24, (Associated Press.)—The National Soviet, which had been in session for some time, has adjourned.

Before adjournment the Soviet issued a call upon the cities to send their populations to the country, saying that otherwise they would starve. The call declared that as the shops in cities were closed and no business was being carried on, there was no reason for the people to remain.

The belief is prevalent here that the call was issued as propaganda, with the purpose of getting the peasants interested in communism.

FIRE NEAR NAVY BASE.

A fire started by the burning of paper pulp at the foot of Twenty-ninth Street, Brooklyn, behind the building of the naval fleet supply base; developed into a spectacular blaze, and caused the sounding of two alarms last night. The flames fed by the paper and pulp ascended more than a hundred feet in the air.

In addition to the Fire Department of that section of Brooklyn, the fireboats Mayor Gaynor and New Yorker poured streams on the paper, pulp, and the surrounding buildings. A number of ships were in the harbor nearby, but they were in no danger. The flames were soon under control.

BOY MASCOT COMES HERE AS STOWAWAY

NURSE WILL ADOPT HIM

Father Was Killed in Battle and Mother Was Victim of a German Airplane Attack.

The youngest, smallest and most interesting stowaway, according to immigration officials, who has been discovered on a steamship with troops on board, arrived here yesterday on the Alphonso XIII. Like the majority of recent stowaways, he is a Belgian by birth and lost his parents in the war.

Harry Valentine is the name of the blue-eyed, brown-haired 8-year-old boy who is held by the immigration authorities until he is adopted by Miss Lillian Foster, a Red Cross nurse, of Rochester, N. Y., a passenger on the ship, who announced her intention of taking the boy to her home. Meanwhile, he has been placed in charge of Henry Moltan, landing agent of the Spanish Line, until the necessary formalities are completed.

The boy, who speaks five languages, including English, fluently, said that his father was a professor of languages in the University of Antwerp. At the outbreak of the war his father entered the Belgian army, he said, and was killed in battle.

"I lived with my mother until a German plane with bombs flew over our home, killing my mother, my two sisters, and a servant," he said. "Then I had to look out for myself."

Became Soldiers' Mascot.

He said that when the 106th Supply Train of the 31st Division came to his neighborhood, he was adopted by the American soldiers as a mascot, and fitted out in a khaki uniform, which he wore when he arrived here. When the members of the unit sailed for the United States he tried to come with them, but was put off the boat in which he had hidden. He tried to steal his passage on to other ships, but each time was discovered and put off. Then he tried to stow away on the Alphonso XIII., but was put ashore. A friendly soldier on an upper deck of the steamship, who saw him on the pier crying, let down a rope and he climbed aboard and hid until the Alphonso was well out of the harbor of Bordeaux.

Although officially a stowaway, soldiers on the steamer said that the boy enjoyed the best of everything on board during the voyage, and rapidly made friends with the passengers. Several officers said they would adopt him, but they gave way to Miss Foster, when she announced her willingness to be a guardian for him.

The troops on board the Alphonso XIII., which numbered about 1,200, were all casuals. Flight Lieutenant Fred Lawson, a New Yorker, who became an "ace" in one day, having brought down five enemy planes, was a passenger.

Brings Attar of Roses.

Bringing with her eight bottles of attar of roses, said to be worth $75,000, Mrs. Maria Krestova, believed to be the first native Bulgarian to come here since the war, arrived yesterday on the Norwegian-American liner Bergensfjord. She was accompanied by her seventeen-year-old daughter, Eugeni, whom she said she would place in a school here to be educated according to American standards.

The attar of roses, which was insured for $37,000 by Mrs. Krestova, was sent to the appraisers for appraisal. Mrs. Krestova said that conditions were so unsettled in continental Europe that she had decided to make her home in New York until affairs became normal.

Otto Morgenstierne, President of the National Protective Association of Norway, an organization interested in prison reform, and Secretary of the Norway Prison Board, was also a passenger of the Bergensfjord. He said he had come here for a two months' study of prison conditions in the United States.

Mr. Morgenstierne said he believed that the abolition of capital punishment was a greater issue than the prohibition of liquor. Asserting that capital punishment was barbarous and inhuman, he asserted that in five years this form of punishing criminals would be legislated out of existence. He said he expected to confer with prison reformers while here.

Passengers on the Bergensfjord said that the abolition of beers and light wines in Norway had proved such a failure that the Government had allowed mild alcoholic beverages to be offered for sale again. This action was taken following an appeal to the Government by leading physicians, who said that the use of drugs was spreading with alarming rapidity.

Seventy-six discharged soldiers who have been on duty in the Canal Zone arrived yesterday on the Caprillo.

QUOTES LEADING MEN IN SUPPORT OF FORD

PRESIDENT'S SPEECH CITED

Attempt Made to Prove Theories Called Anarchistic Were Advanced by Christ and St. Paul.

MT. CLEMENS, Mich., June 24.—Christ, St. Paul, Bishop Williams, President Wilson, Lyman Abbott, Emerson, and Tennyson were quoted among others by Mr. Lucking, attorney for Henry Ford, today in his cross-examination of Professor Reeves of Michigan University in the continuation of the trial of the Ford libel suit against The Chicago Tribune. Professor Reeves had previously testified that Ford's theories, as expressed in published articles, were those of leading anarchists. Mr. Lucking tried to show that Mr. Ford's views were also held by the persons he quoted.

Christ was quoted as saying that the brotherhood of man transcends nationalism; St. Paul as saying, "Neither Jew nor Greek, neither bond nor free."

These words, Professor Reeves said, referred only to religion and not to government. Ford had opposed government itself when he opposed preparedness.

Mr. Lucking read from President Wilson's speech before the International Bar Association in Paris on May 10, quoting him as saying that nationalism as against internationalism in law was in a sense played out.

"That was not the same as Ford's idea," said Professor Reeves. "It only means a common understanding of laws, not that nations should be done away with."

Two more newspaper men were called as witnesses for The Tribune. They were William Colnan, a reporter for The Detroit Journal in 1916, and John Dunnewind, assistant managing editor of The Detroit Free Press, who, in 1916, when The Tribune printed its editorial headed "Ford Is an Anarchist," was a reporter for that paper. Other witnesses were Mrs. Minnie Hartwell and Mrs. Ernest Prall, whose husbands, employes of Ford in 1916, went to Texas when the National Guard was called out.

Dunnewind testified that in the week of June 13, 1916, he telephoned F. L. Klingensmith, general manager of the Ford Motor Company, and asked him if the company would pay employes who went to Texas.

"I don't see why we should pay them; they are working for the Government, aren't they?" the witness quoted Klingensmith as replying.

Colnan testified that he asked Mr. Ford personally if his company would pay the differences between the pay received by his men while they were in the army and what they received in the factory. He said that the manufacturer did not reply.

An investigator for the Detroit Patriotic Fund testified last week that she found Mrs. Prall and her two children suffering from malnutrition, and in dire poverty when she called at the Prall home.

"I went to the Ford offices to ask what they were going to do for the wives of soldiers," she testified. "I went first to the second floor, where there were a lot of men working, and they seemed to know nothing about it. One of them directed me back to the first floor to an old man. I found him and he said he didn't know. I was carrying my baby in my arms at the time and didn't even have car fare."

The witness said she supported herself and her children for a time on gifts from friends and neighbors. Later the Detroit Patriotic Fund helped her and the Associated Charities sent her to a health resort with her children for two weeks.

Mrs. Hartwell's story was less pathetic. For a month she and her child were supported by the Patriotic Fund, and on July 26 the Ford Company began sending her $15 a week. In all the company gave her $120 before her husband returned. He is still employed by the company, she said.

ASK FOR CLEANER MONEY.

At the morning session of the second day of the convention of the Steel and Copper Plate Printers' Union, being held this week at the Broadway Central Hotel, many resolutions were passed by the delegates. In the afternoon session a resolution was unanimously adopted opposing any legislation which would deprive the people of light wines and beer.

Declaring that dirty paper money being circulated in many sections of the country is a danger and a menace to the health of the public, a resolution was adopted asking Congress to provide legislation which will insure a freer and easier circulation of currency. According to the delegates there is no legislation under which the Treasury Department can pay the expense for the transportation of paper money to and from the banks.

William D. Clark of Washington, D. C., who was the organization's delegate to the convention of the American Federation of Labor, read a report of what had been accomplished at the convention. Later a resolution was adopted indorsing all of the actions taken. Another resolution was adopted congratulating Samuel Gompers on his re-election as President of the A. F. of L. and approving all of his activities in respect to labor, both at home and abroad. Joseph Leach of Boston, President of the association, presided at the meetings.

Among the things that will be considered by the organization while in session will be the buying of foreign made goods by union men. A recommendation to be made will be for a forty-four-hour week be granted as a standard in all branches of labor. Most of the delegates to this convention, it is said, enjoy a forty-four-hour week now, and believe it should be made uniform for all trades.

LEGAL TO KEEP LIQUOR AT HOME

House Committee Rejects Proposal to Strike Permission from Enforcement Bill.

"USE" IS NOT FORBIDDEN

BILL OTHERWISE DRASTIC

No Difference to be Made Between Wartime and Constitutional Enforcement.

WASHINGTON, June 24.—A man's right to store liquor in his home for the long dry period after July 1 stood up today against an attack on that provision of the prohibition enforcement bill before the House Judiciary Committee. Near the end of an all-day session the committee voted down an amendment which would make it unlawful for a citizen to have liquor in his possession, struck out a section which would prevent "use" by a citizen of liquor in his private dwelling, and decided that in the matter of general enforcement there would be no difference between war-time and Constitutional prohibition.

Even with this and other changes, the bill, as it will be reported out tomorrow or Thursday, is considered as all-embracing. So drastic are its provisions, members of the committee said, that, while a man may put a keg of beer in his cellar, he may be convicted and fined if, for instance, he wears a watch fob on which there is a picture of the keg as an advertisement.

The committee made a number of minor changes, but the principal fight was over the question of the right of home storage for personal use. Representative Morgan, Republican, of Oklahoma, endeavored to have stricken out the section reading that "it shall not be unlawful to possess liquor in one's private dwelling while the same is occupied and used by him only as his dwelling."

Prohibitionists Moderate.

Ardent prohibitionists on the committee voted against the Morgan proposal for the reason, they said, that nothing was to be gained by enacting a law so drastic as to arouse the hostility of people who rejoiced that the day of the saloon had ended. Prohibition members supported an amendment eliminating the proviso that the liquor must be obtained and placed in storage prior to the date the act would become effective. As amended the section reads: "That such liquor need not be reported, provided the burden of showing that possession is legal is upon the possessor."

Representative Gard, Democrat, of Ohio, led the fight to strike from the bill the word "use," as applied to the right of home consumption. His motion to amend also included the striking out of the words "give away," "receive," and "possess," but the committee insisted that these should stand. It was said there was no particular fight on Mr. Gard's proposal, and as amended the section stands:

"That no person shall on or after the date when the Eighteenth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States goes into effect, nor while the War Prohibition Act shall be in force, manufacture, sell, barter, give away, transport, import, export, deliver, furnish, receive, or possess any intoxicating liquor, except as authorized in this act, and all the provisions of this act shall be literally construed to the end that intoxicating liquor as a beverage may be prohibited. Liquor for non-beverage purposes and wine for sacramental purposes may be purchased, sold, transported, and used as herein provided."

Every person legally permitted to have liquor is required to report to the proper authorities within ten days after the passage of the act, and possession after that date "by any person not legally permitted under this title to possess liquors" shall be regarded as evidence that it is kept for purposes of sale. This, however, does not apply to home stocks.

Definition of Liquor.

The bill's definition of what is intoxicating liquor—any beverage or product containing more than one-half of 1 per cent. of alcohol—was retained. It was said that members of the committee discussed this section at length, some contending that, if one Congress undertook to define intoxicating liquors as one-half of 1 per cent., another Congress could come along and make it 4 per cent or any figure it chose. There was not a danger, members said, that prohibition would get into politics.

Representative Gard, appointed last year with Chairman Volstead and Representative Whaley of South Carolina to draw a bill for enforcement of war-time prohibition, endeavored to have the committee substitute his bill. Chairman Volstead ruled against a motion to this effect, and was sustained. It was said that the war-time measure was more liberal in its provisions, but as the committee had refused to separate war-time and constitutional prohibition, it was unwilling, members explained, to make any distinction in the matter of enforcement.

CYCLOPS CLUE OR A HOAX?

Mother of Seaman on Missing Collier Gets Telegram He Is Safe.

COLUMBIA, S. C., June 24.—Another of the many clues to the lost collier Cyclops, all of which so far have been exploded, turned up here today when the mother of Otis Ramsey, a seaman on the ship, received a telegram from New York saying that he was "safe in this country again" and that the missing vessel was in a German port.

WASHINGTON, June 24.—The navy records show that Otis Ramsey of Columbia was a seaman on the Cyclops, and he is listed as "lost at sea" with the ship. The navy, however, knows of nothing that would clear up the mystery. Officials think the message probably is a hoax, but as they expect to solve the mystery some day they are carefully looking up every clue.

Mooney Warns His Friends Against Bomb Explosions

SAN FRANCISCO, June 24.—In a statement dictated by Thomas J. Mooney, serving a sentence of life imprisonment for murder in connection with a bomb explosion during a "preparedness parade" here June 22, 1916, he warns against committing any bomb explosions on July 4 as "they would not benefit my cause, but hurt it beyond measure."

The statement was dictated to a representative of The Tri-City Labor Review at San Quentin Prison, and will be published in Friday's issue of the paper. Mooney issued the statement because of reports that there might be explosions.

PLAN A CONFERENCE TO FORM NEW PARTY

Committee of Forty-eight Opens Headquarters for "Liberal" Political Organization.

TESTING PUBLIC SENTIMENT

Questionnaires Are Being Sent Throughout Country—May Let Constructive Socialists In.

A national "Conference of Liberals," with the ultimate object of forming a new national party, is being contemplated by the Committee of Forty-eight, which has opened headquarters at 15 East Fortieth Street. It was learned yesterday that the organization was representative of the forty-eight States in the Union, not of forty-eight individuals. J. A. H. Hopkins of Morristown, N. J., formerly Chairman of the New Jersey Progressive State Committee, is Chairman of its Executive Committee.

Preparatory to the conference of liberals, which, it was announced, will be held in some mid-Western city in the Fall, the committee yesterday sent out question blanks asking its members to express their views on the formation of a new political party and on many questions prominently before the public.

The questionnaire indicates that as alternative to an entirely new party the formation of a league to co-operate with one of the existing parties on a liberal platform, or a federation of the newly formed American Labor Party, the Non-Partisan League and the Committee of Forty-eight would be acceptable to those who broached the idea of holding the conference.

The General Committee of the Committee of Forty-eight includes: Robert W. Bruere, Lincoln Colcord, Otto Cullman, Will Durant, William P. Everts, Gilson Gardner, the Rev. John Haynes Holmes, J. A. H. Hopkins, Mary H. Ingham, Horace M. Kallen, Oswald W. Knauth, Robert Morss Lovett, Allen McCurdy, Dudley Field Malone, George Nasmyth, Mary Pattison, Gilbert E. Roe, Dr. Mary K. Simkhovitch, George P. West, Arthur G. Wray, Charles Zueblin, and William F. Cochran.

The following purposes of the committee are set forth in the call:

Organizing a conference of Americans interested in a thoroughgoing program of fundamental reconstruction.

Presenting to such a conference a tentative platform dealing with political, social, industrial, and international reconstruction.

(a) Forming a political party.
(b) Forming a coalition with other political parties.
(c) Creating an organization to translate liberal conviction into political action.
(d) Accepting such other analogous suggestions as are presented by delegates to the conference.

The platform questionnaire covers, among other topics: National military policy, tariff, taxation, Government ownership of railroads and other public utilities, methods of dealing with criminals, lynching, education, the status of women, foreign relations, the Espionage law, free speech and freedom of the press, initiative and referendum, proportionate representation, trusts, immigration, and the cost of living.

"This is a new, and, we believe, a democratic way of organizing a conference," said Allen McCurdy. "When the questionnaires come back, the committee will have the opinions of leaders of their communities in every State in the Union. Instead of a few men getting together in a corner and drawing up a platform that voices the orthodox views of party politicians, we will go to the conference with a tentative program that comes directly from the delegates, who have had the chance to express themselves in this definite manner."

It was said that, while the present membership of the committee does not include any avowed Socialists, the plan and scope of the new organization might be broad enough to permit participation by those of the constructive type in its activities. It was denied that the committee was working to form a third party in co-operation with William R. Hearst, and it was intimated that Mr. Hearst would have no place in its councils.

VILLA FORCES DEFEATED.

EL PASO, Texas, June 24.—Sixty-three Villa rebels were killed and many more were wounded on Saturday in a fight between Federal troops and Villa forces for possession of Villa Ahumada, according to an official military dispatch given out here today.

According to the dispatch, General Quiroga, Federal cavalry commander, attacked the Villa forces in Villa Ahumada Saturday afternoon. A fight which lasted three hours followed, with the Federal cavalry charging the Villa positions inside the town. Finally the rebels were forced to retire, leaving their wounded in the town.

WASHINGTON, June 24.—Replying to complaints forwarded by Senator Chamberlain of Oregon, that American military cemeteries in France were not properly cared for, Secretary Baker wrote the Senator today that the Graves Registration Service was removing bodies from isolated burial grounds to large cemeteries such as that at Suresnes, near Paris.

The Secretary said the cemeteries were being cared for in every way.

FIND HAMBY GUILTY IN TWO-DAY TRIAL

JURY OUT ONLY 47 MINUTES

Bandit Accepts Fate with Scant Show of Emotion—Will Be Sentenced to Chair Tomorrow.

After the speediest murder trial ever held in Kings County, Gordon Fawcett Hamby, who specialized in the looting of banks, was convicted late yesterday in the Criminal Branch of the Supreme Court, before Justice Lewis L. Fawcett, of killing two employes of the East Brooklyn Savings Bank. The jury retired at 3:08 o'clock and returned with the verdict that consigns the prisoner to the electric chair forty-seven minutes later. Sentence will be imposed tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock.

Hamby retained his composure during the proceedings. As the jury filed out of the courtroom to deliberate, he turned to Lawyer Clayton, associated with Lawyer Frank X. McCaffry in his defense, and said, "I'll bet they don't take ten minutes to find a verdict."

When Jeremiah F. Mower, foreman of the jury, announced, "We find the defendant guilty of murder in the first degree," Hamby underwent a sort of muscular relaxation. His hands dropped to his lap, his thin lips tightened and his eyes narrowed to a slant. He recovered quickly, and, smiling, stepped to the rail to give his pedigree to the court clerk.

Eighteen witnesses were called by District Attorney Harry E. Lewis for the prosecution. Only two hours and twenty-five minutes were consumed in this work. By direction of Hamby, who said he wanted the trial over as quickly as possible, Mr. McCaffrey cross-examined none of the witnesses and offered no objections to any of the testimony. His only protest was against placing in evidence the confession made by Hamby in the office of the District Attorney after he was brought from Tacoma, Wash. When it was shown that the confession was a voluntary one, he withdrew his objection.

In his opening address, Mr. Lewis recited the history of the East Brooklyn Savings Bank robbery. He told how Hamby hired a taxicab at the Hotel Navarre stand in Manhattan and was driven by George McCullough, the chauffeur, to Brooklyn by way of the Manhattan Bridge, and then to the bank, at Franklin and Myrtle Avenues. He pictured in detail how Hamby directed the hold-up, and gave orders to his accomplice, the "short man," who is still at large. He described the death of De Witt C. Peal, the paying teller, and Henry W. Coons, his assistant, who were shot by Hamby when they refused to throw up their hands.

Draws Net Around Prisoner.

The first witness for the prosecution was Mrs. De Witt C. Peal, widow of the murdered paying teller. She testified as to the identification of her husband's body. William F. Peal, a brother, gave similar testimony. Hamby avoided looking at Mrs. Peal as she testified. She spoke in a low tone and kept her eyes toward the back of the room, so as not to look at the well-groomed slayer of her husband. Dr. Edward M. Martin told of the autopsy and described the course of the bullets in the bodies of the slain men.

Policeman William E. Mayseek and Frank Back of the Fleming Avenue Precinct told of finding the bodies of Peal and Coons on the floor of the bank. Considerable interest was evidenced when George McCullough of 307 West 111th Street, Manhattan, the chauffeur of the taxicab, was called. He told of the trip from Manhattan and the escape after the robbery. He identified Hamby as the man who hired the car, and told how Hamby came from the bank, revolver in hand, and engaged in a running duel with Detective Doody. He also told of identifying the prisoner in Tacoma.

Albert G. Freeman, Alexander Vitere and Genevieve Brady, employes of the bank, and David Moorehouse, the Treasurer, identified Hamby as the man who did the shooting. Peter Bollinger, proprietor of a hotel at 206 Nassau Avenue, Greenpoint, identified Hamby as one of two men who spent the night of the day of the robbery at his place. Other witnesses told of the events at the bank at the time of the robbery. After this stenographers employed by the District Attorney testified as to the confession dictated by Hamby. Assistant District Attorney Albert Conway then read the confession, and the District Attorney announced that the case for the prosecution was closed.

No Defense Made.

When Mr. McCaffry waived the right to sum up, District Attorney Lewis began his closing address. He spoke half an hour. He asserted that Hamby was the master mind that planned the robbery, and referred to the "short man" as a "petty larceny accomplice."

"This crime was no sudden impulse on the part of this awful, calculating, keen, cold-blooded murderer," said Mr. Lewis. "He is not to be judged as he appears today. The law controls him now, but on Dec. 13, 1918, he was Hamby the "two-gun" "five-figure" bandit, and he was in control at the East Brooklyn Savings Bank. Remember him as the master bandit who did not hesitate to take human life."

Justice Fawcett delivered his charge in eighteen minutes. He told the jurors they must bring in a verdict of either acquittal or of guilty in the first degree. As the jury filed out Hamby shook hands with his counsel and thanked them for their efforts in his behalf. He said he wished it known that he considered he had received a fair trial, and offered his thanks to Justice Fawcett, Warden McCann of the jail, Deputy Sheriff James J. Shortell, and others with whom he had come in contact. He also wished to have a chance to thank the jury if they brought in a verdict of guilty, but this opportunity was denied to him by the Court.

While District Attorney Lewis was flaying him Hamby grinned and jested with his guards. He followed the various witnesses as they gave testimony, and remarked at times to Deputy Sheriff Shortell, "That's true," or, with a reproachful shake of his head, "That's untrue." Most of the time he appeared as if he were not at all connected with the events which were pushing him on his road to the death chamber.

Hamby refused yesterday to grant his usual interview to newspaper men. He felt hurt by some questions asked of him on the day before. After the jury announced the verdict he stepped up to Frank Rooney, the clerk of the court. Mr. Rooney asked him what his true name was and he answered "Jay B. Allan."

"Where do you live?" asked the clerk.

"I have no definite residence. Just say I claim the world as my home."

The prisoner gave his occupation as a sailor, said he was unmarried, that his parents were dead, and that he had gone to high school and to a college. He said he was born in Alberta, Canada; that he had received some religious education when a child, and that he was temperate in his habits. He admitted taking a drink now and then, but said he did not use liquor to excess. He told the clerk he had been convicted of murder in the first degree in Tacoma, but had not been sentenced.

Court Commends Verdict.

Justice Fawcett complimented the jury on its verdict. He said:

"I echo the sentiment of all decent-minded persons in Brooklyn in expressing to you sincere thanks for your verdict in this case. Any other determination would have been a miscarriage of justice. In this murderer you have by your verdict convicted the worst man that has come before me in all my thirteen years on the bench, and in that time I have presided at the convictions of more than 6,000 criminals.

"The careers of Jesse James and other notorious bandits that I can call to mind pale into insignificance in comparison with this defendant. The court avails itself of this opportunity to thank and to compliment Detective William Roddy, who discovered this defendant in Tacoma. I am pleased to felicitate Assistant District Attorney Albert Conway, who represented District Attorney Lewis in the Far West and successfully brought about the extradition of the prisoner who had been convicted of murder in the first degree in Washington. This is the first instance of a convicted murderer being extradited.

"I would be remiss in my duty if I did not compliment the learned District Attorney upon the excellence of his preparation of this case, which made a defense practically impossible."

News of the conviction spread rapidly. Crowds that usually spend their time in front of baseball scoreboards deserted their usual haunts for a place near the Court House. When Hamby was led out, shackled to Deputy Sheriffs Shortell and Dermody, a cry was raised and a concerted rush was made to get a close-up view of the criminal. Hamby and his guards walked rapidly across the square at Borough Hall to Willoughby Street. They were followed by nearly 1,000 persons to Raymond Street Jail. No one made a move hostile to the prisoner. The crowd seemed to be impelled simply by curiosity.

ARMY BUYING PLAN BETTER.

Old System "Cumbersome and Inefficient," Gen. Lord Testifies.

WASHINGTON, June 24.—The old purchasing system of the army was "cumbersome and inefficient" and the war made necessary a reorganization and centralization, Brig. Gen. Lord, Director of Finance, today told the special House Committee investigating War Department expenditures. Bureaus bid against each other for supplies under the old plan, he said, forcing up prices, and there was similar duplication as to disbursements, resulting in confusion and added expense.

The first step toward reorganizing was taken through the Council of National Defense, General Lord said, and later the War Department built up an organization which supervised and executed the entire program of buying and paying for supplies.

"The system has worked out very satisfactorily," General Lord said. "It is, of course, not perfect yet, but it can be considered a great step in advance of the old system. The department knows where it is at now."

ASKS FOR NON-STOP FLIGHT.

Such a flight, the telegram stated, would serve to return the visit paid by American naval aviators to Newfoundland and "demonstrate the practicability of aerial lines between the two great airports of America, Harbor Grace and Atlantic City."

Legislation for 2¼ Per Cent. Beer Passed in Pennsylvania—Governor Defied.

HARRISBURG, Penn., June 24.—The Pennsylvania Senate today passed, 29 to 19, a bill permitting the manufacture and sale of beer containing 2¼ per cent. of alcohol. The bill already had passed the House.

Today's action was taken in spite of a protest from Governor Sproul that the legislation is "decidedly unnecessary." Later he announced he would veto the bill.

Senator Baldwin of the Governor's home county, favoring the bill, read a section of the national prohibition amendment which provides that both the Federal and State Governments shall have power to enforce the amendment.

Senator Eyre, Chester, read a letter from the Governor urging that "it would be entirely futile to pass the bill because it will not accomplish any purpose in opposition to the Federal legislation, which seems certain of enactment."

Senator Vare, the Philadelphia Republican leader, said it is going too far to say that a workingman shall not have beer containing more than 1 per cent. of alcohol, and then give him something that is nothing more than "colored water."

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., June 24.—Following a ruling today by the City Solicitor that the License Commission could legally receive applications for second-class liquor licenses operative from July 1 until next January, the commission was swamped with applications for such licenses, which permit the sale of malt beverages, cider, and light wines containing not more than 15 per cent. of alcohol. The Solicitor's opinion was granted on appeal by the Springfield Liquor Dealers' Association and subject to an official decision relative to the legality of sales of beer and light wines.

GRANTS JURY TRIAL TO ACCUSED WOMAN

SAY POLICE USE TRICKERY

Judge Otto Rosalsky, in General Sessions yesterday, granted a trial by jury to Miss Irene Bonser of 1,239 Third Avenue, daughter of John F. Bonser, a retired policeman. Twice she had been arrested by detectives of the so-called Vice Squad and once convicted as a disorderly woman. In reversing the conviction Judge Rosalsky took occasion to point out that the law must in all cases protect the innocent as well as prosecute the guilty. He also set up as a principle, in cases where a woman is charged with having spoken to a man, that the man should be made to appear in court as a witness and give testimony against her.

In the case of Miss Bonser it was asserted that policemen uniformed as army officers are sent out to trap women, although they do not figure actively in the proceedings that follow and they disappear when the arrest has been made. The police have denied that men have been sent out in the uniform of the Federal service.

When Miss Bonser was arrested for the second time she said that she had been approached by a man in the uniform of an army officer. To evade him she had attempted to get into a taxicab, but the man had, she said, followed her into the cab. When she was arrested she asked that this man also be arrested, but this was not done, and he disappeared. Later, she said, she was sure that she had seen the same man coming out of the police station.

Miss Bonser was first arrested on Dec. 31 by Detective Joseph Maloney, a partner of Detective J. J. Gunson, who arrested Lillian Cohen and Sallie Koben several weeks ago, who were afterward found upon a retrial to be innocent and unjustly punished upon the unsupported word of a detective. Brought before Magistrate Marsh, Miss Bonser was found guilty. At that time appeal was taken to Judge Rosalsky, who upheld the conviction. He had only the record of the police court trial before him at the time.

Both Maloney and Gunson figured in the second arrest, which, like the first, took place in Times Square. In this case Miss Bonser was arraigned before Magistrate Blau and discharged. Her lawyers then asked Judge Rosalsky to reopen the case and on the strength of what had been brought out he consented.

At the hearing yesterday Dr. Dennis McAuliffe of 50 Central Park West and Dr. James Horgan of 160 East Sixty-ninth Street, testified that the young woman was of good character. Miss Bonser testified that she had left friends and was on her way home on both occasions when she was arrested. She went into the circumstances of both arrests and told how the detectives had told her that they had her "right" and that she would get a jail term. It was also brought out by investigation by the District Attorney's office that Miss Bonser is a Roman Catholic, regular in her church duties, and regarded by her parish priest and many other trustworthy persons as a woman of excellent character.

"This case most forcibly illustrates how difficult it is for the reviewing court to ascertain whether justice has been done, because we are compelled to rely upon a written record," said Judge Rosalsky.

"In view of the testimony of the two physicians, together with the fact that the District Attorney has stated that the defendant has been known for many years to her parish priest, who testified in her favor, I am of the opinion that in the interest of justice this case should be tried before a jury. The motion for reargument is granted, the judgment of conviction is reversed and a new trial ordered in this court.

"I feel that I should say in justice to Magistrate Marsh, in view of the evidence presented before him, his decision was justified. I feel sure that if the facts that have now come to my attention had been known to him he would have acted exactly as I have done.

"Law should protect innocence as well as prosecute guilt. Our aim should be to safeguard every woman who is charged with crime. Magistrates would do well to demand of the police a greater degree of evidence than they have in the past."

MEN REJECT OFFER IN PRODUCE STRIKE

Drivers and Porters Vote Down Compromise Proposed by Employers.

NO SHIPMENTS DELIVERED

1,500 Carloads of Fruit and Vegetables Are Spoiling and Scarcity Is Feared.

After what was declared by Colonel Michael J. Reagan of the State Board of Mediation and Arbitration to be a fair compromise had been offered by the employers in the fruit and vegetable trade, the striking teamsters, porters, and chauffeurs of Local 202, International Brotherhood of Teamsters, voted last night not to return to work until all their demands had been granted. The counterproposal of the employers expired at midnight, so negotiations are at an end, though they may be resumed this morning through the Mediation Board.

The strikers' decision was taken at a meeting in their headquarters, 205 Chambers Street. The strike enters its third day this morning, with about 1,500 carloads of fruits and vegetables, much of which is already ruined, at railroad and steamship terminals, under sheds, and in the centre of the street on West Street from Beach to Desbrosses Street. There is also a large accumulation under sheds in front of the commission houses. Arrivals today are not expected to be so heavy as an embargo has been placed on shipments of fruit and vegetables to the city.

The value of such shipments is said to average about $300,000 a day. The strike is expected to result in a great shortage of fruits and vegetables, with resultant higher prices, and prices of other food commodities also may be affected to some extent.

Fear was expressed in the wholesale district that the strike would extend to dealers in butter and eggs. Government supplies were to be delivered in Government trucks under armed guard, as the strikers would not let the merchants deliver them. Pickets would not even permit a pedestrain take away a bag of fruit purchased on the sidewalk in the wholesale district.

The teamsters demand $28 a week for single trucks, $32 a week for a double truck, and $1 an hour for overtime after nine hours. Porters ask $30 a week, with 75 cents an hour overtime after ten hours. Chauffeurs ask $30 a week for trucks under two tons, and $36 for heavier trucks. Pending arbitration the employers offered to pay drivers $28 to $30 a week for an eleven-hour day; chauffeurs $36, and porters $30 for a ten-hour day.

A series of conferences between employers, union representatives, and a committee of the State Board of Mediation began yesterday morning and ended with the rejection of the employers' proposal. At the meetings, which were held at the Boosters' Club, an organization of produce dealers, at 176 Franklin Street, the International Brotherhood of Teamsters was represented by Joseph B. Popp, Secretary; James Dwyer, the President; Harry Shannon, John Popp, and Michael Costello, business agents. Michael Murphy and Michael J. Dearn represented the Market Truck Owners Association, while L. J. Lippman, A. W. Frost, George W. Nix, J. E. Reid, and A. A. Lempkau represented the commission merchants.

At 4 o'clock the union officials took the proposal of the produce men to the union for action. They returned an hour later, saying the union had decided to stand firm. Another conference of nearly two hours followed, without results. Transportation lines made no deliveries at receiving docks during the day, and the bulk of the heavy receipts are being carried on piers or in stores. Strikers prevented fresh goods being unloaded by express wagons, and no buyers were allowed to sort goods from stores or piers in their own wagons. Several market places did not open for business at all. Pickets were stationed at the water front, and the dealers did not attempt to remove their goods.

Conditions in New Jersey cities were reported to be the same as in New York. It was said that Boston and Philadelphia markets also had been affected by a strike.

According to several large produce dealers on Washington Street, buyers of vegetables and fruits in the Gansevoort, Harlem, and Wallabout Markets had joined the ranks of the striking teamsters, chauffeurs, and porters. It was said their grievance was directed against the Railroad Administration, which authorized a double cartage charge from railway terminals.

MORE PAY FOR STRIKERS.

Increase Offered by American Brass Company May End Trouble.

WATERBURY, Conn., June 2.—There was little change in the strike situation today. The American Brass Company has announced an increase in wages of 10 cents an hour for workers not on salary, with time and one-half for all overtime, the new arrangement dating from June 22. It is believed that when this news becomes known hundreds of the employes will return to work and the strike may be broken.

The manufacturers of the city, at a meeting this morning, came to the conclusion that the high cost of living was the primary cause of all the trouble, and decided to appoint a committee to act with a similar committee from the Chamber of Commerce to investigate the prices of food, clothing, &c., and determine what are the best methods for meeting the situation.

ANSONIA, Conn., June 24.—Two hundred more employes of the American Brass Company reported for work today. The day has been one of the quietest of the strike.

The company posted a notice to "our present employes" in the mills announcing an advance of 10 cents an hour, a proportionate raise to piece workers, and rate and one-half for all time over eight hours.

Workers of the Ansonia O. and C. Company are all satisfied with the increase of 20 per cent. for day workers and 12 per cent. for piece workers accepted by the workers last night.

TORRINGTON, Conn., June 24.—Notices were posted today at the Coe Brass branch of the American Brass Company announcing an increase of 10 cents an hour in the pay of all employes working on an hourly basis and a proportionate increase for piece workers. Time and a half will be paid for all time over eight hours a day.

Pershing in England, to be Honored by Oxford

LONDON, June 24.—General Pershing, the American Commander in Chief in France, arrived in London today. He was met at Dover by Major Gen. John Biddle, the American Commander in England, and came to London by automobile. The General will remain in London tonight and tomorrow morning will go to Oxford to receive the degree of doctor of civil laws from Oxford University.

OMAHA STILL FACES A GENERAL STRIKE

25 Unions Already Have Voted to Call Out All Organized Labor in the City.

I. W. W. LEADERS TAKE HAND

Form Committee to Aid Strikers—City Officials Give Up Hope of Averting Trouble.

Special to The New York Times.

OMAHA, Neb., June 24.—The strike situation in Omaha becomes more serious hourly, and with twenty-five of the various unions already voting for a general strike business men have small hope of averting a conflict. Within the next twenty-four hours forty more unions will take a strike vote, and when the Central Labor Union meets tomorrow evening it will have authority to call out all the union labor in this city. Every union which has voted so far has authorized the central body to call the strike if it thinks best, and the Executive Committee of the Central Union already has declared itself in favor of the strike.

Among those unions which have already voted to strike are the postal clerks, locomotive firemen, stationary firemen, building trades, clerks, and stenographers. A strike of stationary firemen would tie up every industry in the city. The Street Railway Union and the packing house workmen will vote tomorrow.

The I. W. W.'s entered the situation today when a central executive committee was formed to direct the work of the organization during the strike. The committee immediately announced favored any strike to improve the conditions of the workers. Past International President of Rotary, E. Levi Pidgen, of Winnipeg, conferred with the City Council here today. He told the Commission that conditions here re similar to those which existed in Winnipeg just previous to the strike in that city, and that the different steps made in the Omaha situation paralleled the steps taken in Winnipeg, which led to the big strike in that city.

City officials have ceased all efforts to avert the strike and are permitting matters to take their course.

Thomas Menzies, chairman of the general strike committee of the Central Union, said today that the unions were trying to have business men bring pressure to bear on the firms whose men are on strike to force a settlement of the strike along union lines.

BAY STATE CAR STRIKE OFF.

BOSTON, June 24.—The strike of about 3,500 carmen of the Eastern Massachusetts Railway Company was officially declared ended tonight, and the cars will resume their regular schedule tomorrow morning. This action was taken at a meeting here of the Conference Board of the ten local unions that had been on strike.

Mayor Peters was asked today to intervene in the strike of employes of the Western Electric Company in this city. The request came from a committee representing the New England Joint Council of Telephone Workers' Unions, which told the Mayor that forty-nine local unions had authorized a sympathetic strike, which would be called unless the demands of the Western Electric workers were granted soon, and would embrace the operators and mechanical employes of the New England Telephone and Telegraph Company, the Providence Telephone Company, which controls Rhode Island, and possibly the Southern New England Company in Connecticut.

The Mayor said he would request the Western Electric Company officials in New York to prevent a tieup of telephone service.

The Western Electric strike was declared about five weeks ago to enforce demands of the union for reinstatement of union officers who had been discharged, and for the principle of collective bargaining.

WINNIPEG STRIKERS RETURN.

15,000 Have Gone Back to Work—Vancouver Trouble Near End.

Special to The New York Times.

WINNIPEG, June 24.—Except for gatherings of strikers in the suburbs, everything is quiet and many strikers have returned to work. It is estimated that less than 20,000 of the 35,000 men who walked out on May 15 remain idle, though the unions have not voted to return. Suppression of the labor news and the arrest of the Rev. J. S. Woodsworth of Vancouver, who came here at the beginning of the strike to encourage the movement, are considered significant features of the campaign to reach high and low advocates of righting labor wrongs by lawless appeals and soviet actions. The Western Star was issued today by the strikers.

Meantime, there are numerous warrants for men among the strikers who have advocated lawlessness as a means of obtaining concessions. No military appeared on the streets today, but the tops of tall buildings are still guarded by sharpshooters, and the soldiers are held at arms in the barracks.

The railway situation is improving rapidly, and in many other industries reports of a most optimistic character are forthcoming.

Brewery Workers on Strike.

VOTE TO RETURN WIRES AUGUST 1

Senate and House Conferees Agree On the Terms of the Bill.

REACH RATE COMPROMISE

EXPECT TO PASS BILL SOON

WASHINGTON, June 24.—Agreement was reached late today by Senate and House conferees on legislation to repeal Government control of telegraph, telephone, and other wire systems.

The conferees adopted the House plan of ending Government control at midnight on the last day of the calendar month in which the law is approved. Toll and local exchange telephone rates are to be continued four months unless sooner changed by State commissions—a compromise between the 90 days' rate extension clause of the Senate bill and the six months' continuance proposed by the House.

The practical effect of the legislation, the conferees stated, would be that all of the wires would be returned to private control and operation at midnight July 31, as it is expected confidently that the law will be signed by the President early in July.

The Senate conferees yielded on the Senate plan of returning the wire lines "forthwith." They stated that enactment of the legislation this month was practically impossible, and the House plan was accepted to avoid confusion in accounting should the wires be turned back in the middle of a month.

Action on the conference report will be had first in the House, and prompt ratification of the conference agreement is expected in both bodies of Congress, the time for ending Government control and the telephone rate extension being the only subjects in dispute.

Fear Increase of Rates.

CHICAGO, June 24.—Resolutions calling upon the Government not to hamper the telephone systems of the country with burdensome restrictions when they are returned to private ownership were adopted today at the opening session of the United States Independent Telephone Association.

The resolutions assert that many of the railroad systems, when turned back to their owners, will be insolvent unless the public pays a heavy increase in rates and fares. It is charged that representatives of labor unions are trying to induce the wire administration so to change policies during the closing days of Federal control that heavier charges will be placed upon the public for phone service than the traffic will bear.

The charge is also made that the labor leaders are in touch with conditions only in the large industrial centres and that they ignore the rest of the United States.

The resolutions "commend the President and the Postmaster General for their wise policy in administering the wire systems of the United States, and especially in their endeavor to avoid large increases in rates and charges to the public and at the same time being fair, just and considerate to the wage-earners and the owners of the property."

The delegates attending the convention are the directing heads of the independent association, which operates in forty-two States and controls 4,500,000 telephone stations, said to be three-fourths of all the wire-talking apparatus in the United States.

WILL CONFER ON STRIKE.

Telegraphers' Head Is Coming East to Meet Labor Leaders.

CHICAGO, June 24.—S. J. Konenkamp, International President of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America, will leave for Washington tonight in connection with the strike situation, which will be placed before Postmaster General Burleson by a committee appointed last night by the American Federation of Labor. The committee includes John Walker of the Mine Workers and W. E. Bryan of the Leather Workers.

Konenkamp is going to Washington at the suggestion of Frank Morrison, Secretary of the American Federation of Labor. He has asked E. J. Manion, President of the Order of Railway Telegraphers, and J. P. Noon of the Electrical Workers to attend the conferences. The railroad telegraphers are refusing to handle commercial business as a means of aiding the striking commercial telegraphers.

SAILORS WIN 8-HOUR DAY.

Bill Adopted by French Deputies Includes Public and Private Vessels.

PARIS, June 24.—A bill limiting work aboard all public and private vessels to eight hours a day or forty-eight hours a week was adopted today by the Chamber of Deputies.

During the debate several Deputies expressed the wish that negotiations be opened with other powers to enact similar legislation for their seamen, on the ground that France would be handicapped if she were the only one to have eight hours. The Government promised to begin negotiations.

NEW PARIS STRIKE THREAT.

PARIS, June 23.—The National Metal Workers' Union, after a meeting extending over two days, issued a communication this evening saying that it had given authority to the Federation of Metal Workers to convoke a meeting of interfederal unions with a view to taking "general united action."

This is believed to imply that a simultaneous general strike of all trades may be proposed.

BUREAU INTERPRETS AMUSEMENT TAXES

Gives Construction of Revenue Law as Analyzed by Its Experts.

PRESS CRITICS EXEMPTED

Boy Returning Ball Batted Over Fence and Admitted Free to Game Need Pay No Tax.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 24.—The Internal Revenue Bureau today made public its analysis of the section of the revenue law which imposes war taxes on admissions to places of amusement. There are a number of the rulings which do not appear in the text of the bill, but which represent the bureau's construction of the law after it had been analyzed by experts. The taxes are now in effect and the Revenue Bureau will enforce them under these regulations. Commissioner Roper issued this explanation of the new regulations today:

"The tax is 1 cent for each 10 cents or fraction thereof of the amount paid. Persons admitted free, except soldiers and sailors in uniform, bonafide employes, municipal officers on municipal business, and children under 12 years of age are subject to the tax.

"It is decided in the regulations that newspaper critics who review a theatrical performance or moving picture are not subject to the tax. They are included in the list of 'bona fide employes.' The regulations say: 'In the case of a theatre the following, among others, are bona fide employes. In Class 1 the advance agent of an attraction then showing or soon to show, the house physician, the regularly employed attorney for the theatre; in Class 2, actors and actresses then playing at the theatre, members of the orchestra and organist, moving-picture machine operators, the ushers; in Class 3, a physician called in to attend a spectator taken suddenly ill, a theatrical critics of a newspaper attending to view and review the play, young women selling souvenir programs at a benefit, a Four-Minute Man attending to speak.'

"The boy who returns a ball batted over a fence, admitted free to a baseball park, need pay no tax. He is classed a bona fide employe. Others in this class are the officers and Directors of the club corporation, members of the home team and substitutes, ticket sellers, newspaper reporters and telegraphers who 'cover' the game, boys selling peanuts and 'pop,' boys selling newspapers, the manager, players and substitutes of the visiting team and members of the band employed by the club for the opening game.

"In the case of a track meet, the starter, judges, and others officers are 'bona fide' employes within the meaning of the act.

"The tax is on the 'amount paid for admissions to any place.'

"'Place,' the regulations state, is a word of very broad meaning and is not defined or otherwise limited by the Revenue act of 1918, but the basic idea it conveys is that of a definite location.

Defines "Place of Amusement."

"The following are defined as 'places' within the meaning of the act: An outdoor amusement park and such attractions therein as a scenic railway, merry-go-round, a roller coaster, a Ferris wheel, a toboggan slide, a bump-the-bumps, a whip, a dip-the-dip, a speed-o-plane, a hilarity hall, and a dance hall, (under the Revenue act of 1917 outdoor amusement parks, and also such attractions therein as did not charge over 10 cents admission, were expressly exempted from the tax on admissions, but there is no such exemption under the Revenue act of 1918,) an observation tower on top of a high building, a grandstand built on private property for the purpose of reviewing a parade, or a baseball game in an adjoining park, a cave, a space inclosed by a bathing establishment in which are seats from which to watch the bathing along the beach, a floating theatre operating along a river, anchored or moored for each performance.

"The admission tax applies also to places which charge for the use of seats, tables 'and other similar accommodations.' As an example, the regulations state that where $10 is paid to a hotel to reserve a table for celebrating New Year's Eve, the amount is 'paid for admission' within the meaning of the act. Where seventy-five cents is paid for general admission to a circus and fifty cents for a reserved seat the tax is on the total. In the case of cabarets, where the price of admission is included in whole or in part in the price of refreshment or service, the tax is one and one-half cents for each ten cents or fraction thereof of 20 per cent. of the bill.

"A similar tax is imposed where the admission fee to the cabaret is considered inadequate with the entertainment offered. Following is the example offered in the regulations:

"'A certain man goes to a cabaret where there is a general admission charge of twenty-five cents. The entertainment provided is very elaborate, and this is reflected in the price of the food. His bill for food comes to $12.87. In this case there is an admission tax of three cents in the twenty-five cents paid for admission. But as this amount is clearly inadequate, there is also a tax of twenty-eight cents (twenty-five times 1⅛ cents) based on the amount paid for the food.'

"The amount paid for a seat in a window to view a parade is subject to the tax. This, the regulations state, would clearly be a rental were it not that the act expressly provides that the 'use of seats and tables, reserved or otherwise, and other similar accommodations' is included in the meaning of admissions. 'If the whole room were rented,' the regulations add, 'it is clear that the amount paid for it would not be 'paid for admission.'

50% on Excess Over Regular Price.

"The act imposes a tax of 50 per cent. on the price of admissions to places of amusement in excess of the 'regular or established price.' In the case of a theatre the price decided upon by the management before any of the seats are put on sale is the established price. If, however, the management stages a performance which is to run three weeks, sells seats in advance, and, after the second week, decides to increase the price of orchestra chairs for the remaining week from $2 to $2.25 there is a tax of 12½ cents due from the theatre for each ticket sold for $2.25. This tax must be paid by the person selling the ticket and is distinct from and in addition to the tax on the established price of admission—in this instance 20 cents—which must be paid by the purchaser of the ticket.

"The act imposes on tickets sold at excess prices by brokers or at news stands, hotels, and places other than the ticket office, (except those under the management of the place of amusement,) a tax of 5 per cent. of the excess, if such excess does not exceed 50 cents. If the excess charge is more than 50 cents, the tax is 50 per cent. on the whole of such excess. This tax must be paid by the person selling such tickets, and is in addition to the tax on the established price.

"Monthly returns and payment of admission taxes are required. Returns and payments must be in the hands of collectors of internal revenue on or before the last day of the month following that for which the return is made. Heavy penalties for failure or willful refusal to make return and pay the tax on time are provided by the act.

"The regulations require that the established price of the ticket, the amount of tax to be paid and the total shall appear on the ticket. Whenever such ticket is sold at a price other than its established price, then, in addition, on the back of such ticket, the actual sale price, the admission paid, and the total of such price and tax shall appear. Whenever an admission ticket is sold at a place other than the ticket office of the theatre there shall appear in addition the name and address of the seller. Failure to comply with this provision is punishable by a fine of not more than $100.

GET BIDS ON NEW SING SING.

Total of Lowest Offers for Work Is $1,178,233.76.

At the office of the State Superintendent of Prisons in the Hall of Records bids were opened yesterday on the work of construction and outfitting for the new Sing Sing Prison to be built at Ossining near where the present institution now stands. Bids covered the completion of five of the buildings—the mess hall and Kitchen 4, Detention Building 5, Outside Cell Building 7, Clinic 8, and pump house and reservoir. The total amount of the lowest bids on the various items of the work was $1,178,233.76.

The P. J. Carlin Construction Company turned in the lowest bid on construction, asking $956,780 for the job. Other bids for this item were: Peter Keeler & Co. of Albany, $1,083,777; A. E. S. Stevens Company of New York, $1,157,000; Warren Moore & Co. of New York, $1,247,597, and the Kerwin Estabrook Construction Company of New York, $1,337,487.

OBJECT TO LA FOLLETTE.

ASBURY PARK, N. J., June 24.—The announcement that United States Senator La Follette will speak at the Ocean Grove Auditorium on the night of July 3 at the concert given by Anna Case, the grand opera star, has aroused protest here. War veterans and citizens have openly asserted that La Follette must not speak.

The Ocean Grove Camp Meeting Association says that it had nothing to do with Mr. La Follette's engagement, the arrangement having been made in advance by a lecture bureau in New York. Officials of the association also say that they will do nothing to prevent the appearance of La Follette.

Senator La Follette, according to the announcement, will speak on the subject "World's Greatest Tragedy." Returned overseas soldiers have expressed their indignation at the attitude taken by Senator La Follette before the United States entered into the war.

'Fit to Fight' Found Not Indecent.

Magistrate William Blau decided yesterday that Isaac Slutsker, a film distributor of the Hotel Cumberland, and Alfred Harsten, an exhibitor of 237 West 111th Street, were not guilty of exhibiting an indecent picture when they exhibited the film "Fit to Fight." Magistrate Blau in his decision states that it is his opinion that the picture does not violate the penal law with respect to being indecent, and with the several Judges of the United States courts believes that the picture is valuable for educational purposes.

MANAGERS IGNORE ACTORS' ASSOCIATION

New Contract Binds Members Not to Recognize Union of Players.

TO DEAL WITH INDIVIDUALS

Action Widens Breach and Is Expected to Result in Real Stage War.

The breach between the theatrical managers and the Actors' Equity Association was widened yesterday by a formal breaking off of relations by the managers. With the coming of the new form of theatrical contracts it was discovered that these forms make no mention, as did the old standard contracts, of the Actors' Equity Association. Furthermore, every member of the Producing Managers' Protective Association, it was learned, has been placed under bonds of $10,000 to observe the by-laws of the organization, and since the new contract has been written into the by-laws the managers are bound to use only the new form.

In addition to ignoring the Actors' Equity Association, the new contract printed by the managers differs from the old contract in one important respect. This is the subject of arbitration, on which the two bodies have split. The actors demanded arbitration between the associations of the actors' claim for payment for holiday matinées and that the result of this arbitration should be embodied in the new contracts. The managers made a counter offer of individual arbitration which provided that misunderstandings between managers and actors should be arbitrated individually by representatives of the manager and the actor. It is this clause to which the Actors' Equity Association objects.

Recently the actors' association suggested to the managers that their claim for holiday payment should be arbitrated by William H. Taft and Charles E. Hughes. This offer also has been declined by the managers. Sam H. Harris, President of the managers' association, said yesterday that the managers would be glad to meet Mr. Taft and Mr. Hughes at any time, but there was nothing to arbitrate. The managers had simply decided, he said, to issue their own form of contract, containing their own arbitration clause, and to deal with the actor individually instead of with his association.

This action, it is expected, will precipitate a real war, even though the long-heralded actors' strike is not declared. The clash will arise from the fact that 1,200 of the 4,000 members of the Actors' Equity Association are, like the managers, virtually under bond to use only their own form of contract.

Some months ago this number of players signed a pledge, agreeing to forfeit $1,000 if they violated this agreement, and further to submit to injunction proceedings. Thus the player if they sign the contract which the managers offer will be enjoined and prevented from appearing on the stage. If the Actors' Association should choose to obtain the injunction on the eve of the New York openings of plays, it is obvious that considerable trouble could be made for the producers.

Frank Gillmore, Executive Secretary of the Actors' Equity Association, denounced vigorously the managers' plan for individual arbitration.

"This means," he declared, "that the actor is robbed of the moral backing of his association, and must face the manager alone. The manager is his employer, and the actor probably will have a diffidence about demanding arbitration. Furthermore, any actor who tries to avail himself of the arbitration privilege will soon find himself in the bad graces of the manager. In consequence the clause simply will be ignored, and the actor will find himself in a worse position than before."

The arbitration clause in the new contract takes the place of another arbitration clause in the old contract. In the former contract the Actors' Equity Association was empowered to name the arbiter for the actor, and to take an active part in the negotiations. In the new contract the association is not mentioned and arrangements for arbitration are placed entirely in the hands of the individual manager and the individual actor.

FAITH "HEALER" CONVICTED.

Jury Returns Verdict After Deliberating Three Minutes.

As the outcome of his "healing" operations among poor and credulous Italians, who are said to have been fleeced out of $10,000, Joseph Barbera, 50 years old, a real estate dealer of 150 Nassau Street, who lives at 325 Suydam Street, Brooklyn, was found guilty of grand larceny yesterday in Bronx County Court. The jury deliberated three minutes. He will be sentenced tomorrow.

Barbera formerly was a Captain in the Italian Army. Frank Morasco of 137 West 100th Street testified that he was a victim of palsy, and had turned over to Barbera for his ministrations $350, of which $34 was paid in the presence of detectives who made the arrest. Mrs. Rose Orlando of 363 East Fifteenth Street, an alleged accomplice, turned State's evidence. The "healing" operations took place in her home.

According to the evidence, Barbera would place a crucifix in the hands of persons who came to him for relief, and after rubbing the hand holding the cross over the affected part of their bodies, he would apply a "healing" oil. This, it developed, consisted of a mixture of olive oil, vinegar, and water. Barbera would then pray that his patient might be cured.

HUNTING FILM THIEVES.

Special to The New York Times.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., June 24.—Hans Frohman was released yesterday in $5,000 bail to appear for a hearing on July 15 on the charge of receiving stolen motion-picture films.

Since the arrest of Frohman and John R. Van Arnam, a well-known Syracusan who was taken on the same charge, the National Association of Motion Picture Industries has retained counsel to conduct a Statewide investigation into the activities of a ring of film thieves. This city is believed to have been the main distributing point for the stolen films.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

Edgar Selwyn will return to the stage next season in "Pierre of the Plains," originally produced six or seven years ago. The play was written by Mr. Selwyn from a novel by Sir Gilbert Parker.

"All Souls' Eve," by Anne Crawford Flexner, has been accepted for production by John D. Williams, and will be presented in the Fall.

In the cast of the new Ziegfeld Midnight Frolic, which will be presented two weeks from Monday, will be Lillian Lorraine, Six Brown Brothers, Allyn King, W. C. Fields, Oscar Shaw, and Savoy and Brennan. The present 9 o'clock show will be continued, with some changes.

Carol McComas, recently returned from France, has been engaged by Adolph Klauber for "Nightie Night."

"Galeties of 1919" had its first performance last night at the Globe Theatre, in Atlantic City, and will be presented at the Forty-fourth Street Theatre next Monday night.

CHAMPION EASES UP IN TRAINING

LESS SPEED IN HIS WORK

Special to The New York Times.

TOLEDO, Ohio, June 24.—It was a somewhat disappointed crowd which witnessed Jess Willard in his resumption of training today after Monday's layoff. The Kansan giant showed less speed than at any time since he took up his temporary residence here. He was confined to holding to his sparring partners, and many of the spectators turned their heads and left the arena.

Two large maple trees on the bay side of the arena shade the north half of the ring. It was noticeable that Willard worked in this cool spot, avoiding the burning sun of the south end of the ring. He worked with Jack Rempel for three rounds, and the middleweight after two rounds devoted himself to pounding on the champion's midriff.

Steamboat Bill Scott, who succeeded Jack Heinen in Willard's camp, devoted himself also to sending in rights and lefts to Willard's stomach. The champion permitted his arms to remain idle while the former A. E. F. soldier rained blow after blow on him. Scott, in disgust, turned away and started boxing with the big fellow. It was apparent that Willard has begun the use of the jewel and backhand blow. These punches were more effective on the sparring aids than the straight-arm work which Willard has attempted previously. He also is using the backhand uppercut, which tends to cut the face of his adversary. He had the usual workout with Joe Chip, boxing nine rounds in all. To the close critics about the Willard ring it was apparent that his long punches were not as accurately staged as in previous bouts. He showed signs of telegraphing both his left and right, for this reason his smaller partners easily reached his head and face, and they quickly got away without a return ticket.

Dempsey Has Busy Day.

Over at the Dempsey camp the new program which Jack Kearns has set out for the challenger is showing fruit. Dempsey worked with greater speed today with his several sparring partners, going nine rounds, also. He made Big Bill Tate yell "enough" in the third session. Dempsey, with a series of rights and lefts to the big negro's face, caused him to stagger and then run for his corner. He remembered the clean knockout of the day before which Dempsey placed on him.

Dempsey was the host today to a birthday party, the challenger celebrating his twenty-fourth birthday. A birth certificate shown by his brother John from Salt Lake City was exhibited. The challenger had a cake measuring four feet in diameter for his guests, who comprised a number of newspaper men and artists. He danced with several of the young women guests, but Jack Kearns and De Forest kept this side line down to only a few steps.

No Referee Selected.

The question of selection of a referee or a committee of judges is giving the officials, especially Tex Rickard, more trouble than the staging of the fight itself. Major Biddle and other officials of the Army, Navy, and Civilian Board of Boxing Control, who were to have arrived here today, failed to put in an appearance. A long-distance telephone message from these officials in New York to Tex Rickard showed this morning they still were going over the list of possible referees given Secretary Daniels last Saturday.

Rickard declared today that he was anxious to have this vexatious problem settled. So many factions in the realm of give and take are interested as to who the third man in the ring will be that he wishes it disposed of. It generally is understood that a referee will be chosen and, in addition to two judges, will sit outside the ring, and will act in case there is a question as to the winner of the bout, should there not be a knockout.

Much comment was heard today on the strenuous work that Dempsey is being put through. His work thus far has been of greater calibre than that of Willard, who has taken matters rather easy, even cutting out road work. Many sport followers around Dempsey's camp this evening asserted that they believed the challenger was being over-trained. Jimmy DeForest, who is looking after Dempsey's work, merely walked away.

Dempsey Is Guarded.

There were others who regarded the youth and suppleness of Dempsey as one of his greatest assets in hard work. Dempsey is given plenty of rest daily, and he is always in his couch at 9 each evening, and DeForest does the sleuthing to see that he is there and comfortably placed. Guards keep all intruders away from the Overland Club House. It is different at the Willard camp. The champion works out with men of much smaller stature that he, and one of them is near the height of Dempsey. After his workout at the Casino Willard drives down to one of the principal hotels and sits around chatting until 9 or 10 each evening, after which he goes to his quiet home in the most exclusive section of the city. It is a large stone house on Parkwood Avenue, and his neighbors comprise the families of brokers and bankers.

The seat sale for the big fight is progressing, although Frank Flournoy says that many of the choice seats still remain in his hands. Large blocks have been placed with reliable agents in the East, and these will be distributed on the same basis as tickets may be obtained here, he says.

American Boxer Is Victor.

PERSHING STADIUM, France, June 24, (Associated Press.)—Norton of California, a heavyweight, won the decision over Herscovitz of Canada in ten rounds in the boxing event today of the Interallied games.

Fight Seat Sale $400,000; May Go Up to $1,000,000

TOLEDO, Ohio, June 24.—Tex Rickard, promoter of the Independence Day fight for the heavyweight championship, said today that if all of the seats in the huge arena are sold the gate receipts will total $1,000,000. The advance sale has reached $400,000, leaving $600,000 worth of seats remaining to be sold.

HAUSNER GETS DECISION.

Stark Loses Fast Bout in Bensonhurst Y. C. Ring.

J. Hausner of the Clark House A. A. gained the judges' award over J. Stark of the Bronxdale A. C. last night in one of the best amateur boxing bouts ever witnessed in this district. The lads were opponents in a special bout at 125 pounds conducted in addition to the contests in three classes at the monthly show of the Bensonhurst Yacht Club, Brooklyn. At the end of three rounds both boxers arm-weary from punching at each other, leg-weary from the furious pace, and each showing the marks of battle, the judges decided in favor of Hausner.

The contest was replete with action from the opening gong until the bell at the end of the third round separated the youngsters from a clinch, and sent them to their corners. Of the two the showing of Stark was more impressive. A novice less than a month ago, Stark has advanced to a stage now where he is capable of holding his own against the more experienced amateurs who have been boxing in local rings for years. Against Hausner Stark was competing in his fifth bout. His four previous encounters resulted in knockout victories for the Bronxdale A. C. youth.

Hausner showed clearly to advantage in the first round. He carried Stark before him with a battering offensive which had the spectators on their feet yelling vociferously until the bell ended the round. Near the finish of the round Stark was sent to the canvas with a hard jolt to the jaw.

The one-minute rest between rounds did Stark a world of good. He came out for the second session apparently fresh as when he started, showing little effects of his hard usage in the previous chapter. Stiff lefts and rights to the face and body, alternately, stung Hausner and caused the latter to take the defensive. Plying his blows steadily, Stark soon found an opening for a wicked right and sent Hausner to the floor of the ring. The latter was dazed when he regained his feet, but managed to evade his rival's attempts at scoring with a decisive blow.

In the third round both boxers went after each other hard. Hausner appeared fresher and more cool. He timed his blows with greater precision and employed a clever defense in frustrating Stark's attempts to land. The Clark House boxer was on the offensive, too, and landed cleaner and more often than his rival, and gained the judges' award.

A number of knockouts were recorded in the three classes in which bouts were conducted, and the crowd which disregarded the humidity to attend the bouts witnessed some interesting contests. A promising bout has been arranged as a special attraction to the finals which will be held tomorrow night. Sam Lagonia of the Bronxdale A. C., national and metropolitan middleweight champion, is scheduled to tackle A. Silverstein, the New York State titleholder, in a bout at 158 pounds.

The summaries:

110-Pound Class.—S. Fogle, New West Side A. C., defeated C. White, Italian-American A. C., three rounds, judges' decision; H. Levine, Clark House A. A., defeated M. Weitz, Educational Alliance, two rounds, referee's decision. Byes, Sol Seeman, Brooklyn A. A., and A. Goldberg, Seventy-first Regiment.

120-Pound Class.—E. Epstein, Mercury A. C., defeated T. McGovern, unattached, three rounds, judges' decision; J. Zeller, Pastime A. C., defeated T. Skelly, Italian-American A. C., one round, referee's decision.

Second Trials.—E. Epstein, Mercury A. C., defeated D. McCormack, Paulist A. C., three rounds, judges' decision; J. Zeller, Pastime A. C., defeated J. White, Italian-American A. C., three rounds, judges' decision.

140-Pound Class.—Edward Crozier, Bronxdale A. C., defeated C. Horn, Bronx Y. M. H. A., two rounds, referee's decision; J. Call, Kennedy Boys' Club, defeated B. Friedbaum, Clark House A. A., three rounds, referee's decision. (Judges disagreed.)

FAVORS OVERLAPPING GRIP.

Jack White Used It Successfully Against Vardon.

Jack White, who defeated Harry Vardon earlier in the month at the professional tournament organized by the Glasgow Golf Club, attributes a large share of his success to the overlapping grip which he has been practicing for more than a year. He now seems at ease with his new style, which he once declared was unorthodox and totally unsuited to golfers bred and born on Scottish links.

From the appearance of his game the new method of grasping the club has improved his tee work, as he now drives long and straight. His greatest skill lies in the short game, where he stands well over the ball and close to it, with his club under absolute control, from the start of the swing to the finish.

HAYES IS COMING STAR.

Notre Dame Sprinter Highly Regarded by Critics.

Billy Hayes, the Notre Dame University athlete who recently broke the record in the 100-yard dash with a 0:09 4-5 performance, is destined to become one of the greatest sprinters the country has ever seen, according to track critics who have seen the youth.

Hayes, who is from Springfield, Mass., has come fast within the last three years, and now ranks with the leading sprinters in the country. Two years ago he defeated Andy Kelly at Springfield, who stated after the race that Hayes would bear watching. He is now a sophomore at the Western college, and in addition to being a track star is a brilliant end on the football team.

Lighter Racing Oar Designed.

A new design for oars for racing crews has been advanced by Ewing McGruer, a native of the British Isles, who is regarded as an expert on matters pertaining to shells and equipment. The new oar would have only 40 per cent. of the 10-pound weight of the oar now used for English shells. The idea is to have a light, well-balanced oar, wider than the present blade, with a shank, hollow in cross section. He believes that greater power can be exerted with an oar of this design, and that the chance of breaking would be reduced to a minimum.

Mrs. Gavin Seeks Lost Golf Titles.

Mrs. W. A. Gavin, who has long held a high place among women golfers in England, may soon be seen in championship competition in this country. Mrs. Gavin recently lost two of her championship titles, and is set upon regaining them. She has been practicing and is again playing a fine game.

YEARLING COLT IS SOLD FOR $10,000

Ardent sportsmen engaged in keen competition last night at Durland's for the first crop of thoroughbred yearlings offered at auction this season, with Walter M. Jeffords of Philadelphia carrying off the most prized of all when he gave $10,000 for a chestnut colt by Light Brigade-Wild Thistle. This particular colt was consigned by J. H. Morris of Bosque Bonita Stud and had plenty to recommend him in the matter of looks besides the distinguished lineage acquired through the previous progeny of his dam. This expensive youngster is a half-brother to such well-known racers as Blue Thistle, Thistle, Lady Charcot, Star Thistle, and King Plaudit.

The sale was conducted by the Powers-Hunter Company and attracted a large crowd of prominent horsemen, most of the owners being attended by their trainers, and in these cases it was generally the trainer who did the bidding for his employer. The yearlings of former Senator Johnson N. Camden formed the nucleus of the sale and most of these youngsters, by the imported horse Light Brigade, brought good prices, an indication that the market for thoroughbreds is on the rise because of more liberal purses and larger attendances at race meets.

One of the largest buyers of the night was a comparative newcomer in racing, Montford Jones. He had the honor of paying the second highest price, in addition to giving Walter M. Jeffords a hard battle for the possession of the star of the sale. Snapper Garrison, the old time jockey and trainer, did the bidding for Mr. Jones, and he snapped out bids for the Wild Thistle colt in rapid succession until Mr. Jeffords's quotation of $10,000 finally stopped him.

Previous to his unsuccessful attempt to obtain the Wild Thistle colt, Montford Jones, through Garrison, had carried along the bidding for a bay colt by Light Brigade-Five Aces until he finally obtained the colt for $8,500.

James W. McClelland, owner of the Brooklyn Handicap winner, Eternal, was another liberal buyer. He gave $4,000 for a filly by Light Brigade-Anna Hastings, which is a half sister to Charley McFerran, winner of twenty-eight races from 1914 to 1918, and also a half sister to Anna L. Daley, which has fifteen winning brackets to her credit.

J. C. Milam was another large purchaser, the best youngster knocked down to him being a black colt by Light Brigade-Casuarina, for which he paid $3,500.

CONSIDER SITE FOR MEET.

Date for Senior Championship to be Set Later.

The date and place for the senior track and field championships of the Metropolitan A. A. U. is as yet undetermined. At a meeting of the local association's Championship Committee yesterday no decision was reached with regards to the annual games. George Matthews, Chairman of the committee, declared after the meeting that several places were under consideration as suitable sites for the games, but that no definite selection had been made. The date of the meet will not be decided until a location is selected for the games.

The fifteen-mile walk championship was awarded to the Walkers' Club of America. This event will be late in the Fall. At present it is planned to conduct the title test two weeks after the national seven-mile championship walk, which has been awarded to the Brooklyn A. A., but no date has as yet been set for the latter event.

RACE FOR MOTOR CYCLISTS.

Professionals Will Compete on July 19 for American Title.

UNIONTOWN, Penn., June 24.—Announcement is made by the management of the Uniontown Speedway that a professional motor cycle racing event to determine the American championship will be held at the Uniontown Speedway on July 19, in connection with the mid-Summer automobile racing championship events. The big motor cycle event will be an invitation affair and will be open for professional drivers only.

The cycle championship event already has aroused much interest among the manufacturers and fans who witnessed the motor cycle feature of one of last year's programs have been persistently urging the Speedway management to include the motor cycle in the racing program.

The July 19 program at Uniontown is in connection with the Welcome Home Celebration for Uniontown's returned service men and several thousand soldiers, sailors, and marines will be guests of the Speedway management for the all-day program being arranged at the Speedway grounds.

Bar Pros from Canoe Contests.

Canadian amateur canoeing activities are to be maintained free from the taint of professionalism, according to action taken recently at a meeting of the Canadian Amateur Canoe Association in Montreal. A motion was advanced that the constitution be amended so as to provide for the participation in canoe competitions of professionals in other sports. Professional hockey players and baseball players of the Dominion would have been eligible for amateur canoe races under this proposed change in the rules if the meeting had adopted the amendment. The officials, however, unanimously voted against the motion.

FEW HORSES IN ENGLAND.

War Has Cut Down Number of English Thoroughbreds.

Turf critics in England are complaining because the war has left a scarcity of horses to compete in the scheduled events. The big fixtures have not suffered so much in this respect as have the smaller meetings, which have failed because of greatly depleted fields. Writing on this subject, Vigilant of The London Sportsman says:

"If any one has been under the impression that a normal fixture list of meetings makes a normal racing season, he must be disillusioned now, no matter how fervent an optimist he may be. The opening day of the York meeting brought out only fifteen horses to contest four races, one of the two other events being declared void and the other resulting in a walk-over.

"In some quarters the débâcle—for it is nothing else—is attributed to the hard ground, which, of course, has its share in causing the trouble, but if we go to the root of the matter we cannot help but see that the cause lies deeper. Scarcity of old horses is the true reason why some races fail to fill and others 'peter out' to nothing, as we now see at York. Four years of repression by Government under pleas good or bad cannot fail to have its effect, and we see the result of the stoppage of racing in May, 1915, or rather something of it, for I do not think we have yet realized the worst of the action alleged to be taken in the public interest.

"Rome was not built in a day, neither was the British thoroughbred developed without the care and forethought of many years, and the interruption of the process for something like four years is bound to leave a deep impression behind. Horses which would have been trained were withheld altogether, others which developed slowly were denied their chances of maturing and turned out of training, and as we know only too well, many owners not of the wealthy class or professionally interested were forced to give up keeping horses. York is one of the results, and, except for those who regard racing merely as a spectacle of amusement, it affords anything but a cheerful prospect. The chief meetings, like Epsom, Ascot, and Newmarket, will not show the effects of the horse shortage so clearly, but it will none the less be there, and the little meetings will be the chief sufferers. These minor gatherings are in my mind of immense importance, in that they tend to keep alive the horse-loving and sporting instincts of the countryside, and so preserve that public support for breeding and racing without which they cannot resist the adverse influences arrayed against them."

BOYER ENTERS AUTO RACE.

Joe Boyer, who put up such a sensational race against Dave Lewis for second place in the fifty-mile international sweepstakes at the Sheepshead Bay Speedway, on June 14, has sent in his entry for the 100-mile Derby and other races that will be decided at the bay track on July 4. Boyer will again drive his famous Frontenac land flier, which, after being overhauled, will be he thinks, several seconds faster per mile for the classic on Independence Day.

Ralph De Palma is the first of the international stars to take his racer to the bay track. The noted Italian-American driver is going over every part of his motor, believing that he must tune up to greater speed even than he maintained in the last race at the bay, if he expects to repeat his victory over the other fliers entered. De Palma appears to fear the Duesenberg team more than any one else in the race. It was Tommy Milton, in a "Dueste," that beat him in the sprint race on June 14, and he has heard that these cars have been greatly improved since then.

Dave Lewis, Tommy Milton, and Eddie O'Donnell will ship their cars to the Sheepshead Bay track tomorrow and start tuning up for the elimination tests which the Contest Board of the A. A. A. has set for July 2.

The number of applications received for entry blanks makes it appear that there will be at least twenty-five starters in the 100-mile Derby.

The tickets for the Independence Day races are now on sale at the hotel and ticket agencies, and also at the office of the Eastern States Racing Association, 1,402 Broadway.

STAKES AT EMPIRE CITY.

Secretary Schaumberg Announces Dates for Turf Events.

The order of running off the fifteen stake events at the Empire City race meet, July 12 to July 31, has been announced by Racing Secretary Victor E. Schaumberg. The Empire City Handicap will be the attraction on the opening day, and for this event most of the best handicap performers are entered. The Empire City Derby, in which Sir Barton is expected to take part, will be run on Saturday, July 19. The order of running the stakes follows:

Empire City Handicap, three-year-olds and over, Saturday, July 12.
Demoiselle Stakes, two-year-old fillies, Wednesday, July 16.
Mount Vernon Handicap, three-year-olds and over, Thursday, July 17.
Whirl Stakes, two-year-olds, and Empire City Derby, three-year-olds, Saturday, July 19.
Sprightful Stakes, two-year-olds, Monday, July 21.
Wakefield Handicap, two-year-olds, Wednesday, July 23.
Knickerbocker Handicap, three-year-olds, Thursday, July 24.
East View Stakes, two-year-olds, and Yonkers Handicap, three-year-olds and over, Saturday, July 26.
Fleetwing Handicap, three-year-olds and over, Wednesday, July 30.

SEEKS RECORD ATTENDANCE

More Than 70,000 Expected to See Willard-Dempsey Bout.

Providing it does not rain in Toledo on July 4, the big amphitheatre in which Willard and Dempsey will meet in the world's championship bout will probably hold the largest crowd that has ever witnessed a sporting event in this country in an inclosure. It is said that the structure now nearing completion in Toledo will seat more people than can be accommodated in the huge Yale Bowl. The last Yale-Harvard football game at New Haven drew a crowd estimated at 70,000.

Tex Rickard believes that the Independence Day tilt will set a new record for attendance, and he is counting, of course, upon the favorable conditions which attend his ventures in promoting sporting events.

Newest London Course Popular.

LONDON, June 24.—Addington, London's latest golf course, is rapidly becoming one of the most popular links in the section. Because of its natural beauty and the tranquillity of the scenery and surroundings, the course is regarded as one of the classic ones of the metropolis. It is believed that the first hole will be changed within a short time, and a conventional two-shotter will take the place of the present one, which is 180 yards, with the green on a plateau surrounded by dwarf hills, which must be reached by a firm clock or iron shot.

HEALY WILL LEAD U. S. RIFLE TEAM

Crack American Shots Are Named for Tournament to be Held This Week at d'Avours.

LE MANS, June 23, (Associated Press.)— Names of those composing the American team in the interallied rifle, pistol and sharpshooting tournament to be held on the d'Avours range this week were announced today.

Colonel George H. Healy, Rensselaer, Ind., is the Captain. Other members of the team are Major Louis R. Derode Baltimore; Captain Albert F. Griffiths New York City, Major Henry J. Ullmann, Chicago, Lieutenant A. Schwarz, Portland, Ore.; Lieutenant H. C. Ware, Waupaca, Wis.; Corporal Allen E. Stockton, Hamilton, Ill.; Lieutenant L. R. Henry, Monroe, La.; Lieut. Colonel L. E. Hohl, Lincoln, Neb.; Sergeant L. L. Prudent, Rochester, N. Y.; Lieutenant Frank N. Thompson, Bordentown, N. J.; Sergeant Harry W. Sharks, Vancouver, Wash.; Lieutenant C. E. Hetseler, Captain Thomas J. Reid, Jr., Paducah, Ky.; Private Emil Arbiht, Des Moines, Iowa; Lieutenant W. H. Coleman, Aurora, Ill.; Musician Howard Denis, Adington, Penn.; Captain C. E. Kelly, Portland, Ore.; Lieutenant R. E. Pretat, Waterbury, Conn.; Captain F. S. McMullen, Victoria, Texas; Lieutenant J. H. McHughes, N. M.

Only those were eligible to the team of American marksmen who were in the service at the time of the signing of the armistice. A total of 350 selected men from the whole A. E. F. took part. That so many officers were among those to make the highest scores speaks especially well for the United States Army School of Small Arms Firing which was conducted in this country under Lieut. Col. Morton C. Mumma at Camp Perry, Ohio, and later transferred to Columbus, Ga. Of course the enlisted men of the different branches of the service ordinarily receive intensive training in rifle practice, and in this connection it may be said that the enlisted men of the navy, and particularly the marines, generally carry off most of the prizes at the national matches in this country, this occurring last year at Camp Perry. It was not possible, however, for the enlisted men of the National Army to receive the advanced training given to the enlisted men in peace times; but the officers were trained and under ideal conditions.

The corps of instructors at the Small Arms Firing School, all commissioned officers, was recruited from the ranks of the best marksmen of the United States, and beyond much question there never has been anywhere else as competent a school of instruction in rifle and pistol marksmanship.

Among the men who made the twenty-five highest scores in the qualification try-outs there were 1 Lieut. Colonel, 3 Majors, 1 Captain, 8 First Lieutenants, 1 Second Lieutenant, or 14 officers; and of the enlisted men 8 Sergeants, 2 Corporals, and 1 private.

The conditions of the try-outs, likewise those of the interallied matches, were more difficult than the regulation conditions of the United States Army. The most important difference was the use of European targets. The European target for 200, 300, and 400 yards was a 7½-inch bullseye and 12-inch inner ring; that for 500 and 600 yards has a 15½-inch bullseye with a 24-inch inner ring. The standard United States Army target for 200 and 300 yards (400 yards is not regulation distance) has an 8-inch bullseye with a centre ring 26 inches in diameter; that for 500 and 600 yards has a 20-inch bullseye with a centre ring of 37 inches in diameter. Nevertheless, and in spite of there being a tricky wind every day of the try-out maches, and the additional handicap of the range facing due east, causing the shooters to fire with the sun shining in their faces all morning, the scores made by the A. E. F. marksmen were excellent.

ARE THANKED BY ATHLETES.

Knights of Columbus Get Testimonial from Teams of Army Men.

Having given their utmost in service to the men of the A. E. F. athletic teams training for the interallied track and field meet, the Knights of Columbus were presented with a testimonial signed by the entire personnel of the teams, both officers and enlisted men, headed by H. Wilfred Maloney, trainer of the track and field team, and Lieutenants Wallace C. Maxfield, A. W. Richards, Earl J. Renick, Richard L. Byrd, and James H. Duncan.

The testimonial was addressed to Lawrence O. Murray, K. of C. Overseas Commissioner, from Clignancourt Barracks, and read: "We, the officers and enlisted personnel members of the A. E. F. track and field team, now in training for the interallied track and field meet, quartered temporarily at Clignancourt Barracks, Paris, desire in a small way to voice our appreciation for the many kindnesses and courtesies shown the members of the team during their brief stay at Clignancourt Barracks. Each member of the above-mentioned team will ever remember with full appreciation the kindly treatment accorded to the track and field team, also other athletic teams—together with full knowledge of the noble work that the Knights of Columbus have done and still are doing for the boys in uniform."

MANY ENTRIES FOR GAMES.

250 Athletes Seek Titles in Junior Track Meet.

A total of 250 athletes will strive for Metropolitan A. A. U. junior track and field championship titles at Stevens Tech Field, Hoboken, N. J., Saturday. This record number has been declared eligible by the Junior Championship Committee. The number represents an entry list of more than 350, for many of the aspiring athletes have entered for several events. Officials of the meet, therefore, are predicting that history will be made with the forthcoming competitions.

The Glencoe A. C. leads in numbers of nominations, with forty athletes entered. The New York A. C., making its first bid for an outdoor track and field title since this country entered the war, is second with thirty-six representatives. In third place is the Paulist A. C., winners of the team championship last year. This organization has entered a team of more than twenty-five athletes.

HELPED SOLDIERS TO PLAY.

Athletics for Millions and Millions for Athletics, Y. M. C. A. Plan.

PARIS, June 24.—Physical directors of the Y. M. C. A. have come in contact with the entire personnel of the A. E. F. more than twenty times over since the beginning of its operations overseas, and have spent a total of about $3,750,000, more than 90 per cent. of which went directly to the men, according to the statement of Elwood S. Brown, Chief Director of Y. M. C. A. athletic activities in France.

For the last five months of 1918, prior to the operation of General Order 241, which made athletics and mass games a matter of military schedule for all the armies and the majority of units of the A. E. F., army athletics were chiefly promoted by Y. M. C. A. physical directors. During this period there were 4,775,000 participants and 9,050,000 spectators in sports and athletics. For the months of January, February, and March, 1919, the figures show 18,393,052 participants and 32,732,054 spectators.

KELLY TOP SCORER IN CRICKET MATCH

By a margin of 41 runs, with totals of 197 to 156, the Staten Island Cricket and Tennis Club defeated the cricket team of Haverford College on the grounds of the former at Livingston, S. I., yesterday. F. F. Kelly excelled with the willow in yesterday's match, making top score of the game with a good innings of 42, and going in fifth wicket down, was still at the wicket when the innings ended. R. Belgrave played well for 33, while J. H. O'Rourke scored 28, R. St. G. Walker 15, and W. Raeburn 10. F. A. W. Ireland and Kelly were most effective with the ball for the winning team, Ireland capturing 6 wickets for 30 runs, while Kelly took 2 for 31.

For Haverford College, T. Kearney was high score man with 24, while doubles were also contributed by G. Toogood, 19; P. Thornton and J. N. Crossman, 18 apiece; A. Rogers, 12; S. S. Silver, 11, and E. Porter, 10. Ewan did the best bowling, taking 5 wickets at a cost of 8 runs apiece.

The Adirondacks

There's magic in the word "Adirondacks." It's the spirit of our pioneer ancestors calling us back to Nature. It's the urge of the trails through the woods, by the lakes, over the hills. It's the dip of the paddle, the song of the reel, the scent of the pine. It's forgetfulness of work and worry; it's sport and fun. It's freedom.

Of course, you're going to take a vacation this summer! Go to the Adirondacks, close at hand and easy of access—this beautiful territory of the Indians is truly an out-of-door playground paradise—natural, unspoiled, refreshing.

Any number of camps, fine resort hotels, or boarding houses, and accommodations to fit every purse.

All kinds of sports, fine golf and tennis.

Your vacation days in the Adirondacks will make you keen and fit for the work to come.

The United States Railroad Administration invites you to travel and offers Summer Excursion fares. GIANTS AND SUPERBAS DIVIDE LAURELS IN DOUBLE HEADER AT EBBETS FIELD

GIANTS SPLIT TWIN BILL WITH DODGERS

Toney Registers Fine Victory, but Barnes Brings Joy to Brooklyn in Second.

SCORES 4 TO 2 AND 9 TO 3

17,000 Fans Greet Returning Clubs—Griffith Defeats Leaders by Homer with Bases Filled.

Approaching the Polo Grounds by easy stages the Giants stopped off at Flatbush yesterday and tore off a double-header with the Dodgers. The largest week-day assemblage that has ever huddied together in years at a Brooklyn game greeted McGraw's returning warriors with the familiar musical chorus of hoots. Brooklyn likes to jeer the Giants good-naturedly and the Giants don't mind, so what could be fairer.

The gathering of 17,000 fans suffered in agony during the opening wrangle, which was won by the Giants, 4 to 2, but they yelled themselves hoarse and got excitement up to the melting point when the Robins thumped Jess Barnes for eighteen hits in the second game and batted out a 9 to 3 victory. The bargain bill furnished enough excitement for half a dozen ordinary encounters, and nobody will be writing to Mr. Ebbets asking for their money back.

Toney's pitching, together with as fine a defensive game as Brooklyn has seen this year, gave the first tilt to New York. They gathered one run at a time at the expense of Leon Cadore, until they had enough to win. Cadore left the game in the sixth, and the Giants were stopped by Cheney and Smith.

Barnes Thumped Merrily.

The second game saw the Dodgers treat Barnes to the worst jolt he has received this season. Barnes's downfall really came in the fourth, when Brooklyn got five hits and three runs. Manager McGraw evidently believed that Barnes would be able to recover, as the Dodgers were leading only by a narrow margin of 3 to 2, but Jess grew worse, and the crushing blow to his service came in the eight, when Tom Griffith, with the bases loaded, walloped a homer to the centre field wall and hatched out four runs in one full swoop.

Brooklyn's outburst of hits in that second game came just about in time to save their reputation with the home folks. While the Dodgers were away they dropped ten games in a row at the start and this news trickled back home, and the fans didn't like it. If the Dodgers are not to be trusted away from the home lot, they better stay at home. The memory of the disastrous trip faded quickly in that second game when the Flatbush boys began to whale the ball. All past sins were forgiven and forgotten. Before the matinée was over the temperature of the crowd had gone way up and the boys were in solid again.

The fans were so wrought up about winning the second game that when Olson made the final out the fans flowed out of the grandstand onto the diamond and made a rush for the player. They wanted that ball for a souvenir. Olson was swallowed by the raging mob around him and he was lucky to get away with a rag on his back.

Tom Griffith led the assault on Barnes with five hits, including the homer, with the corners chocked, Hy Meyers had three and Wheat and Konetchy two apiece. While Brooklyn had the chance they thought it was a good time to make up for the hitting they failed to do on the lamented Western trip.

Lord Byron was effected by both the Giants and the heat. In the first game he fired Doyle out of the contest, and in the second affair he ran smash into a Brooklyn uprising which was quelled before it became necessary to call out the reserves. It was on a close play on Hal Chase, and the Brooklyn players argued and argued at the top of their voices and with waving arms that all the decisions had been going against them. They clamored for a hearing, but they all talked so much that no one could hear anything.

Chase Starts the Scoring.

The Giants broke into the run activity in the third inning. Chase got an infield hit and stole second. Gonzales walked, and Barnes intended to sacrifice. He bunted to Clarence Mitchell, who was doing the pitching, and Mitchell tossed to Malone at third to force Chase. Hal made a great slide, head first, and Byron called him safe. That is the play which incited the outburst of excitement on the part of Brooklyn. Burns walked, forcing Chase home. After King fanned, Fletcher hit a sacrifice fly to Griffith, scoring Gonzales.

Brooklyn fell upon Barnes in the fourth and took a one-run lead. Griffith and Wheat singled, scoring on a two-bagger by Myers. Konetchy's hit sent Myers home. Malone also got a hit in that inning. Brooklyn got another in the sixth on Konetchy's triple and a scratch single by Krueger. The Giants' other run came in the first of the seventh. Chase doubled, and a single by Gonzales scored him.

Griffith's double in that same inning was coined into a run by Wheat's single. In the eighth Barnes received his worst treatment. With one out, Mitchell singled, and so did Olson and Johnston, filling the bases. Then came Griffith's home-run smash to the deep verdant meadow in centre, cleaning the bases as smooth as a hound's tooth.

Toney Holds the Dodgers.

Fred Toney had the Dodgers at his mercy in the opening game, holding the Flatbush crowd to five hits. The only serious dent in his curves was made by Clarence Mitchell in the sixth. In the pinch-hitter's rôle Clarence cracked the ball over the right field wall for a home run.

The Giants loaded up the bases on Leon Cadore in the first inning but couldn't jam a run over. Burns fanned and Young singled to right. After Fletcher forced Young, Doyle walked. Kauff shot a single through second, filling the corners. Zimmerman had the chance of his young life to make a clean-up, but Heinie fanned.

Chase greeted Cadore in the second with a base slap to deep left. He crossed the platter on McCarty's single to left. Toney sacrificed, but Burns and Young both died at first. The Giants renewed their acquaintance with the plate in the fourth. Zim doubled to left and Chase sacrificed. McCarty popped to Olson, and while Toney was at the bat Zimmerman took matters into his own hands and stole home. Heinie's boldness was rewarded because Otto Miller dropped the ball.

Burns singled in the fifth and Griffith backed up against the right field stockade to grab Young's long drive. Fletcher got an infield tap. It was a bunt and run play and Burns scampered around to third by wide awake base galloping. Doyle rolled a grounder to Konetchy and Burns was out at the plate. Benny Kauff planted a sharp single in centre and Fletcher scored.

Chase opened the sixth with a single to left and reached second when Zach Wheat fumbled the ball. Hal went to third on McCarty's out at first and scored on Toney's sacrifice boost to Hy Myers. That was the end of the Giants' scoring, but it was aplenty. Cheney twirled the next two innings and Sherry Smith presided in the ninth, but McGraw's men couldn't break through.

Mitchell Gets Home Run.

Clarence Mitchell batted for Cadore in the sixth and pumped the ball over the wall for the Dodgers first run. Their second and last tally was hatched in the eighth. In this round, Krueger, batting for Cheney, skied to Kauff. Olson cracked a single to left and was forced by Johnston. Griffith boosted a fly back of second base, which was muffed by Al Baird, Johnston scoring on the error.

CURVES AND BINGLES

The wrath of Umpire Lord Byron descended upon the head of Larry Doyle in the first game and he got a vacation for the afternoon. In the seventh Larry was called out on strikes, and to show his objection he tossed his bat into the air. Byron fired him out of the park.

Hal Chase has started to creep up with his batting average. He reached the .240 mark yesterday, the highest he has been this season.

Fletcher did a lot of pretty acrobatic fielding. In the seventh inning of the first game he cut down both Myers and Fitzsimmons on plays which were lightning fast.

It was one of the largest week-day crowds that ever witnessed a game in Brooklyn. Besides the 17,000 inside the park, another 1,000 looked on from Dead Head Hill and surrounding housetops.

Facing swift pitching no longer has any terrors for the players who were in France facing German shells.

The Brooklyn players rose like a mob of Bolsheviki in the second game when Lord Byron called Chase safe at third. They assembled en masse, but their barks were a lot worse than their bites. Ole Hanson didn't tame the rioters in Seattle more decisively than Byron quieted the Dodgers.

Ross Young hasn't fully recovered from the effects of his collision with Kauff in Cincinnati. He was forced to take a rest during the second game. King, who took his place in right, was bothered by the sun, so Burns shifted to the sun garden.

The loss of ten straight on the road hasn't made Manager Robinson a bit thinner. He still creates the biggest shadow in the major leagues.

Brooklyn fans have a good time, win or lose. They are happy cheering the Robins when they are ahead and they are happier hooting the Giants when McGraw's men are winning.

Tom Griffith made himself solid with the Flatbush natives in the second game. He had a perfect day at the bat, making five hits out of five times up, including a home run and a two-bagger.

YANKEES TOY WITH LOWLY ATHLETICS

As if to demonstrate to Connie Mack that they can accomplish all the damage necessary without the aid of home runs, the Yankees yesterday pounded out another victory over the forlorn Athletics at the Polo Grounds. The count was 9 to 0, and the game was even more one-sided than the score indicates. Somehow or other nobody seemed able to account for the absence of home runs, which broke out in epidemic form when the teams first clashed in the present series Monday afternoon.

There wasn't any opposition to speak of to the Yankee victory. The Athletics hadn't anything in the way of offensive, and what there was of defense didn't amount to much. Under the circumstances, therefore, the rout was more mechanical than impulsive or illuminating.

Kinney, a tall left-hander, was nominated by Mr. McGillicuddy to subjugate the Yankees. He didn't. Mr. Kinney went into the box with nothing but his glove, and this, naturally, was a right-handed glove. In action Kinney resembled his namesake of pugilism, Wild Burt Kinney, whose chief claim to fame was a lackadaisical habit of throwing his arms in the general direction of a rival.

Mr. Kinney of the Athletics did the same thing yesterday. He motioned with his arm that he was throwing the ball to the plate, but the horsehide had a terrible habit of going far, too far, to either side of the rubber, or high, too high for the batter to reach, even if he had been supplied with a telegraph pole.

As a consequence, Mr. Kinney issued a pass to Samuel Vick, the Huggins right gardener, on four pitched balls, and another to Roger Peckinpaugh on five pitched balls. These two passes led to a Yankee procession homeward bound in the opening chukker, and were followed intermittently thereafter by other marches, which resulted in the 9 to 0 score. Mr. Kinney, however, didn't stick around long enough to view the subsequent proceedings. He was sent to the showers in the first, after Connie Mack had opined enough Yankee damage had been done. Ralph Seibold replaced generous Mr. Kinney, but wasn't runproof, or nearly so.

Veteran Jack Quinn had the pitching assignment for the Yankees, and just reveled in his job. Jack has had a lot of hard luck this season. He's pitched as many good games as any other hurler in the circuit, but unfortunate breaks have deprived him of victories several times. Yesterday he was the master. Like the veteran he is, Jack just shot the ball over the pan without any misgivings. Four hits were all the Philadelphia remnants registered, and Jack was careful to see that his generosity wasn't imposed upon. In the ninth Jack eased up a few and permitted Thomas to reach first on his only pass of the afternoon. A lot of people didn't even know Thomas was on first, so the Athletics' third baseman cantered unmolested to second. That was as far as he got.

In only one inning did the Yankees fail to get a safe hit. This exception came in the seventh, when Seibold, through some miracle, disposed of the side in order on grounders.

Roger Peckinpaugh and Derrill Pratt led in the Yankee success. Peck had a perfect day at bat, making two hits, a sacrifice, and getting two passes. Pratt hammered out three safe blows, one of them a triple, which Dell unwittingly failed to make a home run. This happened in the fifth, when the Yankee second baseman lifted a high fly to left. Witt set himself for the catch near the fence, but lost the ball in the sun. Pratt, evidently thinking the catch would be made—as did every one of the 4,000 who saw the carnage—eased up in his journey to first, and had to be content with a triple. Dell brought two Yankee runs home, too.

Kinney displayed a brotherly affection for the Yankees right at the start. He didn't attempt to make a secret of his feelings toward Mr. Huggins and the latter's athletes. Vick was given a pass and stole second, and then Peckinpaugh was sent to first on a free ticket. J. Franklin Baker pumped a double into left which registered Messrs. Vick and Peckinpaugh. Lewis rapped a grounder at Dugan, and Baker beat the latter's throw to third. When Pipp forced Lewis at second, Baker scored with the third Yankee run. Pratt followed with a single past Shannon to right, putting Pipp on third. From this station Wally rode home on Bodie's clout to left, which enabled Pratt to make third.

All this display made Mr. Kinney quite mad. The Quaker twirler started with a brotherly attitude toward the Yankees and didn't like the latter's cannonade one bit. He stood there angry and doubtful after Bodie had singled and chased over the fourth run. Finally Connie Mack wig-wagged to the box that Tuesday wasn't Mr. Kinney's day anyhow. On a signal Ralph Seibold came tripping lightly, almost boyishly, across Henry Fabian's well-cut grass.

This was the signal for Miller Huggins to put a little variety into his play. He ordered the squeeze play, and when Truck Hannah dropped a neat bunt down toward first base Pratt scored and Bodie reached third, while Seibold was throwing out the lumbering Hannah at first. The inning ended when Shannon threw out Quinn.

There wasn't any more Yankee scoring until the fourth, when another brace of runs was collected. Hannah started this frame with a single to right. Quinn drew a pass and Vick followed with a single to right centre, scoring Hannah. Quinn stopped at second on the blow. Peckinpaugh's sacrifice advanced the runners a base each and a wild pitch sent Quinn over the rubber. In the fifth Pratt's fortunate triple resulted in another marker, for Dell counted while Bodie was being tossed out at first.

In the ninth Quinn raced over the platter with the Yankees' ninth run. Jack tore off a single to centre and gained second when Vick walked. Peckinpaugh beat out a hit to Dugan, filling the bases. Fewster lifted a sacrifice fly to Witt and Quinn scored.

TORONTO SNATCHES GAME FROM NEWARK

Maple Leaves Pound Ball in Ninth Inning and Turn Defeat Into Victory.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWARK, N. J., June 24.—Newark lost a game to Toronto here today, 5 to 4, and it was a tough game to lose. With Newark on the long end of the score in the ninth inning the Maple Leaves filled the bases on hits by Anderson, Breckinridge, and Sandberg. Then Shea was taken out and Rommel put in to pitch. This put it up to Hersche, who had replaced Hubbell on the mound for Toronto, and he hit to deep centrefield for two bases, scoring three runs.

Newark got Miller to third in its half of the ninth, but he died there as Cather and Madden were thrown out at first by Gonzales. Madden tried to poke one through the infield with three balls and no strikes on him. Walsh hit at a 1,000 clip for Newark, getting four safeties. Letter drove out a triple and double.

SKEETERS CAPTURE TWO.

Binghamton Defeated in Each Game by Score of 6 to 4.

Special to The New York Times.

JERSEY CITY, N. J., June 24.—Hard batting in yesterday's double-header by Bill Donovan's Skeeters enabled Jersey City to carry off a two-ply victory over Binghamton in the opening of their series at West Side Park, the home team annexing each lineup by a margin of 6 to 4.

In the curtain raiser, with Binghamton three runs ahead when the Skeeters entered their eighth inning, Donovan's boys made close connection with Beckvermit's delivery and pounded out five hits, which, with a pass and an error, accounted for five runs and the ball game.

In the final setto Jersey City forged ahead at the start and excelled all the way. The Skeeters collected twelve hits in the opening and ten hits in the closing battle. Paddy Bauman batted well for the Skeeters, with three hits in each session.

HOLY CROSS NINE GETS FINAL GAME

Ends Remarkable Season by Applying Brush to Boston College, Score Being 7 to 0.

Special to The New York Times.

WORCESTER, Mass., June 24.—Holy Cross closed the most successful season of its history here today, shutting out Boston College, 7 to 0. Eddie Gill, the pitching ace for Holy Cross, allowed Boston College one scratch hit. Not a Boston player saw second until the seventh frame. Fitzpatrick, who has been the mainstay for the Maroon and Gold all season, was taken from the mound in the eighth, after being touched up for nine hits. The Purple team turned in a perfect day behind Gill in the field.

The Mayor presented the team with a large championship banner just before the game started, which is the gift of a local paper as a recognition of college championship honors.

Daley was elected Captain of Holy Cross for 1920.

GREEN TROUNCES CORNELL.

Special to The New York Times.

HANOVER, N. H., June 24.—Dartmouth won easily from Cornell before a large crowd of commencement guests here today, by the score of 6 to 0. Time yihitting and brilliant fielding combined to produce victory for the green.

Cuddy Murphy pitched his usual strong game for Dartmouth and only at one time was he in any real danger of being scored on.

In the fourth inning the visitors filled the bases by two safe hits in a row and then a free trip to first, but Murphy tightened up and retired the next three in order. The Cornell batsmen collected only five hits off Murphy during the entire contest.

PHILLIES WIN AND LOSE.

Divide Double-Header by Scores of 10 to 6 and 9 to 5.

PHILADELPHIA, June 24.—Philadelphia and Boston split a double header here today, the visitors winning the first game 10 to 6, and the locals the second 9 to 5.

Boston won the first game by bunching hits off Rixey and Smith. Keating also was hit hard, but Demaree stopped the Phillies. Philadelphia won the second contest in the eighth inning. Cady singled, Woodward sacrificed, and Whitted singled, scoring Callahan, who ran for Cady. Here Northrop was substituted for Nehf, and three passes and Meusel's single and Sicking's double gave the locals five more runs.

LYNCH GALLOPED TO FAME.

Matthew J. Lynch of Newark, N. J., the young winner of the Knights of Columbus relay marathon from Château-Thierry to Paris, is one of the famous men of the American Expeditionary Forces today. Stepping into the tape held by two K. of C. Secretaries in the Place de la Concorde, Lynch also stepped into the limelight wherever and whenever the tale is told of the athletic prowess of the men of the A. E. F. Lynch will be named as the man who helped make American athletic history by dashing through the streets of Paris on the last lap of the famous marathon.

INDIANS BLANK CHICAGO.

White Sox Unable to Hit at Critical Times.

CHICAGO, June 24.—Cleveland made it two straight from Chicago today by shutting out the locals, 2 to 0. Inability to hit in the pinches when they had men within scoring distance, coupled with sensational fielding by Johnston and Gardner, cost Chicago the game.

Williams pitched a great game, the visitors scoring the first run on a walk, a sacrifice, a single, and an error, while the other run resulted from a double, an infield out, and a sacrifice fly.

REDS DIVIDE WITH CUBS.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, June 24.—After Chicago had won the first game of the double header, 6 to 2, by hitting Sallee hard, Cincinnati evened it up by winning the second, 2 to 0, playing errorless ball behind Eller's fine pitching.

Eller struck out ten men and made a three-base hit, which gave the Reds their second run. Tyler pitched a full game for the first time in a month and did well.

PIPING ROCK FOUR WINS POLO MATCH

HEMPSTEAD, N. Y., June 24.—Polo enthusiasts around about the Meadow Brook and Rockaway Hunt Clubs, the Piping Rock, and other clubs of Long Island witnessed this evening at Meadow Brook an unusually hotly contested match between Rockaway and Piping Rock for the Meadow Brook Club cups, played under existing handicaps. Action keen and daring was apparent throughout, and particularly so during the last chukker, when but a three-quarter-goal margin hung between the contestants.

Piping Rock, by particularly brilliant play and riding which at himes was of the championship order, won, lowering Rockaway's colors to the tune of 11¾ goals to 10.

Along the side lines were former stars of international games, including Henry P. Whitney, Major Thomas Hitchcock, whose sons, C. V. Whitney, "Bunnie" and "Tommie" Hitchcock, the ace who escaped from a German prison, played on the winning team with L. E. Stoddard and J. Watson Webb, both eight-goal men.

Rockaway received a handicap of 5 goals and scored 5. Piping Rock hit 12 goals and lost a quarter goal for a safety.

Captain Harry H. Holmes, who refereed the match on Field 2, had his work well cut out from the first.

"Sonnie" Whitney scored the open and last goal of the match, and with Ace Hitchcock, who has been advanced to a six goal player, kept Rockaway constantly on the jump to prevent being scored against.

The Rockaway players scored in the first period, and in the following three chukkers had the ball literally picked from beneath their ponies' feet by Messrs. Webb and Hitchcock, when the sphere was within a few feet of goal posts and tallies appeared certain.

However, in the fifth period Stevenson made a brilliant goal for Rockaway at the close of the period, and in the next chukker Major Lapham and Hopping each scored for the Rockaways. When Stevenson again scored for Rockaway at the closing period it was any one's game. With but two minutes to play Webb shot the ball for tally after some clever and effective passes by Stoddard and Whitney. Rockaway lined up with Elliot C. Cowdin, Earl W. Hopping, Malcolm Stevenson, and Major Lapham in the order named, with a team handicap of 19 goals against 23 for the winners.

Among those along the side lines were Mrs. Thomas Hitchcock, Mrs. Julian Peabody, Mrs. Thomas Hastings, Henry Payne Whitney, Henry L. Herbert, Chairman of the Polo Association; Mr. and Mrs. Devereux Milburn, Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Von Stade, Mr. and Mrs. Le Boutillier, René La Montagne, Fred H. Post, Major Thomas Hitchcock, Mrs. J. E. S. Harden, James C. Cooley, Mr. and Mrs. F. Ames Rose Clarke, and W. Goadby Loew.

Decision Favors Sunday Ball.

READING, Penn., June 25.—The Berks County Court today refused to grant a preliminary injunction to certain residents in the vicinity of the Reading International League baseball park to prevent Sunday games. The Reading Baseball Association and Charles Dooin, local club manager, are defendants in the suit. This is the third legal proceeding here in a month against Sunday ball. A game will be played tomorrow.

KASHIO, BAGGS, THROCKMORTON, AND BEEKMAN VICTORS IN MIDDLE STATES TENNIS TOURNEY

JAPANESE ADVANCES IN TENNIS TOURNEY

HAINES GIVES BAGGS FIGHT

West Side Player Has to Work Hard to Eliminate Ardsley Man—Throckmorton Wins Easily.

Four players reached the round before the semi-finals yesterday afternoon in the Middle States championship at the Orange Tennis Club, and a good start was made in the sectional doubles event. The advance guard of the singles draw consists of Seichiro Kashio, last year's challenger for the title; R. P. Bennett, who will face the Japanese star today; Alfred Hammett, and R. M. Kirkland. Among the winners in the third round were F. C. Baggs, Dr. William Rosenbaum, Leonard Beekman, and Harold Throckmorton.

The attention of the gallery was fairly evenly divided yesterday between two matches, Kashio facing Lindsey Dunham, while Beekman was taking the measure of G. A. L. Dionne. The local star gave his Japanese opponent a real battle in the first set, running the games to deuce and being several times within reach of the winning points. After this big effort, however, he crumbled before the baffling steadiness of Kashio. The latter rarely used great speed, sliding the ball gently down the side lines, always a little out of reach and with an uncanny anticipation of Dunham's returns. He also lobbed well when the occasion demanded, and often closed in for a volleying finish to a rally.

In R. P. Bennett he will meet one of the great veterans of the Orange courts, whose victory over O. G. Garve yesterday was won with little effort. Hammett also was an easy winner, his accurate chopping giving him a continuous advantage over L. B. Dailey, Jr. Kirkland's victory over P. M. Pope was scored in decisive fashion at 6—3, 6—3.

Good Gallery for Match.

The meeting of Fred C. Baggs and R. B. Haines in the third round attracted considerable attention because of the latter's sensational defeat of Ingo Hartman on the opening day of the tournament.

Haines was a little slower yesterday in getting his speedy shots in working order, and for a time the chops and headwork of Baggs forced him into frequent errors. But after dropping the opening set at 6—3, the former dark horse began to live up to his newly acquired reputation, serving like a demon and driving the ball so hard that his opponent was unable to volley it successfully. After the games had gone to deuce, Haines brought himself to within a point of squaring the match, but Baggs lobbed out of danger, and, with the aid of another streak of errors on the part of the loser, eventually clinched the argument at 8—6.

Beekman's well-rounded game was given a good test by that marathon runner of the tennis court, G. A. L. Dionne, who started right in on his habitual progress of returning every ball and waiting for his opponent to beat himself. The young Princeton graduate almost accommodated him, throwing away many a valuable point in the opening set, which he finally won with the greatest difficulty at 10—8. But this success gave the collegian confidence in his strokes and he proceeded to make short work of the second session, hitting harder, placing more accurately, and following every forcing shot to the net, where he piled up the points in spectacular fashion. Dionne was able to win only two games before set and match were called.

Throckmorton uncovered his speed and finesse from the very start of his third-round encounter with another Princetonian, Philip Van Deventer. He tore through the opening set at top form, without the loss of a game, and although he dropped three in the second session, his drives, volleys, and serves were impressive to the very end. Throckmorton gained his first real fame as a tennis player in a Middle States event several years ago, when he challenged and almost defeated Karl Behr for the title, and he looked strong enough yesterday to repeat or even better his brilliant record of the past.

The doubles opened with several close matches, Ingo Hartman and Gerald Emerson having the hardest contest on their hands in winning from Ely and A. H. Chapin, Jr., 6—3, 2—6, 7—5. Chapin, who is the junior member of the national champion father-and-son team, was a tower of strength yesterday, and, with good support from his partner, held the winners at bay right up to the closing points. Hartman and Emerson were not always in perfect agreement, this being their first tournament partnership, but managed to win by individual brilliancy.

R. W. Seabury and V. H. Cartmell, one of the strongest of the local combinations, were hard pressed in winning from Harry Sachs and Sigmund Spaeth at 13—11, 6—4. The losers were half a dozen times within a point of the opening set, but always failed to put the ball away for the final kill. Seabury, covering court in sensational style, and recovering all kinds of smashes. Trailing at 1—5 in the second set, Sachs and Spaeth pulled up to within one game of the winners, but did not quite possess the punch needed to square the match.

DEADLOCK IN NET MATCH.

Voshell and Iler Play Forty Games Without Decision.

S. Howard Voshell and Alex Iler played one of the closest tennis matches of the season on the courts of the Kings County Club yesterday afternoon in an effort to reach the semi-final round of the Long Island championship singles. After 40 games had been registered, divided with absolute equality, both in number and in set distribution, darkness left the affair a deadlock, and the entire match will have to be replayed today. Although Voshell was in one of his wildest moods yesterday, the remarkable showing of the young naval ensign is worthy of the greatest praise, for he traded speed for speed with the great left-hander, forcing the issue at every point, and taking bigger and bigger chances as he scented a possible victory.

Iler was able to handle Voshell's much feared service, often driving the ball back with full force down the side lines, and giving the southpaw no chance to perpetrate his spectacular volleys. His own delivery was also dangerous at all times, and he often scored by following it to the barrier, using his long reach to good advantage. Voshell dropped the opening set at 7—5, chiefly through errors, and with defeat staring him in the face, worked desperately to pull out the second by the close score of 9—7. With the match square, he was still unable to get his effective game into real working order, and with the score again running to deuce, it was a tossup when time was called.

A slight surprise came yesterday in the straight-set victory of H. L. Westfall over his fellow-veteran, H. H. Manchester, the scores being 6—2, 6—4. Manchester's steady driving was not sufficient to upset the more varied game of his experienced opponent, and he was a little less dependable than usual in his covering of the court. Westfall, however, had him in difficulties throughout, and never let up in his effective court tactics, working hard at the net, and pounding Manchester's backhand to good purpose. Jay Anderson was the only other players to reach the round before the semi-finals, disposing of J. Roy in easy fashion at 6—1, 6—1.

The newly returned Charles Chambers continued his steady progress through the second round with a one-sided victory over J. La Ferra, 6—0, 6—2, and is now in a fair way to catch up with the rest of the field. His shots yesterday had far more accuracy than on the occasion of his first appearance, and his old command of court tactics is once more coming into evidence as his improved technique restores confidence in his strokes.

R. J. Gatcomb of the West Side Club, after advancing through a default, met his clubmate, Harold Taylor, in the third round yesterday and gave him a stiff argument before succumbing in straight sets, 6—8, 7—5. Gatcomb's hard drive and service were important factors in his play and might have brought victory if they had been kept under better control. Overhead, also, the West Sider showed flashes of great brilliancy, but he was unable to sustain such streaks long enough to overcome the consistent, all-around game of the national junior champion. Taylor volleyed well in the pinches, and managed to keep command of the situation to the end of the match. The summaries:

Long Island Championship Singles.—Second Round—Charles Chambers defeated H. La Ferra, 6—0, 6—2; R. J. Gatcomb won from M. J. Soper by default.

Third Round—Jay Anderson defeated Frank Fall, 8—6, 6—0; Harold Taylor defeated R. J. Gatcomb, 6—3, 7—5; H. R. Burroughs defeated W. J. Shannon, 6—0, 6—0.

CALIFORNIANS TAKE MATCH.

WIMBLEDON, England, June 24, (Associated Press.)—In the tennis championship contests here today Willis Davis of California beat P. M. Davson of England by a score of 6—2, 5—7, 2—6, 6—2, 6—2.

Clarence J. Griffin of California beat J. B. Ward of England, 6—2, 6—2, 6—0.

Davis was in fine form against Davson, and the match occasioned the greatest interest. The American player served magnificently, and his pace was declared to be equal to that of the noted Australian player, G. L. Patterson. Davson also was in excellent form.

The day was a noteworthy one for the American competitors, Lieutenant Dean Mathey and Davis both making fine showings. Mathey beat Raymond, one of South Africa's best players, 3—6, 6—2, 6—4, 6—1. Mathey's extremely mobile net play was an outstanding feature of the match.

C. Garland, United States, defeated E. Borrett, England, 6—0, 6—0, 6—1, but A. M. Lovibond, New York, succumbed to the French champion, André Gobert, in straight sets, 6—3, 6—2, 6—4.

GAYWOOD WINS AT NETS.

Defeats Friedberg in Manhattan Junior Tourney.

Only two matches were actually played in the Manhattan Junior Championship at the New York Tennis Club yesterday, D. Gaywood advancing by a one-sided victory over H. L. Friedberg, 6—1, 6—1, while F. M. Norton won a somewhat harder contest from J. Campbell, both sets going at 6—3. G. Dawson was given a default over J. Welsh, all three winners taking their places in the brackets of the third round.

DOMINANT RETURNS TO RACES AND WINS

Whitney's Son of Delhi Beats Field Easily Despite Three Years' Layoff.

One of the most important links in the chain of comebacks that has added to the interest of the racing season was forged yesterday when Harry Payne Whitney's Dominant made his appearance at Aqueduct and galloped off with the first race at six furlongs. Dominant had been away from the races so long that many of the newcomers in the sport wondered what the six-year-old son of Delhi had done to warrant his being made favorite in the field of six, which included S. C. Hildreth's Cirrus, which was making his first start of the season.

Many considered Dominant the leading two-year-old of 1915, in which year he won the Hopeful Stakes at Saratoga, but the following year he broke down in the Kentucky Derby and had to be retired. Since then he has been roaming the pastures of Brookdale Farm, where he thrived so well that Trainer Rowe put him in training with the idea of duplicating the feats of Old Rosebud and other noted comebacks.

It was a great task to ask of a horse to re-enter competition after an absence of more than three years, but Dominant accomplished it in a manner that indicates he may be a factor in future handicap events. He had to pick up 124 pounds, and there were some shifty sprinters opposed to him, one of these being Andrew, which has returned to the races this season after doing stud duty. Dominant handled his impost as if it were a feather, and stepped to the front at the start, to gallop further and further away from the field at every stride, until he won with five lengths to spare. Ima Frank was second all the way, and took the place by four lengths from Cirrus. The time of the six furlongs was 1.12 1-5.

Walter J. Salmon added another stake to his list by the aid of Eddie Rickenbacker, which scored easily over a field of eight in the Canarsie Selling Stakes for two-year-olds, at five furlongs. R. H. McPotter's Romany was the one most fancied to defeat Eddie Rickenbacker, but the latter closed favorite, and justified the confidence reposed in him. Eddie Rickenbacker broke quickly from the outside, and Troxler rushed him across from the outside, so that he had the coveted inside position when he reached the beginning of the long stretch. After that all Troxler had to do was to keep his mount going, and at the finish he was two length in front of O. J. Decker's Headman, which beat Romany by a length and a half for the place. The time of 1:00 4-5 has been beaten only once since the stake was first run over the five-furlong route, in 1914. There was no profit in the victory for Owner Salmon, as Eddie Rickenbacker, which was entered to be sold for $2,300, was bid up to $4,100 by S. McNaughton, and retained by his owner for an extra $5 bid. As the winner's share of the purse amounted to $1,675, Mr. Salmon actually was out $130 for the pleasure of seeing his colors in front.

Another number of more than ordinary interest was the Regret Handicap, for mares, at a mile, in which some high-class fillies and mares went to the post. With the exception of Duchess Lace all were well supported, with Mrs. J. E. Davis's Ophelia closing favorite over Rose d'Or and Salvestra. The talent had again made a good selection, for Ophelia went to the front at the start and never was headed. Loftus had W. S. Kilmer's My Friend in second place all the way to the stretch, and evidently under a pull. When let down and asked to run My Friend quit, and Fairy Wand essayed the hopeless tas of chasing Ophelia. Fairy Wand could not get close enough to be dangerous, and Ophelia won with a length and a half to spare. Salvestra finished third, five lengths behind Fairy Wand. Ophelia stepped the distance in the smart time of 1:38 3-5.

J. W. May showed that he has a very speedy filly in Head Over Heels, which was made an odds-on favorite in the last race, for two-year-old filles, at four and a half furlongs. Head Over Heels headed the field of ten from the start, and never left the issue in doubt, winning by three lengths from Montford Jones's Thelma E., a well-played outsider.

There was a large crowd present, very closely approaching that of the opening day, and it might be said that a pleasant time was had by all, for five of the six favorites were successful, and most of them at prices which enabled the ordinary player to make profitable investments.

HARMON LEADS IN JUNIOR TITLE GOLF

Both match and medal play, unusual in these days of leisurely starts, was undertaken by a field of youngsters to open the sixth Metropolitan Golf Association junior championship tournament at the Siwanoy Country Club yesterday. Only those of 19 years or under were eligible, yet the scores returned compared favorably with any ordinary tournament. Peter Harmon of the Scottish-American Club won the medal with a score of 78, two strokes better than G. A. Bijur of Essex Fells.

Charles Somner, regarded by some as another golf prodigy, visited Siwanoy for the first time and was not at all pleased at taking an even hundred for the round. This lad is only 13 years old and usually gets around Van Cortlandt in low figures. His score yesterday placed him in the third eight. Those with scores of 91, J. G. McMahon of Sleepy Hollow and Nathaniel Stevens of Plainfield, tied for last place in the first division, and on the playoff McMahon won. His opponent topped his drive at the nineteenth and couldn't get better than a 6 at the hole.

Harmon's worst hole in the testing circuit was a 7 at the fourth. After taking 41 to the turn he came back in fine style, getting "bird" 3's at the sixteenth and seventeenth. His 37 coming home was only two strokes worse than par.

Out ....5 4 3 7 5 4 4 4 4—41
In ....5 3 4 4 5 4 3 3 6—37—78

After the last of the scores had been returned players were immediately drawn for match play. Harmon was bracketed with Alfred Nathan, Jr., son of the former New York A. C. champion. Nathan started out like a winner. In fact, he held the lead for thirteen holes, but Harmon finished strong, and finally won by 1 up. T. Tobin, representing the New York Golf Club, played too well for McMahon, winning by 6 and 5, while G. A. Bomann, Jr., and J. Berrien also won their matches. In his division Somner defeated W. L. Simmons in a match carried to the seventeenth green.

An extra attraction in the afternoon consisted of a driving competition, won by Tobin, who had a total of 749 yards for three drives. T. K. Lomas of the Scottish-American Club was second with 723 yards.

The scores and summary:

Championship Eight.—Peter Harmon, Scottish-American, 41, 37—78; G. A. Bijur, Essex Fells, 39, 41—80; J. Berrien, Upper Montclair, 45, 38—83; A. Nathan, Jr., Deal, 42, 41—83; T. Tobin, New York Golf, 43, 43—86; G. A. Bomann, Jr., Plainfield, 44, 43—87; A. C. Willis, Shackamaxon, 47, 43—90, and J. G. McMahon, Sleepy Hollow, 49, 42—91.

Second Eight.—N. Stevens, Plainfield, 48, 43—91; F. Taussig, St. Andrews, 47, 45—92; A. Kleppe, Upper Montclair, 48, 44—92; Charles Pierson, Essex Fells, 46, 47—93; W. F. Dorflinger, Deal, 47, 46—93; S. Berrien, Upper Montclair, 48, 46—94; P. Kountze, Bedford, 49, 45—94, and H. C. Bell, Scottish-American, 51, 43—94.

Third Eight.—W. Howe, Bedford, 49, 46—95; J. J. Trippe, Apawamis, 49, 46—95; W. Farrell, Jr., Scottish-American, 45, 51—96; T. K. Lomas, Scottish-American, 46, 50—96; C. Bryant, Jr., Wykagyl, 47, 50—97; B. Posener, Malba, 50, 48—98; Charles Somner, New York Golf, 49, 51—100; B. H. Furlong, St. Andrews, 53, 48—101.

First Round, Championship Eight.—Bomann beat Willis, 5 up and 3 to play; J. Berrian beat Bijur, 4 up and 2 to play; Tobin beat McMahon, 6 up and 5 to play; Harmon beat Nathan, 1 up.

Second Eight, First Round.—Pierson beat Dorflinger, 7 up and 5 to play; Kountze beat Stevens, 4 up and 2 to play; Taussig beat S. Berrien, 3 up and 2 to play; Bell beat Kleppe, 3 up and 2 to play.

Third Eight, First Round.—Farrell beat Posener, 2 up and 1 to play; Somner beat Simmons, 2 up and 1 to play; Howe beat Lomas, 2 up; Trippe beat Bryant, 1 up.

Fourth Eight, First Round.—Grimler beat Fredenberg, 4 up and 3 to play; Solomons drew a bye; Furlong beat Hoyt, 3 up and 1 to play; Mitchell drew a bye

WILLIAMS AND JOHNSON WIN

Favorites Are Victors in Delaware Tennis Tournament.

WILMINGTON, Del., June 24.—All of the favorites won their matches today in the annual lawn tennis tournament for the Delaware State Championship.

In the singles R. Norris Williams II., former national singles champion, and Harry C. Johnson, former mixed doubles titleholder, each won a fourth round match. Williams defeated Percy Osborne of Philadelphia in straight sets, 6—2, 6—3, while Johnson eliminated Harvey Lake, also of Philadelphia, 6—2, 6—2.

William T. Tilden, Craig Biddle, Wallace F. Johnson, and Carl Fischer were unable to play their fourth round matches today, owing to their meeting in the final round of the Pennsylvania State doubles championship at Philadelphia. Vincent Richards defaulted to Frank Thomas.

Williams and Johnson also won a first round match in the doubles, eliminating C. V. Graham and Arthur Picolet, 6—2, 6—1.

PARKE OUT OF DAVIS PLAY.

Retires from Tennis for Year Because of Heart Trouble.

Major J. C. Parke will not be able to take part in the play for the Davis Cup, which will be held at Eastbourne, England, on July 25, 26, and 28, because of injury to his heart. The matches are to decide the tie between South Africa and the British Isles.

Because of his weak heart doctors have forbidden him to play for a year. Major Parke commanded the 10th Battalion, Essex Regiment, in the hundred days of victory last year and was wounded at Toussey.

TENNIS TEAM CHOSEN.

Western Players to Oppose East in Sectional Play.

CHICAGO, June 24.—Samuel T. Hardy, A. L. Green, Jr., and Ralph H. Burdick of Chicago have been chosen for the Western tennis team which is to oppose the East in the annual sectional team champions of the country at Cincinnati on July 10, it was announced today.

They will be teammates of William M. Johnston, Adel Graven, and Robert Kinsey, California stars. The pick of the East expected to line up on the hard courts against the Chicago-California combination includes W. T. Tilden, Jr., Philadelphia; Vincent Richards, Yonkers, N. Y.; Ichiya Kumagae, formerly of Japan and now of New York; S. H. Voshell, New York, and Wallace Johnson, Philadelphia.

JOHNSON AND BIDDLE WIN.

Capture Pennsylvania Title in Tennis Doubles.

PHILADELPHIA, June 24.—Wallace F. Johnson and Craig Biddle won the Pennsylvania State lawn tennis doubles championship here today by defeating William T. Tilden, II. and Carl Fisher in the final round. The score was 6—4, 6—2, 6—3.

NEW A. A. U. TERRITORY.

Western New York and Indiana to Have Separate Associations.

The first definite steps toward a fulfillment of the redistricting platform adopted at the last national A. A. U. convention have been taken. Separate associations for the supervision of all amateur sport will be formed in Western New York and Indiana. Frederick W. Rubien, secretary-treasurer of the A. A. U., announced the plans, declaring that the proposed new associations are to be formed from territory taken from the Metropolitan A. A. U. and Central A. A. U. It is expected the plan will result in the promotion of amateur sports on a larger scale within the territories of the new associations.

Herman Obertubbesing, Chairman of the Redistricting Committee of the A. A. U., engineered the plans, which will result in the addition of two new associations to the A. A. U. The headquarters of the Western New York A. A. U. will be in Buffalo. The association's territory will include Syracuse and all the western part of the State, taking in Oswego, Onondago, Courtland, and Broome Counties. The official title of the new organization will be the Western New York Association of he A. A. U. The territory of the Central A. A. U., redistricted to form the Indiana Association of the A. A. U., consists of the entire State of Indiana. The headquarters of this association will be in Indianapolis.

WOMEN END TOURNAMENTS.

Mrs. Chilvers Gains Dual Honors in Play on Scarsdale Links.

The last one-day tournament of the Women's Metropolitan Golf Association was held over the links of the Scarsdale Golf and Country Club yesterday, about thirty women competing. Mrs. William Chilvers, one of the best of the Dunwoodie players, was low for both gross and net, her card reading 92—5—87. Mrs. J. C. Barclay won the net, when Mrs. Chilvers took the gross prize offered by the entertaining club. Mrs. H. J. Blumenthal of Fairview won the approaching and putting contest, taking eight strokes for three tries.

Miss F. Marcus of Ocean, with 96—6—90, finished third in the handicap, with Mrs. G. F. Uebelacher, President of the association, 98—7—91, and Mrs. R. A. Anderson of Siwanoy, 114—23—91, tied for fourth place.

EVANS AND SAWYER WIN.

Defeat Kirkby and White on Canadian Links.

TORONTO, June 24.—"Chick" Evans, Jr., former national open and amateur golf champion, and D. E. Sawyer, both of Chicago, today defeated Oswald Kirkby, Englewood, N. J., and Gardner White, New York, in the second of a series of matches here for the benefit of the Canadian Red Cross.

The score was 2 up and 1 to go. The best card turned in was that of Evans's, 73.

LIFTS BAN ON MANAGERS.

Southern Association Rescinds Rule on Bench Leaders.

Bench managers in the Southern Association are no longer required to wear civilian clothes and remain upon the bench before and during contests. The rule which placed these restrictions on them, and which was unique in baseball legislation, has been rescinded by President Martin.

Under the ruling managers who did not play a position on the club were not permitted to wear a uniform or to bat to the team in practice before the game. The rule proved so ridiculous and was the subject of so much adverse comment that it was short lived.

HOOFBEATS.

Further evidence of the prosperity of racing ventures was furnished yesterday when James Shevlin, President of the Queens County Jockey Club, announced that the added money in all overnight handicaps would be increased from $800 to $1,000. This innovation went into effect with the Regret Handicap, run yesterday.

Prince Aage of Denmark will be a visitor at the races today, as the guest of Andrew Miller and the Queens County Jockey Club.

H. B. Dailey, who lost his winning plater, Ivry, by the claiming route last week, brought his stable up to its old standard by claiming War Spirit, which ran second in the second race. The price paid was $2,186.

W. H. Karrick will be one of the first trainers to ship to Saratoga. At least part of his large string will leave for the Spa within a few days.

W. P. Gilpin, racing official and author on turf subjects, was a visitor at Aqueduct. He has just come on from Montana, where he had charge of the ranch owned by R. Lawrence Smith.

O. J. Decker's Headman is one of the worst-mannered of the present crop of two-year-olds. He cut all kinds of capers going to the post for the Canarsie Stakes, and the mounted leader had to turn back and take him in charge.

There is a great rush for the liberal purses offered at Aqueduct. For the first race today twenty are named, and besides these, sixteen horses were excluded.

William McDaniel, trainer for A. H. Diaz, has arranged to ship the Cuban owner's string to Saratoga July 10.

Business men who fail to catch the last regular race train to Aqueduct will be able to reach the course by the regular train to Rockaway Beach, which leaves Flatbush Avenue at 2:11 P. M., and stops at the track.

PRINCETON GOLFERS IN LEAD FOR TITLE

Team Turns in Score of 672 on First Day's Play for Intercollegiate Championship.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, June 24. — The Princeton University team leads its five rivals in the first day play of the seventy-two-hole medal play competition for the team championship of the Intercollegiate Golf Association. The six colleges played over the championship east course of the Merion Cricket Club today and while most of the colleges were represented by five or more men, the total of the four lowest men on each team will count and the lowest aggregate total will win the championship. Princeton leads at the end of thirty-six holes with 672. The other colleges totaled as follows:

Owing to the big lead Princeton is a pronounced favorite, but Yale has a chance to beat out the Orange and Black. Harvard and Penn will probably fight it out for third honors, while Columbia and Williams are hopelessly out of it. Princeton had the best balanced team and there were only nine strokes between the first and fourth men. Yale had two stars, but the other men dragged down the total considerably.

Penn had no low scores to pull down the total and there were only ten points between the top and the two men who tied for fourth place. Harvard scored consistently, but, like Penn, it had no stars to help. Columbia had only one first-class player and between him and the second men there was a wide gap of 28 strokes. Williams made a poor showing all the way down the line.

Captain H. Maxwell of the Princeton team was the only team captain who did not figure in the scoring. On the other hand, Captain T. B. Davis of Yale had the lowest total of the day, scoring 156. His afternoon card of 75 was the second low score of the day. Captain Ralph Wales led the Crimson players with the low total, as did Captain D. Rhoads of Penn. Captain A. L. Walker was far ahead of the rest of the Columbia players, while Acting Captain W. P. Black led the forlorn hopes of the Williams team.

The card of Walker of Columbia was a very fine bit of scoring. He and Sidney Scott of Yale and T. B. Davis of Yale were the only three golfers to break 80. Walker is the youngster who was beaten in the final of the Metropolitan championship a few weeks ago by Oswald Kirkby, and last Saturday he won the Fox Hills tournament. His card of 74 is only four strokes over par, and it contained ten par holes and two birdies.

The other thirty-six holes will be played today. Tomorrow the collegians will qualify for the individual championship. In the afternoon the first round will be played. On Friday the second and semi-final rounds will be fought, and there will be a thirty-six-hole final for the championship on Saturday.

Yale University—T. B. Davis, 156; Sidney Scott, 164; H. I. McMillian, 179; D. Colburn, 188; total, 687.

WHITNEY TIED FOR LEAD.

Turns in Card of 76 in Southern Golf Tourney.

NEW ORLEANS, June 24.—Nelson Whitney, New Orleans, and Ellis Knowles, Pensacola, Fla., tied for low-medal scores in the qualifying round of the seventeenth championship tournament of the Southern Golf Association, which opened here today, both men turning in cards of 76.

The qualifying round was played in a continuous downpour of rain. This kept the scores high, cards of 97 and better enabling sixty-four to qualify for match play tomorrow.

Western League "World's Series."

At a meeting of the club owners of the Western League it was decided to stage a miniature "world series" for the Charles Webb Murphy Cup at the end of the pennant race this Fall. Seven games will be played between the champions and the runners up.

Silk Jobbers Tied Up.

Late deliveries are not only a source of worry to retail buyers in the silk trade but are also causing trouble in the jobbing branch. This condition is beginning to close the only source of supply to retailers and cutters-up who either desire to place further orders or want to get merchandise to fill in the vacant places in their stock rooms. The manufacturers are declining to make any transactions for the coming season and are also set against moving deliveries forward when such requests are made.

Big Demand for Sweaters.

Double the amount of business that has been taken by the sweater manufacturers for Fall is offered by buyers who see a shortage ahead. It is not so much a question of popular styles with the trade as one of goods of any sort. Even though this wide distribution is general, there is said to be a call for lighter shades than usual for the Fall season where buyers think it worth while to express their preference. The strike called in the trade yesterday may have a serious effect on deliveries, as the manufacturers believe the trouble is caused by the radical elements alone and does not represent the desires of their workers in general. For this reason it was said there is likelihood of a fight to the finish. Only several of the houses were reported to have shut down yesterday as a result of the strike call.

Good Prices at Auction.

Desirable merchandise brought fine prices at the season's closing sale of dress goods, men's wear fabrics, &c., which was held yesterday at 599 and 601 Broadway by Burling & Dole. A sample was the price of $4.40 a yard that was got for blue tricotine, practically similar cloth at a recent sale having brought $2.50 a yard. Bidding was especially spirited when the better goods were on the block. Among those present were buyers from Baltimore, Boston, Chicago, and several other prominent cities. They included retailers, the smaller jobbers, and a number of cutters-up. Tomorrow morning, beginning at 10:30 o'clock, Burling & Dole will sell at the above address a quantity of assorted merchandise for the account of the United States Navy. Among the goods will be 1,300 pieces of woolens, serges, &c.; cotton drills, sheetings, wadding, thread, &c., and a large quantity of shoes.

Jewelry Sales Continue Heavy.

Sales of merchandise of all varieties continue heavy in the local jewelry trade; so heavy that in many cases it will be impossible to fill them for some time, in view of the present shortage of skilled workers. The labor situation, in fact, is the only drawback. There has not been any particular change in the character of the demand from buyers, the wanted goods including everything from very cheap specialties to the most elaborate diamond and platinum pieces. Platinum prices stay high, being quoted yesterday at $105 an ounce for medium metal and $117 an ounce for that containing 10 per cent. or iridium.

Gray Goods Prices Advance.

Further advances in printcloth prices marked yesterday's activities in gray goods here. Large sales of 38½-inch 64-60s were made at 16 cents for deliveries running to the end of the year, but toward the close of the day nothing less than 16¼ cents would be accepted for any position by the mills. At 19¾ cents business was also done on 39-inch 68-72s for delivery up to Jan. 1, while 21½ cents was paid for 72-76s in that width. While 39-inch 80-squares are well sustained at 27 cents, buyers are apparently not eager to take them at that figure and will not trade past it. For 38½-inch 60-48s 13¾ cents was paid. Not much was done in the coarser yarn cloths during the day, but specialties duplicated their performance of Monday at advancing prices. Fine-yarn goods were firmly held on the basis of 15 cents for 40-inch 88-80s 3.50-yard combed lawns.

Handing Over an Account.

The competitive aspect of business has almost been lost sight of in the wholesale lines where the present boom in merchandise is at its height. The representative of one house described yesterday how he took one of his best customers in to see a competitive house on the floor below him in order to get this retailer "fixed up" with some goods he badly needed. This novel introduction of a customer by one competitor to another did not cause any surprise to the man whose aid was sought. He just threw up his hands and said he couldn't do a thing for the retailer, whose account a short time ago he would have gone miles to get.

To Hold Furniture Conferences.

American manufacturers and exporters of furniture who are interested in trade possibilities in that line with Chile, Peru, Bolivia, Ecuador, Colombia, Brazil, and Argentina are invited to get in touch with United States Trade Commissioner Harold E. Everly of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce. Mr. Everly will be at the local office of the bureau, Room 734, Custom House, on Thursday, Friday, and Saturday of this week, and appointments may be made either by letter or by telephoning Broad 794. Mr. Everly recently returned from an extended trip through the countries mentioned. While there he studied especially trade possibilities in furniture for houses, offices, and public buildings. He also made a supplementary study of the situation in those countries as it affects a wide variety of particular kinds of furniture, such as reed and rattan articles, metal beds, etc.

Petticoats in High Favor.

The tight skirt has not had the slightest effect on the demand for petticoats, according to a representative manufacturer, and the business taken during the past season was far in excess of what it has been for some time. Present orders are of the most satisfactory volume, and the only concern of the manufacturers is to deliver what is required. The popularity of tricolette has been one of the important reasons for the great boom in the petticoat industry, as it was pointed out that dresses made of this material can scarcely be worn without a petticoat.

Absent Workers Got Increases.

The plan of a local sweater manufacturer in compensating his employes who entered the service went a step further than the ordinary ones. He did not stop at paying the difference between what the Government paid his men and their salary in his employ. Any increases that were given to his workers while the others were away were also allotted to the latter. Thus, when one of his stock clerks came back he received a check for $750, which included a weekly increase for some time back, and the clerk started at a salary of $7 a week more than he was getting when he left.

Look for Big House Trade.

The lateness with which Fall lines of coats and suits are being assembled this year, as a result of the strike and the slowness with which many of the employes are returning to work, will make it impossible for all of the preliminary trips to be made for the coming season. Because of this a record house business is looked for. Buyers not in the habit of coming to this market if they can avoid it will be required to do so in the absence of salesmen's trips, and these, coupled with the "regulars," are expected to swell the attendance in the local showrooms to record proportions. The higher prices that have grown out of the recent change of work basis in the industry are not expected to interfere with buying to a very great extent, for the country is regarded as being in too prosperous a condition to quibble over the difference between this and last season's prices.

Propose McKenna Square.

At the request of members of the 165th Regiment and of residents of Long Island City, Alderman Samuel Burden is endeavoring to have the Board of Aldermen name a small park at the junction of Twelfth Street and Jackson Avenue, Long Island City, McKenna Square, in honor of Major James McKenna of the 165th Regiment, who was killed while leading his battalion at the Battle of the Ourcq. He was the highest ranking officer from Queens to lose his life during the war. Major McKenna was the son of James McKenna, a former Postmaster of Long Island City. He was engaged in the practice of law with his father at 2 Rector Street at the outbreak of the war.

Asks Letters in Cronkhite Estate.

Application for letters of administration on the estate of Colonel Henry McLean Cronkhite, U. S. A., who died June 15 in the U. S. Military Hospital No. 1, was filed in the Surrogates' Court yesterday by his widow, Mrs. Nina Colbert Cronkhite, of 26 Gramercy Park. She said her husband left $3,500 in real estate and a like amount in personal property. The only other heir is his son, Major. Gen. Adelbert Cronkhite.

BUSINESS RECORDS

In Town.

TANCER & BRO.—A petition in bankruptcy has been filed against Benjamin Tancer and David Tancer, individually and as copartners, trading as Tancer & Bro., dealers in butter and eggs at 18 Harrison Street, by the following creditors: Marcia Silbert, $2,800, and Morris Remson, $400.

JOSEPH KISSELSTEIN, a plumber at 66 East 113th Street, has filed a petition in bankruptcy, with liabilities of $7,724 and assets of $85, consisting of stock and tools. Among the largest creditors are Louis S. Walter and Otto Walter, $6,457, deficiency bond and mortgage claim, and Mendel Katz, $1,000.

JOSEPH L. BAUMAN, an insurance agent at 638 West 160th Street, has filed a petition in bankruptcy, with liabilities of $2,448 and no assets. Among the largest creditors are David Bauman, $638; Hyman Bauman, $586, and Harry A. Wilkus, $446.

MARY T. A. J. RYAN, a school teacher of 520 West 152d Street, has filed a petition in bankruptcy, with liabilities of $2,027 and assets of $15, consisting of cash in bank.

MOYSE & WOLSELEY.—Judge Hand has appointed Morris Israel receiver for Armand Moyse and Enrique de G. Wolseley, known as Henry or Enrique Grossberger Wolseley, trading as Moyse & Wolseley, manufacturers' export selling agents at 132 Nassau Street and 1,265 Broadway, in $500 bond. Liabilities are said to be approximately $25,000 and assets about $1,000.

J. E. LEVI & CO.—Judge Hand has appointed Elnar Chrystie receiver for Joseph E. Levi, doing business as J. E. Levi & Co., brokers, in $2,000 bond. An assignment is said to have been made on March 29, 1919.

Dismissal.

COULON BERTHOUD & CO.—Judge Hand has issued an order dismissing the petition in bankruptcy filed on May 13, 1914, against Alfred Edward Berthoud, trading as Coulon, Berthoud & Co., bankers.

and their correspondents throughout the world

The personal introduction, which obtains for the traveller the services and facilities of the Correspondents named in the list attached to the Letter of Credit should, in addition to its financial safeguards, recommend the Letter of Credit, especially in these times, as desirable in the highest degree as a financial arrangement for those contemplating foreign travel.

A Record For Safety

When a corporation has always paid the interest and principal on its obligations, and in addition has an earning capacity which has permitted it to pay substantial stock dividends regularly for years, there is reason to believe in the safety of the bonds and notes issued by that corporation.

We recommend at current quotations the note of a corporation which has the above record. The yield at present is over 7.35%.

Conservative Investments for July Funds

We have issued a special letter explaining why experts are of the opinion that a large volume of securities should be absorbed within the July investment period. We also mention a number of conservative investments which, in our judgment, are to be purchased with entire confidence as to intrinsic security value, combined with every reasonable assurance of ultimate profit. FINANCIAL MARKETS

Short Selling Influences Prices to Lower Levels—Money Situation Continues Tense.

There was a pronounced decline in stock market prices yesterday which was rather more attributable to conditions close to the market than to outside news, especially that relating to the signing of the peace treaty. After a weak opening there was a steady progression toward lower levels with only feeble rallying power until the last hour of trading. The condition was brought about apparently by the fact that the market had thoroughly discounted the stimulus which would normally be derived from the capitulation of Germany. It was another case of a market reacting on favorable news developments.

That which contributed materially to the decline was the putting out of rather extensive short lines which were infiltrated through the general list. The weak opening—prices in many cases being as much as a point below their close of Monday—augmented the desire of many to take profits on the bear side, and while the reaction was orderly it was nevertheless persistent until the last hour. Strange as it may seem a rally came then, in conjunction with an advance in money rates to 8 and 9 per cent. on mixed and industrial collateral, respectively. It has been the usual procedure for recent markets to decline on a money stringency. The exception of yesterday was superinduced by the very fact which had caused the reaction, mainly, that traders were not at all sure of their position, and those on the short side were disposed to cover rather than carry their commitments to another day.

The shortage of money yesterday was not by any means acute. Renewals were made at 6 and 6½ per cent., the mark which has prevailed for some time, with only an occasional exception. The fact remains, however, that there is little prospect of money being easy until well after the July 1 requirements have been taken care of. Furthermore, it is known that the Government has been making withdrawals from local banks, and it is said that the flow of money westward to handle the crop movement has already begun. This presumes that money for stock market speculation will not be in abundance. The money situation has, however, not as yet induced any heavy liquidation. From all accounts the public which has been taking part in the upward movement of prices is protected by substantial margins, and the flurries which have come have not dislodged holders.

The crop report of next month will be scanned with keen interest as being a final indication of what may be expected. Should the favorable interpretation of the June report be again in evidence it would mean that the money necessary to finance the crop movement would have to be in much larger volume than heretofore. Also it would be a barometer of business conditions throughout the country.

In yesterday's trading on the Stock Exchange the only degree of firmness was in the rails. Some of these issues not only succeeded in holding their position of the previous close but actually made slight advances while the rest of the market was receding. Comparatively speaking the rails have responded very little to the upward turn and hence were not an object of pressure. The food issues were in prominence, Corn Products, for instance, which was one of the strongest, moving up to a new high record for all time.

Sterling exchange was weak, declining in the late afternoon to 4.59⅝ for checks and 4.60⅛ for cables. This carried sterling down to almost its low point for the year. Francs moved over a very narrow range, closing unchanged. There was some improvement in lire, while pesetas were weak.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

A Significant Increase.

The shipping world has received the Department of Commerce detailed trade record for April with a fair degree of satisfaction, as it shows that more than 31½ per cent. of the ocean tonnage carried away from the United States in that month was in vessels flying the American flag. This was an increase of more than 10 per cent. over the corresponding month last year, and is taken to indicate that America is resuming her rightful position in the world merchant marine. At the same time, shippers and shipowners, the latter especially, are becoming more and more impatient for a definite announcement of the Government shipping program for this and next year. Some shipowners say that if the legislation framed by the present Congress proves remedial and fair, America will, in a comparatively short time, lead the world in the transportation of her foreign trade.

The Bond Market.

Bond men report that the market, while not particularly active, is in fair shape to absorb medium-sized offerings from time to time, provided the price of such offerings is right. No one class of bonds, unless it may be the Liberty issues, is particularly favored by the purchasing houses, and it is reported that public utilities, industrials, and in some few instances rails are about equally acceptable. It was said yesterday in authoritative quarters that the secondary distribution of all the Liberty issues has virtually been accomplished, and that the final distribution is now going on. When this has been finished an upturn in the Liberty bond prices will follow, and their attractiveness as investments will level down to the point where the old-line railroad bonds will come back into favor.

July Railroad Requirements.

With the July 1 railroad financial requirements, amounting to more than $100,000,000, only five business days away, it was asserted in the financial district yesterday that no word has been received from the Railroad Administration that it would aid in meeting a situation considered acute in banking circles. On the other hand, attention was drawn to the fact that between now and July 1 President Wilson probably would sign the bill appropriating $750,000,000 for the Railroad Administration, and a tense atmosphere may be immediately eased by the Director General. As one banker suggested: "The situation is not only interesting, but one of potential possibilities."

Third Avenue Earnings.

The comparative income statement of the Third Avenue Railway system for May shows an increase of $111,692 in operating revenue and an increase in operating expenses of $124,690 over May, 1918. Gross income for the month decreased $4,393 and net income was only $400, compared with $4,704 in May, 1918.

Banking in Coahuila.

The State of Coahuila, in Mexico, has decreed that all industries and all manufactories established within its jurisdiction should be free from taxation for ten years, but this may not prove the attraction to foreign capital that the Mexicans believe. The report of the decree issued from Mexican sources states that a number of North American banks are seriously considering the opening of branch offices in that State soon, but inquiry in the financial district has failed to disclose the name of any New York institution so inclined. Local bankers assert that they must be assured of ample protection by the Mexican Government before they will venture south of the Rio Grande.

Railroad Legislation.

The dispatches from Washington to the effect that the House Committee on Interstate Commerce will probably begin hearings on railroad legislation early this week was not a great surprise to those in the financial district who have been keeping in close touch with the situation. It is believed among some railroad bankers and operators that Congress realizes that the country is demanding quick action on railroad legislation and that the hearings which are to begin soon will be expedited and real constructive laws will be framed.

Oil Shares Less Popular.

For some time it has been apparent that the oil stocks were not in high favor with the public. As compared with what it was at the heighth of the oil boom, the trading now is in very moderate volume. Furthermore, many of the oils showed rather pronounced declines during yesterday's reaction, indicating a lack of supporting orders. Royal Dutch, New York, was off more than 2 points, and there was a decline of more than 3 points in Royal Dutch shares. Among the higher-priced issues, Texas Company was off more than 6 points.

Western Holders of Stocks.

The bull market, according to the interpretation of many, had its incipiency in the West, where at the time there was an abundance of money. The participation of the Westerners in the market has continued, but the question is raised as to how the West will act in the stock market if money rates are tightened, not here, but in the West itself. The time is approaching for making arrangements to finance the movement of crops, and if the rate for money in the West is high it is considered possible that the holders of securities here may prefer to get out of the market and make use of the money received therefrom for purely Western operations. There is no way of gauging the extent to which the Westerners are interested in the New York stock market, but reports are to the effect that the holdings are still large.

Little Liquidation.

Up to the present the stock market has not seen any extensive liquidation. There has been some to be sure, under cover of the strength which has been apparent during recent days, but there has been little hurried selling such as would find reflection in a market striking quickly for lower levels. Just at present the holders of long stock are apparently awaiting developments and this has, in part at least, made for a trading market. It was this condition which subjected the market to the attack of short selling yesterday.

The Market Reacts.

There was nothing uncertain about yesterday's stock market; it moved consistently to lower levels except in the last hour when there was a rally brought about by short-covering. On the way down the market met with little support. Recessions of as much as a point at the opening were run into declines of from 2 to 3 points in a number of issues. The reason lay mainly in the fact that the hesitant market of the day before had been turned into a medium for short selling. Proof of this apparently came when the decline was checked in the last hour as money rates moved forward to 8 and 9 per cent. There was apparently little direct connection between the market action and outside events.

Southern Pacific Advances.

A rally in Southern Pacific, after the stock has been as low as 105⅝, carried the issue well above 108. The gain was made in the final trading hour, buying power being attracted to the issue because of a decision against the Government in a California oil case which was considered analogous to that which is pending between the Southern Pacific and the United States. The market action of Southern Pacific for some time has been closely associated with the prospective outcome of the suit regarding oil lands.

New High for Corn Products.

Corn Products was one of the outstanding strong stocks in yesterday's trading. There was good demand for the issue throughout the day and a new high was touched at 79½, from which there was only a slight reaction. It is not so long ago that Corn Products was selling below 30. The advance in the stock has been commensurate with the more favorable reports as to earnings that have been steadily coming forth. Dividends on the common shares are no closer, in so far as official announcement is concerned, than when the stock was selling well below its present level.

BANKERS PRESENT RAILROAD PROGRAM

Special Committee Outlines Plan for Financing of $400,000,000 Equipment.

MAY ISSUE CERTIFICATES

The special committee of bankers of which Jerome J. Hanauer of Kuhn, Loeb & Co. is Chairman, has presented its plan for the financing of the $400,000,000 railroad equipment ordered and allocated by the Railroad Administration to T. DeWitt Cuyler, Chairman of the Association of Railway Executives. The latter will in turn present it to the special committee of that association, and the committee will discuss it with representatives of the Railroad Administration probably during the latter half of the week. The announcement was made yesterday that the report will not be made public until after it has been submitted to the Railroad Administration.

While the details will be withheld until after the Railroad Administration has had an opportunity to digest it, it is understood that the plan calls broadly for an issuance of some $380,000,000 railway trust certificates and their offering in the open market, the proceeds of the sale to go to the Railroad Administration to reimburse it in part for the approximate $400,000,000 it has already advanced to the equipment manufacturers. It is also understood that the balance of the amount due will be obtained out of the excess earnings of the equipment, which will be allotted and leased to the railroads which will eventually become the owners of the rolling stock.

It has been reported that the Banking Committee which drew up the plan is convinced that the equipment trust certificates issued must be offered for public subscription at attractive prices or they will not prove a successful undertaking. Another feature of the plan is reported to be the absence of a proposal for Government ownership of the equipment, except in the case of absolute refusal of individual lines to accept the allotments made to them. This, it is estimated, would place a burden not too great upon the shoulders of the Railroad Administration, which would probably have to write off such equipment as one of the costs of the war.

Incidentally this is one of the points upon which it is considered as doubtful if the representatives of the Administration will agree with the special committee of executives.

The Bankers' Committee which drew up the plan consists of Mr. Hanauer, Charles E. Mitchell, President of the National City Company; Harold Stanley, Vice President of the Guaranty Trust Company; Arthur M. Anderson of J. P. Morgan & Co., F. W. Allen of Lee Higginson & Co., and E. B. Sweezy of the First National Bank.

It could not be learned yesterday what suggestions the bankers had made regarding the collateral behind the equipment trust certificates nor what the suggestions were as to their life and redemption.

Propose $7,000,000 Capital Increase

A special meeting of the stockholders of the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company will be held in Jersey City July 11 to act upon the recommendation of the Directors that the capital be increased from $13,900,300 to $20,900,300. The increase of $7,000,000 will consist of 8 per cent. cumulative, second preferred stock. The Directors intend to issue $5,860,200 worth of the new stock at once. This will be offered to both common and preferred shareholders on a pro rata basis, at $100 a share, the purchase privilege being open to holders of record of July 17. The issue is being underwritten by H. P. Goldschmidt & Co., Goldman, Sachs & Co., and Lehman Brothers. The subscription will be on the basis of 70 per cent. of new stock for each share now held.

TARDIEU LAUDS OUR REASON

Tells French Boy Scouts How American Labor Met War Need.

André Tardieu, formerly French High Commissioner to the United States, in an address delivered in Paris on celebration day of the Boy Scouts of France, made public here today by the Boy Scouts of America, urged the youth of his native land to "have faith in the people."

"Do not doubt them," he said, "even when they are mistaken and Governments are forced to protect the general interest of the nation against their errors and impulses. Even in such moments as those, you must remember that if they err it is frequently because they know not; and, rather than doubt, you, who know better, should strive to inform and convince them.

"Such a task," continued M. Tardieu, "must needs be ungrateful, I admit, but I deny its impossibility, and it is from America, where I have just spent two years, that I bring back that conviction. In America I have seen and I repeat here, what the power of reason can do in a great nation, such as the American nation, and such as the French nation.

"In September, 1917, I thought we might lose the war, owing to the strikes in America which threatened to stop the arming of the Federal forces and the supplies to our munition works. A few weeks later a tremendous campaign of public lectures was let loose on that democracy of 110,000,000 inhabitants to explain what the war was about and why it was necessary to win it. From that day to the day of victory," continued the speaker, "not one strike interfered with production. The American people had understood."

LOUP ONLY THE NAME IN BROKERAGE FIRM

Tells District Attorney He Knew Nothing of Business and Got from $10 to $150 a Week.

FIND FEW ASSETS IN SAFE

Receiver Says Honest Profits Might Have Been $25,000 a Week—Curb License Goes Over.

Herbert C. Loup, who was the nominal head of the defunct firm of H. C. Loup & Co., brokers, of 30 Broad Street, was questioned yesterday in the office of the District Attorney by Mr. Swann and Assistant District Attorney John T. Dooling as to the affairs of the company. Mr. Loup said he knew little, except that he was paid sometimes $10 a week and sometimes $150 a week, and that the company used his name.

Earlier in the day the Assistant District Attorney, in the presence of Benjamin Spellman, attorney for Martin Conboy, receiver for Loup & Co., opened the firm's safe deposit box. In it were found 12,000 shares of Alaska Zinc and Copper stock. Long before the box was opened G. F. Burgess, a Director of the Alaska Zinc and Copper Company, visited Mr. Dooling and expressed hope that the safe would contain 12,000 shares of his company's stock. He said Loup & Co. had agreed to sell him these shares and that he was willing to buy them outright, because the Board of Directors was trying to retire the stock from the open market.

Mr. Dooling said he understood that the safe in the company's office had been opened on Monday and found to contain nothing but stamps.

Loup said that he knew practically nothing regarding the business affairs of Loup & Co. It was understood, he said, that he was to have a share in the profits, but he added that there never had been a dividend declared and apparently the amounts he drew reflected the firm's prosperity. Frank Taylor, who was the directing head of the concern, came into it about a year and a half ago. Loup, who came here from Canada, said he met him first in a Broad Street restaurant. At that time James Fitzgerald, who with Joseph C. Kelsey had organized the company, sold out for $300. Taylor took his place.

The questioning then went into the drawing of money by checks and the brokerage business of the firm. Of these matters Loup said he knew little, and nothing regarding the speculative accounts. He had authority to sign checks on certain banks, but it appeared that he only signed checks when Taylor told him to do so. "I am just the goat," he said, in reply to a question by Mr. Swann.

Ten days ago, Loup said, he first began to realize that "things were not all right." That was when Joseph Kaye of Emporium, Penn., made a demand for his securities. Mr. Kaye lost, he says, $125,000 through the concern. "I told Taylor then that he had gotten us in trouble," said Loup.

Last Saturday when he left the office for the last time, Loup said he had only $5 in his pocket, which he had borrowed from a friend.

Mr. Spellman told reporters at Mr. Swann's office that statements originally made to the effect that the liabilities of the concern would amount to $2,000,000 were borne out by the examination of the books. He also showed checks withdrawing $30,000 from the bank in twelve days in May, and said he had not yet learned how much had been withdrawn in June. The only assets discovered thus far were the 12,000 shares of zinc and copper stock and about $700 in revenue stamps, Mr. Spellman said. He added that he hoped there might be some assets in Pittsburgh which might bring the total up to possibly $10,000.

Various victims he represents lost from $900 to $40,000, Mr. Spellman said. These victims not only come from the poorer parts of the east side but from fashionable parts of the city, the lawyer declared, and added that the $40,000 victim was a widow who wanted to invest in remunerative securities.

Mr. Spellman told about the indignation at the Broadway Central Hotel meeting of creditors on Monday night. "The shame of it all is," said Mr. Spellman, "that an investigation of the books and accounts shows that the concern could have made $25,000 a week in commissions if it had just been honest and had not bucketed the orders received."

Mr. Dooling said that Loup was in a position to give valuable information to the District Attorney about the management of the concern, and had promised to aid in whatever way he could.

The Board of Aldermen yesterday laid over until next week consideration of the ordinance introduced by Alderman William F. Quinn providing that curb brokers be licensed. The measure was reported out of the Committee on General Welfare with the recommendation that the city exercise some supervision over the business transacted on the curb.

Alderman Quinn's original ordinance, introduced several weeks ago, provided an annual license fee of $1,000, and also that each curb broker be required to put up a surety bond of $25,000. When the measure came from the committee, it had been amended by the introducer to abolish the surety bond and decrease the license fee to $200. The committee recommended a substitute resolution changing the amount of the fee to $500. The amended ordinance reads:

All persons dealing in the purchase, sale, or exchange of stocks, bonds, notes, or securities in that section of the city known as the Curb market, in Broad Street, between Exchange Place and Beaver Street, Borough of Manhattan, shall be deemed to be Curb brokers and their place of business shall be known as the Curb Exchange.

Every Curb broker shall pay an annual license fee of $500. All licenses for Curb brokers shall be issued as of Jan. 1 in each year and shall expire on the 31st of December next succeeding the date of issuance thereof.

No Curb brokers shall carry on business at any other place than the one specifically designated in the license issued therefor, and any person who shall carry on business after such license has been suspended, revoked, or expired shall be punished by a fine of $500, or imprisonment for not more than six months, or both such fine and imprisonment.

This ordinance shall take effect immediately.

In the statement which the Committee on General Welfare issued with the measure, it was declared that a great deal of complaint had come from citizens in the matter of the exploitation of worthless stocks by unscrupulous brokers having no connection with the Association of Curb Brokers, and that a regulatory ordinance should be enacted as a matter of protection to honest brokers as well as to persons desiring to trade in Curb securities.

A Billion Dollars from the Dairy Cow

THE wealth of America is increased more than a billion dollars a year by the products of the dairy cow. Exports of butter alone totaled 17,735,966 pounds last year, as compared with imports of 1,805,925 pounds. There are 1,500,000 cows in New York State, producing $250,000,000 annually.

A great proportion of this product is marketed in the district between City Hall and the Hudson. Opposite City Hall, on Broadway, is the home of the Atlantic National Bank, which has served the merchants of the district for nearly a century. Our modern service provides facilities for both domestic and foreign business.

U. S. Oil Fields

From 1859 to 1876 practically all of the country's oil came from Pennsylvania; Ohio and West Virginia becoming producing factors in 1876, these areas being in the Appalachian field, with extensions into Kentucky and Tennessee. Then, in 1877, California began development work, but did not become a producer of any consequence until 1900. The Lima-Indiana field was developed in 1893, and the other oil-producing States became prominent in rapid succession from 1900 to 1906, Wyoming beginning productions in 1912. The present soil areas of the United States, which offer the greatest possibilities from the standpoint of continuous profitable development, are in Oklahoma, Kansas, Texas and Wyoming.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE BARS ARE LIFTED

STILL MUST REGISTER

An order has been issued by Fred I. Kent, Director of the Division of Foreign Exchange of the Federal Reserve Board, rescinding all restrictions on dealings in the allied and neutral exchanges until further notice. From now on, unless the restrictions are placed in force again, foreign exchange dealers will not have to make reports of their transactions to the Federal Reserve Board unless they are called upon especially to do so. The order sent out by Director Kent reads:

"Until otherwise instructed, dealers, as defined under the executive order of the President of Jan. 26, 1918, are hereby authorized to carry on transactions in foreign exchange or in securities for or through foreign account without restriction, except as hereinafter provided.

"Registration certificates must be obtained, as required under the Executive order. (All registration certificates which have been issued to date continue in force.)

"Customers' statements of non-enemy interest need not be taken, but no foreign exchange transactions can be consummated for enemy account unless authorized in a general or a specific license issued by the War Trade Board. Further statistical reports, after those including transactions up to the close of business Wednesday evening, June 25, 1919, need not be made except as called for by the Federal Reserve Board.

"Declarations of foreign correspondents on Form F. E. 114 and declarations of non-enemy interest covering security transactions on Form F. E. 113 need not be taken and interest or dividend checks payable for foreign account need not have customers' statements printed upon them, but 'dealers' cannot carry out transactions either directly or indirectly for the benefit of or for account of an enemy or ally of enemy except under the authority of a general or a specific license issued by the War Trade Board.

"Until otherwise instructed, the exportation or importation of Russian roubles, or the transfer of funds for their purchase by persons and dealers in the United States, as described under the executive order of the President of Jan. 26, 1918, is prohibited. Dealings in foreign exchange or securities with or for persons in that part of Russia now under the control of the so-called Bolshevist Government are also prohibited.

"Until otherwise instructed 'dealers' are prohibited from purchasing exchange except from the American Relief Association, 42 Broadway, upon any of the following countries: Finland, Poland, Czechoslovakia, German-Austria, Jugo-slavia, Serbia, Rumania, and Germany."

Propose New Stock Issue.

A special meeting of stockholders of the Procter & Gamble Company has been called for July 23 to consider a proposal that the capital stock of the company be increased to $72,000,000. The letter from President William S. Procter to shareholders says the entire increase asked for will be in 6 per cent. preferred stock, the total authorization to be $45,750,000.

FINANCIAL NOTES.

Payment for Invincible Oil shares has been called for today at the Empire Trust Company. Temporary certificates are ready, and the stock will be traded in the regular way instead of "when issued."

Charles H. Jones & Co. head a group of bankers who have purchased 100,000 common shares, no par value, of the Covert Gear Company of Lockport, N. Y. The principal business of this company is the sale of supplies to truck and tractor industries and pleasure car makers.

Taylor, Ewart & Co. of Chicago are offering $1,500,000 Salt Lake City school district 5 per cent. bonds at a price to yield 4.60 per cent. The bonds offered are exempt from the Federal income tax.

Thomas G. Simpson has become associated with W. C. Orton. Mr. Simpson will deal in bank and trust company stocks.

J. C. Walsh & Co. are distributing a circular describing investment in several municipal bonds.

TRADING IN COTTON BECOMES UNSETTLED

LIVERPOOL PRICES HIGHER

Settlement of Threatened Labor Trouble Is a Favorable Influence in That Market.

Trading in the cotton market yesterday, after opening prices showed advances of from 16 to 26 points over the list, was irregular and unsettled, and in sharp contrast to the upward swing of Monday. First prices were stimulated to higher levels by the accumulation of overnight buying orders, and the better than expected cables from Liverpool, which indicated that that market had made good response to our rise of the previous day.

At the minimum price level yesterday the recessions for the list ran from 60 to 70 points compared with Monday's closing. July contracts, which started at 32.45c, went to 32.64c, and broke to 31.85c; October declined to 31.72c from 32.64c, the high for the day; December from 32.51c sagged to 31.65c, and January from its early level of 32.41c went down to 31.60c. Most of the selling came from recent Wall Street "longs", who had accumulated a line of contracts in anticipation of the bullish influence of the signing of the Peace Treaty. Foreign interests likewise were a contributing factor in depressing prices.

After this weak spell the market steadied on covering and later prices showed a recovery of some 25 to 30 points for the list. The afternoon market moved within a narrow range, prices holding around 32.10c for July, October 31.98c, December 31.84c, January 31.70c, and March 31.54c. From these prices just before the close the market turned firm on a buying movement predicated by Wall Street and Western commission houses, and the final quotations were but nominally under Monday's last quotations.

Cables from Liverpool, which influenced the early trading here, reported futures opening 18 to 30 points up. The market there ruled fairly steady all day and closed 6 to 28 points advance from the last prices of the previous day. The threatened labor trouble in the mill districts has been settled by a satisfactory wage award to the operators, and helped in the better sentiment in the Liverpool market.

WANTS WILSON TO FIX RATES

House Committee Told He Needs That Power While Nation Runs Roads.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 24.—In the opinion of E. E. Clark, a member of the Interstate Commerce Commission, the bill passed by the Senate restoring the powers of the commission over rates deprives the President of that power during Government control, but permits him to increase the cost of operation by wage increases.

In this respect Mr. Clark objected to the bill, when he appeared today before the House Interstate Commerce Committee. The bill, he said, also failed to give the President rate-making power over intrastate rates in an attempt to restore to the Interstate Commerce Commission the powers taken from it by the act authorizing the President to take over the railroads during the war.

It was pointed out by Mr. Clark that these powers should be retained by the President during Government control, as they were necessary if the railroads were to earn sufficient money to meet the increased costs of operation.

Objection to the bill was urged by A. P. Thom, counsel for the railroad executives. He said that to give power to the President to control methods of operation and give the Interstate Commerce Commission the power to fix rates would create divided authority which would be bad for the railroads and the country. He suggested several amendments to the bill, which in effect would relieve the railroads from assuming liability for claims which should be paid by the Government, and prevent levying on railroad property for judgments for which the Director General is liable.

"I object to any bill which gives any Federal body power over intrastate rates," said Representative Sanders of Louisiana. "I want this measure to be framed so as to make it very clear that no Federal agency body shall have power over intrastate rates."

Walker D. Hines, Director General of the Railroads, will be heard by the committee tomorrow.

SAYS VICTORY RIBBON SOLD IS UNAUTHORIZED

Gen. March Asserts Government Has Not Yet Been Able to Manufacture Decoration for Soldiers.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 24.—General March, Chief of Staff of the army, announced today that there is no authorized victory ribbon on the American market, and that no contract had yet been let for the manufacture of these ribbons. His announcement was issued because of the great number of imitations of this decoration, to be worn by all soldiers who served honorably in the war, which are being sold and because of information which has been published to the effect that arrangements had been completed for its manufacture and distribution by the army.

"The properly fabricated victory ribbon," said General March, "has not been purchased to date, because ribbon manufacturers in the United States have been unable to reproduce a copy of the French ribbon, which will form the pattern for the Allies.

"The official ribbon is of the seven basic colors of the spectrum. In order to obtain the desired effect, at least twenty shades of color must be used to bring out the proper blend of colors and extreme skill must be employed.

"Thus far the desired results have not been obtained by domestic manufacture, although each attempt has been an improvement upon the preceding one. It is hoped that a fourth attempt, which will be made within a few days by three different ribbon producers, will result in obtaining the desired sample.

"Steps will then be taken immediately for the procurement of the 675,000 yards required.

"When the problems connected with the ribbon have been worked out, the War Department will be ready to furnish the authorized decoration containing the proper color effect not attained in any of the unauthorized imitations, which are being purchased by many seeking to anticipate the action of the Government."

URGES ACTION IN MEXICO.

Texas Legislator Wants This Country to Recognize Angeles.

Special to The New York Times.

AUSTIN, Texas, June 24.—Conditions in Mexico were pictured as being very critical by members of the State Senate, who today urged the adoption of a resolution calling on the United States to recognize that a state of war exists in that country. Carranza was exonerated for his treatment of Americans and American interests. The resolution, after debate, was referred to the Committee on Federal Relations and will come up for final disposition tomorrow. It was introduced by Senator J. C. Strickland and reads:

"The Government of the United States is strongly urged to recognize that a state of war exists in Northern Mexico between two independent and distinct factions, and that the citizens of the United States be permitted to sell supplies to the Carranza Government and its adherents and also to the Government recently proclaimed by General Angeles, as provisional President, and it is further resolved that the Governor of Texas is heartily commended for having refused permission to any armed band of Mexicans of whatever faction to pass across the territory of Texas to suppress the revolutionary movement or to further same."

In support of his resolution, Senator Strickland said it did not declare war on Mexico. "The Mexicans have repeatedly spit in our faces," he added. "Now I think it is time to call a halt. The time has come when some action should be taken and American lives protected. I am only sorry that the American troops did not wipe out the Carranza garrison."

Still Awaiting Favorable Reports for Transatlantic Jump.

Special to The New York Times.

HARBOR GRACE, N. F., June 24.—"It is raining in midatlantic and the wind is too strong to hold umbrellas," was Major Gran's explanation of why the Handley-Page bomber did not start on the transatlantic flight today. Gran added that today's weather would have been ideal were it possible to rise immediately above the local "muck." But since it would take three hours to get a cruising altitude it was decided it was better not to go.

The present weather improvement appears to be progressive, and it is hoped by tomorrow or next day that more stable and favorable conditions will prevail all the way across. Rear Admiral Kerr is expected back from St. John's this afternoon, and the members of the crew will stay close to the airdrome awaiting the first opportunity to get away. Major H. G. Brackley, who is to pilot the Handley-Page across, guided by the experience of Captain Alcock and Lieutenant Brown this afternoon, put a thin coating of tallow on the gauge glasses and the fuselage windows in the hope of avoiding their becoming opaque through the freezing of moisture or sleet.

The Handley-Page expedition is being besieged with cabled invitations to visit various places, Atlantic City being a particularly eager bidder for their presence and many Canadian cities being anxious to entertain them, but they st are convinced, regardless of their personal wishes, that they must attempt the Atlantic flight, because that is what they started out to do.

To Offer $7,500,000 Preferred Stock

The Packard Motor Car Company will, with the approval of stockholders, issue $7,500,000 preferred stock. The money derived from the sale will be used to pay off $5,000,000 debenture notes which fall due on Oct. 15. This is the only new financing contemplated, but a letter to stockholders says that they will be asked to approve increases in the common capitalization to $30,000,000 and in the preferred to $20,000,000. The present authorized common capitalization is $15,000,000, with the preferred at $8,000,000.

Famous Players-Lasky Corp. Stock.

The Directors of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation will offer to stockholders of record July 5 the right to subscribe to 25,000 shares of stock, now held in the treasury, at $100 a share. This will bring the capitalization up to 200,000 shares, the amount authorised. Payment for the new stock is to be made by July 26. The offering is being underwritten by Dominick & Dominick and Hallgarten & Co.

Continue Your Bond-Buying Habit

HALSEY, STUART & Co.
Partial Payment Plans for purchasing
SAFE BONDS

Bond-buying became a habit with the American people during the War. Funds were set aside as regularly for this purpose as for rent, groceries, or other fixed demands.

The results were often as surprising to the individual who had not before realized his saving possibilities as they were to the world which stood amazed at the unprecedented amounts so readily purchased.

The habit is too good to lose—and there is no reason why it should be lost.

HALSEY, STUART & CO.'S Partial Payment Plan permits the purchase of high grade investment bonds in payments—monthly or semi-monthly—extending, if desired, over a year's time. On all partial payments we allow interest at the coupon rate of the bond being purchased—if a 5% bond—5%; if a 6% bond—6%.

The plan combines systematic saving with conservative investment and has the added advantage of BOND INTEREST (5% to 7%) on your funds while accumulating.

Continue your bond-buying habit—write for the above illustrated booklet NA-11, which describes the details of this plan. You will incur no obligation.

PROPOSALS.

OFFICE OF THE COMMISSIONERS OF the District of Columbia, Washington, June 19, 1919.—Sealed proposals will be received at this office, Room 511, District Building, until 2 o'clock P. M., June 27, 1919, for furnishing and installing fixed and other laboratory equipment, Dunbar High School, 1st St., between N and O Sts, N. W., Washington, D. C. Specifications and form of proposal may be obtained at Room 427, District Building. Incomplete proposals may be rejected as informal. Proposals without specifications may be considered informal. The Commissioners reserve the right to reject any and all proposals. Telegraphic proposals will not be considered. Louis Brownlow, W. Gwynn Gardiner, Charles W. Eliot, Commissioners, D. C.

INCOME RETURNS DELAYED.

Complaints having been received from corporations that they had not yet received their income return blanks, it was learned at the State Income Tax office yesterday that blanks had been sent to all corporations and that failure to receive them was apparently due either to the carelessness of employes in presenting them to the higher officials of the company or to the failure on the part of the postal authorities to deliver them. An additional stock of blanks will be received in a few days for distribution to applicants.

In the meantime the Bankers' Trust Company, the Guaranty Trust Company, the Corporation Trust Company, and other institutions have printed income tax blanks which they are supplying to clients. It was hinted unofficially that difficulties arising from the short time left before July 1 to make returns would be adjusted by the granting of additional time to those who had in good faith attempted to comply with the provisions of the law.

The clerical force of the Controller's office has been depleted by enlistments and is only now being brought back to pre-war strength. It is expected that business will be more easily handled in the future.

Dividend in Crucible Steel.

An initial quarterly dividend of 1½ per cent. was declared yesterday on the common shares of the Crucible Steel Company of America. The dividend is payable July 31 to stockholders of record July 15. Three new Directors were elected, W. H. Childs, President of the Barrett Company; August Heckscher, President of the New Jersey Zinc Company, and Judge Nathan L. Miller of New York.

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE

Short covering and other buying brought a decided rally from the early weakness during the final hour on the Consolidated Stock Exchange yesterday, with the food and oil issues in greatest demand. Corn Products was bid up over 4 points from its early low, reaching a new high level, while United States Food Products rallied from 78¾ to above 80. Mexican Petroleum rallied 3¼ from the noonday low, Royal Dutch of New York 3¾, while others of this group made substantial advances. Studebaker was bid up 1⅞ from its early low. United States Cigar Stores, after falling back to 161, rallied 4 points to 165, closing at the top figure, while American Sumatra, which ranged between 113¼ and 110⅝, rallied at the end to 111⅜. The rails were in urgent demand during the last half hour, Southern Pacific moving up 2⅝, Reading 1⅝, Texas & Pacific 1¼, and Union Pacific about 1 point. United States Steel rallied an even point in the last hour.

ON MONDAY, JULY 14th

AT 10:30 IN THE MORNING—ON PREMISES
THE ENTIRE GROUP OF BUILDINGS, WAREHOUSES

AND REAL ESTATE OF

The Monticello Distilling Co.

IN BALTIMORE, MD., WILL BE OFFERED AT PUBLIC AUCTION

There are five outstanding reasons why this Public Auction will attract big manufacturing interests:

FIRST—The unusual size of the property comprising approximately 100,000 square feet of ground area.

THIRD—The unusually convenient railroad facilities.

FOURTH—The extraordinarily low fire hazard.

FIFTH—The unexcelled advantages of Baltimore's harbor and shipping facilities.

IF YOUR BUSINESS is light manufacturing—IF YOUR BUSINESS is heavy structural manufacturing—IF YOU MANUFACTURE automobiles or machinery of any character—IF YOURS is an industrial or canning business—or IF YOU REQUIRE OR DESIRE large warehouses for storage or other purposes—this unusual opportunity to acquire these properties INTERESTS YOU.

The buildings adjoin the tracks of the Penna. Railroad and the large and modern freight terminals of the Western Maryland Railroad. A railroad siding runs directly into the buildings.

The City Hall and Post Office are only three blocks from these buildings, the Courthouse four, and the Custom House, financial and wholesale districts within five blocks.

The waterfront and wharves are within five minutes' easy drive over the Fallsway Boulevard adjoining the property.

TERMS AND CONDITIONS.

The various buildings and real estate of the Company will be offered separately, and then as an entirety; and at the time and place of sale, the buyer of each property, or the collective properties, will be required to pay on account ten per cent. of the amount of his purchase—one-third of the remainder upon the transfer of the property (not over 30 days from date of sale)—one-third in six months from date of sale—and the balance in one year from date of sale, or all cash as the purchaser may prefer; the deferred payments, if any, to bear interest at six per cent. (6%) from the day of transfer and to be secured to the satisfaction of The Monticello Distilling Co. Portions of this property are subject to small ground rents. Taxes, ground rent and all other expenses to be adjusted to day of transfer.

Sale will take place ON PREMISES Monday, July 14th, promptly at 10:30 o'clock in the morning.

MEETINGS AND ELECTIONS.

NOTICE.
TO THE STOCKHOLDERS OF THE B. F. GOODRICH COMPANY:

Please take notice that, pursuant to resolution of the Board of Directors, a Special Meeting of the stockholders of The B. F. Goodrich Company will be held at the office of the Company, No. 1780 Broadway, Borough of Manhattan, City of New York, on Thursday, June 26, 1919, at 11:00 o'clock A. M., for the following purposes:

1. To consider and act upon a proposition to increase the capital stock of The B. F. Goodrich Company from $84,600,000, consisting of 846,000 shares of the par value of $100 each, to $109,600,000, consisting of 1,096,000 shares of the par value of $100 each.

2. If said increase is authorized, to classify the proposed increase of $25,000,000, consisting of 250,000 shares of the par value of $100 each, into 7% Cumulative Preferred Stock, having the same preferences and rights and subject to the same priorities and burdens as the present Preferred Stock of this Company now authorized and issued, so that the capital stock of the Company as so increased and classified, will be $109,600,000, divided into 1,096,000 shares of the par value of $100 each, of which 496,000 shares shall be 7% Cumulative Preferred Stock and 600,000 shares shall be Common Stock.

3. If said increase and the classification thereof are authorized, then to consider and act upon:

(a) The immediate issuance and sale of $15,000,000, par value of said additional Preferred Stock, first offering the same to the holders of record of the Preferred and Common Stock of the Company at the close of business on July 1, 1919, at the price of $102 per share and accrued dividends from July 1, 1919, in the number of shares proportioned to their respective holdings of stock, in accordance with and upon the terms and conditions already approved by the Board of Directors.

(b) A certain agreement heretofore entered into by the Board of Directors of this Company, with the Company's bankers for underwriting the proposed sale of said $15,000,000 of Preferred Stock, for which services the underwriting syndicate and the bankers are to receive compensation from the Company.

(c) To take any other action which shall be determined by the stockholders to be necessary or desirable in connection with, germane to or growing out of any of the foregoing matters.

By the By-laws of the Company, it is provided that only those persons shall be entitled to vote in person or by proxy who appear as holders of record entitled to vote at such meeting, upon the transfer books of the corporation for 10 days immediately preceding such meeting.

B. G. WORK, President.
F. C. VAN CLEEF, Secretary.

TO DISTRIBUTE ICE FREE.

Work Among Manhattan's Poor Will Begin Tomorrow.

City Chamberlain Philip Berolzheimer announced yesterday that arrangements had been completed for the free distribution of ice to deserving families in Manhattan. The distribution system, it was announced, will be in working order by tomorrow.

The ice companies in the city have agreed to contribute twenty-five tons of ice each a day, and $7,000 has been donated by the public to help in the work. The organizations which will have charge of the distribution are: The Salvation Army, the Elks, the Bowling Green Settlement, the Presentation Nursery, the Allied Catholic Societies, Mt. Sinai Hospital, Children's Aid Society, and the Beth Israel Hospital. These organizations will supply books of thirty-one coupons, each coupon calling for twenty pounds of ice, and forty pounds on Saturday to last over Sunday. A meeting will be held today to arrange to meet the ice situation in a similar manner in Brooklyn and the Bronx.

There will be twelve distributing stations in Manhattan, nine of which have been designated as follows: Williamsburg Bridge, Delancey and Lewis Streets; foot of Sixth Street, East River; 548 West Forty-seventh Street; "The Farm," Eighteenth Street; Bowling Green Settlement, 45 West Street; 143d Street and Lenox Avenue, 231 East 120th Street, 230 East Thirty-second Street, and Pike and Cherry Streets.

Commissioner of Charities James A. Hamilton will arrange for the Bronx distribution, and Congressman John J. Delaney will have charge of arrangements for Brooklyn.

UPHOLDS MRS. BEDDALL.

Court Refuses to Dismiss Her Suit for Separation.

Supreme Court Justice Donnelly yesterday denied an application in behalf of Edward K. Beddall, President of the insurance brokerage concern of E. K. Beddall & Co. of 91 William Street to dismiss a suit for separation by Mrs. Anna M. Beddall of 335 West Seventy-seventh Street on the ground that nothing has been done in the case since the summons was served last December.

Mrs. Beddall told the court that her husband left her for a trip to San Diego last year and bade her an affectionate good-bye, but that he went to Reno and stated that he was establishing a residence for the purpose of getting a divorce. She said she does not ask alimony, because she has an income of $4,000 a year. She alleged that she has heard of her husband being in New York since he left her, but hasn't seen him. Mrs. Beddall also alleged that her husband had failed to make remittances for the support of their two daughters, but he said it was because his wife had taken certain stock certificates from among his papers.

HYLAN SIGNS BILLS TO AID TENANTS

New Measures Give Tenants 40 Days' Grace in Dispossess Proceedings.

REAL ESTATE MEN PROTEST

Fear Lessees Will Use Time Extension in Destroying Property Instead of Moving.

The two bills recently passed at the special session of the Legislature, after the various bodies investigating the housing situation, had recommended their immediate passage, were signed yesterday by Mayor Hylan, at the close of a public hearing held in the City Hall. They are expected to relieve certain phases of rent profiteering by giving the tenant forty days' time before a dispossess notice becomes operative. Under one bill the landlord is required to give the tenant twenty days' notice of eviction, and under the other, a Municipal Court Justice may grant a twenty days' extension of time. The bills now go to Albany for the approval of Governor Smith.

At yesterday's hearing, Edward P. Doyle, representing the real estate interests, and John H. Hallock, representing George G. Hallock's Sons, dealers in real estate, objected to the forty-day clause on the ground that if a tenant were given that time in which to move he could do a great deal of damage to the property if he were so inclined. When Mr. Hallock inferred that the landlords were not always getting exact justice from the courts, the Mayor asked him whether he had no confidence in the Judges, but Mr. Hallock preferred not to be quoted upon that matter.

In expressing his approval of the bills, the Mayor said: "These measures are the best that have come before me. I believe that the Judges of the Municipal Courts should have some discretion in the matter of evictions. These bills are at the same time extremely fair to landlords. In my experience as a Judge I found many very pathetic instances of tenants who should have been considered, and the Judges were desirous of lending these unfortunates aid, but under the law they were prohibited from showing the slightest mercy. The fear expressed by real estate owners that the two twenty-day extensions will enable unscrupulous tenants to devote more time to the destruction of property is, in a great measure groundless. If it can be proved that a person deliberately destroys property, the aid of the criminal law can be invoked."

Beginning today, the Joint Legislative Committee on Housing, of which Senator Lockwood is Chairman, will hold a series of hearings on the housing situation in the cities of the State, co-operating with the New York State Reconstruction Commission, of which Abram I. Elkus is Chairman. The basis of the examination of witnesses will be the questionnaire which has already been sent throughout the State by the New York State Reconstruction Commission.

Most of the cities and towns of New York State have no housing regulations whatsoever, such as the tenement house laws, which govern standards of buildings in the City of New York. The hearings to be held by the Joint Legislative Committee will be directed toward learning how it will be possible throughout the State not only to remedy the shortage of housing, but to develop a type of law and administration that will encourage progress and improvement of standards and will discourage paralyzing uniformity.

It was impossible to find out yesterday what would be the result of the conference Monday between Nathan Hirsch, Chairman of the Mayor's Committee on Rent Profiteering; Alderman William T. Collins, Chairman of the Aldermanic Committee on General Welfare, and Job E. Hedges, counsel for the Association of Life Insurance Presidents. It is thought, however, that the life insurance companies will produce enough money to relieve the mortgage market, and thus stimulate building.

That the housing situation is still acute is shown by the letters which the Mayor's Committee continue to receive. A committee of tenants wrote yesterday that theirs was "the worst case of profiteering in the City of New York." They charged that the Graham Construction Company, which owns the house at 370 Manhattan Avenue, where they live, had increased rents which were formerly $50 and were now $60, to $100 a month, and that the prices of the apartments that now rent for $38 have been raised to $60. They alleged that the company had refused to make any repairs and had raised telephone calls to 10 cents, although the leases call for free telephone service.

A sidelight on the rent problem was furnished yesterday in the Essex Market Court, when the case of Mrs. Rose Sprung of 161 Orchard Street was brought up. Mrs. Mary Karp, the janitress of the house, served a dispossess notice on Mrs. Sprung several days ago, and yesterday Mrs. Sprung took revenge by pouring hot coffee down the back of Mrs. Karp. Patrolman Bauer of the Beach Street Station had had difficulty in arresting Mrs. Sprung, for when he arrived at the Orchard Street tenement he had to make his way through a crowd of women who were engaged in a free-for-all battle. The charge was felonious assault and the prisoner was held in $1,000 bail by Magistrate Tobias for a hearing tomorrow. Mrs. Karp was painfully burned on the shoulder and back, and was attended by Dr. Jackson of Gouverneur Hospital.

HOME SHORTAGE 1,000,000.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, June 24.—There is a shortage of 1,000,000 homes in the United States in the opinion of President William M. Garland of Los Angeles, head of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, which is to open its twelfth annual convention here tomorrow morning. Two thousand delegates are expected to attend.

Another statement made by President Garland is that the real estate element is heart and soul behind the good road movement. They are convinced that good roads develop suburban sections and also contribute to the solution of the congestion of homes in cities.

The national organization is urging upon upon the real estate affiliated organizations an active campaign to have the average head of a family own his own home. The slogan, fathered by the National Association, is to be used to impress foreigners with the advantages of becoming real estate owners in the belief that they will more quickly become converted to American ideals.

United States Senator Walter E. Edge has accepted an invitation to address the convention tomorrow. B. J. Treacy, manager of the real estate division of the United States Housing Corporation, is to tell the convention of his observations regarding the real estate problem. Other speakers will tell of real estate conditions in the various sections of the nation. A nation-wide sweep in building is expected, and the only apparent obstacle in the way is the failure of manufacturers to stabilize prices for construction materials.

Reconstruction is to be an important topic. The convention is certain that real estate men will be one of the important influences in absorbing idle labor after its building program once gets under way.

FAVOR DAYLIGHT SAVING.

Aldermen Ask President to Veto Repeal of Law.

The Board of Aldermen adopted unanimously a resolution offered by President Moran requesting President Wilson to veto the repeal of the daylight saving law recently passed by Congress. The resolution declared that the repeal was effected "through the mistaken effort of the farmer-employer, inspired and augmented by the avarice and selfishness of the lighting trusts throughout the country." It reads in part:

"Resolved, That the Board of Aldermen of the City of New York, voicing the sentiment of the overwhelming majority of those who labor in the diversified industrial occupations of this cosmopolitan city, who have realized through practical application the great boon of one hour's extra daylight for mental improvement and physical recreation, hereby calls upon the President of the United States to veto this repeal bill.

"Resolved, further, That a copy of this resolution be transmitted to the President, to the presiding officer of the Senate, and the speaker of the House of Representatives."

Alderman Algernon Lee, Socialist, offered a long resolution calling upon President Wilson and the Senate of the United States to take such action as to insure a new trial to Thomas J. Mooney, now serving a life sentence in California. In asking for immediate consideration the Alderman said that all he wanted was a new trial for Mooney so that justice might be done him.

In moving to lay the resolution on the table, Alderman Kenneally said: "It is a matter entirely within the laws of California, and if for no other reason, the source from which this resolution is brought here today, I move to lay it on the table."

The motion was carried by a vote of 32 to 3, the Socialists and Alderman McGarry of Brooklyn voting in the negative.

On motion of President Frank L. Dowling of Manhattan, the board authorized the issuing of special revenue bonds to the amount of $19,800 for temporary repairs to the Hallenback Building on the new Court House site for occupation by the Board of Health. Six thousand five hundred dollars was also authorized for employes to run the building.

ANNOUNCE NEW EDISON IDEA

It was announced yesterday at the opening of the fifth annual convention of the Edison Dealers that Thomas A. Edison would issue a statement containing his views on "how to do away with economic unrest" at the dinner which will be held on Friday at the close of the convention at the Hotel Commodore. Though little was definitely known of his message, it was said at the Travelers' meeting yesterday that the plan which he will advance relates to a new economic order.

It was said that Edison's plan aims to bring about "economic unison" and that Mr. Edison believes that this change "will not come from legislation, but from the people themselves."

HUGO WARNS AUTOISTS.

AUBURN, N. Y., June 24.—"Automobile accidents have taken the first place among administrative problems," said Secretary of State Hugo today before the New York State Auto Convention.

"The accident curve has been going up entirely too fast," he said. "More people were killed on the streets of New York last year than went down on the Lusitania. The ever increasing toll of deaths upon our highways must stop. I regard the human element more important than property rights. There were 1,189 deaths due to automobiles in New York State in 1918. There were 503 fatalities and 13,603 injuries by automobiles in New York City in 1918. This represents a 30 per cent. increase over 1917.

"For the first three months of 1919 there were 192 deaths in New York State, while in New York City there were 59 deaths and 1,787 injuries for the two months of January and February. The man at the wheel of an automobile has a big responsibility, and I appeal to you as patriotic citizens to do your part."

COMPEL PHYSICAL TRAINING.

New Plan Affecting Freshmen Established at Harvard.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., June 24.—Approval of a plan for compulsory physical training for freshmen, said to be novel among the athletic systems of American colleges, was announced by the Board of Overseers of Harvard University today. The plan will become operative with the next entering class.

It will supplement organized athletics by the formation of an athletic class, members of which will be required to devote at least three hours a week to physical exercises. Freshmen will be graded at the beginning of the college year and will pursue courses based on physical condition. Sports to be encouraged include those in which 'Varsity competition is now conducted, with basket ball, squash, and boxing.

CELEBRATE CANADA WEEK.

Duke of Devonshire Invited to Come Here for Dominion Day.

British and Canadian societies in this city joined in sending a telegram yesterday to the Duke of Devonshire, Governor General of Canada, inviting him to come to New York to participate in New York's celebration of Canada Week, which begins July 1, Dominion Day.

The twenty local chapters of the Imperial Order Daughters of the British Empire, at a meeting presided over by Mrs. L. Webster Fox of Philadelphia, National President, voted to take charge of the Canadian celebration here on July 2, Clansmen's Day.

One feature of the celebration of Canada Week will be the showing of picture films illustrative of the Battle of Vimy Ridge, in which Canadian troops played the vital role.

REAL ESTATE FIELD

The Merchants Bank of Canada, the fourth Canadian banking institution to purchase a permanent home in the financial district since the first of the year, paid a record price for 33 Wall Street, contracts for which were closed yesterday. The property, which has a frontage of 31.6 and a depth of 96.4, was sold by Post & Flagg through the Charles F. Noyes Company.

The plot contains about 1,956 square feet and is improved with a seven-story building. It brought about $500,000. Assuming these figures to be correct, the buyers paid about $255.60 a square foot, which is said to be the highest price ever paid for inside lots in this city for a similar area. The buyers will probably erect a new building on the site when they secure possession.

The Bank of Montreal was the first to buy in the financial district. It was closely followed by the Royal Bank of Canada and the Canadian Bank of Commerce.

Post & Flagg sold their old building because of the necessity of securing larger quarters. Their new home at 49 to 51 Broad Street will probably be a six-story modern fireproof office building, containing 20,000 square feet of space, which will be used exclusively for their own purposes.

Their new location on Broad Street has been the scene of many real estate deals during the last few weeks. Nos. 43-47 Broad Street was purchased by the Broad Exchange Company and is one of the sites being considered by the Curb Association for a new building, and at 55-59 Broad and 37 Beaver Street the Seaboard National Bank is to erect a new home, while right around the corner on Beaver Street three new buildings are in course of construction.

Riverside Drive Sale.

The Lyndon Arms, Inc., sold the six-story elevator apartment house known as Lyndon Arms, at 524 Riverside Drive, 75 by 86 irregular, located north of 122d Street and opposite Grant's Tomb, to the E. R. A. Realty Company, D. H. Jackson, President. The property, held at $175,000, was sold for cash through Nassoit & Lanning.

Operators Buy Uptown Apartments.

The Morgenstern Brothers Syndicate purchased from the Holland Realty Company 300 to 306 Convent Avenue, northwest corner of 142d Street, a six-story elevator apartment house, on a plot 125 by 100. The structure returns an annual rental of about $40,000, and was held at $290,000. W. D. Morgan and John S. Routh were the brokers in the transaction.

The Ralph Realty Corporation, Samuel Wacht, Jr., President, sold to the College Holding Company, Joseph Shenk, President, 420 West 119th Street, near Morningside Avenue, a six-story elevator apartment house, on a plot 125 by 100, renting for $45,000 and held at $300,000. J. Jelot and William S. Baker negotiated the sale.

Water Street Sale.

Katherine B. Sheehan sold the five-story building, 23.8 by 86, at 79 Water Street, adjoining the corner of Old Slip, through Cammann, Voorhees & Floyd.

After an ownership lasting a generation, William A. White & Sons have sold 85 Water Street for an estate represented by Theodore C. Camp. The building is four stories, 28 by 74, and is near the corner of Coenties Slip.

Bank Sells Holding.

The Greenwich Savings Bank, through Bastine & Co., Inc., its agents, sold the four-story and basement building at 363 Seventh Avenue, to a purchaser represented by Theodore Gutman, attorney. Middlebrook & Borland were the attorneys for the sellers.

Fiftieth Street Sale.

L. C. Hafner and Eugene Brady, executors of the estate of Francis McCabe, sold 126 and 128 West Fiftieth Street, two five-story buildings, on a plot 50 by 100.5, between Sixth and Seventh Avenues. The purchasers are George Backer and Arnstein & Levy, who formerly purchased through Mr. Backer the adjoining properties at 124 and 130 to 134 West Fiftieth Street, and with their latest purchase are now in control of a site 150 by 100. Charles W. Dayton, attorney, represented the McCabe estate, which had been in possession of the property for a number of years.

Tea Merchants Buy Home.

Joseph Tetley & Co., packers of Tetley's teas, bought for their own occupancy, through William A. White & Sons, the six-story fireproof building 483 and 485 Greenwich Street, 43 by 90, adjoining the corner of Canal Street. The sellers, T. Bach Bleecker and Harriman N. Simmons, coffee merchants, have been the owners of the property since it was erected about ten years ago. The property was held at $125,000.

Private Dwellings.

The three-story and basement dwelling, on a plot 18 by 100.11, at 70 West Ninety-fourth Street, was sold to a client of Thomas J. O'Reilly for occupancy.

Julius A. Falk sold the three-story brick and brownstone dwelling at 204 West 132d Street to an investing client of Porter & Co.

Mrs. Georgiana McKinley, 205 East Sixty-second Street, a three-story and basement dwelling, 18.6 by 100, to a buyer who will alter for occupancy. Douglas L. Elliman & Co. were the brokers.

Mitchell A. C. Levy sold the four-story dwelling, 20 by 100, at 243 East Sixtieth Street, held at $25,000, to A. C. Wandel, through the Benjamin Ruland & Whiting Company.

Frances S. Phraner, sold the five-story private house, 14 West Ninety-fourth Street to Max Werber, through Folsom Brothers, Inc.

Tenements Deal.

John R. Davidson sold for Robert Fulton the five-story flat, on lot 25 by 100, at 62 West 100th Street, to an investor. It was held at $22,000.

Church Property Sold.

The Trinity Congregational Church, at the northwest corner of 176th Street and Washington Avenue, the Bronx, has been authorized by Justice Edward R. Finch in the Bronx Supreme Court to sell the church and church property to the City of New York, for $185,000. Justice Finch signed the order yesterday and it was filed with the County Clerk.

The vestrymen of the church, in their petition for permission to dispose of their property, set forth that the membership of the congregation has for some time past changed with the influx of residents of a different race and therefore it is now almost impossible to maintain the property.

The petition also recites that there is a debt of $108,500 on the property, leaving a balance to be used in relocating a place of worship in another neighborhood. The church property is at present adjoined by a public school annex. It is said the Board of Education intends to extend its property to include the church property. Trinity Congregational Church was a Bronx landmark for many years. It became famous years ago as the church with its parsonage in the steeple, where the Rev. Milton Hess, its pastor, still resides.

The Bronx Market.

Robert E. Simon, representing the Henry Morgenthau Company, sold the triangular one-story Brick taxpayer at the junction of West Farms Road, Southern Boulevard and Westchester Avenue, on a plot 234.87 on West Farms Road by 188.61 on Southern Boulevard and 122.41 in the rear. The property consists of fourteen stores, and was sold for $200,000 to a client for investment. Alexander Selkin was the broker.

The Hudwill Corporation, Hudson P. Rose, President, bought from the Rasac Realty Company a two-family house at 4,042 Barnes Avenue; also purchased from John Meliff the three-family brownstone house at 133 East 120th Street, and from the Graf estate the three-story brick house at 31 West 132d Street.

The Dutchess Realty Company sold the property at 1,510 Benson Avenue to Samuel Fritz through F. M. Weiss & Co. The same brokers sold the premises at 1,532 Overing Street for the Poplar Realty Company to David Lundberg, and 1,516 Benson Avenue for Samuel Bitterman to Y. Laurea.

Charles Galewski has purchased from Sadie Cohen and Emma Abraham the plot, 50 by 76, on the west side of Foster Street, 200 feet south of Spofford Avenue, near the Hunts Point subway station. Henry Liebowitz was the broker.

ENGLISH ESTATE FOR SALE

Messrs. SIMMONS & SONS

Henley-on-Thames, London, England

WILL OFFER FOR SALE BY AUCTION JULY 26th, 1919, On the Crest of the Chilterns above Henley-on-Thames, Within a Mile of the Station, and One Hour from Paddington,

FRIAR PARK

Magnificently placed amidst 70 acres of grounds and parkland of great beauty, and commanding peculiarly grand and extensive views of the Thames Valley and surrounding hills. The grounds are world-famous and embrace containing every known variety of rock plants. JAPANESE, HERBACEOUS, TOPIARY, MEDIAEVAL and other gardens. Lovely ornamental water. Bountifully shrubbed lawns and walks. Extensive conservatories and fruit houses, etc., etc.

THE FINEST ROCK GARDEN IN THE BRITISH ISLES

The RESIDENCE, built in 1896, is replete with every modern comfort, and perfectly equipped with exceptional panelling and grandly carved fitments. The principal reception and bedrooms are spacious and overlook the finest country scenery. Electric light, central heating, modern drainage, perfect water supply. There are also Three ARTISTIC LODGES and A WELL-APPOINTED BOATHOUSE, with wet dock and extensive summer rooms overlooking the FAMOUS REGATTA COURSE.

AT HOME, June 22, 1919.

Dear Mr. Homeseeker:

I want to sell my suburban home. Business takes me to Europe permanently. If you want a fine, well-built, livable home of your own, cheap, answering this letter will furnish the opportunity. The plot has 160 feet of actual waterfront with riparian rights, running in depth 245 feet to Lake Drive. A beautiful lawn with splendid shading oaks and many flowers and shrubs run to the water's edge. The house is five years old and in perfect condition. There are 4 big rooms on the first floor, 4 fine bedrooms, 2 large bathrooms and sleeping porch on the second floor, and a pool and billiard room, maid's room, bath and storeroom on the third floor. Electric light, heat, water, parquet floors and all city conveniences are installed. Everything up to date and modern. And it is only a few minutes' walk to the railroad station. Express service. Quick, convenient and easy commuting to heart of Manhattan. The price is less than it has cost me to date—$13,500. Most of this can remain on mortgage. If you like the furniture I will sell that, too, at a bargain.

Sincerely,
OPPORTUNITY,
P. O. Box 688,
City Hall Station, N. Y. City.

SALES MANAGER DISTRICT WANTED.
There must be somewhere in New York a man of mature years, but still active and full of pep, who has sold specialities on the territorial agency contract basis practically continuously for the past ten or fifteen years. This man should have a broad selling experience and understand the game from A to Z, not from the standpoint of selling dealers, but appointing manufacturer's agents.
To such a man we offer a permanent connection on a commission and drawing account basis which will net him not less than $10,000 per year; our sales force is limited to men of that calibre, and is presently engaged in marketing a business appliance backed by a national magazine advertising campaign.
If you have had the experience which qualifies you for this position, and are prepared to travel, write us fully, in confidence, or call at our office and talk the matter over with our General Sales Manager. Standard Appliance Co. of America, Inc., 376-380 Lafayette St., New York City.

SALESMEN.—Three super-salesmen who have been earning at least $4,000 a year, but want a chance to make $10,000 and over; only men who know how to close important contracts requiring real selling ability; man having a positive personality and who knows he can sell the security if it is right, honest, and has good talking points; expenses against a liberal commission paid only to the man who can prove he has the ability; preferably a man of wide business or social acquaintance; to such a man a rapidly growing investment banking firm will offer a real opportunity for a permanent connection; important executive position will be offered to the man who makes good; write us, giving complete information about yourself, also telephone number. C 255 Times.

SALES MANAGER.
A large investment house has an opening for a general manager, having breadth of vision, capable of handling salesmen; we believe a man between 35 and 45 would be about right; liberal compensation will be paid to the man who can produce results; fair salary to start with, which will be increased when ability to produce business is demonstrated; splendid opportunity for a natural business getter, and the position offered will be permanent.
All communications will be treated in strict confidence. D 765 Times Downtown.

SALESMAN.—We have a vacancy on our selling staff for a high-grade specialty salesman to call on the wholesale grocery trade throughout New York, Pennsylvania, and Connecticut; position also entails responsibility of supervising force of eight to ten retail salesmen; this is excellent opportunity for a live one, and preference will be given to a man who has been a successful retail salesman himself and who knows enough about specialty business to be able to successfully coach new men; good salary to the right party; all answers will be treated in strict confidence, but must give following details: Age, nationality, whether married or single, positions held, and salary earned for past ten years. TRY FOR JUNIOR ACCOUNTANCY
OCTOBER, 1920.
October 15 to November 15 is the period during which one-fourth of the year's business changes, readjustments, and building up of staffs are made.
If you have a faculty for figures and the crude stuff for the making of an accountant, there is just about time between now and October 15th this year for you, thru suitable intensive training—during your spare hours at home—to qualify for a Junior Accountancy position that will pay at least $35 a week.
And ample time to qualify before October, 1920, for position of Senior Accountant, Auditor, or Income Tax Expert, at a salary of at least $75 a week—with possibilities of more than twice that amount.
It is only a question of raw ability and industry, a resolute purpose to devote five spare home hours a week to intensive training in accordance with the most successful business-training system ever devised, under the tutelage of a corps of eminent Certified Public Accountants who are renowned as practical teachers.
We have given hundreds of ambitious, earnest men and women the start that has put them over the top, and have their records to point to with just pride. We can do as much for you if you are made of the right stuff. It is worth your while to investigate.

Education Notes.

Graduating exercises of the class of June, 1919, were held in the Eastern District High School, Marcy Avenue and Keep Street, last evening. The presiding officer was John Greene, Professor of English, St. Francis Xavier, Brooklyn, and formerly Vice President of the Board of Education. The presentation of diplomas was made by Mrs. Ruth F. Russell, Commissioner of Education. City Magistrate Francis A. McCloskey made an address. The graduates of the four-year course numbered 106 and of the three-year course (commercial) 73.

Director John W. Davis of the Bureau of Attendance, calls the attention of the public to the fact that the Board of Education and the Board of Health have worked out a plan whereby the public may be materially benefited through the use of the local offices of the Bureau of Attendance for the issuance of Summer employment permits. The Summer vacation permit is good only for the employment of a child in any mercantile establishment or business office during the months of July and August, and the child must obtain a definite promise of employment by having a card signed by the prospective employer before he will be submitted to a physical examination. The permit is mailed to the employer and is good only for the employment of a child named therein and is not valid for use by other employers. Each time the child changes jobs through the Summer he must obtain a new permit, and the law requires the employer to return the Summer vacation permit within three days after the termination of the child's employment.

Summer courses in the elements of architectural design are announced by Columbia University. In one, moldings, the orders, intercolumniation and superposition, balustrades, arcades, doors, windows, roofs, and vaults will be studied. The other will take up design problems, showing application of elementary architectural forms. A knowledge of shades and shadows is prerequisite. The first session of these courses, which will be given by Albert E. Flanagan, will take place Tuesday, July 8, at 7 P. M. in Room 601, Avery Hall. Courses in drawing, perspective, and architectural design, in elementary, intermediate, and advanced grades also will be offered at the Columbia Summer session. The latter courses, under Professor William A. Boring, will be given by George M. Allen and Arthur Ware. They duplicate courses in the regular curriculum of the School of Architecture, and will count toward the degree in architecture for students who have satisfied the entrance requirements. Many Summer courses in fine arts will be given at Teachers' College.

Teachers who failed to pass the examination for assistant to principal will meet in the Brooklyn Public Library, Franklin Avenue and Hancock Street, at 4 P. M. today. It is planned to appeal to Mayor Hylan for a hearing in regard to existing conditions in the examinations by the Board of Examiners.

The attention of the Teachers Interests Organization has been called to the practice of a principal who, while giving a teacher excellent ratings, had rated her so low on renewal blanks that her permanent department license had not been recommended by Associate Superintendent Edson, who suggested the transfer of the teacher that she might "do better." The case will be investigated by the legal committee of the organization.

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, June 24.—The Southern Minnesota depression of Monday night is now over Northern Illinois, and pressure below normal prevails generally except in the Atlantic States. There were general showers in the Mississippi and Ohio Valleys, the West Upper Lake and Western lower Lake regions, the East Gulf and South Atlantic States, and local showers in the West Gulf States. Elsewhere the weather was fair. Temperatures have fallen to below the seasonable average in the Upper Ohio Valley, but remain high over the remainder of the country except in the West Gulf States.

Showers will be quite general Wednesday east of the Mississippi River reaching the New England and Middle Atlantic Coast Wednesday night or Thursday. Showers will continue Thursday in the East Gulf and South Atlantic States, while in the Ohio Valley and the lake region the weather will be generally fair Thursday. It will be somewhat cooler Wednesday along the New England Coast and on Thursday in the Eastern Upper Lake region, the Middle Atlantic States, and New England.

Winds for Wednesday and Thursday—North of Sandy Hook, moderate winds mostly southwest, fair weather; Sandy Hook to Hatteras, moderate winds, mostly southwest, with fair weather, except southeast and south off the North Carolina coast with showers; Hatteras to Florida Straits, winds mostly south and moderate, except east off the south Florida coast, showers and thunderstorms; East Gulf Coast, moderate winds mostly southeast and south, showers and thunderstorms.

FORECAST TODAY AND THURSDAY.

Eastern New York—Partly cloudy Wednesday; showers at night or Thursday; somewhat cooler Thursday.

Southern New England—Partly cloudy Wednesday; cooler near the coast; probably showers at night or Thursday; cooler Thursday.

New Jersey—Partly cloudy Wednesday; showers at night or Thursday; somewhat cooler Thursday north portion.

Delaware—Partly cloudy Wednesday; probably showers by night and on Thursday.

Eastern Pennsylvania—Showers Wednesday in west and by Wednesday night in east portion. Thursday showers; somewhat cooler east portion.

The temperature record for the twenty-four hours ended at midnight, taken from the thermometer at the local office of the United States Weather Bureau, is as follows:

TWO PROHIBITION BILLS READY FOR CONGRESS TODAY

OTHER FOR JANUARY LAW

No Word from President or Any Intimation That He Will Take Action Toward Repeal.

CITY NOT TO BE "BONE DRY"

Hotels and Restaurants to Sell Beer and Light Wines, Even if the President Does Not Act.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 25.—With only five days remaining before wartime prohibition is scheduled to become effective, and with Congress apparently determined not to repeal the act, there was no evidence at the White House today that the President would interfere and save the day for the "wets" for the period of six months that will elapse from July 1 until January, 1920, when constitutional prohibition becomes effective.

Despite intimations from some Democratic leaders that President Wilson would repeal the wartime Prohibition act by July 1 or indicate his intention to remove it very soon thereafter, and predictions that the President would act on June 25, the day passed without any word reaching the White House from the President relative to the prohibition question.

Secretary Baker, when asked to what strength the army would have to be reduced to bring it within the status of demobilization, said that was a question for the Attorney General to determine. Asked when the "emergency" during which it was legally permissible to continue the five-mile dry zones around military reservations would be regarded as having passed, he replied that this also was a matter of law to be determined by the Attorney General.

In the absence of any word as to the attitude of the President later than what he said on prohibition in his message to the special session of the Congress, leaders at the Capitol went ahead with and virtually completed plans for the enforcement of both wartime and constitutional prohibition. Drastic legislation for the strict enforcement of both measures is provided for in the Volstead bill, which was completed by the House Judiciary Committee today. After its completion, Representative Walsh of Massachusetts moved that the proposed legislation for the enforcement of wartime prohibition be separated from the proposed legislation for the enforcement of constitutional prohibition.

When the Judiciary Committee meets tomorrow morning a vote will be taken on the Walsh motion. There is every indication tonight that this motion will prevail. In that event two bills will be reported—one, a short measure, providing for the enforcement of wartime prohibition after July 1; the other, the longer and more comprehensive and drastic Volstead bill, providing for enforcement of constitutional prohibition after Jan. 1, 1920.

If, as now appears probable, the committees' decision will be to deal with the two kinds of prohibition separately, the House Committee will report the same short bill dealing with wartime prohibition that was reported to the House by the Judiciary Committee on Feb. 22 last.

Temporary Victory for Wets.

This bill merely provides for the enforcement of wartime prohibition by making it a crime to manufacture or sell intoxicating liquors and giving the courts power to enforce this by appropriate injunction. Unless the decision of the Judiciary Committee tomorrow is against separating wartime from constitutional prohibition, all reference to wartime prohibition will be stricken from the Volstead bill, and it will be reported as an out-and-out enforcement bill for constitutional prohibition alone. If the decision is in favor of dividing the two propositions, the drastic provisions of the Volstead bill as it stands will not be applicable to wartime prohibition, although the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquor during the period that wartime prohibition remains in effect would be punishable as a crime.

The more conservative members of the House Committee won a temporary victory over the more radical "drys" during consideration of the Volstead bill when they carried an amendment offered by Representative Steele of Pennsylvania, intended to allow each State to regulate the manufacture, sale, and distribution within the commonwealth of intoxicating liquors. This, in effect, would have left the whole liquor problem

PRODUCE STRIKE REACHES CRISIS

Merchants Agree to Open Stores Today and Railroads Will Try to Make Shipments.

UNIONS THREATEN TROUBLE

Fruit and Vegetable Shortage Is Felt, as No Fresh Consignments Are Received.

With no sign of a settlement in sight, despite the presence of Joseph B. Buchanan, United States Commissioner of Conciliation, who came from Washington to supplement the efforts of the committee of the State Mediation and Arbitration Board, the strike of the teamsters, chauffeurs, and porters employed by fruit and vegetable merchants, which began Monday morning, has reached an acute stage.

The produce merchants, who were closed yesterday for the first time in the history of the city, save on Sundays and holidays, decided at a meeting at the Boosters' Club in the afternoon to reopen at 6 o'clock this morning and to remain open every day from that hour to 5 o'clock in the afternoon. A committee which visited Police Headquarters received a promise of ample police protection. Word from Jersey City last night was that the Pennsylvania Railroad, under the protection of the Jersey City police, would make an effort at 5:30 o'clock this morning to get the congested shipments in that place to the Pennsylvania Ferry.

The produce men do not conceal that their effort to move the fruit and vegetables which are ruining at the railroad and steamship terminals and in their stores may lead to trouble.

Neil Strome of Walden, N.Y., of the New York Federation of Agriculture, a member of the committee that called on the police for protection, said at the Continental Hotel last night that if the police cannot handle the situation the National Government will be called upon. If all other appeals fail, he said, "there are 5,000 farmers with shotguns who will come here and see that their produce is moved." He said that the farmers will bear the brunt of the loss resulting from the strike.

Unions Threaten Trouble.

Officials of Local No. 202, International Brotherhood of Teamsters, 205 Chambers Street, declined to consider arbitration of their differences, if by arbitration was meant any concessions on their part. Following word to this effect, the commission merchants decided on opening up their places. Late in the afternoon officials of the union announced their willingness to accept the proposal of the employers as it applies to the striking porters, leaving open for individual contracts the demands of teamsters and chauffeurs. This offer is to be placed before the commission men early today by Joseph B. Popp, Secretary of the union.

The union officials say the Market Truck Owners' Association stands in the way of a settlement and that the commission men are willing to meet their demands. It was reported that the truck owners expected to operate their own trucks today. Union officials said such a move would result in serious trouble.

While many of the hotels and retail markets reported a rapidly-growing shortage of fruits and vegetables because of inability to get deliveries, L. J. Lippman, Chairman of the dealers' committee, said there is enough foodstuffs to supply the city's needs for several days if it is moved promptly. Shipments to the city have been diverted to other points, and it would be a day or so after the strike is settled before normal conditions could be restored. Mr. Strome said the farmers are forced to let their stuff rot in the fields, as they cannot arrange for other markets on such short notice.

There were virtually no receipts yesterday of fruits and vegetables. Eight hundred barrels of potatoes arrived over the Old Dominion Line. Almost no tomatoes, cucumbers, watermelons, asparagus, string beans, strawberries, peas, and carrots arrived, and no onions, peaches, or cantaloupes were received.

COMMITTEE PUTS OFF VOTE ON FALL MOVE FOR PEACE

No Report to Senate Likely Until After Germans Have Signed Treaty.

COVENANT AGAIN ASSAILED

TREATY GUARANTEE OF WAR

Insists Self-Determination for Ireland Is Natural Matter for Conference to Consider.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 25.—Although a majority of the Foreign Relations Committee appears to favor the Fall resolution to declare a state of peace in advance of consideration of the treaty with Germany, so that economic intercourse may immediately be resumed with Germany and Austria-Hungary, the committee today voted to put off action upon it until next Monday. It was thought better to defer making a favorable report on the resolution to the Senate until after Germany had signed the treaty so as not to give Germany any excuse for refusing to sign in the hope that in any event peace was about to be re-established with the United States.

Senator Lodge, Chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, argued that Germany might attempt to seize upon Senate action declaring a state of peace to exist as an advantage in pressing further demands upon the Peace Conference. With the United States out of the conflict, he said, the conference might be put to some embarrassment in dealing with a somewhat awkward situation.

It was by a vote of 11 to 4 that the committee agreed to postpone immediate action on the Fall measure. The vote came upon a motion of Senator Swanson, Democrat, of Virginia. It was supported by every one of the nine Republican members. Senator Hitchcock, ranking Democratic member of the committee, also voted for it.

The vote of the committee in no sense, it was stated by Republican members afterward, reflected the sentiment of the majority members toward the resolution. Senator Lodge expects the measure to be reported favorably when the committee meets Monday. In that event it will be pushed to consideration at the earliest opportunity. Owing to the pressure of appropriation legislation, however, it is expected that Senator Fall will not be able to call it up before the end of next week.

Sharp Disapproval.

During committee consideration of the resolution Administration Senators expressed sharp disapproval of any action by the Senate toward declaring a status of peace to exist in advance of consideration of the Peace Treaty. Senators Hitchcock, Pomerene, and other Democratic members argued that the method of establishing peace is clearly defined in the Constitution. The Senate, they pointed out, through its ratification of a treaty of peace, actually establishes the status of peace, while the President completes the process through proclamation.

In no other way, the Democratic Senators insisted, can peace be declared between Germany and the United States. They characterized the Fall resolution as tending to upset the legal method which Congress has always pursued. They argued that there is no occasion to rush any such measure to establish peace. The Peace Treaty, they said, will undoubtedly be before the Senate within ten days.

If the Senate so desires, it can ratify the Peace Treaty within a week's time, the Democrats argued. The hint was thrown out that the opponents of the League of Nations advocated the Fall resolution so that they would have ample time to fight the League covenant and, at the same time, shield themselves from any charge that they were delaying the final consummation of peace.

The Republican members of the committee argued that the Fall resolution was directed simply to an effort to establish peace at once, so that the United States could resume trade relations with the Central Powers, while time would be afforded the Senate to calmly consider the treaty, along with the League covenant.

Bitter Fight Expected.

That the fight over the Fall resolution will be bitter was indicated from the attitude of the Administration Democrats. After the committee had ad-

French Deputies Would Destroy German National Monument

PARIS, June 25.—Deputy Peyroux, of the Federated Republican groups in the Chamber of Deputies, and several of his colleagues introduced a resolution in the Chamber today calling for the destruction of the German National monument on the Niederwald so as to punish German pride and to answer the destruction of the fleet at Scapa Flow and the burning of the French battle flags of 1870. The Deputy requested an immediate discussion.

The German national monument on the Niederwald is opposite Bingen on the Rhine in the French area of occupation. It was erected to commemorate the founding of the German Empire in 1870-71. The monument is on a hill 740 feet above the Rhine, the base is 78 feet high, and a large figure of Germania rises to a height of 33 feet more. It is embellished with allegorical figures and portraits.

The cost of the monument was said to have been about $265,000.

SINN FEIN STORM SWEEPS ST. REGIS

PORTERS WERE AGAINST HIM

British Sportsman's Protest Over Display of Irish Emblem Opens Hostilities.

When Sir Charles Carrick Allom, the English sportsman and airplane manufacturer, went into the St. Regis Hotel at Fifth Avenue and Fifty-fifth Street for luncheon yesterday, he was asked by two girls in the lobby if he wished to subscribe to the Irish "Victory Fund," now being collected in this country for the benefit of the Sinn Fein movement in Ireland. The girls were standing at a table near the door of the main dining room, and the American flag and the emblem adopted by the Sinn Fein movement were displayed by them.

Several different versions of the conversation that followed were given last night by persons who had taken part in it, but all agreed upon several of the main questions said to have been asked the girls by Sir Charles. After the conversation with the girls upon the aims of the movement, Sir Charles called for R. M. Haan, the manager, and protested against the display of the emblem in the hotel. All those who took part in the discussion, and those who heard it, admitted that it was animated, but the reports of the conclusion of the argument differ widely.

Mr. Haan and his brother, Joseph Haan, said that Sir Charles was ejected through the main door into Fifty-fifth Street by attendants who admit Irish parentage. Sir Charles says he left the hotel voluntarily after an animated discussion with the managers and some of the attendants who were not in sympathy with his views.

Sir Charles said last night that he had lived in the hotel for several months when here on his last visit, and that he had left there after he had gained the impression that some person not in sympathey with the aims of the Allies was tampering with mail sent to him in reference to contracts with the British Government for airplanes and explosives. The managers denied last night that Sir Charles ever had complained to them, while he was living there, that any of his letters had been opened, and they said that he had been there for luncheon and dinner frequently since he ceased living there.

When it was brought to Sir Charles's attention that the management of the St. Regis emphatically denied that he had complained that his mail had been tampered with, he declared that he had spoken of the matter both to the management and Mr. Haan when it happended in 1914. He added:

"I never, however, for one moment suggested, nor do I now suggest, that Mr. Haan had anything to do with this interference with my correspondence, but it left a distinctly unpleasant feeling between us when I left the hotel on account of it."

According to all versions of the story, Sir Charles asked the two girls if they believed in the "Irish rebellion." The girls replied that they believed in the Irish "republic." Sir Charles told the girls that he believed that their time could be put to better use if they refrained from assisting a cause that was inimical to the aims of the Allies. The girls were Sheila O'Reilley and Mabel Clayton, both 16 years old and both living at 777 East 179th Street.

Sir Charles Makes a Protest.

After this conversation with the girls had ended Sir Charles protested to Joseph Haan against the display of the Sinn Fein emblem in the hotel. R. M. Haan joined the discussion with some of the assistant managers, including

MORE DELAY IN SIGNING

Hindenburg Complicates the Berlin Situation by Resigning.

GERMANS FACE BIG STRIKE

Railroad Tieup, Fomented by Reds—An Outbreak of Rioting and Robbery.

PLOT TO KILL SCHEIDEMANN

BERLIN, June 25, (Associated Press.) Hermann Müller, the new Foreign Minister, the Tageblatt says, has declined to go to Versailles to sign the Peace Treaty.

The streets of Berlin were scenes of rioting and plundering last night and this morning. Incited by speeches from agitators in Alexanderplatz, mobs attacked and robbed pedestrians and maltreated isolated soldiers.

Troops sent to Alexanderplatz were fired upon by crowds in the streets and from the roofs of buildings. They finally succeeded in clearing the streets.

Elsewhere in the city bands of marauders robbed shops and attacked citizens, rifling their pockets. The neighborhood of the Stettin Railroad Station, the Hochstrasse and the Badstrasse was notably disorderly.

Street cars were held up while rioters searched the passengers' pockets and stole women's rings. Here, also, soldiers were beaten and shots were fired at them from roofs and windows, and the soldiers returned the fire.

After daylight this morning the city was quieter, but at noon the police appealed for troops, as the crowds were gathering once more. Four thousand workers in the shops of the Gruenewald Railroad had struck. Troops have occupied the Goerlitz and Stettin Stations, which are still being used by the public.

Germany is faced with a nation-wide railroad strike for higher wages. At the Gorlitz Station, in Berlin, service has been stopped in both directions. The Breslau service has been badly interrupted.

The Government is negotiating in an endeavor to halt the strikes, which are largely the outcome of communist propaganda.

Dispatches to the Berlin papers from their correspondents at Weimar say that feeling among German military leaders is still running high, notwithstanding the fact that they are admonishing the troops to continue in the service.

Luettwitz Renews Protest.

Major Gen. Baron von Lüttwitz in a special call, reiterates his opposition to the peace terms, while Major von Gilsa, Herr Noske's Adjutant, has announced that Prussian War Minister Reinhart "will endeavor to defend the menaced honor of the army and its leaders by the adoption of special measures." He will confer with Herr Noske today.

Major von Gilsa denied the report that army officers had been resigning as a protest against the acceptance of the peace terms. Nevertheless, it is said, the regular army officers will oppose vigorously the surrender of their former leaders. The situation created by their attitude has become acute already and those in touch with the situation fear that it may result in serious complications both for the Cabinet and for the nation.

Correspondents at Weimar are unanimous in the belief that the prestige of Matthias Erzberger has been damaged because of his mysterious, but emphatic, assurances that the Entente would be willing to yield on the honor issue, which failed to materialize. Herr Erzberger's position is a subject of much speculation, and it is believed that as soon as the peace crisis is passed he faces a rather trying period.

French Flags Taken by Subterfuge.

BERLIN, June 25, (via Paris.)—The burning of the French flags held as trophies since 1870 was the result of a careful scheme matured last week. It was not, as was supposed somewhat generally, inspired by the sinking of German war vessels by their own crews and the cry of the militarists for "another stroke." The act was openly executed under the noses of the Noske guards and almost within the shadow of the imperial palaces.

Two hours later organized bands of plunderers began systematically looting food and clothing stores in northern Berlin. The civil police asked military aid and troops armed with rifles, revolvers, machine guns, and armored cars gave the streets of that quarter once more the appearance of revolutionary days. Within the hearing of

Ebert Urges Germans to Carry Out the Treaty; Pledges Faith to Regions Marked for Separation

LONDON, June 25.—President Ebert, Premier Bauer, and all the Ministers, have issued a proclamation to the German people, according to a wireless message from Berlin, announcing the conclusion of peace and urging as the first pressing need the bending of all efforts to its fulfillment.

"As far as it is possible to carry it out," says the proclamation, "the treaty must be carried out."

It declares faithful loyalty to those threatened with separation from the empire and promises to intercede in their behalf, "as we would intercede for ourselves."

It concludes by exhorting the people to realize the need of work and faithfulness to duty for the redemption of the country.

EXPECT KAISER TO ESCAPE TRIAL

Rhinelanders Apparently Mean That He Will Kill Himself Rather Than Face Court.

TALK OF A SUICIDE CLUB

Said to be Composed of U-Boat Commanders Booked for Punishment by Allies.

By EDWIN L. JAMES.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

COBLENZ, June 24.—Up and down the Rhineland goes the word that William Hohenzollern, ex-Emperor of Germany, will never be brought to trial as provided in the terms of the Peace Treaty, which the conquered nation, through its Weimar Assembly, has now voted to sign. The ex-Kaiser has many friends along this noble stream.

A center of conservatism, this New England of Germany has hoped against hope that some turn of affairs would bring Wilhelm back to the throne. He is respected and venerated here.

The newspapers today tell of the bitter fight the Centrists and Democrats made to the last to have stricken from the treaty the provision that the ex-Kaiser should be tried. And they failed. But those who think much of the ex-Emperor are saying that he will never face a court of nations to answer "for a supreme offense against international morality and sanctity of treaties."

There has been loud acclaim for the German sailors who died in sinking their ships in Scapa Flow to cheat the war's victors. They are hailed as "real Germans, men of honor."

Friends of the ex-Kaiser are not saying that he will commit suicide rather than face judgment, but one reads in their declaration, pompous and verbose, that this idea of the maintenance of Wilhelm's honor hinges on that eventuality. Whether or not the man whose honor was such that he ran away rather than face the nation's crisis is such as to give him nerve to solve the nasty problem by removing himself does not appear to enter into their speculations. They are simply sure the ex-Kaiser will never come to trial.

In this connection there is another interesting story going the rounds of the Rhineland beer gardens, where chagrined Germans are rejoicing over the burning of the French flags in Berlin yesterday and praying again for "Der Tag" when they will clean up France. This story is to the effect that those submarine commanders who are on England's blacklist for crimes against humanity committed in the von Tirpitz "spurlos versenkt" sea warfare, and whom the Allies propose to try, have formed a suicide club. It is said this club has held seventy meetings. The main idea is that its members will defeat justice by killing themselves if justice gets too close to their trail.

SHOCK AT AMERONGEN OVER WEIMAR YIELDING

AMERONGEN, June 24, (Associated Press.)—News of Germany's decision to accept the peace terms, including the clause providing for the delivery of the former Emperor to the Allies, reached the castle here late yesterday evening.

Exactly how the former Emperor was affected by the tidings cannot be ascertained, but the attitude of members of his party gives rise to the belief that the news was a considerable shock.

When The Associated Press correspondent talked with attendants they said that the news was already known at the castle. They made the most scathing criticisms of the German National Assembly for its action.

Evidently they had held to the hope that some way would be found for the former Emperor to return to Germany. Now, however, it is apparently realized that he is exiled forever.

The former monarch resumed his customary log-sawing at the usual hour.

ASK REPARATION FOR FLEET SUNK

PROTEST ANOTHER ACTION

PARIS, June 25.—The Council of Three decided this afternoon, according to the Havas News Agency, to send two notes to the President of the German Peace Delegation at Versailles, one regarding the actions of the Germans in Poland, in connection with a significant telegram intercepted by the Poles, and the other relative to the sinking of the German fleet in the Scapa Flow.

The Allies announce that they will demand reparation for the sinking of the fleet.

The council, according to the Paris office of Reuter's, Ltd., had before it and examined fully the facts relative to what took place with regard to the ships at the time the armistice was signed.

The following statement, the news agency says, may be regarded as an official explanation:

"At the time of the signing of the armistice the British Admiralty and the British Government strongly urged that the German ships should be surrendered. The French military authorities, however, put forward the view that for the purpose of the armistice the surrender of the German ships was not absolutely essential. They were most anxious that the armistice should be concluded, having regard for the very serious loss of life daily on the western front. Insistance upon surrender of the fleet, they felt, might delay the signing, for which, despite rumors to the contrary, Marshal Foch was as desirous as any one.

"The French, therefore, suggested that the German ships be interned in neutral ports, a course which they believed would not be regarded by the enemy in the same way as would the surrender of the ships. This view was supported by Admiral Benson, (American naval representative in Paris.)

"Ultimately a compromise was reached providing for the internment of the ships in a British port."

Authorized denial was made in a high American source today that there was any truth in an intimation made in the British House of Commons yesterday by Horatio Bottomley, Independent Member from South Hackney and editor of John Bull, respecting the disposition of the German war fleet. Mr. Bottomley's intimation was that President Wilson had overruled the plea of Premier Lloyd George that the German ships be surrendered, instead of interned.

THURSO, Scotland, June 25.—It was owing to the gallantry of a young midshipman on one of the British patrolships that four of the German destroyers were saved from sinking at Scapa Flow. The midshipman, who is unnamed, armed himself with a rifle and, boarding a destroyer, compelled the German crew to close the seacocks and thus kept the vessel afloat until she could be beached.

Following this success, it is said, he did the same with the other three vessels.

LONDON, June 25.—Speaking in the House of Commons today on the subject of reparation for the sinking of the German warships, Walter Hume Long, First Lord of the Admiralty, said the allied representatives in Paris had this under consideration. The statement that the crews were changed periodically was not correct, he declared, but invalids were exchanged. The total guard and maintenance party had been reduced from 4,700 to about 1,800.

Mr. Long explained that it was impossible for the Admiralty to take precautions to prevent the sinking, because the ships were interned, not surrendered. Therefore, the Admiralty had no power to place guards on them.

The First Lord denied that the Admiralty had recommended internment, emphasizing the point that the decision of the allied heads for internment controlled the situation and made prevention of the scuttling utterly impossible.

COUNCIL WAITING ON BERLIN

German Delay in Selecting Delegates Perplexes Leaders.

CEREMONY IS DELAYED

1,000 TO SEE THE EVENT

Three Hundred Newspapermen to be There—Wilson Dinner to Delegates Today.

PARIS, June 25, (Associated Press.)—Advices from Germany to the Council of Five are to the effect that the German Government was occupied today in selecting new delegates for Versailles.

Up to a late hour, however, no official word had been received here regarding Germany's plans with regard to the formal signing of the Peace Treaty, and the Peace Conference leaders were undisguisedly perplexed over the situation.

It was conceded to be impossible that the ceremony of signing could take place before Saturday. Unofficial reports were that it would probably be delayed until Monday.

Paul Dutasta, the General Secretary of the Peace Conference, went to Versailles this afternoon under the instructions of the Council to see if Haniel von Haimhausen, representing the Germans there, had any information of his Government's intentions. The German representative said, however, that he had received no news except the fact that the members of the Government left Weimar for Berlin last night.

Hint of a New Ultimatum.

If the heads of the allied powers in Paris do not hear from Weimar very soon regarding the German delegation for the signing of the Peace Treaty an ultimatum will be sent to the German Government, according to the Paris office of Reuter's, Limited. The ultimatum will demand the appointment of plenipotentiaries within a certain number of hours.

It was announced today that President Poincaré's official dinner to the peace plenipotentiaries would take place on Thursday evening. It was originally planned to hold the dinner on the evening of the signing of the treaty, but the uncertainty as to the date for the ceremony has caused Thursday to be named definitely for the dinner, irrespective of the time of the event at Versailles.

Veterans of 1870 to See Signing.

Notable among the persons who will attend the ceremony of the signing of the treaty will be five Senators who participated in the campaign of 1870. Premier Clemenceau announced in the Senate today that these men would be honored with places in the Hall of Mirrors in the palace at Versailles.

Marshal Pétain, accompanied by six French Generals, Mrs. Wilson, her secretary, and Miss Margaret Wilson will be among the 1,000 persons, including delegates and secretaries, who will be present when the Germans attach their signatures to the treaty. Three hundred newspaper men from all the interested nations, a few neutral newspaper correspondents, and about 300 guests apportioned among the signatory nations will have places in the hall.

Seven regiments of cavalry and four regiments of infantry will guard the palace grounds during the ceremony. Within the marble court through which all the witnesses except the Germans will pass will be stationed a company of drummers and buglers. No other musicians will participate. The soldiers within the palace will all be members of the Republican Guard, wearing silver helmets, red coats, and white breeches.

The Germans will be admitted at a side entrance from the park after the other delegations are seated about the horseshoe table within which will be the signing table where the treaty will lie.

Sixty Americans to See Signing.

PARIS, June 25.—No definite information has been received as to the time of the arrival of the new German peace plenipotentiaries. In a statement given yesterday to the Council of the great powers by Haniel von Haimhausen, Acting Chairman of the German delegation at Versailles, the latter said that he had been informed that the plenipotentiaries probably would reach Versailles Thursday night or Friday morning. It now appears that this information was indefinite, and uncertainty exists as to whether the delegation has even left Weimar.

In the hope of expediting the movements of the enemy envoys the Council has asked the German representative to ascertain the names of the members of the delegation.

It was reported today that the Council had delivered an ultimatum fixing the date when the Germans must sign the treaty, but this is untrue. It is believed that the inquiry mentioned will be a sufficient hint to the German Government to have the plenipotentiaries start immediately for Versailles if they have not already done so.

Until it is known positively when the Germans will arrive the council will not fix the time for the ceremony of signing. Tentatively Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock has been set. Sixty spectators' seats for the ceremony in the Hall of Mirrors have been placed at the disposition of American plenipotentiaries.

Yesterday, when the members of the Council were inspecting the arrangements at Versailles, M. Clemenceau asked if ladies were to be present. "I want my ladies present," said Mr. Wilson, and it was decided then that women should be admitted as spectators—each delegation distributing its seat tickets as it saw fit.

The President's particular guests, it is supposed, will be Mrs. Wilson, Miss Margaret Wilson, Miss Edith Benham, Mrs. Wilson's secretary, and Admiral Grayson, the President's physician.

June 24.—When Wilson, Clemenceau, Balfour, Sonnino, and Makino made a pilgrimage to Versailles this afternoon to look over the Hall of Mirrors and supervise the final arrangements for the signing of the Peace Treaty they were evidently full of that enthusiasm which has been apparent everywhere in Paris since the notification was received yesterday that the German Government had agreed to accept the peace conditions without reservations. While they were in the Hall of Mirrors they cracked jokes and beamed at one another. It was obvious that any irritation that had prevailed during the trying period of the interallied exchanges had passed away, and a most cordial friendship seemed to exist between the members of the party.

For instance, when the suggestion was made that M. Clemenceau, as President of the Peace Conference, should sign the treaty first, the old Tiger of France would have none of it.

"No, you must sign first, Mr. President," he said turning to Mr. Wilson, and it was so agreed by the others present.

The party had a discussion as to how long the ceremony of signing would last. Some quick calculations indicated that attaching seals to the signature copy of the treaty would lengthen the time considerably, and that the whole ceremony could not be concluded in less than five hours. Some concern was shown over this, but Baron Sonnino solved the problem. He suggested that the seals be attached before the ceremony began, leaving as the final act merely the signing of his name by each plenipotentiary.

The matter of using seals was discussed among the chief representatives of the five great powers and the decision was reached that each plenipotentiary might use his private seal. Mr. Balfour remarked that he had never used a seal and was at a loss to know what to do. "But probably several of them will be found at home," he said, and added that he would telegraph to London to see if one used in his family could be obtained and rushed to Paris before Friday.

Mr. Clemenceau had his joke (one of many) while he and the others were in the Hall of Mirrors. The matter of having the final ceremony occur at 11 o'clock Friday morning was suggested. Mr. Clemenceau objected. The ceremony, if begun then, he said, would run over into the French déjeuner period, and that would never do. Déjeuner is a ceremonial function in France, and what the Tiger said may have been as much of a joke as his manner indicated.

There will be only one signature copy of the treaty. This will be preserved in the archives of the French Government. Each allied peace commission and German delegation will receive an authenticated printed copy, and President Wilson will carry his to Washington to be transmitted to the Senate for ratification.

The treaty will not be signed at the table on which the German and French signed that agreement that ended the Franco-Prussian war. In the great chamber where the peace of 1919 will be made a handsome leather-covered table has been provided for this week's historic ceremony.

Elaborate preparations have been made by the French Government to make the final act of the war an impressive function. Seventeen thousand French troops, comprising eleven regiments, five of which will be cavalry, have been ordered to assemble near the Palace on the day of the signature. It is also contemplated that all the plenipotentiaries shall return to Paris in procession instead of each group or individual group returning separately, as on the occasion of handing the peace terms to Germans at Versailles and to the Austrians at St. Germain.

PARIS, June 25.—The Chinese delegation is still in doubt as to whether it can sign the Peace Treaty. The delegates are determined not to sign without a reservation, making a protest in reference to Shantung, but they want the approval of all the great powers except Japan in making such a reservation.

Such approval is not yet assured. The Americans not only approve such a reservation, but also are urging the Chinese to sign in that way. England does not object, but France protests against any reservation whatever on the part of any signatory power.

"Let prayers for peace be continued until the treaties are concluded with the powers with which France was at war."

FRENCH FOSTERING RHINELAND SPIRIT

TEACH SELF-GOVERNMENT

He Looks Upon This as the Surest Barrier Against Prussian Aggression.

By WALTER DURANTY.

PARIS, June 24, (by courier from Mainz, June 22.)—French troops, from high officers to privates, find it hard to conceal their disappointment at the fading of prospects of invading Germany. If some of the Socialist Deputies who made a great outcry recently over the alleged unwillingness of the French forces to resume the campaign could spend a few days here they would be speedily and startlingly corrected.

True, occupation forces consist almost entirely of young troops whose turn for demobilisation is still distant and Colonials with a long term of service before them; but their eagerness to advance is so undisguised as to be really striking. To their superior officers a forward movement would be chiefly welcome as giving France a better opportunity to free the Rhineland from Prussian influence, which they assert still overhangs all classes of the population and prevents anything like a genuine spirit of self-determination. It is an article of faith with all Frenchmen, both soldiers and civilians, with whom I have talked here that the Rhineland really desires great measures of autonomy, though not complete severance from the German Confederation.

A French professor at Bonn, who since the armistice has resumed the post he held for a long period before the war, declared recently that the great majority of his colleagues and most other people with whom he came in contact were in favor of the establishment of a sort of buffer State, perhaps benefiting by special tariff concessions from France—a factor of no small importance to an industrial community—and at the same time absolved from the obligation of German military service, which would satisfy the desire of the French for their own protection by creating a neutral zone between France and Germany.

Whether these are the true sentiments of the Rhine population or not, one cannot fail to be struck by the absence of all friction—indeed, one might almost go further and say by the friendly spirit—which prevails between the French soldiers and the inhabitants of Mainz. I watched last night a torchlight "retraite," or rally march, of Colonial infantry with a band through the streets. The khaki-clad soldiers with their smoking torches were followed by a big crowd laughing and cheering, and even singing in time to the music, with no less enthusiasm than one would see in the streets of Paris.

"It's a pity you weren't here last Saturday," said a French officer in the hotel doorway beside me. "It was much finer then, as the torches were borne by Spahis on horseback in their flowing burnouses. But now they are up in position at the outposts."

"Oh, yes," a big, scar-faced German put in, "with the Spahis it was more picturesque, but this is gay, even so; and watch how well they march to the music!"

Perhaps the speech was consummate hypocrisy, but the tone was simple and sincere. The man's whole attitude was of one making casual comment on an occurrence which aroused no feeling of humiliation or animosity.

Mangin's Work of Conciliation.

"It is not fully realised to what an exent the Rhinelanders have been a subject population. Until our arrival they were as much under Prussian domination as Alsace-Lorraine or German Poland. That fact is the key to the whole Rhineland situation," said General Mangin, who received me this morning at his residence in the grand ducal palace overlooking the Rhine.

This was in sharp contrast with the last occasion I met him at his headquarters on the edge of the forest of Villers-Cotterets, just after the beginning of his victorious counter offensive eleven months ago. Then the windows echoed to the roar of heavy artillery; today nothing breaks the silence save the peaceful chime of bells and the occasional gong of a street car crossing the bridge toward Wiesbaden. Then it was Mangin the soldier; today it is the successor of the Roman pro-consuls who knew so well how to complete as Governors the work they had begun as military commanders.

"You would hardly believe," the General continued, "how utterly the iron of Prussian rule had entered into the souls of these people. Why, at first they simply hadn't an opinion of their own. When we asked them for suggestions they would reply: 'If so-and-so would be agreeable to you we propose that; or, if you prefer such-and-such, then that is our view also.' Our aim from the beginning has been to foster their understanding that we wish them to speak for themselves and to create a spirit of free self-direction and self-administration.

"To that end I have formed German committees dealing with various subjects such as health, schools, labor, food, and so on, with whom my officers consult and whose advice they take. At first they were very diffident, but confidence has grown steadily as they saw we really wanted their opinion and acted upon it. So that their work is very valuable and an asset to the French administration.

"Similarly in commercial matters: We have founded French official departments to handle all branches of business and codify all information that may be of service either to French or local traders. Parallel to these bodies there are local German organizations, and the mutual interworking of the two groups ought to be an important factor in future commercial reconstruction."

It is perhaps in this latter respect that the greatest interest of General Mangin's work lies. With unusual farsightedness he saw at the outset that a close commercial understanding would be the most powerful bond between France and the Rhineland and the surest means of counteracting the supine dependence on Prussia which had hitherto overhung the whole region. Like the majority of clear-sighted Frenchmen, Mangin realizes that a peaceful and virtually independent Rhineland is the surest barrier against future Prussian aggression. He does not aim at annexation, for he knows that these people are Germans. But he does believe that there exists a genuine desire for a considerable degree of autonomy, and, like the practical man that he is, has set himself to bring it out and to foster the spirit of independence of which it is to be built.

In the truest sense of the word he is educating the Rhine people toward self-government and teaching them to think, decide, and act for themselves.

DEFER REFORM BILL FOR NITTI CABINET

ROME, June 24.—The formation of the Nitti Cabinet has been a touch and go affair, many in political circles venturing so far as to predict that the Premier would not succeed in completing the Ministry.

The press favorable to Sonnino, as well as the newspapers opposing Giolitto, but even more the Nationalists headed by d'Annunzio have been carrying on a ferocious anti-Nitti campaign, trying to excite popular feeling against the new Premier.

This section of the press has revived the story of the incident when Bissolati, leader of the pre-war Socialists, resigned from the Orlando Cabinet owing to the divergence of views upon the claims of Italy at the Peace Conference, he being of the opinion that the Italian delegation should make concessions on the Adriatic question. Nitti, it is declared, concurred with Bissolati's attitude, and in fact, shortly afterward submitted his resignation also.

One point scored in Nitti's favor is his decision to remain here instead of going to Paris as a peace delegate. That arrangement was one of the weak points of the Orlando Cabinet, as during the absence of the Premier and Minister of Foreign Affairs the country's internal affairs, it is held, failed to receive proper attention.

COPENHAGEN, June 24.—When the news came from Weimar last night announcing Germany's acceptance of the peace terms without conditions many foreign men-of-war in the harbor here started a long concert with steam whistles and sirens, and flags went to the top.

Thousands gathered on shore; later a body of freign seamen carrying allied flags marched through the city and were enthusiastically received by the populace everywhere. The allied national anthems were heard on the streets and in cafés and public gardens. The Soldiers' Monument was covered with flowers by French sailors. All night Copenhagen celebrated the event.

That the destruction of the trophies of the Franco-Prussian War, which the peace terms say particularly "must be returned to the French," was not the result of wild resentment was disclosed by employes of the Army and Navy Museum, from which they were taken. Last Saturday a man who said he was an officer asked if he could bring his men to see the flags before they were surrendered. He was told that he could do so if the Director of the museum approved.

Yesterday morning a Lieutenant, who said his name was Simon, appeared at the back door of the museum, accompanied by ten enlisted men, who had removed all the distinctive marks on their uniforms. The Lieutenant asked to see the trophies, saying he had the permission of the museum Director, J. M. Bunder, who later admitted that he had consented over the telephone to let two officers view the flags.

The museum employes said they were not suspicious until suddenly, by a prearranged plan, each man had seized a flag and pulled a bottle from his pocket. At that point they said that whoever resisted would be killed. The bottles contained gasoline and kerosene.

When the flags were drenched the soldiers bore them out through the central hall, where they were joined by twenty civilians. Then they went to Unter den Linden, where they were joined by a crowd, and the burning took place.

CLEMENCEAU FAVORS AN EARLY ELECTION

GERMAN DANGER REMAINS

He Refers to the State of Mind Shown When Foe Agreed to Sign.

PARIS, June 25.—Premier Clemenceau appeared in the lobby of the Chamber of Deputies yesterday, and members pressed the question as to the Government's intentions regarding the elections and the demobilisation of the army. The Premier said that the elections would be held at the earliest possible date, possibly late in September or early in October. He said that the Government's principal concern at present was demobilisation.

"Although it is desired that demobilisation may be as complete and rapid as possible, the Government is obliged to take into account the circumstances at present and the state of mind of the Germans," he said. "To understand the spirit in which Germany is about to sign the treaty, it is only necessary to consider the scuttling of the German fleet in Scapa Flow and the more recent destruction of German ships at Kiel.

"Consequently, precautions are necessary, and an army of a certain importance must be kept to enforce, if necessary, strict observance of the conditions of the treaty by the Germans, particularly the one regarding the evacuation of Poland, with which the Germans seem reluctant to comply. Besides, peace with Bulgaria and Turkey will not be concluded for several months."

As the elections cannot be held without receiving the votes of soldiers, the Premier is considering a plan that will enable them to vote by mail or will permit special leaves to be granted to the men.

M. Clemenceau's statement is interpreted by a number of newspapers as meaning that the Premier will not retire soon, as had been reported.

Several newspapers give currency to rumors of a coming shake-up in the Cabinet and of specialists in social and economic questions being brought in. The Echo de Paris says that if changes are made in the Cabinet they will not occur before the ratification of the peace treaty by Parliament.

It is declared that as soon as the peace treaty is signed the Government will bring before Parliament a general amnesty bill.

It is reported in some quarters that demobilization will be carried out with all possible speed and that the classes of 1907, 1906, and 1909 will be mustered out the day after the treaty is signed.

ACCUSE AMERICAN OFFICER OF MURDER

COBLENZ, June 24, (Associated Press.)—Lieutenant John Beggs, 32d Infantry, of Kansas City, Mo., is under arrest facing a charge of murder in connection with a shooting affair at Seaburg, a village in the neutral zone opposite the American area of occupation. The German authorities assert that two civilians, a man and a woman, were killed.

The shooting occurred Saturday night. Officers who investigated the case said that Lieutenant Beggs contends that another American was responsible for the shooting. It developed that a number of Americans had trouble with German civilians in a café at Seaburg. When Beggs was arrested near Coblenz he had in his pocket orders to sail for home, and should have started Sunday.

The German Government has been notified of the charge filed against the Lieutenant by the army authorities. Beggs will be tried before a general court-martial.

The Hungarians, the message adds, have expressed a willingness to comply with these conditions.

PARIS, June 25.—The Hungarian Communist Congress has ordered the general mobilization of all workmen, says a dispatch from Budapest.

The military situation is said to be unfavorable to Hungary and, in addition, the morale of the troops is bad.

ALFONSO HAILS PEACE.

MADRID, June 25.—"It was with ineffable joy that I received, and you received, the news of the certain advent of peace," said King Alfonso in his speech from the throne at the reopening of the Cortes today. The ceremony took place in the Senate House adjoining the Palace, instead of the Chamber of Deputies, in order to spare the Queen fatigue. She is slightly indisposed because of the very hot weather.

The King began his address by affirming the unalterable concord between Spain and the Vatican and added:

"Spain's friendship for all nations is unchanged, except for the fact that the Minister at Petrograd was withdrawn in consequence of events there."

After stating that Spain had recognized the independence of Poland, Czechoslovakia, and Finland, the King said that Spain had manifested her adhesion in principle to the League of Nations and had "the honor to be included in the provisory Executive Committee of that organization."

He closed by announcing that various bills looking to national development, popular education, housing, and other matters of social welfare would be introduced before the Cortes by the Government.

COPENHAGEN, June 24.—The acceptance of the Peace Treaty has left Berlin sad indeed the whole of Germany with a feeling of resentment, and in the words of the Berlin correspondent of the Berlingske Tidende "three yawns between Berlin and Paris a gulf wider than that which yawned in 1871."

Germany has accepted a peace which she was not able to reject, but it is well to recognize the spirit in which she accepted it. Perhaps the best expression of this spirit is found in Vorwärts, which says:

"This peace, being the product of force, is worthless as a real peace, because the German people will never believe in it. It is a peace which will last only so long as the balance of power remains the same as that which dictated it."

Great bitterness is felt toward Mathias Erzberger, the Deutsche Tageszeitung's leading article, for instance, being headed "Erzberger's Peace; Germany's Death."

TO KEEP ON SELLING BEER AFTER JULY 1

Hotel and Restaurant Men Decide to Ignore Wartime Prohibition Law.

HOPE PRESIDENT WILL ACT

Hold That War Is Over, but Will Confine Sales to Drinks of Small Alcoholic Content.

New York City will not be "bone dry" next Tuesday, the date on which the wartime prohibition act becomes operative. Many cafés and hotel restaurants will continue to sell light wine and beer at least.

While hotel keepers, brewers, and others believe that the signing of the Peace Treaty will be followed by a proclamation by the President, declaring demobilization at an end and nullifying the wartime prohibition act, plans were made yesterday by the Society of Restaurateurs to fight the law, in case the President does not follow this course.

William H. Hirst, of 13 William Street, counsel for the society, advised the organization, which includes most of the large hotel and restaurant proprietors, not to take concerted action, as this might place them in the position of uniting to oppose the Government, but said that the wartime prohibition act was of no effect under present circumstances. He counseled them also to keep within the policy of the President's message to Congress, advising that the ban be lifted as to light wine and beer.

Many saloons will go out of business July 1 if the wartime prohibition act becomes operative on that date, but others will attempt to sell 2¾ per cent. beer and other presumably innocuous drinks, and some will continue to sell light wines until the law has been tested.

Three methods of testing the law were suggested by Mr. Hirst. The first was to seek an injunction to prevent enforcement of the act until Its constitutionality has been tested. The second was by a test case by trial and appeal following an arrest for an alleged violation of the law. The third method would be by writ of habeas corpus after an arrest under the act. Mr. Hirst said the third method probably would be adopted, as it was considered rather late to start injunction proceedings.

Will Fight Enforcement.

When a test case is under way, it is likely that an effort will be made by legal process to prevent the Government from enforcing the act generally until its constitutionality has been tested.

President Wilson, according to some legal authorities representing the biggest liquor interests, lacks the power to establish by proclamation the "light wine and beer" policy which he recommended to Congress. If he declares demobilization at an end the wartime prohibition act is wiped out entirely and all classes of intoxicants can be made and sold as before the war, until the prohibition constitutional amendment becomes effective next January 16. The President, it was said, has no right to declare the sale of light wine and beer lawful and more intoxicating liquors unlawful, but he has the power to set the date when the act ceases to operate.

Saloon keepers and liquor dealers are faced by problems which have several speculative features. Whether or not the President acts favorably to their interests by July 1, the saloon keeper has an incentive for keeping his place open and selling 2.75 per cent. beer and soft drinks. He can afford to run at a loss on this basis for a time because of the chance of a later declaration that demobilization is at an end and may restore his right to sell all classes of liquor with the chance of big profits in the last few months before the national prohibition.

The situation will be virtually the same for the big brewing interests represented by Root & Guthrie whether the President nullifies the war measure or not. These brewers have decided, it was said, not to brew beer of greater strength than 2.75 per cent. They are represented as being extremely anxious to have this kind of beer generally accepted as nonintoxicating and as a temperance drink.

Says Wartime Act Is Inoperative.

In the opinion Mr. Hirst gave to the restaurant men he said:

"The War Prohibition Act was approved ten days after the armistice was signed and after actual fighting had ceased. Among other things, it prohibits the sale of intoxicating liquors for beverage purposes after June 30, until the conclusion of the present war, and thereafter until the termination of demobilization, the date of which shall be determined and proclaimed by the President. The act declares that the purposes of the prohibition are to conserve the man power of the nation and to increase the efficiency in the production of arms, munitions, and other articles of manufacture as were needed for the army and navy.

"Immediately afterward plans were made for the demobilization of the army, and contracts for supplies of all kinds for the army and navy were rescinded. The destruction of dangerous war material, the rapid demobilization of troops, and the removal of embargoes on commerce were other indisputable evidences of the fact that the war danger no longer threatens us. There is no longer any necessity for conserving man-power or of increasing efficiency in production for the purposes of the army and navy.

WILL SELL 2.75 BEER.

Boston and St. Louis Make Plans for Prohibition Period.

BOSTON, June 25.—Boston saloonkeepers plan to sell 2.75 per cent. beer after July 1, John J. Galvin, Secretary of the Retail Liquor Dealers' Association, announced today. His statement explained the eagerness of dealers in applying for licenses recently.

"It is the plan of the liquor dealers," said Secretary Galvin, "to reopen for the sale of 2.75 per cent. beer and ale, if stronger beverages are not permitted and if enforcement legislation does not cut it off. Our general position is not to defy the law, but the law has not yet decided what strength of liquor is intoxicating."

ST. LOUIS, June 25.—Injunction proceedings brought in the United States District Court here by the St. Louis Brewing Association and the Independent Breweries Company to restrain Federal authorities from interfering with the manufacture of beer containing 2.75 per cent. alcohol, pending decision by the United States Supreme Court whether such beer is intoxicating, will not be pressed, attorneys announced today. The breweries represented, however, have announced that they will continue the manufacture of 2.75 per cent. beer after July 1.

to each State to settle for itself, prohibiting only shipment from one State to another. A subsequent change on the part of a Southern Democrat with a corresponding change by a Northern Republican who had at first voted for the amendment was sufficient to reverse the committee's action.

After the Steele amendment had been adopted by the committee, Representative Walsh, who had voted for it, moved to reconsider. Then he moved to adjourn. That motion was lost and the vote came on the motion to reconsider. Had Representative Walsh been the only one to change his latter motion would have been lost on a tie, but Representative Whaley of South Carolina joined him in the change and the whole question was reopened. As a result the State's Rights amendment was lost by the original vote, 9 to 7.

TELLS OF SOCIAL WORK.

Mrs. James M. Bass Guest at Community Service Workers' Luncheon.

Mrs. James Madison Bass, in charge of the famous khaki and blue dances for men in uniform given for more than a year and a half by the New York War Camp Community Service, was the guest of honor yesterday at a luncheon at the Hotel Commodore, given by the hostesses and chaperons who have assisted her from the beginning of her work as executive of the social department of the Community Service. Among the speakers were Major Warren D. Bigelow, in charge of the United States Re-employment Service Bureau, 505 Pearl Street; Mrs. J. F. McDougall, Edward Embree, of the Rockefeller Foundation, and Rowland Haynes, Director of the Community Service. Frank Hayek of the liberty-sing department led the community singing.

According to a report given by Mrs. Bass at the luncheon, 935 khaki and blue dances have been given, with a total attendance of 152,907 uniformed persons. The volunteer assistants include 150 hostesses, 300 chaperons, 50 floor men, and 3,000 young women as dance partners. Through the social department 144,805 men in uniform have been entertained in private homes in the city. At Pershing House, the club for convalescents, conducted by the department in Gramercy Park, 13,828 free meals have been served to convalescent guests, and 21,870 have been entertained at parties in Pershing House and at the National Arts Club opposite. More than 4,000 wounded men, guests at Pershing House, have been entertained in private homes. The dances will continue while there are troops returning from overseas needing the hospitality of New York.

TO SHOW CHASE PAINTINGS.

Artist Will Exhibit His War Portraits and Sketches in Washington.

All of the portraits and sketches painted by Joseph Cummings Chase, who lives in Flushing, L. I., are to be placed on exhibition next week in Washington. Among the portraits Mr. Chase painted were those of Sergeant York, Sergeant Adams, and Sergeant Winer. The exhibition is being arranged by the War Department. Mr. Chase will supervise the arrangement of the collection before it is thrown open to the public.

Mr. Chase was commissioned by the American Government to go to France to paint portraits of the American generals and of officers and enlisted men. He arrived in Paris toward the close of the war and traveled along the entire front following the Army of Occupation into Germany.

New Mark in Army Recruiting.

Reports from all parts of the country, reaching the Army Recruiting Service here yesterday, were that the interest of prospective recruits in the advantages offered by the army were so great that the second contingent of 50,000 men would be made up in record time. For four days—the time since the campaign started all other peace-time records have been broken.

Acceptances on Tuesday were 315, exceeding all other peace-time marks except that of 659, set on Monday.

Theodore P. Shonts Slightly Better.

Theodore P. Shonts, President of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company, was reported late last night by Dr. J. Bentley Squier, Jr., of 49 East Forty-ninth Street, the attending physician, as having spent "a very comfortable and restful day." His condition was considered slightly improved, though still serious. Mr. Shonts has been ill at his home, 930 Park Avenue, for three weeks and last Sunday underwent an operation.

Babe Is Born on Troopship.

With twenty-nine war brides and a baby born at sea on board, the Santa Teresa arrived here yesterday with 1,915 passengers, the majority of whom were returning soldiers of the A. E. F. Five and a half hours after the steamer had left St. Nazaire Mrs. Marcelle Smith, wife of Trooper Frederick W. Smith of the 15th Cavalry, gave birth to a five and a half pound baby girl. The baby was christened Marcelle Teresa, and a purse of $251 was collected.

NEW YORK HONORS PESSOA ON ARRIVAL

RECEIVED AT CITY HALL

Dr. Epitacio Pessoa, President-elect of Brazil, was officially welcomed on his arrival in this city from Washington yesterday afternoon by a party which crossed the river to the New Jersey Central Pier in one of the city's tugs. He was the guest of honor at an official reception at the City Hall and was entertained in the evening at a dinner by the Mayor's Committee on Receptions to Distinguished Guests at the Hotel Waldorf-Astoria.

Elbert H. Gary, Charles M. Schwab and other speakers at the dinner made predictions of a marvelous growth for Brazil in the future. Dr. Pessoa, in reply, dwelt on the strong friendship between the two countries, and emphasized the fact that it had been strengthened during the war.

As Rodman Wanamaker, the toastmaster, was introducing the President-elect four policemen entered the room and carried a large American flag up to the speaker's table.

Mr. Wanamaker then finished his speech by saying:

"We wrap around you the flag of our country, the flag that we stand for—our flag."

Suiting action to the word, Mr. Wanamaker draped the American flag over the shoulders of the guest of honor, who at first appeared slightly surprised, then lifted a fold to his lips and kissed it as the audience applauded.

Mr. Schwab in his address said that he expected to see trade between the United States and other South American countries revive more quickly than between the United States and European countries. He said all his companies were investing heavily in South American business.

The official committee, which crossed the river early yesterday on the tug Patrol consisted of ex-Secretary of the Treasury William G. McAdoo, Major Gen. Thomas H. Barry, John Bassett Moore, President Frank L. Dowling of the Borough of Manhattan, Charles M. Schwab, H. B. Harris, E. V. R. Thayer, Commissioner Grover A. Whalen, Rodman Wanamaker, Louis G. Kaufman, Newcomb Carlton, Arthur S. Somers, Judge E. H. Gary, and Albert H. Wiggin.

Dr. Pessoa, with Mme. Pessoa and the Brazilian party, arrived at 3:30 o'clock at the Communipaw Station. After a formal greeting the party marched to the pier and boarded the tug. Returning to the Battery, the party traveled in automobiles to the City Hall, where they were officially greeted by Mayor Hylan in the Aldermanic Chamber. Mayor Hylan said:

"The city feels honored in having as its guest the distinguished President-elect of Brazil. It is in a spirit of the most sincere friendship that the city extends to you its welcome.

"While Emperor of Brazil, Don Pedro visited the United States, and throughout his long reign maintained the most cordial relations with this country. However, Don Pedro was unable to withstand the intense desire of the people of Brazil for a republican form of government.

"The new Government which was set up was formed on the model of the Government of the United States, comprising legislative, executive, and judicial departments. Brazil, one of the score of republics patterned after our form of government, is today a glowing example of what must be conceded to be the best form of government."

Dr. Pessoa thanked the Mayor and the city in a brief reply.

SENDS GREETING TO FLIERS.

Aero Club Wireleses Felicitations to Returning NC Crews.

A wireless message of greeting to the crews of the NC seaplane division of the American Navy, including Lieut. Commander A. C. Read and the five men who were with him in the first airplane flight over the ocean, was sent to the party on board the Zeppelin last night by Alan R. Hawley, President of the club. The message read:

"The Aero Club of America sends you its heartiest greetings upon your return after your magnificent flight bridging the ocean by air. We are proud of you and the American Navy for the supreme achievement in aeronautics so splendidly accomplished."

It is expected that the Zeppelin, the former German liner, now sailing under the interallied flag, will dock at Hoboken tomorrow morning. In forming its great fleet of airplanes to escort the returning aviators from Sandy Hook the Aero Club received word yesterday from five manufacturers that squadrons from their plants would join the army and navy squadrons in paying tribute to the first men over the ocean.

INDIANIANS STORM SALOONS

Wet Territory Police Appeal to Illinois for Aid.

Special to The New York Times.

HAMMOND, Ind., June 25.—Two West Hammond policemen were badly beaten last midnight by men they had arrested. As a result appeals have been made to the Cook County (Ill.) Sheriff for deputies until July 1 to aid in subduing Hammond, Gary, and East Chicago citizens, who in large numbers have invaded the wet territory to celebrate until the country goes dry.

The West Hammond police are declared powerless to handle the situation. The saloons are stormed by mobs of men who have quit work in the Calumet district factories.

Hold Up Some Appointments.

WASHINGTON, June 25. — Confirmation of Frank L. Polk, counsellor of the State Department, as Under Secretary of State; Hugh Gibson as Minister to Poland, and Boaz W. Long as Minister to Cuba was recommended today by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. Opposition to the nomination of William B. Gonzales of South Carolina as the first Ambassador to Peru developed in the committee, and action was deferred. The committee also postponed action on the nomination of Norman Hapgood as Minister to Denmark and Benton McMillan, now Minister to Peru, as Minister to Guatemala.

Italian Sculptor Gets Cuban Prize.

HAVANA, June 24.—To Aldo Gamba, the Italian sculptor, was tonight awarded the first prize of $25,000 by the Governmental Commission appointed to select a model for the monument to be built to the memory of Maximo Gomez, Generalissimo of the Cuban war of independence. Huertas Cabarrocas, Spanish-Cuban, and Gutson Borglum, American, were awarded second and third prizes, respectively. The monument will cost $200,000.

Navy Club May Continue.

A meeting to consider the establishment of a permanent navy club has been called by Herbert L. Satterlee, ex-Secretary of the Navy Mr. Satterlee this afternoon at the Chamber of Commerce Building, 65 Liberty Street. It is proposed to form a committee of about one hundred, from which a subcommittee on plans and scope could be appointed if the general plan is indorsed.

BRITISH LABORITES FACE GRAVE DECISION

Southport Conference Is to Pass on Policy of Direct Political Action.

CONSCRIPTION IS ONE ISSUE

SOUTHPORT, England, June 25.—The main interest of the outside world in the nineteenth annual conference of the Labor Party, which opens in Southport today, lies in the question before it of using industrial action to secure political aims. An influential section of the leaders of the triple alliance of miners, railwaymen, and transport workers has long been in favor of exercising the power of the alliance to compel compliance with the demands for the abolition of conscription, the withdrawal of troops from Russia, the release of conscientious objectors, and other objects sought.

These leaders were deeply disappointed at their recent failure to induce the Parliamentary Committee of the Trade Union Congress to call a special conference of the trade unions to discuss their proposals.

The action taken by the executive body of the triple alliance last night in deciding to convene a special conference in London on July 22 to consider what action should be taken to compel the Government to comply with the three principal demands mentioned was a step independent of today's conference. The action taken by the London conference, however, will be materially affected by the attitude of the present one, at which the controversy between the advocates of industrial and constitutional methods, respectively, of achieving their aims will be discussed from every angle in the debate on the various resolutions and amendments before the body, as it is known that there is considerable divergence of opinion among the labor men on the question.

The far-reaching importance of any decision placing in the hands of the industrial unions the power to enforce political demands by means of a strike is recognized by the Executive Committee of the Labor Conference which, in a report to be presented today, expresses the view that if labor is to institute such a new precedent in British industrial history it is imperative that the trade unions which adopt the new policy and whose finances presumably would be involved in carrying it out should realize the responsibility which such a movement entails and should themselves determine the ground plan of the new campaign.

The executive body itself does not make any declaration for or against the proposal, leaving discussion unfettered.

Among other matters awaiting the attention of the conference is the organization of labor in anticipation of the next general election, which in the opinion of many observers is not far distant.

Many foreign delegates are in attendance at the conference, including Camile Huysmans of Belgium, Hjalmar Branting of Sweden, Pieter J. Troelstra of Holland, and the French Socialists Léon Jouhaux, Pierre Renaudel and M. Dee moulin. The reason for the exclusion from England of Deputy Jean Longuet, leader of the French minority Socialists, and M. Frossard, General Secretary of the French Socialist Party, who were stopped by the authorities at Folkestone on their way to the conference, has not yet developed.

Street, reported that the perishables that were unloaded Monday morning at the Pennsylvania Railroad Pier 23 have been reloaded on cars and shipped to other places. "Many other perishables remain on the docks, and most of them are rapidly deteriorating," it was added.

Only four truckloads of produce left Washington Market yesterday morning, two being consigned to the Harlem Market and the others to the Bronx Market. Both were under guard of mounted police.

Army supplies are still being handled with army trucks. Captain L. P. Brown, nutrition officer of the Port of Embarkation, was notified by the union that military trucks which establish their identity would not be hampered by the strikers. The Navy Department continued to use private trucks, with two armed guards on each vehicle, instead of one guard, as during the early days of the strike. Armed naval guards were on duty at the piers where the trucks were loaded.

The strikers said they would not interfere with the movement of supplies to charitable institutions and hospitals, provided proof is given that the supplies will be used only by these institutions. They continued to intimidate and threaten every one who attempted to move any fruit or vegetables. Even individuals were not allowed to take away small purchases.

Mr. Lippman and other produce men complained of inadequate police protection. He said the whole question of the normal distribution of supplies "hinges on adequate police protection. If the police will give us enough men to guard against possible injury of the drivers and wagons, we will undertake to sell products to any of the large dealers, hotels and restaurants who want to send their trucks to the market," he said. Mounted police were on patrol duty all day along Washington and West Street and the side streets, and patrolmen were stationed on every block in the vicinity of the markets.

It was learned that the commission men had solicited the influence of the Governors of North Carolina, Virginia, Delaware, Maryland, and California. The Chief Executives of these States have been asked, as their farmers are affected, to urge Governor Smith to take a hand in the strike, with a view to forcing a settlement.

MEMBERS OF COUNCIL GOT WAR CONTRACTS

WASHINGTON, June 25. — Methods employed by the Council of National Defense in purchasing supplies for the War Department during the first eight months of the war were sharply questioned by Republican members of the House War Investigating Committee during examination today of Grosvenor Clarkson, director of the Council.

Mr. Clarkson testified that many contracts were made with companies represented by men on the Council, but that other members, not connected with the industry, passed on them before they were approved.

Replying to Representative Reavis, Republican, Nebraska, Mr. Clarkson said that, while this probably was a "direct violation in spirit" of the law, necessity demanded it.

"It was through this system," he said, "that the Government utilized the best brains of the country and saved the country many millions of dollars."

Mr. Clarkson told the committee that when the War Industries Board was established and took over the work members of the Council who had aided the Government in placing orders for supplies "dropped out because their services were no longer needed."

"But they didn't get out until members of Congress had called attention to what was going on, did they?" asked Mr. Reavis.

"No; many of the men deeply resented the implication of dishonesty which had been made against them. I want to add that not a scintilla of crookedness has ever been proved against a single one of the members."

Charles Mascord and O. C. Devin. Some of the attendants approached, and the animated discussion attracted the attention of several persons who were passing through the lobby on their way to the dining room, one of them being Vincent Astor. This discussion ended when Sir Charles left the hotel by the Fifty-fifth Street entrance. Mr. Haan vehemently denied last night that any persons not in sympathy with the cause of the Allies had made the place a rendezvous, and he declared that Sir Charles had never made any such charge to him. He added that he had heard of some criticism alleged to have been uttered by the Englishman. He declared that Sir Charles had frequently lunched and dined at the hotel since then.

"There is no reason why we should discriminate against the Irish in their campaign," said Mr. Haan. "The Serbians, the Armenians, and all the other nationalities that conducted drives for funds were allowed to solicit funds in this building, as well as in all other hotels, and the Irish can solicit here, too."

Sir Charles is a member of the firm of White, Allom & Co., architectural contractors of London, and has an office here at 10 East Fifty-second Street. He is also a partner in the Gosport Aircraft Company, and during the war was interested in contracts for explosives and munitions for the use of the British army and navy. He is a grandson of Thomas Allom and Thomas Carrick, English painters, and was knighted in 1913.

Among English sportsmen he is known best as the owner of the cutter Istria, and before the war it was reported that he would issue a challenge for the America's Cup. He denied this report, however, saying that he would not challenge so long as Sir Thomas Lipton remained challenger. He is also considered an authority on British labor problems and art. He is living now at the Ritz-Carlton.

WINNIPEG STRIKERS RESUME WORK TODAY

Sympathetic Walkout in Edmonton, Victoria, and Calgary Also Called Off.

Special to The New York Times.

WINNIPEG, June 25.—The general strike, which has lasted here for forty days, will end tomorrow at 11 A. M. The announcement was made today following an all-night session of the General Strike Committee. The strike will actually end at the hour when it would have entered its seventh week, with reinstatement of the strikers entirely in the hands of H. A. Robson, former Judge of the Kings Bench Court. Mr. Robson last night wired Premier Norris from Ottawa his acceptance of the appointment as a Commissioner to inquire into the cause and origin of and justification for the strike.

The general strikes in Edmonton, Victoria, and Calgary have also been called off and the men go back to work tomorrow.

JUDGE REPRIMANDS POLICE.

Criticises Arrest of Woman Who Wore Bathing Suit Under Skirt.

Magistrate Geismar, in the Coney Island Court, yesterday reprimanded the police for arresting an alleged violator of the park ordinance forbidding persons to walk along Ocean Parkway in other than complete street attire.

The Magistrate made his ruling in the case of Mrs. Anna Goldman of 443 Neptune Avenue, against whom an additional charge of disorderly conduct was made. Her husband, William, and Nicholas Christy, of the same address, were charged with disorderly conduct. The three were arrested by Patrolmen Simmons and Papp after the police had ordered Mrs. Goldman to return home because she had a bathing suit under a sweater and a skirt. The men remonstrated against the order. It was alleged the policemen raised the woman's skirt to see if she had on a bathing suit.

"You had no business to see if she had on a bathing suit," said the Magistrate. "If she did have a bathing suit under her sweater and skirt, she had a right to go anywhere she pleased. If she wanted to go shopping in such attire she was at liberty to do so. It is a man's privilege, if he wishes, to go to business wearing a bathing suit under a sweater and trousers. I don't see what right the police have to stop people from going bathing on Ocean Parkway."

The Magistrate dismissed the charge of violating the park ordinance against Mrs. Goldman. He found the three guilty of disorderly conduct, but suspended sentence.

Insurance After Death

The Mercantile Trust Company of New York challenges the thought of business men, by heading a recent advertisement with this announcement—"I do hereby bequeath to my heirs my business ability."

This enterprising and powerful institution is, in its advertising, "selling an idea."

It might have elected to have followed the majority of banks and remained coldly inarticulate; or it might have "carried a card," announcing a strong vault, a conservative personnel and a restrained desire for additional deposits.

All of which would have been commendable, uninteresting and without constructive force.

The profligacy, carelessness or credulity of heirs can not be curbed by any trust company, unless the idea of appointing such an executor had been previously "sold" to the testator.

In the campaign of education by this bank, a valuable and far reaching service is rendered the individual and to society, with proportionate reward to the server.

Service, like merchandise, may be sold by advertising.

PUT OFF VOTE ON FALL MOVE

journed, Senator Hitchcock declared that he did not believe the Republican majority could effect its passage. Senator Lodge had no prophecy to make as to what would happen to it, but reiterated his approval of the measure.

BORAH RENEWS ATTACK ON LEAGUE COVENANT

Says Peace Delegates Have Failed to Provide for Armaments on Peace Basis.

WASHINGTON, June 25.—Senator Borah aroused a long and lively debate in the Senate today over the League of Nations covenant, and the recently adopted resolution of which he was the author calling upon the Peace Conference to give a hearing to representatives of Ireland also came up for comment.

In renewing his attack upon the League covenant Mr. Borah asserted that President Wilson and other delegates at the Peace Conference had failed to live up to promises made before the conference met to provide for armament of nations on a peace instead of a war basis.

Mr. Borah's speech was made in urging that the recommendation of the Senate Military Committee for an army of 400,000, as provided in the Army Appropriation bill, be rejected. Senator Borah maintained that an army of 300,000, as embraced in the bill as passed by the House, was adequate under ordinary after-peace conditions.

Only if the United States were to be "embroiled in European squabbles," to protect territorial rights, under Articles X. and XI. of the League of Nations, Mr. Borah said, would an army of more than 300,000 be required. He adverted to the statement of General March, Chief of Staff, before the Senate Military Committee, to the effect that if the United States did its part under Article X. 500,000 men would be needed.

"I don't know that 500,000 men would be enough if we are to fight the battles of all the small nations over territory," said Senator Borah.

Senator Walsh, quoting the language of Article X., in which the League Council is authorized to "advise" the action to be taken to guarantee mutual integrity, declared the nation "would be under no obligations whatever to take the Council's advice."

Obligation Would Be Moral.

"Not under a legal obligation," replied Senator Borah, "but certainly under the very highest moral obligation."

"Then why is it written 'advise' and not 'prescribe'?" asked Senator Robinson.

"'Advise and prescribe here would have the same meaning,'" Mr. Borah replied, "so far as the moral obligation is concerned."

"Then words mean nothing," retorted Senator Walsh.

Senator Phelan called attention to the fact that the Senate might advise the President regarding negotiations of treaties, but could not prescribe his course.

Senator Lodge suggested that regardless of the action of the council the nation would be morally bound to go to the aid of any League member whose territorial integrity was threatened.

Senator Borah, resuming his speech, said:

"There was a very general and pretty well established belief, seemingly justified by reason of declarations made by practically all the Governments of the world that the close of this war would witness a real and substantial movement toward disarmament. People were attracted to the whole scheme involved in the treaty at Versailles, including the League of Nations, because of what they believed to be a fair assurance that there would be a guarantee backed by actual performance of disarmament."

"Does the Senator feel," interrupted Senator Jones of New Mexico, "that if the covenant of the League were not adopted, this movement toward disarmament would receive very much of an impetus? If the League of Nations is not entered into by the United States does the Senator then feel that we would be warranted in not going ahead with this preparedness?"

"We have before us not only a program in the form of a treaty, and of a League which gives no guarantee or assurance of disarmament," replied Senator Borah, "but we have an interpretation or a construction of the League by the nations which are responsible for it which indicates beyond question that those nations do not expect disarmament.

"I do not undertake to go into the question whether we could disarm at this time. But I do want to call attention to the construction placed upon Article 8 (the disarmament section) by advocates of the League. This is not the construction which is actually being placed upon it in the legislative assembly or parliament where the question of the amounts necessary to carry it into effect are considered in a concrete and practical way. It is having one construction in popular parliance and before the people at large. It is having an entirely different construction in the Appropriation Committees here, and in Parliaments which have to deal with the matter."

Disarmament Question Unchanged.

Senator Borah referred to the provision in the League covenant that the "Council taking account of the geographical situation and circumstances of each State shall formulate plans for such reduction for the consideration and action of the several Governments," and proceeded:

"That leaves the question of disarmament precisely where it was before. Any disarmament plans will have to be adopted by the several Governments. What is the difference between that and the situation that existed before the war as to armaments? The League covenant recognizes the principle that disarmament to the lowest point consistent with national safety is a sound principle. Every nation, it would have been willing to state that principle any time within the last fifty years, and yet the same nations were compelled to build vast fighting machines.

"The program seems to show that, in no distant day, Germany is to be admitted to the League of Nations. I take it that there never will be within the lifetime of any who sits in this Chamber, any thought of disarmament to the slightest degree, if the German people are permitted after they enter the League to determine for themselves what their armament shall be. I take it that there would be not the slightest step toward disarmament if the Japanese Government, which, in my opinion, is the most pronounced representative of Prussianism now in existence, is permitted to determine for itself what its disarmament shall be."

"The establishment of the freedom of the seas and the elimination of conscription were promised to the people by the men who controlled and shaped affairs at Versailles before they went there, and both of these things were rejected out of hand. This must be satisfactory proof to any man that whatever they thought before they met they concluded that disarmament was impossible. That is what the people of the world should be told."

Senator Hitchcock observed that public opinion in Great Britain was just as pronounced for disarmament as that in the United States. "Public opinion there will force a reduction in military and naval programs," he said.

Senator Borah retorted that budgets were being prepared and passed in England without protest, and that the tax bill now pending in the House of Commons was the greatest in the history of that country.

Senator Reed joined in with the remark that British statesmen and newspapers had declared Great Britain would not materially reduce her navy because of creation of the League.

"I deny that most emphatically," said Senator Hitchcock.

"And I assert it most positively," replied Senator Reed, promising to submit statements of Winston Churchill and others.

Criticised Over Irish Resolution.

The debate on the Irish resolution was precipitated by Senator Thomas, who said he had been criticised by constituents for his attitude against the Borah resolution. He had merely contended, he explained, that the Conference could not properly give an audience to the Irish delegates because it did not represent an independent nation.

"I, myself, do not know any reason why a hearing should be granted to nationalities such as Poland and Rumania, without giving hearings to a people who have been struggling for 700 years to establish their right of self-government and independence," commented Senator Borah. "There are no possible grounds, in my view of it, by which we can distinguish between the rights of those other nations or peoples who have been heard and the right of Ireland to be heard."

Senator Thomas declared that there was a distinction between Poland and Rumania, as against Ireland, in that the two former nations had received recognition as autonomous Governments and were members of the Peace Conference.

"Go back to the proposition from which sprang the right of the Polish and Rumanian peoples to be heard," replied Senator Borah. That principle was the right of self-determination. I venture to say that the principle which was applied to the subject nationalities of Germany would have been applied to the subject nationalities the world over if the policy which the President announced had been carried out against the imperialistic designs and ambitions of the nations of Europe. I am not criticising the President for what he failed to do. I am, rather, saying that in my judgment he was prevented from doing that which he would have done by reason of the imperialistic purposes and designs of those with whom he had to contend; but there can be no doubt that the President's policy and the sentiment of America included Ireland just as much as Poland and just as much as Rumania. I believe that Ireland should have been heard. I think that Korea should have been heard. Korea is in a state of serfdom today."

Senator Walsh agreed with Mr. Borah that Ireland's cause ought to have been presented to the Peace Conference and considered in the same light as that of Poland and Rumania. If the United States had intended to be sincere in its attitude toward self-determination of peoples, he said, it ought to have invited representatives of the Philippines to be heard at Paris.

RADICALISM CAUSE SOUGHT, SAYS LUSK

FIRST STAGE OF INQUIRY

Says Work So Far Has Been to Find Whether Dangerous Seditious Activity Existed in State.

Even the most extreme radicals will have their day in court before the legislative joint committee investigating seditious activities in this State, according to Senator Clayton R. Lusk of Cortland, who is its Chairman. Senator Lusk made the statement last night to counteract what he has been led to believe is a growing impression that his committee has "come to town armed with a nightstick" for the sole purpose of suppressing radical propaganda.

Senator Lusk said that the committee was now merely in the first stage of its investigation—that of determining whether there actually existed in this State a dangerous seditious activity.

"I feel that there is little doubt left in the public mind," said the Senator, "even from the small amount of information that we have given out, that there is seditious activity in the State which needs attention."

Senator Lusk had reference chiefly to the documentary matter seized in the raids under the direction of his committee on the Soviet Russian Bureau, the Rand School of Social Science, the Left Wing Socialist headquarters, and the headquarters of the Russian Branch of the I. W. W. Records taken when the committee's force of State troopers descended on the Soviet Bureau and the Rand School of Social Science will be introduced in evidence at a hearing before the committee to be held today at the City Hall.

Senator Lusk, together with Deputy Attorney General Samuel A. Berger and Archibald E. Stevenson, associate counsel of the committee, was busy yesterday at the Prince George Hotel, going over some of the letters and printed matter found in the big safe at the Rand School. Neither Senator Lusk, nor Mr. Stevenson was willing to discuss in detail for publication the character of the papers in the Rand School grist.

It was asserted, however, that the raid on the Rand School was justified and that much of the matter seized was of a clearly seditious character, as would be made apparent when it was placed in evidence.

Documents culled from the mass of material taken in last Saturday's raid on the Russian I. W. W. headquarters, 27 East Fourth Street, are reported to disclose the amazing information that the I. W. W. have a majority in the union organizations of 160 trades in this country, and that I. W. W. workers are already toasting "The Day" and awaiting the signal for a country-wide movement to attain their revolutionary aims, by force if necessary. Members of the Lusk Committee questioned regarding this report were reticent. One document boldly proclaimed that fifty-two wide awake periodicals in this State, with approximately 750,000 readers in the aggregate, were preaching and paving the way for the social revolution.

Senator Lusk Issues Statement.

Senator Lusk in outlining the purposes of his committee said that the second phase of the investigation, when reached, would deal with the causes of the radical and seditious activities which the committee had discovered.

"What our committee hopes to do is to get at the cause of so much radicalism in this country and to do what we can toward effecting a remedy. We are going to call representatives of labor and capital before the committe and ask them to give us the benefit of their suggestions and advice. We are going to invite leading Socialists, radicals and extremists before the committee and give the representatives and spokesmen of all discontented classes a chance to be heard and a chance to suggest remedies for the situation. We shall seek for practical constructive proposals as to legislation, constitutional amendments, co-operation with other States, and such other action as will help to bring about the desired results. It seems to me that constructive action taken by the great State of New York founded upon a careful investigation of the present conditions is bound to go a great way toward solving these problems throughout the entire country."

Denies Company May Face Legal Action

Darwin P. Kingsley, President of the New York Life Insurance Company, which is owner of the Madison Square Garden, said in a communication received by THE NEW YORK TIMES that there was no truth in the report emanating from the office of the Attorney General and printed in THE TIMES that a warning had been sent to the company that by renting the Garden for radical rallies the company might face legal action. Mr. Kingsley said that invariably when the use of the Garden was sought for what seemed socialistic or anarchistic movements the Federal and municipal authorities had been applied to for instructions and that in every case the answer had been that the authorities could not tell beforehand what would be said at the meeting, but would take proper measures in the event that sedition was preached.

Dr. Alessandro H. Carasso, who recently announced his resignation as translator and interpreter for the Lusk Committee, made public yesterday a letter he had sent to the Senator, protesting against a statement made by him on Tuesday to the effect that the relations between the committee and Dr. Carasso had been severed as a result of a surreptitious visit by the Doctor to the Soviet Russia Bureau prior to the raid. Dr. Carasso said he had spent the afternoon of the alleged visit with Franklyn A. Gaylord of the International Committee of the Y. M. C. A. and did not even know the location of the Soviet Bureau until Tuesday.

"I trust that you will not delay in rendering an accurate and definite statement regarding my 'discharge' and alleged visit to the Soviet Bureau," Dr. Carasso wrote the Senator.

Vigorous protests were registered yesterday by representatives of the settlement houses against the charge alleged to have been made by Charles A. Starr, publicity agent of the Evangelistic Committee of New York City, that some of the college settlements were engaged in radical and un-American teaching, and suggesting that Attorney General Charles D. Newton, counsel for the legislative committee investigating seditious propaganda, have that committee make a thorough investigation of the houses. The United Neighborhood Houses of New York, including Greenwich House, Henry Street Settlement, Hartley House, Hudson Guild, Ella House, Union Settlement, and Madison House, met last night at their offices, 27 Barrow Street. After the meeting they issued a statement in which they declared that the houses have been engaged in fostering straight, clean-cut Americanism.

Rev. Arthur J. Smith, Secretary of the Evangelistic Committee, declared yesterday that his committee works with the settlements rather than against them, and that not only would any remarks made by Mr. Starr be made on his own responsibility, but that he denied having made the remarks attributed to him.

After expressing resentment at the insinuations of disloyalty, the statement of the United Neighborhood Houses continues:

"The single-hearted and effective promotion of loyalty and sound citizenship among our foreign population by settlement houses has been made possible by the public confidence in these institutions. Spreading charges which are in fact utterly without grounds cannot but undermine this confidence. Such statements tend to defeat the very purpose for which the committee was created—the fostering of straight, clean-cut Americanism. The committee has succeeded in defaming settlement houses whose sole object lies in developing that patriotic spirit and whose well-earned reputation in that respect has thus far been without a blemish.

In war service, Settlement houses have proved their worth. They were among the first institutions to be asked to serve as district headquarters in the drives conducted by the American Red Cross, Food and Fuel Administrations, Liberty Loan and War Savings Committees, United War Work Service, and the community councils of the Council on National Defense.

At the head of the settlement movement in this city are such persons as Mrs. Mary Kingsbury Simkhovitch, Miss Lillian Wald, Gaylord S. White, and others, who for more than a quarter of a century have been rendering distinguished service to this community and nation. Besides the headworkers already mentioned, the settlements of this city are indorsed and supported by Henry P. Davison, Henry W. Taft, Colonel Herbert Parsons, Adolph Lewisohn, Alexander M. Bing, Professor E. R. A. Seligman, Jacob H. Schiff, V. Everit Macy, and many others of equal prominence.

In vindication of their record the United Neighborhood Houses of New York and its constituent settlements stand ready to give the Lusk Committee or any group of citizens every possible assistance for the purpose of disclosing the truth about their work. In doing so, however, they register their emphatic protest against the unfair, autocratic, and insidious methods which make this offer necessary.

MRS. SKEELS DESCRIBES DEATH OF HER PATIENT

Nurse Accused of Poisoning Miss Gay Says She Gave No Treatments Two Days Before End.

LAWRENCE, Mass., June 25.—Mrs. Bessie M. Skeels, the nurse who is on trial for murder because of the death by poisoning of Miss Florence W. Gay, today resumed her story in the witness stand. She was weak from a recent illness and was carried to her place by court attendants.

Mrs. Skeels continued the recital which she began yesterday of the circumstances connected with the illness and death of Miss Gay in December, 1917. She testified that instead of attempting to stay with the sick woman whom, it is charged, she was dosing with arsenic, she had sought relief from her duties in the Gay home several days before Miss Gay died. She told Mrs. Edith M. Luce, a relative of the Gays, she said, that she was so tired she could not stand the strain much longer, and it was at Mrs. Luce's request that she stayed on.

Mrs. Skeels asserted that she gave Miss Gay no medical attendance of any kind for two days before her death. On the day that Miss Gay died, she said, she was called into the sick room by Mrs. Luce and found the patient unconscious.

She said she raised Miss Gay's head and did all she could to make her comfortable, because she loved her. She testified that in June, 1917, when a rash broke out on her neck, after she had worn Miss Gay's raincoat, Miss Gay examined it and said that it looked like the rash she had on her own face. Miss Gay recommended that it be treated with Fowler's solution, which she said she had used. The witness said she had never heard of the solution before Miss Gay told her about it.

Mrs. Skeels declared that all the articles which it was alleged she had stolen had been given her by the Gays, but that she had told Mrs. Luce she was welcome to take any of them if she wanted to claim them. After Miss Gay died the witness found a box of jewelry and immediately informed Mrs. Luce. Mrs. Skeels also declared that some of the goods shown in court had been purchased by her at stores in Lawrence and that they had never been inside the Gay home.

The defendant denied having obtained any insurance money from the deaths of her relatives. She sobbed when she identified a coat which she said she bought for her mother. She asserted that she was given no opportunity by the police to make an explanation in regard to the goods and that it appeared as if they were trying to "railroad her."

Industrial Property Wanted for Immediate Occupancy

They are looking for a building containing about twenty thousand square feet which is ready for immediate occupancy. The building must have good light, be adaptable for light manufacturing, principally sewing machines, and must be situated in a locality which is free from soot and dirt in the atmosphere, as principally white goods are utilized. The site must be within one hundred miles from New York.

Supply of Materials

As practically all raw materials consumed are manufactured in the states of Maine, New Hampshire, Massachusetts, Connecticut and Rhode Island, shipping facilities from these points to the property must be excellent.

Power

The source of power is not necessarily a determining factor. While water power would be advantageous, the amount of power consumed in manufacturing is not relatively great.

Labor

Their industry employs about ninety per cent women and ten per cent men, therefore the site upon which the factory is to be established must be surrounded with adequate female labor.

Market for Output

As the articles manufactured have national distribution, the site must be situated on or near railroads which feed into the principal trunk lines of the country. If railroad transportation to all parts of the country is not readily available, water transportation to certain points will be considered.

It is their intention to begin operating with a force of from two to three hundred employees.

They also have in view the manufacture of various other articles so that the locality should be such as to take care of expansion in case of necessity.

The manufacturers desire to take a short term lease on the property, with the option of buying if the locality is found to be satisfactory. The outright purchase of the property, however, is not out of the question.

If interested, you are requested to furnish, in writing, complete description of the property and building, annual rental, purchase price, population in the immediate vicinity and surrounding territory, names of other industries situated in same locality.

Personal interviews will be made after written descriptions of property have been received. Address communications to H 801 Times Annex.

TO FIGHT DEMANDS OF ENGLISH MINERS

Opposition Develops to Nationalization of Coal Mines Urged by Commission.

LIKELY TO REJECT REPORT

Owners Propose Profit Sharing—Say Smillie Does Not Represent Men.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, June 25.—Telegrams from South Wales say the conviction is growing in commercial and mining circles that Parliament will reject all the various reports emanating from the Coal Commission, and particularly those recommending nationalization of mines. The commission, which was presided over by Justice Sankey, consisted of thirteen members, and issued four reports—that of the Chairman pronouncing for the purchase of mining royalties and the ultimate nationalization of mines. This obtained the support of the miners' representatives on the commission.

Employers put forward a scheme which would make the State the owner of coal after it had been mined and, and one Commissioner, Sir Arthur Duckham, elaborated proposals for controlling the coal industry in the interests of the whole community. Now that there has been time for study of the various reports, the balance of opinion seems strongly in favor of Duckham and against Sankey. Sankey urges national control in consideration of its effect on the outlook and morale of the miners. Duckham prefers private enterprise on grounds of efficiency and incentive. Sankey's scheme for nationalization is pronounced the most attractive yet formulated, and there is an obvious effort to eliminate as far as possible the evils of bureaucracy and to give due representation to interests without crippling the direction and initiative.

It is admitted, however, that the opponents of nationalization make out a very strong case for private enterprise, with certain essential reforms guaranteed. Some miners' leaders talk of a great political and industrial revolution, and in some quarters it is suggested that Justice Sankey unconsciously allowed himself to be affected by the panic in which the Commission was appointed. Undoubtedly public sympathy created for miners by certain revelations extracted by the commission does not go to the length of acceptance of all demands made for the men by Smillie, Williams and other leaders.

Coal owners propose a system of profit sharing, and in view of the recent decreased output of coal, maintain that only the incentive of profit making can secure maximum production. A leading representative of the owners puts the case thus:

"The Sankey Commission was conceived in fear, and the Sankey report was born in fear. If we allow fear of the miners' leaders to rule our actions now we only postpone the evil day of reckoning. The great question is, will the miners wreck the country if we insist on sound reforms and refuse panic-stricken palliatives. I firmly believe they will not. Smillie and his fellow-extremists have their following among miners, but they do not represent the miners. Smillie's own election as leader was a hole-and-corner affair, in which the majority of the local miners took no interest. The problem is one of leadership. The miners as a class are not revolutionaries, and they can be led for good as well as for evil. If Smillie does represent the miners we may as well fight him now as later, and we can rely on the more democratic trade unions as well as the bulk of the working classes who as consumers know what the miners' policy means. If on the other hand Smillie does not represent the miners then let us not be intimidated by him into doing things we know are bad, but rather press on reforms which are sound, and rely on the good sense of the miners to support the forces of reform and order."

While the nationalization of mines, in the opinion of many good judges, seems likely to be postponed, the question of the nationalization of railways and other transport undertakings of the country which the Government raised in the hastily conceived Ministry of Ways and Communications bill, has already met with a contemptuous negative from the House of Commons. Pages of the measure as originally introduced by Sir Eric Geddes have been cut out bodily, one of them containing a clause empowering the Minister to purchase and work any railway, tramway, canal or lock. Parliament took a strong position that it would have no veiled form of nationalization or permanent Government control of transportation, and as it stands the bill aims only at co-ordination and avoidance of waste.

WAR LABOR BOARD SOON TO BE DISSOLVED

Stops Receiving Applications for Settling Disputes, but Will Finish Pending Cases.

WASHINGTON, June 25.—The National Labor Board today ended its activities preparatory to final dissolution by the President. No new cases will be heard nor new applications received, but present controveries, jointly submitted, which cannot be concluded prior to June 30, will be assigned to the joint chairmen or a section of the board for disposition.

In announcing the conclusion of its activities the board said it had recommended that, with the approval of the President, all administrative duties in connection with unfinished cases and all records and files of the board be transferred to the Department of Labor. Members of the board, pending final dissolution, will be at the call of the President.

The conclusion of the board's activities marks the passing of one of the governmental agencies created during the war to further production of war materials.

The board was organized under a Presidential proclamation with former President Taft and Frank P. Walsh of Kansas City as Joint Chairmen, and with five members representing labor, five employers' representatives, and two members acting for the public. Mr. Walsh resigned soon after the signing of the armistice and was succeeded by Basil M. Manly of Washington.

During the year which ended May 31 the board received 1,245 cases, made awards in 462 cases, dismissed 591 for various causes, referred 315 to specified agencies, and suspended one case. Fifty-three cases remained on the docket because the board could not agree, and 23 cases were pending.

Convention Indorses Movement to Compel Release of Mooney and Reds

Resolutions indorsing the proposal for a national strike to compel the release of Mooney, Haywood, Debs and Red agitators imprisoned at Fort Leavenworth, Kan., were among those adopted at the national convention of the "Left Wing" Socialists just ended. The convention began at the Manhattan Lyceum, 66 East Fourth Street, on Saturday. The closing session was held at the Hungarian Workmen's Home, 350 East 81st Street.

Another resolution, adopted by unanimous vote, pledged the "Left Wing" Socialists to determined resistance against armed intervention in Mexico. Whether this implied a general strike could not be learned last night.

An attempt made on the initiative of "Left Wing" branches in Pennsylvania to exclude all so-called "intellectuals" from membership in the national reorganization was voted down, such prominent radicals as John Reed of this city, editor of The Communist, and Louis C. Fraina of Boston, editor of the Revolutionary Age, taking the floor in opposition. One clause of the resolution provided that no person, the major part of whose income was derived from rents, interest on capital, or from property should be admitted as a member.

"Lenin and Trotsky are intellectuals, and they are not exactly paupers," said one of the opposition speakers. "And here in our midst are men who while not millionaires are well fixed financially and who are among our most valuable members, partly because they spend their money for the cause. They would be barred if this resolution was to be adopted. Are you going to apply a standard that would bar Lenin and Trotsky from our councils? Are you going to read the comrades with means, who are sitting with us today, out of the party."

The resolution was voted down. Among the resolutions adopted was one providing for establishing a "left wing" periodical, to be known as The Worker and to be controlled by the National Council of Workmen which was created at the convention with such prominent radicals as John Reed, ex-Assemblyman Benjamin Gitlow of the Bronx, and "Jim" Larkin among its members. Another resolution extended the congratulations of the convention to the "brave" Canadian strikers, another carried greetings to the workers of Russia and Hungary and expressed the hope that the workers of Scandinavian countries, Holland, Switzerland, and Ireland would refrain from work in munition factories supplying the enemies of Soviet Russia.

The convention provided for a national conference to be held in Chicago on Sept. 1 and which, it is expected, will assume the character of a "rump" convention in the event that the "Left Wing" Socialists should fail in their avowed purpose of capturing the machinery of the Socialist Party for the foreign federations whose charters have been annulled and the "Third International."

Luna to Entertain Boy Scouts.

All Boy Scouts in official uniform will be admitted free to Luna tomorrow between the hours of 2 and 7 o'clock. The invitation has been extended by the management of the park as a testimonial to the work done by the organization. W. Henry Miller, the manager, will see to it that the boys are well entertained, and that the twenty rides in "The Ride-land of the World" do not lag in contributing to the fun for the day.

$10,000 REWARD FOR LOST JEWELS

Hotel Management Offers This Sum for the Recovery of the Millhiser Gems.

SURE BOX WAS NOT MISLAID

Owner Says She Has "One Big Fact" to Upset That Theory, but Declines to Say More.

A reward of $10,000 was offered yesterday by the management of the Hotel Biltmore for information that would lead to the recovery of the jewels reported by Mrs. Clarence Millhiser to have disappeared from a safe deposit box in the hotel some time between May 20 and the afternoon of June 13. No list of the jewels was given out yesterday by Mrs. Millhiser, her lawyers, or by counsel for the hotel, but information from several sources was that jewels owned by Mrs. Millhiser were valued at more than $250,000. This is the announcement of the reward given out by Deacon Murphy, a member of the law firm of Edwards, Murphy & Minton, of 26 Liberty Street.

$10,000 REWARD.

$10,000 will be paid by the Hotel Biltmore for the recovery of or information leading to the recovery of the lost Millhiser jewels.

All information must be given directly to Mr. E. D. Miller at the Hotel Biltmore, and no other information than that so given will be considered.

Mrs. Millhiser came to this city yesterday to confer with counsel and to visit the offices that her husband had maintained at 50 East Forty-second Street. At the St. Regis Hotel she said she would give no further information about her report of the loss of the jewels, but she confirmed the statements attributed to her by a reporter for a news agency, who had visited her at her Summer home at 81 Jerome Avenue, Deal, N. J., earlier in the day. She said then that some of the reports of the robbery had been "wildly ridiculous," and that "absurd statements have been printed as to Mr. Millhiser's wealth." It was unfair to criticise the police, she said, because she had not reported the loss to them.

Answering a question as to the possibility that she might have misplaced some of the jewels on May 20, the day she had reported having put them into the box after her husband's death at Mount Sinai hospital, she declared that she had "one big fact that would upset that theory." She declined to give more information about the fact mentioned by her.

Deacon Murphy, the lawyer who is investigating for the hotel, said that he had no idea what the fact mentioned by Mrs. Millhiser might be. He said that no receipts were given for packages placed in the safe deposit vault and that any patron of the hotel rented a box there under the same conditions and customs observed in banks and safe deposit companies.

A confidential memorandum, said to have been sent out by the police to pawnbrokers, who might have offers of the jewels confirmed the unofficial descriptions of the jewels given out by friends earlier in the day. According to this information, the most important piece was a rope of matched pearls, valued at more than $100,000. Other pieces reported missing were diamond rings, and brooches of diamonds, and other stones.

E. D. Miller, manager of the Biltmore, who, according to the announcement given out by counsel for the hotel, would receive all information leading to the recovery of the jewels, said yesterday that he would give no information, and that facts would be made public only by counsel. None of the representatives of the hotel would say whether a claim for the value of the jewels had been made upon the proprietor, John McE. Bowman.

DARTMOUTH HONORS COBB.

Makes Author Doctor of Literature —Illness Prevents Goethals Award.

HANOVER, N. H., June 25.—Dartmouth College today conferred the honorary degree of Doctor of Literature upon Irvin S. Cobb, the author, at its commencement day exercises. Governor J. H. Bartlett and G. L. Kibbee, editor of The Manchester Union, received the honorary degree of Master of Arts. The degree of Bachelor of Arts was conferred on Major Frank W. Cavanagh, formerly coach of the Dartmouth football eleven. Other honorary awards were: W. P. Mead, dean of the Berkeley School, Middletown, Conn., Doctor of Divinity, and Professor Raymond Pearls of Johns Hopkins University, Doctor of Science.

The honorary degree of Doctor of Laws had been voted by the trustees to Major Gen. George W. Goethals, but his absence because of illness prevented the award being made. Whether it can be conferred on General Goethals later has not been determined, college officials announce.

Gifts aggregating $1,200,000 made to the college during the year were announced by President Ernest M. Hopkins.

Bay State Ratifies Suffrage.

BOSTON, June 25.—Massachusetts today completed ratification of the Suffrage amendment to the Federal Constitution, the House, by a vote of 183 to 47, declaring in favor of ratification after an unsuccessful attempt by anti-suffrage leaders to have the matter referred to the people at the next election. The Senate voted for ratification 34 to 5 a week ago.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

Rehearsals of "See-Saw," a musical comedy by Earl Derr Biggers, with music by Louis A. Hirsch, began yesterday, and the piece will be produced in Boston on Aug. 2. The cast will include Charles Brown, Frank Carter, Charles Meakins, Rowland Buckstone, and Kitty Arthur. Henry W. Savage is making the production.

Margaret Lawrence will be featured in Salisbury Field's comedy, "Wedding Bells," which the Selwyns will produce next season.

Duncan Macdougall will present three plays at the Cohan and Harris Theatre on Sunday night. They will be "Crainquebille," by Anatole France; "The Tinker's Wedding," by J. M. Synge, and "The Gollywog's Control," by Mr. Macdougall.

MUSIC NOTES.

Andres de Segurola, Chairman of the Maintenance Committee of the Stadium Symphony Concerts, has arranged an invitation musicale at the home of Adolph Lewisohn, 881 Fifth Avenue, at 4 o'clock this afternoon. There will be a brief discussion of the concerts, which are to open June 30.

The New Symphony Orchestra finds that the supply of classic musical scores in the United States is practically exhausted, there having been almost no importation of such publications from Europe in the five years since the war. About 200 works are sought for performance next season by Mr. Bodansky.

CONSTANTINE IS HARD UP.

Ex-King of Greece Loses the Pension Former Kaiser Allowed Him.

PARIS, June 25.—Former King Constantine of Greece, who has been living in Switzerland, is in financial difficulties, according to advices from Geneva to Paris newspapers. Former Emperor William had been supplying him with funds, but this subsidy has been cut off.

It is added that Constantine is endeavoring to become reconciled with the present Greek Government.

When Constantine abdicated on June 12, 1917, an income of $100,000 yearly was temporarily granted. In March, 1918, the Greek Budget Commission refused to give him any further pension. Since that time he had been living on the bounty of the Hohenzollern family and on the income that his wife, a sister of former Emperor William, derived from property in Germany. Since the German revolution it is probable this income has been greatly reduced, if not wiped out altogether. While King of Greece Constantine received $400,000 yearly.

FLEET SAILS IN JULY.

WASHINGTON, June 25.—The recently created Pacific fleet, now being organized from vessels heretofore forming a part of the Atlantic forces, will sail from Hampton Roads for the West Coast between July 15 and 20, Secretary Daniels announced today. Mr. Daniels probably will be a passenger on one of the warships, making the trip to the Pacific through the Panama Canal.

The superdreadnought New Mexico will fly Admiral Hugh Rodman's flag as flagship and the Pennsylvania will remain the flagship of the Atlantic fleet. The composition of the two fleets, Secretary Daniels announced, will be made public within a few days.

"At 9:45" at Playhouse Saturday.

"At 9:45," a melodrama by Owen Davis, will be produced at the Playhouse on Saturday night of this week by William A. Brady. The cast will include Marie Goff, Edith Shayne, Madeleine King, Elise Bartlett, Mrs. Nick Long, Edward Langford, John Cromwell, George Backus, Frank Hatch, John Harrington, Noel Travers, Walter Lewis, Robert Thorne, Frank Hilton, and Alfred Hesse.

How to Enter This Great Beauty Contest

To enter the Illustrated Daily News' $10,000.00 Prize Beauty Contest it is only necessary to send or bring in a photograph—yours or one of any girl friend. Any type of photograph will do. On the back of it write plainly the name of the girl, her home address and her occupation. (No names will be printed, so you need not fear undue publicity.)

This contest is open to every unmarried girl residing or working in Greater New York or suburban districts. It is absolutely FREE. There is no entry fee—no charge of any kind. The photographs sent in will be reviewed. Nominees will be selected. Then new photographs will be made at our expense by one of New York's noted photographers. From these standard photographs the Prize Beauties will be chosen.

We will pay $10,000.00 in cash to the most beautiful girl; $2,500.00 to the second Prize Beauty; $1,000.00 to the third Prize Beauty. The Judges appointed to decide this contest are D. W. Griffith, celebrated motion picture producer, Harrison Fisher, world-famous painter of beautiful girls, and George M. Cohan, renowned theatrical producer. Photographs of contestants failing to receive prizes will be returned upon request.

Every girl in Greater New York or suburban districts is eligible, except professional beauties such as actresses and artists' models. Photographs should be sent in at once. Pictures of the leading contestants are published every day in the Illustrated Daily News.

WHAT ARE THEY TRYING TO DO?

The immediate aim of the Senatorial plotters against the League covenant is plain to the view. They are trying to kill the League of Nations. The law assumes that men intend the necessary consequences of their own acts. If the action these Senators urge upon the Senate is taken, it will necessarily destroy the League. They do not even seek to conceal their purpose. They are resorting to the old parliamentary device of killing by amendment. Mr. Knox's hostile resolution, which has gone to its death, has been abandoned for a "qualifying resolution." It is intended that the Senate shall declare in this resolution that its ratification of the Treaty of Peace, so far as it applies to the League of Nations, shall be without effect so far as the United States is concerned until the other nations signing the Treaty shall agree to certain reservations, which are to be substantially those recommended by Senator Root. The Washington correspondent of The Times asked Senator Knox what would happen if the allied nations decline to accept these reservations. "The United States in that event "would be outside the League of Na-"tions," Mr. Knox replied, "with a "smile." Without the United States the League would be a lame and impotent organization; in all probability it would fall to pieces.

Therefore, we may start from the postulate that Senator Knox, Senator Lodge, Senator Borah, Senator Johnson, and their associates fully intend the death of the League of Nations and are taking measures to that end. But what is their ulterior aim? Merely to prevent the erection of safeguards against the greatest cause of human suffering cannot be the whole end and aim of their plotting. We know that they have a political purpose—to express their hatred of President Wilson, to discredit him and thereby advance the fortunes of the Republican Party. Their tactics and their utterances disclose that motive, it is charged against them by responsible leaders of their own party. But by what strange perverted process of argument have they persuaded themselves that the success of their desperate plot against the League covenant would improve the chances of the Republicans in the Presidential election next year?

The country is against them, the great sober-minded, reasonable, and patriotic mass of their own party is against them. It is practically certain that they cannot command the support of the majority of the Republican Senators in their desperate adventure. That the Republican Party at large condemns their procedure is made evident by authoritative utterances in many States of the Union. An ex-President and an ex-Attorney General of their own party have condemned them. More than a score of representative Republicans in this city united the other day in a remonstrance against the course they are pursuing. In the West newspapers of high standing and of unquestioned loyalty to the party are outspoken in denunciation of the thing they are trying to do. The St. Louis Globe-Democrat, a great and influential newspaper of unswerving fidelity to Republican principles, declares that "the League is not a party issue and "cannot be made a party issue with-"out party disaster." It avers that "a large proportion of the Republican "press favors the League, and there "are but few important Republican "newspapers that are uncompromis-"ingly against it." In support of this assertion it reproduces upon its editorial page in its issue of June 22 five columns of editorial expressions from Republican newspapers of prominence, all deploring the unwise and dangerous course of the Senatorial opponents of the League. Among these newspapers are The Los Angeles Times, which "refuses to believe that "the rank and file of the party of "Lincoln, McKinley, Taft, and "Roosevelt will permit the petty, "personal, and political enmities of "a few leaders to array a majority of "the party membership against the "League." The Portland Oregonian, one of the great papers of the Pacific Coast, while regretting that the President has not taken the Senate more into his confidence, nevertheless says that "men who are big enough to be "Senators should be big enough to "set the good of the country above "their dignity"; they should be broad enough to see that the League of Nations is the only alternative to a big army, and "that co-operation of "the Allies with this nation is es-"sential to its success." The Des Moines Register, a representative Republican paper, declares that "the "Knox program is the program of "those who want to get ready for the "'next great war'"; that by notifying Europe that we shall not join the League "we shall gain the enmity "and the more or less open hostility "of every inch of the Old World." The Salt Lake Tribune, another sound Republican newspaper, declares that the League is doomed before its adoption if the Senate refuses to ratify the Treaty unless the covenant is separated from it in advance. The Topeka Capital reminds the statesmen who condemn the covenant that before destroying it they should offer to the world a better plan of their own for dealing with the monstrous evil of war. The Globe-Democrat quotes The New York Globe, a newspaper which has been sound and sensible in its comments upon the League controversy, as saying that "Senator Knox "and his followers desire to separate "the covenant only in order that they "may kill it," and The Globe exposes the hollowness of the arguments against Article X and against the reservation already adopted at Paris concerning the Monroe Doctrine.

The Globe-Democrat further calls attention to the adoption of resolutions indorsing the League covenant by the representative vote of 29,750 to 420 by the American Federation of Labor; to the resolution of the Federation of Women's Clubs, representing 2,000,000 women, declaring its approval of the revised covenant of the League; it points out that in a canvass of agricultural papers published in forty-three States only one of sixty-eight opposed ratification of the Treaty with the League and sixty-four unqualifiedly favored it. The attitude of the Church in favor of the covenant has been made known from hundreds of pulpits. Says The Globe-Democrat: "Here we have labor, "agriculture, the Church, the women, "and probably business supporting "the League. From what source "would the Republican Party draw "a conquering power in opposition to "it? It is a pertinent question for "leaders of the party."

THE ADMIRAL STATE.

A staple product of Vermont is Admirals, although its statisticians give prominence in their tables to marble, granite, spruce, milk, cheese, hay, live stock, and abandoned farms. The area of Vermont is one three-hundred-and-sixteenth of the Continental United States, and in 1918 Vermont had an estimated population of 336,192, as compared with 105,253,300 for all the States; its quota of Admirals should therefore be microscopically negligible. As a matter of fact, Vermont produces Admirals as easily as it yields granite, marble, and Morgan horses; not mere Rear Admirals, who nowadays are as blackberries in August, but famous Admirals, who command fleets or make history, or do both. The University of Vermont on Tuesday proclaimed Henry T. Mayo, commander of the Atlantic Fleet in the great war, a Doctor of Laws. There is no need to ask from which State he hails, the presumption being that he first saw the light in Vermont, for most of our great Admirals of this generation were born in the shadow of the Green Mountains. The university on the hill was honoring a Burlington man. From Battery Park you can look across the inland sea to Plattsburg Bay, where Commodore Thomas Macdonough whipped a British squadron in 1814, and the biographer of Henry T. Mayo will account for his naval career by deriving his inspiration from that stout conflict in which 300 British and 200 Americans perished, fighting at close quarters in the old, romantic, and sanguinary style.

Admiral George Dewey of deathless Manila Bay fame was born at Montpelier, under the State House Hill, on whose crest the cows chew the cud as they look in on the legislators at their desks. Admiral Dewey wrote his own life, and in Chapter I. he says that during his "long stay in the "heat of Manila Bay after the battle, "certain angles of view of the irreg-"ular landscape of Luzon from the "deck of the flagship Olympia often "recalled the Green Mountains of "my boyhood days," and he adds: "Indeed, I never look across a "stretch of rolling country without "a feeling of homesickness for "Vermont." That is the way all absent Vermonters feel, and they like to say so. As Dewey's great-grandfather William fought at Lexington, and William's brother Simeon was one of Ethan Allen's Green Mountain Boys at the taking of Ticonderoga, George, an adventurous scamp as a boy, (so he admits,) seemed to be destined for the land forces. Indeed, he spent two years at the Norwich Military Academy for the sake of its discipline, which he needed, (see his wild pranks in the autobiography.) But there happened to be no vacancy for West Point from Vermont when George Dewey was old enough to be entered. "Otherwise," he says, "I "might have gone into Manila Bay on "an army transport instead of on the "Olympia."

It was through the influence of Senator Foote that the Montpelier doctor's son was dispatched to Annapolis to become a famous Admiral. The University of Vermont never made him a Doctor of Laws; it was anticipated by the University of Pennsylvania. George Dewey was always true to the Green Mountain State. Woodstock was his favorite summering place, although the records of its County Court show that at the December term in 1854 he and four other boys were solemnly tried (The State versus Lloyd E. Bowers et al.) for singing negro melodies outside a house with intent to break up the hymn singing of a devout Woodstock family. So wicked was the Admiral-to-be.

Another Vermont Admiral of note is Charles Edgar Clark, he of the Oregon's run round South America and the fight with the Dons off Santiago, in which he took such a gallant part. Clark was born at Bradford, Vermont, the picturesque town that is mirrored in the Connecticut, very placid at that point. There is nothing in its flow through oxbow meadows and past wooded banks to send a boy to Annapolis with visions, but Vermont cannot help turning out Admirals who do things. Of all her sailor sons Vermont seems to have liked Clark (also LL. D., Pennsylvania,) the best, for his democratic ways and his modesty. He, too, spends his Summers in Vermont, singular to say on an artificial lake high up on Mount Mansfield, where the simple life is lived at a rustic clubhouse. Vermont will go on producing Admirals as long as Camel's Hump salutes Mansfield and Killington, and historic Champlain reflects the sun at its rising and setting, but Dewey, Clark, and Mayo will not soon be surpassed.

SAVING THE GERMAN HONOR.

The German head is bloody but unbowed. A delegation of officers from the cavalry of the guard, gentlemen representing the best families of Prussia, the flower of German chivalry, and the guardians of German honor, on Tuesday afternoon seized the French flags captured in 1870 and in the early years of the present war. By the Treaty which the Germans have said they will sign these flags were to be restored to France; they were already packed for shipment. But the young Siegfrieds took them out to a place before the statue of Frederick the Great, soaked them in gasoline, and burned them while the crowd cheered wildly. It was a famous victory.

Every day the Germans are refuting the objections which have been raised by radicals to those clauses of the Peace Treaty which were designed to make the Germans keep their word. Every day they do something to vindicate severity. Nobody wants to keep an army of occupation on the Rhine for fifteen years if it can be avoided; but we begin to see why the French were so sure it could not be avoided. Germany may promise anything, but will perform nothing that she can escape; the German idea of honor is generally involved with the breaking of a promise.

There will be more of this unless it is stopped at once. The best way to head it off would be to include men who have committed such acts in avoidance of the obligations to be imposed by the Treaty—the men who burned the flags, the men who sank the fleet—in the lists of offenders against the laws of war who are to be given up for punishment. There are allied missions in Germany; the culprits can be found. The German idea of honor, particularly a German officer's idea of honor, is strangely similar to that of personal convenience. It is inconvenient to be shut up in prison. If the men who burned the French flags were sentenced to imprisonment after a French court-martial, we should have a somewhat better chance of getting the Germans to live up to the rest of the treaty.

LET THE CZECHS GO HOME.

No doubt a shipping problem of some difficulty is involved in the question of getting the sixty or seventy thousand Czechoslovak troops back from Siberia to their own country; but it is not an insoluble problem, and the honor of every one of the allied nations is involved. These men, as volunteers, risking perils that no troops of the nations recognized as at war with the Central Powers would have to encounter, joined the armies of the Allies to fight for their own liberties. Their heroic record with the Russian troops, their firmness for their own ideals, made them dangerous to the Germans so long as they were in Russia; and the Germans inspired the Bolsheviki to try to put them out of the way.

To the gallant resistance of the Czechs, to their brilliant accomplishments in the struggle which the Bolsheviki had forced upon them, we owe the rescue of Siberia as a refuge for the non-Bolshevist parties of Russia. We have the Czechs to thank for the respite which permitted the establishment of the Omsk Government; that the Bolsheviki and their German aids did not appear in Vladivostok and carry the war to the Pacific a year ago is due solely to the Czechs. And now, after four or five years of war, they want to go home—to their own country, where they are needed to help protect their own popular Government against Bolshevism next door. It is doubtless inconvenient that this splendid fighting element be removed from the Siberian front, but we cannot in decency ask the Czechs to do any more for us; particularly the United States cannot ask it, for we promised to send an army to help them and then ordered our army not to help anybody when it got there. To suggest that the Czechs might fight their way for a few thousand miles across Russia, the Ukraine, and Hungary, after which those of them who were still alive would be at home, is a gratuitous insult, disgracing anybody who proposes it. If we have no interest in the principle of the matter, we might at least send the Czechs home by way of partial repayment of what we owe them.

PROGRESSING BACKWARD.

Senator Miles Poindexter of Washington draws a new count in his indictment against President Wilson every day, and sometimes several. It sounds like an echo of the remote past when the Senator says that "the Ad-"ministration has abandoned our citi-"zens in Mexico to murder and rob-"bery." Whatever exceptions might have been taken by critics to Mr. Wilson's policy in 1913 and 1914, which, notwithstanding Vera Cruz and the Chihuahua invasion, they constantly berated, it is now recognized that armed intervention in Mexico to pacify the country would have greatly embarrassed the United States during the war in Europe. Indeed, the struggle might not yet be ended if we had become involved in Mexico.

As to the present, it cannot be charged with color of veracity that the Administration is abandoning our citizens to murder and robbery; in view of the Juarez incident, still fresh in memory, it seems rather beside the mark in Senator Poindexter to demand that "the Repub-"lican Party should elect a President "who will fulfill the responsibilities "we have assumed in Mexico and re-"assert American honor and self-"respect." And the Senator can hardly be sincere when he treats with seriousness "the suggestion that is "now made in some quarters that "Great Britain should be invited to "restore order in Mexico." Of course, it is "false to our fundamental pol-"icies," as the Senator says, with an affected show of indignation. From whom did the "suggestion" emanate? Certainly not from any friend of England nor from any supporter of the President.

Mr. Poindexter, who boasts of being a progressive Republican, is in reality a narrow partisan who likes to set up a figure of straw and annihilate it with bombast. Mr. Wilson could do nothing that would please him. He sees the President preparing the Filipinos for independence, and wants the islands retained for "mutual ad-"vantage of trade and industrial de-"velopment," to the glory of the Republican Party, of course. And he sees Mr. Wilson governing Constantinople and Armenia by mandate, and denounces him for thus "abandoning "our responsibilities in the Philip-"pines." Mr. Poindexter is progressing backward. He desires to be a bedfellow of the most retrogressive of the Old Guard Republicans.

CICERO AND THE OMELETTE.

Having views upon education, it is natural that Henry Arthur Jones should present them in dramatic form. In a wartime household in which the gardener's wife was acting as cook, and engaged in the preparation of an omelette, the gardener's child came home from school with the task of writing an essay on "What You Know About Cicero." The gardener and his wife knew as little as their offspring; so the question was referred to the dramatist, who informed them that Cicero once claimed to have saved the republic by talking. But the means which was the salvation of Rome proved the fall of the omelette. When finally produced, it was "very tough and leathery." This dramatic anecdote serves as text to a very stimulating plea for reality in education, a plea which is as pertinent here, perhaps, as in England.

Mr. Jones's essay began as a letter to the press protesting against a law which prevents children from appearing on the stage. It seemed to him that the young might better be employed in an experience which has given us so many of our great artists of the theatre than in the sort of education which amasses a whole family to the detriment of omelettes—and especially as stage children are amply supplied with chaperons and tutors. But as the idea developed it was seen to be so fundamental and far-reaching that the letter outran newspaper space and became a volume of some three hundred pages. In his racy and vivid manner Mr. Jones describes the futility of so much that passes as education, its waste of the national capital and of the lives of its young victims; truly elementary education would render impossible the crude and bungling workmanship so prevalent today, and the workman's lack of pride in his craft and of allegiance to its morale.

Much the same point has been made, and with equal vigor, by H. G. Wells, not only in "Joan and Peter," but in a series of original and stimulating letters to The Times of London. In England the intellectual leaders, at least, have learned the lesson of a thorough national preparedness. "Every child in the "kingdom shall be educated in such "a way that whatever physical and "mental powers he possesses shall be "developed to the extent and in the "direction that shall make him most "useful to the State."

Returning American soldiers without number have declared that the war has taught them one thing: the value of an education. In thoughtless comment this has been interpreted as a profession of allegiance to the kind of education that eventuates in a nice appreciation of Walter Pater and the sonnets of Michael Angelo. That is not the thought of the soldier. The concrete fact in his mind is that only college men were received at Plattsburg, and that those who rose from the ranks were men of information and training. Whatever may have happened to the intellectual leaders, sundry millions of young Americans have learned the lesson, by no means obvious, that knowledge is power and that men who have achieved their leadership by means of knowledge deserve it.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Arkansas Mosquitos Conquered.

Presumably the Rockefeller Foundation was justified in selecting four towns in Arkansas, rather than others in the neighborhood, say, of this city, as the places where its experts should give a free demonstration of the fact that by the spending of a little money and the use of available knowledge an almost immediate end can be put to malaria and the other fevers of which mosquitos are the distributers. One reason, and a good one, for the selection made is the far greater prevalence of these diseases in Arkansas than in the vicinity of New York, and a second is that in Arkansas there are more people than here who are excusable for not knowing how easy and inexpensive it is to free any region, no matter how numerous or large its marshes, of these most dangerous little beasts.

By using what ought to be the familiar methods by which mosquitos are deprived of their breeding grounds, or rather of their breeding waters, the four towns were freed from both their pests and their pestilence. The cost was 44 cents per capita of population and the result in the one town of Hamburg was a decrease of the malaria cases from 2,312 in 1916 to 59 in 1918. Probably all of the 59 cases were those of people who had come to Hamburg from outside, already infected, or who had departed temporarily from the protected zone and returned to it with the bacilli in their veins. Even if the 59 cases were of local origin, it proves only that a few stretches of stagnant water had been overlooked and the demonstration still is a brilliant success—a lesson that should be heeded in all the many places where such lessons are still needed.

Negligence as Bad as Ignorance.

Malaria is no longer the scourge it used to be in the outlying parts of New York City and in its suburbs, but even now it is not unknown in them, as it should have been long since, and there has been of late an equally reprehensible and stupid tendency in not a few places on both sides of the Hudson to stop the precautionary measures upon which safety depends. The drainage of marshes has been neglected so that the flow of water back and forth with the tides is impeded, and new hollows have been formed where water can collect and remain long enough for mosquitos to breed.

Comparatively few of the insects thus brought into life and activity have had a chance to bite victims of malaria and so to become carriers of the disease, but even without that addition to their terrors they are sufficiently alarming and more than sufficiently troublesome. Their presence detracts appreciably from the joys and benefits that daylight saving confers on residents of the suburbs, and everywhere and always, whether in their most or their least dangerous potency, they are a disgrace to the local health authorities.

No town in this section of the country that has a single mosquito can be acquitted of guilty negligence—not even when the mosquitos are not of its own raising, but come in from across its borders.

Automobiles Kill Too Many.

Secretary Hugo has done well in calling attention to the fact that in the streets of this city, last year, more people were killed by automobiles than were drowned when the Lusitania went down. As he says, this amount of slaughter is intolerable and it should be reduced to the minimum that is, and probably always will be, an unavoidable consequence of the use of motor cars. Both drivers of automobiles and pedestrians are human, and they will never exercise the amount of care required for perfect safety, but real negligence on the part of either is quite another matter, and there can and should be far less of it than there is now.

Conditions in New York, however, are peculiar, and the Secretary of State is probably mistaken in his assumption that our chauffeurs, professional and amateur, are more reckless and homicidal than those in smaller towns and out in the country. The opportunities for accidents are here far more numerous, both relatively and absolutely, than they are anywhere else in the State. In our streets, for one thing, there are daily thousands and thousands of visitors who give less attention than when at home to guarding against traffic dangers, and they are less familiar with our street regulations and habits than they are with their own.

That many, and far too many, of our automobilists do not show the respect for pedestrian rights they should is unquestionable, but the majority of them have learned, or are learning, by painful and expensive experiences, that it is expedient to be decently careful; and it is probable that the element of "contributory negligence" enters in some degree on the part of people on foot in at least half of the accidents to which Mr. Hugo referred.

The automobile is here to stay and there must be a general adjustment to the conditions it creates. The drivers of cars, however, must be taught that blowing a horn gives them no right to run down the person who does not hear or heed it. Pedestrians, on the other hand, have their responsibilities, too, and among their obligations is that of keeping their wits about them while traveling streets necessarily crowded with rapidly moving vehicles.

Americans Are Not Prejudiced.

Major Gen. Sir Frederick Maurice says that while he was over here he found residents of British birth who complained that to their surprise they had been the objects of a prevalent prejudice against the English. The General will make one of his few mistakes in judging Americans if he believes this.

There certainly is in the United States nothing approaching a general and characteristic prejudice against individual Englishmen, whether newcomers or long residents. They are judged wholly on their merits and are treated accordingly by so large a majority of their American neighbors that the exceptions, if there be any, are negligible.

On further inquiry and after closer acquaintance, the General almost certainly would have discovered that, if his complaining informants were disliked, it was not as Englishmen, but because of personal peculiarities that would have justified dislike of anybody who displayed them. He is well aware, and has emphatically said, that he encountered only friendliness while in this country. Yet he is English, unmistakably.

IF OBSTRUCTION WINS

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The round robin of the twenty-six representative Republican citizens reprinted in your editorial article, "Obstruction Reproved," in today's Times must have great weight in confirming public opinion in favor of the prompt adoption of the League, and this quite irrespective of party affiliations. In the correct interpretation of the conditions of the covenant, whose opinions and statements are most to be relied upon—men of the probity, standing, and long experience and training in national and international affairs like Messrs. Taft, Straus, Wickersham, Burton, &c., or reactionaries of the type represented by the active politicians of the Borah, Sherman, Reed, and Poindexter class, with Senators Knox and Lodge following in their wake, so to speak? Political exigencies just prior to a Presidential campaign, combined with an overmastering dislike of the President, do indeed make strange political bedfellows, as in the present instance.

And what is the answer or remedy proposed in the event of their succeeding in defeating the covenant in the Senate? How is this scheme to hasten peace with Germany or make for conditions other than confusion worse confounded? Will Mr. Knox or Mr. Lodge or any of the other leaders in their persistent efforts to discredit the President rise in the Senate and explain to an eager and expectant world what result will follow in case they succeed, either in unscrambling the treaty and the League with the more than seventy interlockings of the two in the one covenant, or by attaching the Root qualifying amendment, with a possible effect of rejecting the treaty; or succeed in the attempt of "Silver Dollar" Borah to defeat the ratification of the League outright? What then? When is any kind of European peace and the restoration of economic conditions in suffering and starving Europe to be established by any league of the allied nations, as they say they favor, to become established? Instead of hastening the dawn of peace and industrial progress, as are at least intended and the opportunity provided in the League peace covenant, when do these obstructionists propose their methods will or can do other than indefinitely postpone, and the chaotic conditions of all European peoples continue accordingly? In this process of pulling down, the public has looked in vain for one single redeeming feature of any suggestion whatsoever for building up.

What is the inevitable sequence with any political party or national leaders in public affairs in adopting in time of crisis, as in this instance, a negatively destructive policy?

Apropos of the excellent editorial article in yesterday's (Sunday's) Times as to where the present opponents of the League of Nations will later be found "in the most comprehensive dictionaries of American biography, nothing more than an arid record of the facts that they once existed and held office," we have only to go back to the civil war. The reactionary Democrats under the leadership of the rank "copperheads," like the present reactionaries in the Senate, assumed the most aggressive attitude against President Lincoln, resorted to every device known to the then successful politicians, encouraged the South by repeatedly declaring the war a failure—as the obstructionists in the Senate are now encouraging Germany and heaping undeserved abuse upon President Wilson—and finally culminating in open invective and scandalous charges against Lincoln on the floor of Congress which resounded in the (at that time) reactionary newspapers from one end of the country to the other.

Where are the memory and the records of those "statesmen" today? Echo answers, Where? And history shows that they soon slunk back into oblivion, where they properly belong.

Tanner Indictment Dismissed.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In your issue of June 16 you published an item, apparently from Pleasant Valley, N. Y., to the effect I was to be brought to trial at Monticello, N. Y., this week; that immediately after my indictment I had left my Bridgeville charge and gone to Walton, and that I had left Walton and was now located at Ramapo. Your correspondent was misinformed. I did not immediately leave Bridgeville, but remained there in the confidence and friendship of my congregation till the Methodist Conference in April, when I received a call from a church in Walton, where I have been ever since. * * * When my case came up for trial my attorney, John D. Lyons of Monticello, moved to dismiss the indictment because it did not state any facts amounting to a crime, and the Sullivan County Judge granted the motion and signed and entered an order dismissing the indictment, discharging me, and exonerating my bondsmen.

EFFICIENCY.

We heard a knocking, loud enough
To wake the whole community!
But Mother said: "Don't be alarmed,
It may be 'Opportunity.'"

We children ran to greet the guest,
But quick ran back once more,
"O Mother dear," we cried in fear,
"The wolf is at the door!"

She fetched a gun, for she could meet
All troubles with impunity,
And where we only saw the wolf,
She still saw "Opportunity."

All honor to our Mother dear,
And blessings pour on her
Who quickly changed that hungry wolf
Into a Summer Fur!

FEARS BIG LABOR MACHINE.

E. P. Le Prohon Opposes Permanent Federal Employment Service.

WASHINGTON, June 25.—In opposing the establishment of a permanent Federal employment service, E. P. Le Prohon of Salt Lake City told the joint Senate and House Labor Committee today that such a service would become an instrumentality of politics and that if he were at the head of it he could elect a President of the United States. During the war Mr. Le Prohon was in charge of furnishing labor for the Atlantic Loading Company in New Jersey.

The committee decided not to undertake a general investigation of the employment service, members holding that they did not have authority to do so.

An investigation of charges of wastefulness in the expenditure of funds made in the House recently by Representative Blanton, Democrat, of Texas against Director General John B. Densmore will begin tomorrow. At the hearing today Mr. Blanton called witnesses in an effort to show that a person had to be a member of a labor union in order to obtain work in Government bureaus. The witnesses were Miss Mary Cunningham of Plainview, Texas, and J. Raynes Lylstone of Indianapolis.

FRENCH BRIDES ON THE WAY

PARIS, June 15, (correspondence of Associated Press.)—Passport officers at the American Embassy are working day and night providing papers for the French brides of American soldiers who are about to leave for the United States.

Many of the brides are accompanied by the khaki-clad husbands; some bring their mothers with them, and many are alone. In the daily queue at the Embassy are French girls from nearly all the provinces. There are large girls and small girls, beautiful girls and plain girls, simple country girls, unassumingly gowned, and girls in the rakish hats and short skirts of the Paris boulevards.

Nearly all the brides speak some English, far more English, usually, than the French their husbands have acquired.

One young Sergeant from Wheeling, W. Va., who certainly was not more than 21, forced his way to the passport desk a few days ago with an extremely attractive young girl holding tightly to his arm.

"I've only got two hours' leave and I've simply got to have my wife's passports fixed up because my transport's sailing in three days," he explained.

The passport officer listened patiently to the story which came out in sections as the young couple answered questions.

"You see, my wife's under age," the Sergeant explained, "and her mother changed her mind three times before she let us get married. We got married last week all right, but that old lady is so changeable I'm afraid to start home until I've seen this girl on a transport. That mother-in-law of mine isn't very keen about having her daughter go to America."

MAYOR HYLAN DEFENDS DAY.

Says Profiteers Are Trying to Drive Him Out of Office.

Replying to a letter from ex-State Senator William M. Bennett, wherein charges were made against Jonathan C. Day, Commissioner of Public Markets, Mayor Hyland yesterday wrote that he had ordered Commissioner of Accounts Hirshfield to investigate the matter. In his letter, the Mayor took occasion to praise the efficient work of Commissioner Day, and suggested that food, coal and ice profiteers were trying to drive him out of office. The letter follows:

June 24, 1919.

15 William St., New York City.

Dear Sir: Your letter of June 21st is received. The same has been referred to the Commissioner of Accounts for investigation, and the report that he made in regard to the Plaza Community Club has been referred back in order to give Commissioner Day an opportunity to be heard. A copy has also been forwarded to the Corporation Counsel asking that he aid in the investigation.

If Commissioner Day or any other Commissioner has not conducted his office honestly and to the best interests of the people I shall take action. Since Commissioner of Markets Day has been in office he has made war on the profiteers in foodstuffs and has endeavored to break up the coal, ice, and food combinations that are exploiting the people and charging high prices, and has incurred the enmity of these profiteers, and they are endeavoring to drive him out of public office. If the food, ice, and coal profiteers and traction interests cannot corral and use public officials for their own interests, then their policy is to discredit and drive them out of office.

Full and ample opportunity will be afforded to you and the organization that you represent to present all the facts and proofs that they may have in their possession to the Commissioner of Accounts. Due notice will be given to you of the date set by the Commissioner of Accounts for such hearing.

Very truly yours,
JOHN F. HYLAN, Mayor.

Mr. Bennett, who wrote as counsel of the West Side Taxpayers' Association, said that he hoped the hearing promised by the Mayor would be open to the public. He added that if Mayor Hylan was not inclined to remove Commissioner Day, the latter, as Vice Chairman of the State Council of Farms and Markets, was subject to the jurisdiction of the Governor.

HYLAN APPOINTS KELLY.

Mayor Makes Former Army Captain His Executive Secretary.

Mayor Hylan yesterday announced the appointment of Captain Augustin Kelly as executive secretary, in place of Frances W. Rokus, promoted to be assistant secretary. The new secretary is a Democrat and lives at 240 East Nineteenth Street, Manhattan.

Captain Kelly received his commission at the first Plattsburg training camp, served with the 27th Division, and later with the 83d National Army Division. At the time of the signing of the armistice he was an instructor at the machine gun training centre, Camp Hancock, Georgia. When he entered the Federal service he was chief auditor of the liquidation bureau of the State Banking Department.

DE VALERA'S CAMPAIGN.

Sir Charles Allom Sees in It What Germany Wants.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Now that de Valera really is here, it may be well to consider how careless the community is in the midst of its busy life to the main causes of its troubles.

The allied countries have been suffering from poison propaganda, fostered by Germany for the purpose of retarding the progress of the Allies. Since the traitor Sir Roger Casement was landed in Ireland from a German submarine it has been obvious that Ireland's Sinn Fein movement was revived by Germany.

And here is de Valera openly advocating a revolution in a country allied to Britain, supported by a number of the Roman Catholic priests. It seems a disaster that so wonderful an institution and organization as the Church of Rome should allow that portion of its body having influence in Ireland to devote itself to creating a rebellion.

Only a few weeks ago I was in Ireland and never before saw such obvious signs of prosperity. Cottages, farms, and houses in excellent repair and mostly newly painted. A young Irish ex-guardsman next to whom I sat stated that though a Roman Catholic, he regretted that the great neighboring college for the training of Roman Catholic priests was devoting half its time to teaching sedition.

To support the Irish revolutionary movement is to support the object for which Germany worked, part of the scheme that brought trouble with Mexico, in Egypt, India, and produced Bolshevism, bomb throwing and assassin nations of Armenians, and worse, the deliberate killing of all boys between certain ages in Serbia that she might die as a race. Its minor acts include the destruction of the machinery by which Belgium could recover her prosperity after the war.

Every dollar given to this Irish agitation is retarding the peace of the community and is disloyal to the splendid race who have given their lives to retain law, order, and the security of the world.

ALLIED LEADERS HONORED BY OXFORD

Doctor of Civil Law Degree Conferred on Pershing and Hoover.

CHEERS FOR THE AMERICANS

Italian, French, and British Statesmen and Warriors Also Receive Plaudits of Public.

OXFORD, England, June 25, (Associated Press.)—General Pershing and Herbert C. Hoover represented the United States today in a distinguished company of noted men from the allied countries, who were honored today by Oxford University with the degree of Doctor of Civil Law. The ceremony was held in the Sheldonian Theatre. It was the culminating feature of the annual Encaenia, or commemoration exercises.

The event was rich in the ceremonial pomp fostered by the traditions of this famous institution. None of the spectators who crowded the theatre followed the proceedings with keener interest than a handful of American Army students who have been studying here. Among those who witnessed the ceremony was Mrs. Hoover.

Earl Curzon, Chancellor of the University, presided, and, according to custom, solemnly went through the prescribed formula of proposing the degree to the House. After the House had as solemnly granted the degree, the recipients were summoned in turn by the public orator.

Those upon whom the degree was conferred included General Pershing, Mr. Hoover, Baron Makino, head of the Japanese Peace Conference delegation; Marshal Joffre of France, Vice Admiral Sir David Beatty, Field Marshal Sir Douglas Haig, Major Gen. Sir Henry Hughes Wilson, Chief of the British Imperial Staff, and Vice Admiral Sir Rosslyn Wemyss, First Sea Lord. Former Premier Orlando of Italy, and Premier Ignace Paderewski of Poland received the degree by proxy.

Each recipient, as he received the degree, bowed his thanks and took his seat. No speeches were made, and the ceremony was ended quickly.

General Pershing and most of the other notable persons present came down from London by automobile this morning. All the invited persons gathered at 11:30 o'clock at Trinity College, where they were received by the Chancellor, Earl Curzon, the Vice Chancellor, and other officials of the university. The procession then formed and marched along the street a few hundred yards to the entrance of the yard leading to the theatre, where the ceremony was held. The general public, unable to gain admission to the building, was packed along both sides of the line of march, keen for a sight of the celebrities. The crowd cheered those they recognized.

Both General Pershing and Mr. Hoover were greeted heartily when the group filed into the theatre. Every seat in the building was occupied. The great audience rose as the distinguished visitors entered and proceeded to their places on the rostrum. The organ played "God Save the King."

After the degrees were conferred the recipients settled back in their seats to hear a young Oriel College student, winner of the Newdegate prize for English verse, recite a composition eulogizing France. The Chancellor then dissolved the convocation and the procession moved out of the building to the music of a stirring march.

American students at Oxford abandoned their plan for an informal reception in General Pershing's honor because of the uncertainty of his ability to leave army headquarters and come to Oxford for the ceremony. Most of the American students left here yesterday for Liverpool and Brest on their way to their homes in the United States. Only thirty of them remained here to take part in a big victory pageant to be given by the university beginning tomorrow.

After leaving the theatre the party proceeded to All Soul's College to attend a luncheon given by officials of the university. Besides those sharing in the degree ceremonies the guests included Major Gen. John Biddle and Col. Lloyd C. Griscom, General Pershing's aids. The luncheon was informal and there were no speeches.

CHANGES SURPRISE POLICE.

Lieut. Gleason Gets Coveted Berth—Detectives Not So Fortunate.

Police Inspectors and Captains manifested surprise yesterday when it was learned at Police Headquarters that Lieutenant Thomas Gleason had been transferred from desk duty at the Wakefield Station in the Bronx to a desk position in the Board of Health, succeeding Lieutenant Samuel Belton, who was made a Captain about a month ago and transferred to a precinct. The position in the Board of Health was characterized as a "coveted berth," and it was said that there had been fifteen applicants for it.

It was also learned at Police Headquarters yesterday that Lieutenant William Ticho had been transferred from the Detective Bureau, where he held an important position in the extradition department, to ordinary desk duty in the Glendale Station, Brooklyn.

First Grade Detective Edward Castano, who had been a member of the Detective Bureau for twelve years, having charge of the work in connection with the investigation of Italian criminals, has been demoted to do regular patrol duty. His reduction involves a decrease of salary from $2,450 to $1,650 a year.

BAKER PORTRAIT MISSING.

Reward Offered for the Return of Likeness of Banker's Son.

While Mrs. Olive Tilton was attending to an errand on Monday, having left a portrait which she had painted in the hands of her taxicab driver with instructions to deliver it to George F. Baker, Jr., at 260 Madison Avenue, the driver disappeared with the painting, and no trace of it has been obtained.

The portrait was that of the son of Mr. Baker, Vice President of the First National Bank, and was painted in return for a large contribution which he had made to the Red Cross in its recent drive for funds. As she desires to keep faith with the Red Cross and with Mr. Baker Mrs. Tilton is very anxious to have the picture returned, and for it a suitable reward will be given and no questions will be asked.

MISS OLYPHANT WED TO EDWARD L. PRUYN

BRIDE OF CAPT. D. D. MILNE

The wedding of Edward Lansing Pruyn of this city, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Pruyn of Englewood Place, Albany, N. Y., and Miss Anna Vernon Olyphant, a daughter of Mrs. J. Kensett Olyphant of this city, was celebrated at 4:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon in Grace Church, at Broadway and Tenth Street, the rector, the Rev. Dr. Charles Henry Slattery, officiating. The bride, who walked with her brother, Captain John Kensett Olyphant, U. S. A., wore an embroidered white chiffon frock and a tulle veil held with orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of bouvardia. The bride's only attendant was Miss Anne Goodrich, a daughter of Major David Marvin Goodrich and Mrs. Goodrich. She wore yellow chiffon and a brown hat and carried yellow roses.

Frederick Pruyn was best man, and the ushers were Philip Lyndon Dodge, Langdon P. Marvin, Roger M. Foor, Cornelius S. Lay, Beverley R. Robinson, and Roger M. Foor. The reception was held at the home of the bride's mother, 60 East Fifty-fourth Street.

Milne—Hastings.

The marriage is announced of Miss Virginia P. Hastings and Captain Douglas Duncan Milne of Scarsdale, N. Y., which took place on Tuesday afternoon at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. H. Arnold Tinkham, Jr., at Hingham, Mass. Captain Milne is the youngest son of George D. Milne, Treasurer of the American Telephone and Telegraph company of New York, and recently returned from overseas, where he was engaged in the Meuse-Argonne fighting with the 126th Infantry of the 32d Division, A.E.F.

Miss Colon Weds W. J. Sullivan.

Miss Clara Colon, daughter of George Colon of 315 South Broadway, Yonkers, and William J. Sullivan of this city were married yesterday afternoon at St. Peter's Church in Yonkers by the Rev. Father Brown. Miss Colon was graduated from Radcliffe Academy, Highland Falls, N. Y., in 1917, and since that time has been active in Red Cross and children's welfare work. She was attended by Miss Charlotte Gyss, who recently returned to this country from eighteen months' service in Paris as an operator in the telephone section of the United States Signal Corps. Mr. Sullivan had his brother, Hugh F. Sullivan, for his best man.

Wed to Benjamin Ury.

Miss Gladys Kent, daughter of Alexander Stewart Kent, and Benjamin Ury, a director of the New York City Car Advertising Company, were married at noon yesterday in the chapel of the Marriage License Bureau at the Municipal Building. The bride has been connected with THE NEW YORK TIMES, and Mr. Ury was formerly a member of THE TIMES staff.

Mr. and Mrs. Ury will spend their honeymoon at Atlantic City, and on their return will reside at Pelhamwood, New Rochelle, N. Y.

Miss Chopak Bride at St. Regis.

The marriage of Miss Estelle Chopak, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Chopak of 600 West 116th Street, and Herbert V. Kallman of this city, took place yesterday afternoon at the Hotel St. Regis, the Rev. Dr. Rudolph Grossman officiating. A reception and dinner for 150 guests followed the ceremony.

Miss Frances B. Roeder, Singer, Weds.

Miss Frances B. Roeder, a grand opera singer, was married yesterday to George Chorpenning of this city. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gus C. Roeder of Brooklyn. Her father has been a member of the editorial staff of The New York World for more than thirty years.

Lieut. Gosnell Marries Miss Conard.

Lieutenant Frank G. Gosnell, who was chaplain of the 24th Regiment of Engineers, U. S. A., and served sixteen months overseas, was married last evening to Miss Evelyn Conard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George P. Conard of Brooklyn. The Rev. Dr. Charles C. Albertson of the Lafayette Avenue Presbyterian Church, where Lieutenant Gosnell is to be an associate minister, performed the ceremony at the home of the bride, 98 Washington Avenue.

Wed to Capt. F. H. McCrudden.

The marriage is announced of Miss Cara Stetson Sargent and Captain Francis Henry McCrudden, Medical Corps, U. S. A., which took place on June 23 in Boston. Captain McCrudden formerly resided in this city and was connected with the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research. He has received his discharge from the army and is to take his bride abroad for the Summer. Mrs. McCrudden has been an instructor in chemistry at Simmons College, Boston.

Meurer—Schaeffer.

The marriage of Edward J. Meurer, a son of the Vice President of the Staten Island Savings Bank, and Miss Margerte Schaeffer, the daughter of Edward J. Schaeffer, a real estate owner, were married last evening at the home of the bride in Bay Street, Stapleton, Staten Island, by the Rev. Frederic Sutter of the Lutheran Church of that town. The reception was followed by a dance and supper in the garage, which was decorated for the occasion. Both the bride and the bridegroom were graduated from the same school in St. George. Mr. Meurer is a superintendent of the Fletcher shipyards at Hoboken.

MISS FULLER, PARIS BRIDE.

Radcliffe Graduate Married to Lieut. Ralph B. Graham.

The marriage is announced, in Paris, of Miss Dorothy Parker Fuller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert O. Fuller of Watertown, Mass., and Ralph Brown Graham, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dwight H. Graham of Lynn, Mass., which took place on June 10 in the American Church, the Rev. Dr. Chauncey W. Goodrich officiating. The bride, who graduated from Radcliffe College, class of '18, has been connected with the Y. W. C. A. in Paris.

DR. WOOLSEY OVERWORKED.

Efforts While in Army Overseas Led to Suicide, Says Physician.

Close friends of Dr. William C. Woolsey, who committed suicide in his apartments at the Hotel Mohawk on Tuesday, declared that the doctor's act was caused by melancholia, brought on by overwork in France where the physician served as a Major in the Medical Corps, U. S. A.

It has been learned that the young woman who called the doctor when she found Dr. Woolsey's body Tuesday, was the physician's second wife, Mrs. Margaret McEvoy Woolsey, formerly a Red Cross nurse, whom he met abroad. His first wife committed suicide by shooting, while the doctor was in France.

The body of Dr. Woolsey arrived shortly before 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the home of his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Woolsey, 23 Emory Street, Jersey City. Mr. and Mrs. Woolsey returned yesterday from Lake Mohonk, N. Y., when they heard of the death of their son. Mr. Woolsey said his son, Dr. Woolsey, had written to him that he had married a nurse he met in France.

"I do not know," he said, "where the widow is. She has not been here. The funeral will be held privately Friday morning from the house. Burial will be made in Arlington Cemetery."

TEACHER FOUND DEAD.

Miss Mary Stone of Wadleigh High Discovered Lifeless in Bathroom.

Miss Mary Grace Stone, 50 years old, teacher of English at Wadleigh High School, 114th Street and Seventh Avenue, was found dead in the bathroom of her home, 000 West 177th Street, last night by Patrolman Scosfers, who had been called to investigate Miss Stone's unexplained absence for the last four days. Her body was unclothed and Dr. Francis Mulligan of St. Laurence Hospital said she had probably been dead three or four days. Assistant Medical Examiner Otto Schwartz said that death was accidental.

The discovery of the body came about when Miss Florence Dowden of 50 Morningside Avenue, an old friend of the teacher, called to visit her last night. When there was no response to her continued ringing of the doorbell she called Patrolman Scosfers.

For the last five years Miss Stone had been under the care of Dr. William Hart of 106 West Fifty-seventh Street for a nervous disorder.

DECORATED BY FRANCE.

WASHINGTON, June 25.—Decorations of the Legion of Honor bestowed on fourteen American naval officers by the French Government for distinguished service during the war were formally presented today with impressive ceremonies at the Navy Department. Captain Saint-Seine, French Naval Attaché here, made the presentations, assisted by Secretary Daniels.

Vice Admiral Henry B. Wilson, who commanded American naval forces in French waters, received the Cross of the Grand Officer of the Legion of Honor, the second highest honor of the order. Crosses of the Commander of the Legion of Honor went to Rear Admirals David W. Taylor, Chief Constructor; Robert S. Griffin, Chief of Steam Engineering, and Ralph Earle, Chief of Ordnance.

The rank of Officer of the Legion of Honor was conferred on Captains Noble E. Irwin, former Director of Naval Aviation; Thomas Craven, who commanded American naval air forces in France during part of the war; Frank Lyon, who commanded the repair ship Prometheus, stationed at Brest, and Alfred G. Howe, who commanded a division of American destroyers.

The Croix de Chevalier of the Legion was bestowed upon Commanders Louis H. Maxfield, chief of the naval aviation forces in France before Captain Craven arrived; Charles C. Slayton, who commanded destroyers in the war zone, and Lieut. Commanders Robert M. Hinckley, commanding officer of the destroyer MacDonough during the war; Godfrey De Chevalier, who served as an aviator in France, and John A. Gade, Naval Attaché at Copenhagen.

George W. Richardson Dies at 93.

Mr. Richardson was born in Auburn and is believed to have been the last survivor of the Argonauts of '49, the fortune seekers who emigrated to California upon the discovery of gold there in 1848. The furniture firm with which he was long connected was established at Auburn 119 years ago and has been on its present site for the last century. He was also connected with the firm of G. W. Richardson & Son, decorators, at 753 Fifth Avenue.

Mr. Richardson was a veteran of the civil war and was later in command of the Provost Guard of Washington which guarded President Lincoln. He is survived by a son, Frank W. Richardson.

Dudley Langdon Drowned.

Dudley Langdon, youngest son of Mrs. Sohpia M. Langdon and the late Woodbury G. Langdon, a merchant, was drowned at Colebrook, near Portsmouth, N. H., Tuesday. The Man Without Protection Loses

Last week it was announced that a firm in New York was robbed of $50,000 when its safe was "blown" by thieves. This burglary could not have been committed if Holmes Protection had guarded the safe.

Last Sunday thieves tried to enter two stores protected by the Holmes System. In each instance the attempted robbery was detected by our alarm and as usual our subscribers sustained no loss. On the same night fires broke out on floors above two Holmes Protected premises. Water used in extinguishing the flames did not damage our subscribers' goods because we were on guard, moving the stock to a place of safety.

GIANTS SPEND BAD DAY IN BROOKLYN

DODGERS BATTING BETTER

Homelike Flatbush Conducive to More Scientific Wielding of Ash by Robbie's Men.

The Giants have discovered that they can't spot the Dodgers six runs and beat them. They tried it over at Ebbets Field yesterday and it didn't work. They only succeeded in sending about four thousand Brooklyn fans home happy in the thought that the league leaders had been soundly trounced by a score of 9 to 4.

It was a bad, bad day for the Giants. They couldn't hit or field or get any reliable pitching until it was too late, for when they finally did settle back into their stride they were so badly out of the running that their cause was hopeless. The Dodgers made six runs in the first inning and it upset the whole club. It so disgusted John McGraw that he sought seclusion in the dugout and remained there for the rest of the day, leaving the field strategy to Matty.

Cecil Causey, the most reliable performer on the New York hurling staff and the author of eight victories this season, was the young man who got the Giants off on the wrong foot. Cecil drew the assignment to pitch against the Dodgers, but most have taken a Cincinnati warmup, which is a couple of tosses of the ball. At least, when he got to the mound he quickly discovered that he had left his box of tricks on the bench.

Brooklyn Bangs Cecil.

Cecil did not remain in the game long enough to get credit for an inning. Three hits rang out in succession off his deliveries and two runs trickled over the plate with nary a man out. McGraw saw Cecil was not fit for the fray and pulled him right out of the game. The pitching burden fell to Ferdie Schupp and he was but a slight improvement. He managed to stay four innings, but it was necessary for the Giants to use four pitchers before they closed up for the day.

Meantime, Larry Cheney was in fine fettle and pitched with skill for seven innings. Better pitching for the Giants might have made the contest more interesting, but it is doubtful if the Giants would have scored as many runs as they did had Cheney been pressed to do his best all the way. By the time the eighth inning came around he was breezing along with a seven run lead and he could afford to be lenient.

In the final accounting the Giants made ten hits off Cheney, but up to the eighth they had made but five and these had been scattered over that many innings. They put on a spurt in the eighth and made four more and added another in the ninth. However, their hitting was pretty much wasted after the fatal first inning.

Two victories in a row from the Giants is a lot for the Dodgers this year and it may bring out some of the home guard today. But there was a heavy falling off in attendance yesterday. Those who attended, however, had a pleasant time grilling the Giants. A lot of Brooklyn fans missed a great opportunity that may not come again for a while. Arthur Fletcher was singled out for special attention and enjoyed some caustic comments.

Robins Have the Range.

The Dodgers are hitting much better since they got back to Flatbush, where they have the range of the fences and a better line on the lights and shadows that are supposed to affect the batting average. When they got started yesterday none of the Giants pitchers could halt them, Tom Griffith and Zack Wheat each getting three blows among the numerous others.

Ferdinand Schupp, who has been slowly coming back into form, had a flash of his old speed at times yesterday, but he lacked control and when he found himself in trouble he had to put the ball over the plate, with fatal results. However, he did well enough, despite the number of hits made off him, to show that he is rounding into form, and he may have a better day soon.

Olson, the first man to face Causey when the Dodgers first came to bat, lined a single to left. Causey was not in the least disturbed. But Johnston hit the next delivery smack up against the low wall of the left field bleachers. Burns hurried over for the hit but the ball bounded into the intricate draining system that skirts the field and shot along in the ditch until it finally reached the fence and Johnston made the circuit on the blow, Olson scoring ahead of him. Tom Griffith planted the next one against the right field fence for two bases, and Causey was through for the afternoon.

Run Follows Run.

Zack Wheat greeted Schupp with a hot single to centre that scored Griffith, and Myers beat a hit to Doyle when the latter tried for a play at second. Konetchy walked, filling the bases, and Schupp fanned Fitzsimmons. Miller scored Wheat with a long sacrifice fly which Kauff took with one hand, making a pretty running catch. Cheney dropped one just over Chase's head for a single, putting Koney on third, and a passed ball let the big first baseman score a moment later. Olson finally came up for the second time in the frame and put an end to the inning with a pop fly to Chase.

The Giants didn't make a hit until the third inning, when Burns tripled with two out. Young failed to get him home, lifting a high fly to the outfield. In the fourth Doyle sngled with one down, but Kauff hit into a double play.

In their half of the fourth the Dodgers made two more. Olson beat a hit to Fletcher, which the latter gathered up back of third base; Johnston flied out, but Griffith, who had already made two hits, cashed a third one, a single to right, which sent Olson to third. Griffith attempted to steal and Fletcher made a wild throw, which let Olson score, and put Griffith on third, from where he tallied on a single by Wheat. Myers forced Wheat and stole second, but Schupp got the side out when Koney came up.

Giants Do a Bit Better.

The Giants swung into their stride in the eighth. Burns, the only Giant to do any real hitting, making a total of three for the day, opened this inning with a double to right. Young singled, and Fletcher hit to Fitzsimmons, who leaped over the ball, and Burns counted. Doyle flied out, but Kauff beat a hit to short, and Young scored. After Barnes, batting for Ragan, had fanned, Chase singled to centre, scoring Fletcher.

The Dodgers were blanked during the time Pat Ragan was in the box, but after Barnes hit for him in the eighth Winters went to the hill and was touched for the final run. Wheat hit one on a line that bounded over Burns's head and went to the fence for a home run. Young got around to third in the ninth on a bunt and a couple of errors, but there were two out when he started, and Fletcher left him there with a long fly to right.

WILD THROW COMES TO AID OF YANKS

Dugan's Error in Ninth Enables Hannah to Score Run That Defeats Athletics, 4 to 3.

For a very long time up at the Polo Grounds yesterday it appeared that Connie Mack's remnants were about to win a baseball game, and from the Yankees, too. Scott Perry, the Quaker pitching ace, was holding the Yankees spellbound, much to the displeasure of the biggest part of 4,000 fans, while Pete Schneider, formerly of Cincinnati and the National League, who was doing the hurling for Miller Huggins, was getting the peppering of his gay young life.

It was thus for eight innings, at which stage of the fracas the Mackmen were in the van by 3 to 1. Then the Yankee bats fell heavily on Mr. Perry and punched home a brace of runs, tying the score. This upset Perry and his cohorts. Where before the entire Philadelphia array had been chock-a-block with fighting spirit, they closed up in the face of the tied score.

Where they left off on Perry in the eighth, the Yankees continued in the ninth, and, with the aid of Joe Dugan, the young Quaker shortstop, won the game. The count was 4 to 3. Dugan's part in the Yankee triumph was a bad heave to Burns for what should have been the third Yankee out in the ninth. The low throw enabled Truck Hannah to dash across the rubber with the winning run.

Peter Schneider was making his American League debut and he got a real christening. Pete was minus a lot of the stuff popularly supposed to be in possession of most pitchers. He was pasted when hits were most harmful to the Yankee cause, and didn't feel at all sure of himself. This was shown in the first when a wild thrown by Pete paved the way for the Quakers' initial tally.

This was a bad start for the former Redleg twirler and he never seemed to fully recover. Every inning thereafter Pete had the home rooters' hearts a-flutter. They didn't know at what moment another Quaker run was to be chalked up and it got so that a lot of them didn't care much. Pete was effective after the third inning, however, and gave way to Pinch-hitter Al Wickland in the eighth. Al, it might be mentioned, failed to pinch-hit. He skied out to Walker.

Nobody seemed to worry much about Wickland's failure as a hitter. Al has demonstrated before that as a pinch-hitter he's a good outfielder. Samuel Vick started the Yankees on the path to victory by beating out a hit to Shannon. Peckinpaugh rapped one past Shannon to right, sending Vick to second. Both runners moved up a peg while Baker was being disposed of at first, and then Duffy Lewis pumped a single to left, scoring Vick, and when Witt manhandled the horsehide Peckinpaugh scored with the tying run. Lewis got as far as second but was marooned when Pipp skied out to Roth.

Allen Russell baffled the Quakers in their half of the ninth, and disposed of the team without any threatening situation arising. After Perry fanned, Witt sent a single to left, but got no farther than first, for Russell fanned Thomas while Pratt threw out Roth.

Perry loomed threateningly on the hill for the Yankees in the ninth. He started by fanning Pratt. Bodie was next thrown out by Dugan. Everything pointed to extra innings when Truck ripped a double to left. The ball bounced dangerously close to the foul line at third base and the Mackmen claimed it was a foul. The umpires were in a majority, however, so nobody paid particular attention to the shouts which filled the atmosphere. Russell then spilled a grounder at Dugan and reached first safely on the Quaker shortstop's low throw. Hannah, taking his time in view of what looked like a sure putout, rounded third slowly. When the ball caromed off the chest of Burns, however, Truck picked up speed again and raced for the rubber. He slid into the plate safe with the winning run.

The start of the game wasn't encouraging to the Yankees' admirers. Before Schneider had a chance to get accustomed to his uniform Witt rapped a single to right. Thomas rolled a bunt at Schneider who threw wild to first, Witt taking third. Bodie muffed Roth's sacrifice fly and Witt scored. Thomas making third. Walker then hit into a double play, and when Thomas attempted to score Pratt quickly whipped the ball to Hannah in time to nip the Quaker third baseman. Burns ended the inning with a pop to Pipp.

Schneider hadn't found the range of the plate in the second inning, so another Philadelphia run was recorded. Shannon fouled out to Hannah and Dugan drew a pass. When Perkins grounded out to Pipp, Dugan took second. He raced home from this station on Perry's double to right, but Perry was left stranded when Peckinpaugh threw out Witt.

Schneider got himself into a lot of trouble in the sixth, but snappy fielding saved him. Burns drew a pass and took second on a passed ball and Shannon was also given a ticket to first. The runners advanced on Dugan's sacrifice and when Perkins rapped a grounder at Baker, Burns tried to score. He was retired by Baker and Hannah after a run up and down the base line, Shannon reaching third and Perkins second on the play. The inning ended when Pratt threw out Perry.

The Yankees made the lead of the Athletics just so much easier to hurdle by jamming a run home in the sixth. Vick opened this frame with a single over second to center and took second on Peckinpaugh's hit to left. Baker hit into what looked like a force play on Peckinpaugh, but Umpire Dineen disallowed the play, declaring that he had called time before Baker hit the ball. Baker was subsequently thrown out by Shannon, Vick and Peck moving up a base each. While Dugan was throwing out Lewis, Vick raced home with the Yankees' first tally. Peck took third but remained there while Pipp skied to Witt.

NEWARK GETS TWO FROM MAPLE LEAFS

Fattens Its Percentage by Taking First Game by 3 to 2 and Second by 8 to 2.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWARK, N. J., June 25.—Newark took both parts of a double-header from George Gibson's Toronto Maple Leafs here today, winning the first game, 3 to 2, and the second, 8 to 2. Ed Rommel pitched Newark to a victory in the opening encounter and Dick McCabe was the winning pitcher in the nightcap affair. Newark won the first game in the ninth inning when Letter led off with a triple and scored the winning tally on Cather's timely single to left.

Newark beat John Paul Jones, one of the best pitchers in the league, when they took the second game, hitting him safely fourteen times. Walsh and McCabe each hit safely three times, while Lettner and Sargeant got a brace of wallops apiece.

BINGOES DEFEAT SKEETERS.

JERSEY CITY, June 25.—After holding the Binghamton players to a pair of scratch hits in five rounds, Al Schacht's puzzling assortment of curves was solved by Frank Schulte's athletes in the sixth for a collection of five hits, which earned them four tallies and the victory over Bill Donovan's Skeeters by a score of 4 to 2.

Jersey City found Pitcher Martin for twelve hits, but failure to put them where they were most needed resulted in the stranding of eight men on the bases.

Southpaw Strong in Pinches and Cubs Win Again.

CINCINNATI, June 25.—Vaughn was very strong today with men on bases and Chicago won the last game of the series, 3 to 1. Ring was hit hard in the seventh when four hits and a base on balls gave the Cubs two runs. Bressler then went into the box and stopped the scoring. The teams were to have played two games today, but the first was postponed on account of rain.

TO NAME REFEREE FOR FIGHT FRIDAY

Boxers Agree to Three-Man System—Welch, Brown, and Pecord Are Considered.

TOLEDO, Ohio, June 25.—Selection of officials to decide the heavyweight championship contest between Jack Dempsey and Jess Willard here July 4 will not be announced until Friday.

Postponement in making announcement of the selection, scheduled for tomorrow, was caused tonight by the failure of Adam Empie, Secretary of the Army, Navy, and Civilian Board of Boxing Control, and W. A. Gavin, a member of the Executive Committee, to leave for New York on the train they intended.

Empie and Gavin left at 11 o'clock tonight, but because they will not arrive in New York until 5:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, it will be impossible, they said, to hold a meeting of the Executive Committee of the Boxing Control Board until Friday. The selection of the officials will be formally agreed upon at a meeting and after being ratified by Major A. J. Drexel Biddle, President of the organization, Tex Rickard, promoter of the contest, will be authorized to announce the decision.

A distinct surprise was caused today when it was definitely announced that there would be three officials, two Judges and a referee, to decide the contest. Both Willard and Jack Kearns, manager of Dempsey, had declared they were opposed to the three-man system. Willard's consent was obtained this morning, while Kearns agreed to the proposal at a conference held this afternoon.

While no official announcement has been made, it was learned that the officials likely to be chosen are Jack Welch, veteran referee of San Francisco; Bill Brown of New York, and Ollie Pecord, official referee of the Toledo Boxing Commission, under whose license the Willard-Dempsey match will be staged. Pecord is being considered in the capacity of referee, it was said, while Brown and Welch are expected to be chosen the judges.

The announcement that Willard had agreed to accept the proposal to have three officials decide the contest was a distinct surprise. The champion had previously declared that he was opposed to the three-man system, preferring to trust his chances to the hands of one referee.

"I was open to reason," the champion explained, "and after Mr. Empie and Mr. Gavin had pointed out the advantages of the new system I came to the conclusion they were right. I had feared, before my conference with them, that two judges, sitting outside the ring, would not be in position to see the blows landed and countered."

Empie's formal statement follows:

"I much regret the delay in arriving at a decision in naming the officials for the Dempsey-Willard exhibition. The situation has been found unexpectedly difficult. I am pleased to be able to state, however, that an agreement satisfactory to all concerned will almost certainly be reached tonight and Major Biddle will then, on behalf of the board, advise Mr. Rickard by wire in the morning."

Boxing experts were agreed today that Dempsey, in his workout yesterday, showed vast improvement. Perhaps it was because he was celebrating his twenty-fourth birthday. However, the challenger's work was fast and furious throughout. He boxed six rounds and gave Sergeant Bill Tate and the Jamaica kid, negro sparring partners, a severe jolting.

Willard's workout was not impressive. He boxed ten tame rounds and did not extend himself at any time.

Dempsey, who knocked out Sergeant Bill Tate, his giant negro sparring partner, Sunday, all but knocked him out again today. Tate boxed the first of six rounds that the challenger stepped in rotation with the Jamaica Kid, Jock Malone, and himself. He escaped damage in the first round, but when it came his turn to face Dempsey in the third the challenger stepped into a clinch and snapped over a left hook to the chin that dropped Tate to the canvas. Trainer De Forest picked him up but promptly called time when Dempsey started to put him down for the second time.

Willard boxed eight rounds with his four sparring partners, but did not extend himself except in the two sessions with Walter Monahan, who was severely shaken up with right and left handers to the chin. The champion said he was entirely satisfied with his condition and that he did not care to unnecessarily punish his sparring partners.

PHILS AND BRAVES DIVIDE.

One Ragged Inning Settles First—Luderus's Homer Wins Second.

PHILADELPHIA, June 25.—Philadelphia and Boston again divided a double-header today, the visitors winning the first game, 9 to 4, and Philadelphia the second, 5 to 3. One ragged inning, in which the locals bunched their misplays while Boston bunched four hits, gave the Braves the first game. Holke's fielding featured. Luderus's home run into deep center field in the eighth inning with two runners on the bases won the second game.

MERRITT CHOSEN CAPTAIN.

Will Lead Dartmouth's Baseball Team Next Season.

HANOVER, N. H., June 25.—Melville P. Merritt, 20, of Middleton, Mass., was chosen Captain of Dartmouth's baseball team at a meeting of the letter men here today.

Merritt played left field during the greater part of last season, besides twirling in several contests. He is looked upon as one of the best utility men who ever wore the Green, and is expected to fill in one of the vacancies in the infield, left through graduation, next Spring. Merritt is also a strong contender for centre on the 'Varsity eleven next Fall.

The Athletic Council announced today that Jeff Tesreau had been signed for two more years' coaching.

ATHLETES AND EXPENSES.

Metropolitan A. A. U. Officials Move Against Excessive Charges.

The first step in the direction of eliminating danger of professionalism through athletes demanding excessive expenses for out-of-town athletic meets, was taken last night at the meeting of the Metropolitan A. A. U. Registration Committee, when it was unanimously voted to submit a resolution to the local Legislation Committee for an amendment to the rules providing drastic punishment in such cases where the evidence justifies.

The local Legislation Committee will in turn be requested to forward the suggestion to the National Legislation Committee, so that the matter may come up for decision at the next annual A. A. U. convention. Justice Bartow S. Weeks is chairman of both the Metropolitan and National Legislation Committees. Local officials predicted last night that the measure would attract unqualified approval among A. A. U. officials throughout the country.

If the proposed suggestion is put in motion form and adopted, it is expected to eradicate one of the growing evils in amateur athletics. Numerous cases have been brought to the attention of officials in the past, it was declared last night by a member of the Registration Committee, where out-of-town clubs were compelled to defray the expenses of prominent athletes for several days, where in many cases the athletes could have returned to their home cities without delay after competing in the athletic meets they had entered. This official refused to make public the names of any athletes he might have under consideration, but stated that the evil was growing with each important meet out of town where the presence of topnotchers was felt necessary for success. Whether the suggestion is aimed specifically at any athletes in this district this official would not divulge.

The attitude of the A. A. U. officials is that if the practice is allowed to continue unhampered athletes will be presented with incentive to capitalize their ability through extended periods of residence in other cities and through excessive expense accounts. The rules of the A. A. U. do not now provide any specific period of time for an athlete to remain in an out-of-town locality, and it is to improve on the rules that the suggestion has been submitted.

CANADIAN DRIVER IN RACE.

Brown Will Pilot Fast Car on Speedway Track July 4.

William W. Brown, champion of Canada, has applied for entrance in the 100-mile Auto Racing Derby and other events to be decided at the Sheepshead Bay Speedway on July 4. Brown never has raced in the East. In the Santa Monica race early in the season Brown created a sensation with his Richards Special, a car that has covered over 123 miles an hour in races. In the race on the Coast the car, it is said, actually ran away with Brown and he withdrew. Since then, however, Brown has mastered this land flier, and many drivers say, if Brown's machine stands up, he will beat anything that races on four wheels. Howdy Wilcox, who raced around the Indianapolis Speedway with Brown in the elimination trials, says the Richards Special is probably the fastest racing machine ever built. It is too fast for road racing and can only be used on a speedway as large as the Sheepshead Bay course.

Elmer Shannon of Chisholm, Minn., wired Manager Johnston yesterday that his entry is on the way. Shannon will pilot a machine with a twin six motor that has turned over 120 miles an hour on a two-mile track.

Dennis Hickey's car will be at the Bay Saturday. Hickey has reduced the weight of his Frontenac 450 pounds, making it a great deal faster than when he competed in the International Sweepstakes. Tickets for the July 4 meet will be placed on sale today at all the leading hotel and ticket agencies.

AMERICANS VICTORS IN ARMY OLYMPICS

Capture Five Firsts in Preliminary Track Events Held in Pershing Stadium.

PERSHING STADIUM, Tuesday, June 24. (Associated Press.—American athletes won five firsts, two seconds, a third and a fifth place in the first nine preliminary track event heats run off yesterday, the first day of the inter-allied games. In boxing, Americans won one bout and lost one.

New Zealand, with only four men entered in the track events, won three firsts in the preliminaries.

In the bantamweight preliminaries of the boxing Digger Evans of Australia won a decision over Johnny (Babe) Asher of Detroit in a ten-round bout. It was a good, hard fight throughout, with Evans growing stronger toward the end. Asher is the A. E. F. champion in his class. Evans is said by the ringside experts to have the best chance of winning the bantamweight honors.

McGrath of Canada was awarded the decision over Painer of Belgium in the bantamweight class. McGrath forced the fighting and Painer was on the defensive throughout.

Al Norton of California previously had won in the light heavyweight preliminaries from Herscovits of Canada. The Canadian was at a disadvantage through the American's longer reach and greater height, but he fought pluckily throughout the ten rounds. It was a stiff battle, followed closely by a large crowd of American soldiers.

The first knockout went to Spalla of Italy, who sent Van der Eynd of Belgium to the mat for the count of ten in the second round. Hallam of Australia gave a good exhibition, winning from Cole of Canada in the first featherweight bout.

American wrestlers lost their first two Greeco-Roman wrestling bouts. Weegan, American, was thrown by Daly in 4 minutes 20 seconds. Polk, American, wrestled Coeles of Belgium to a standstill for 20 minutes, when the bout was stopped and an extra period ordered by the referee. Coeles then threw Polk with a rolling fall.

The various races and contests were interspersed with exhibitions of Arabian sword dancing, a battle royal, camel racing and a colorful representation of a desert fight with the combatants mounted on camels. This event drew much laughter from the audience.

TRACK BETTING RULED OUT.

Maryland County Law Declared Unconstitutional.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., June 25.—The law permitting race track betting in Prince George's County, Maryland, is unconstitutional, according to a decision of the Court of Appeals, rendered today. The law applies to the tracks at Bowie and Upper Marlboro.

The law provides that the Judges of the Prince George's County Circuit Court grant the dates for holding race meetings in the county. The Court of Appeals ruled that this is a nonjudicial function. None of the other race tracks in this State is affected by the decision.

Tom Griffith yesterday ran his string of consecutive hits to a total of eight before he came a cropper. With five in a row on Tuesday, he made three more in his first three trips to the plate yesterday, but struck out in the fifth inning.

Frank Frisch, the star of Fordham, was given an opportunity yesterday. He batted for Schupp in the fifth and then went to third for the balance of the game. He played nicely around the far corner, and though he did not get a hit he took two healthy wallops at the ball.

Ross Young seems to have fully recovered from his recent indisposition and is again hitting. Two markers for him yesterday.

Manager Robinson has a weak spot on his infield at third base, where Fitzsimmons is filling in, but expects to have a stronger man there soon. Chuck Ward is about ready to get into the game and may be in the lineup in a day or two.

Ward was regarded as the coming star of third basemen when he was with the Pirates, and he had no sooner joined the Dodgers than he was called away to war. He has been getting into shape since returning to the game.

Jimmie Johnston had a good day at bat, getting a home run, a single, and a base on balls.

Pete Kilduff, who was recently obtained by the Dodgers for Lee Magee, is reported to have a sore arm and is unable to get into the game. Malone is hitting so poorly that Robbie has had to bench him, so the infield is still awaiting reserves.

Jess Barnes has developed into such a good hitter that he is now being called on as a pinch hitter. He batted for Ragan yesterday, but did not show up very well as a pinch hitter. He struck out.

Manager McGraw is confident now that Schupp will again be a valuable man for him this season. He expects the left hander to be in good form for a drive later in the season, if one is needed.

Umpire Bill Byron got all mixed up in the heat of the first inning. He called a third strike on Fitzsimmons and, when the player protested, Byron appealed to his partner, Pete Harrison. The latter opined that it was a strike and the batter was out. It is seldom that an umpire behind the plate has to appeal for a decision on balls and strikes.

TWO PLAYERS REACH SEMI-FINALS IN LONG ISLAND TENNIS TOURNEY

FAVORITES ADVANCE IN TENNIS TOURNEY

SCORE IN STRAIGHT SETS

Chambers and the Andersons Also Victors in Singles—Contest for Doubles Honors Begins.

S. Howard Voshell and Harold Taylor occupy two of the semi-final brackets of the Long Island tennis championship tournament as the result of their victories at the Kings County Club yesterday afternoon. Both of these stars won their fifth round matches without great effort, the national junior champion allowing S. D. Ward only three games in two sets, while Voshell's score against Jay Anderson was recorded at 6—4, 6—4. The Brooklyn southpaw had already advanced one round through the default of Alex Iler, who found it impossible to replay the match of the previous day, in which he had almost upset the metropolitan title holder. Charles Chambers and the Anderson brothers were the other winners of the day in the singles, and the doubles event was begun, with victories for J. H. Steinkampf and H. H. Bassford, R. J. Gatcomb and E. W. Davenport, and Colwell and W. H. Ross.

The defeat of Paul Martin by Chambers was a highly creditable performance for the ex-Y. M. C. A. secretary, who has had no chance to get into real form, having entered the tournament immediately on his arrival from abroad. The University Heights man was not quite so steady as usual, but his drives carried plenty of sting, and he kept them consistently close to the side lines. Martin was just able to squeeze out the opening set at 7—5, the high wind interfering with many of his shots, and making accuracy exceedingly difficult. Chambers, however, came back with all the old-time stubbornness of his defense, making some remarkable gets with his short-gripped racquet, and eventually squaring the match with a set score of 6—3.

Fight It Out on Even Terms.

The rubber was an absolutely even battle almost all the way, both players winning on service up to 4—all. Then Martin made his strongest bid for the match by breaking through his opponent's delivery for a love-game, ending with a lightning drive to the middle of the base-line. Leading at 30—0 on his own service, he had a splendid chance to close out the argument, but made a mess of three easy volleys, which, with an error on the back-hand, tied up the set again at 5—all. Chambers served a love-game for the advantage, Martin overdriving the lines in his anxiety to score. The match game then went to Chambers on errors, with the deciding set record at 7—5.

Frank T. Anderson, the younger of the brothers and last year's winner of the Long Island title, performed well yesterday in his straight-set victory over A. V. Duncan, the hard-hitting Californian. He found it difficult to control his brilliant shots at the start, and was facing a lead of 4—2 before he got well under way. There was a stubborn battle before the youngster succeeded in pulling up on even terms, and the match was still deadlocked at 5—all. Here Duncan had an opportunity for a winning break, putting Anderson's service in the hole at 0—40, when the young champion missed three successive volleys as he charged for the net. But Anderson was undismayed at these reverses, and continued his forcing tactics until Duncan in turn fell into errors and lost the crucial game, after the points had twice gone to deuce. His narrow escape from disaster put fresh confidence into the junior. He rushed ahead for the set at 7—5, and without letting up in his brilliant game for an instant proceeded to put the second to his credit also, a 6—3 session deciding the match.

Long One Has Easier Match.

The elder and taller of the talented brothers, Fred, Jr., had a far easier time, advancing to the fifth round with a one-sided victory over H. P. Burroughs, who succeeded in capturing only one game in two sets.

The doubles opened with a well contested three-set match, in which the new team of Colwell and W. H. Ross nosed out the veteran, T. C. Trask, and his partner, R. T. Shearer. The latter combination seemed the stronger, and acquired the opening set without great difficulty at 6—3. But after letting several chances slip, they found the match squared with a hard-fought deuce set. The rubber ran twice to deuce, with all four players exhausted by the time Colwell and Ross were able to claim the long end of an 8—6 score for the match.

Steinkampf and Henry Bassford found little opposition in Ogilvie and Lake of the local club, and the new West Side champions, Gatcomb and Davenport, were going at such speed that they never allowed the strong combination of J. W. Anderson and Kynaston a chance, dropping only one game in each set. Gatcomb was spectacular overhead, with his reverse twist service working well, and Davenport played his usual steady game. The summaries:

Long Island Championship.

KIRKBY AND WHITE WIN.

Defeat Evans and Sawyer in Exhibition Match in Canada.

OTTAWA, June 25.—Oswald Kirkby of Englewood, N. J., and Gardner White of New York, representing the East, defeated Charles (Chick) Evans and Ned Sawyer of Chicago, the Western tandem, in the Red Cross game at the Rivermead Golf Club's course this morning, winning 2 up in an eighteen-hole best-ball foursome.

Pitcher Reuther Is Injured.

CINCINNATI, June 25.—Pitcher Walter Reuther of Cincinnati was hit in the groin by a thrown ball while at practice here today, and the injury proved so painful that attending physicians stated that it would be several days before he will be able to get into the game. Reuther was scheduled to pitch one of the games today.

BEEKMAN WINS HARD TILT.

Defeats Throckmorton in Middle States Tennis Tourney.

Seichiro Kashio became a semi-finalist in the Middle States championship tournament at the Orange Lawn Tennis Club yesterday afternoon when he defeated the club champion, R. P. Bennett, in straight sets, 6—3, 6—2. Dr. William Rosenbaum, E. H. Hendrickson, and Leonard Beekman all entered the fifth round of the singles, the last named scoring a sensational victory over Harold Throckmorton, a former challenger for the title, at 6—4, 9—7. In the doubles Ichiya Kumagae made his first appearance, with Throckmorton as a partner, the new team winning in easy fashion at 6—1, 6—3 over Pitman and Whalen. A start was also made in the ladies' singles.

Beekman's meeting with Throckmorton was the big match of the day, as the latter had been generally picked to come through for another try at the title, which he once nearly wrested from Karl Behr. In the old days, when both of these stars were juniors as well as doubles partners, the Princetonian exercised a species of hypnotic spell over Throckmorton, who at that time was trying to break in as a freshman in the New Jersey university, and, though their matches were fast and furious, Beekman was regularly returned the winner. There was a trace of the old Indian sign yesterday, for Throckmorton this season has more spectacular tennis at his disposal than the Princeton captain, if he can only make consistent use of it. Beekman, however, is master of a better rounded game and also uses his head to greater advantage than does the fiery youth from Elizabeth. He brought all his court experience into play yesterday, with always the extra confidence which was rightly his by virtue of his victories of the past.

He played Throckmorton carefully, knowing his weak spots, and allowing him to make his habitual errors instead of trying to outdo him in the actual earning of points. Throckmorton would have won against a weaker defense, but his terrific bombardment of drives, volleys, and service eventually crumbled before the absolute steadiness and almost equal speed of Beekman. The set scores were 6—4, 9—7.

Dr. Rosenbaum for the second time this season took the measure of Edward Oelsner, the brilliant Chicagoan, winning in straight sets at 7—5, 6—1. Oelsner had previously eliminated Hoffman Nickerson in a hard three-set match, 4—6, 6—4, 6—3, and after holding Rosenbaum off for a long-drawn deuce set, his endurance failed him and he succumbed quickly to the winner's hard and accurate hitting. Hendrickson's advance to the fifth round was made at the expense of Auguste Roche, Jr., whom he defeated in straight sets, 6—3, 9—7.

The summaries:

RICHARDS AND TILDEN WIN.

Capture Two Doubles Matches in Delaware Tourney.

WILMINGTON, Del., June 25.—Eight players, including all the favorites, remained in the men's singles of the lawn tennis tournament for the Delaware State championship at the end of today's play. The survivors are Rodney Beck, Stanley Pearson, Harry C. Johnson, R. Norris Williams, William T. Tilden, Carl Fischer, Wallace F. Johnson, and Craig Biddle.

Tilden today defeated R. L. James 6—1, 7—5, Wallace Johnson eliminated John Jessup, 6—1, 6—1, Fischer defeated Commander R. Gatewood, 6—1, 6—3, and Pearson won from Frank Thomas, 6—1, 6—4. Beck and Biddle advanced by reason of defaults, while Harry Johnson won his fourth round match yesterday.

Vincent Richards and William T. Tilden won two matches in the doubles division, defeating T. W. Harris and L. M. Roberts, 6—1, 6—0, and George Powell and I. T. Cravis, 6—4, 6—3.

Williams and H. Johnson defeated Paul W. Gibbons and A. Hawa, 6—0, 6—0, while Biddle and W. Johnson eliminated H. B. Endicott and C. N. Mills, 6—1, 6—1.

Bobby Jones Makes Niblick Shot Out of an Old Shoe

NEW ORLEANS, June 25.—Bobby Jones, Jr., of Atlanta, Ga., Southern golf champion, executed what was regarded as perhaps the most peculiar shot in golfing history after he teed off with J. C. Lyons of New Orleans in the first round of match play in the Southern Golf Association tournament here today. Jones's ball landed in a shoe which had been left in a wheelbarrow by a workman, forcing the champion to use a niblick to hole out and halve the hole in four. Jones eliminated Lyons from the tournament, 3 up.

HARMON CAPTURES JUNIOR MET. TITLE

Scottish-American Golfer Defeats Bomann, 4 Up and 3 to Play.

Upsetting the usual tradition that a golfer who wins the qualifying medal seldom comes through in the final round, Peter Harmon, the Scottish-American representative, captured chief honors in the junior championship tournament of the Metropolitan Golf Association over the Siwanoy links yesterday. Harmon, who led the field with a 78 on the first day, defeated George A. Bomann, Jr., of Plainfield, in the final round by 4 up and 3 to play.

An idea of the quality of the golf in the decisive tilt may be gathered by the fact that Harmon reached the half-way point in 35, one over par. There he stood 5 up, his opponent winning only one hole, the heighth on the outward journey. Harmon was getting a long ball, and on more than one occasion drove 300 yards. At the second hole he won in 4, and, despite a sliced tee shot at the 187-yard third, he got a half when his opponent missed a short putt. After that Harmon won the fourth, fifth, sixth, seventh, and ninth.

He became 6 up at the tenth, which he won in 4. The eleventh was halved after both players drove the green, but Bomann won the next when Harmon's tee shot landed in the rough. The Plainfield lad also won the fourteenth, when his opponent was short on his second shot, but a half in 6 at the fifteenth, after both got into trouble, settled matters. The card:

Harmon, out......4 4 4 6 5 2 4 5 4—38
Bomann, out......4 5 4 7 6 3 5 4 5—43
Harmon, in......4 3 5 4 5 6
Bomann, in......5 3 4 4 4 6

Both Bomann and Harmon won by comfortable margins in the semi-final round. The champion beat T. Tobin of the New York Golf Club, 6 up and 5 to play, while Bomann disposed of J. Berrien of Upper Montclair.

The summary follows:

Championship Eight.—Semi-Final Round—George A. Bohamm, Jr., Plainfield, beat James Berrian, Upper Montclair, 4 up and 3 to play; Peter Harmon, Scottish-American, beat T. Tobin, New York Golf, 6 up and 5 to play.

Final Round—Harmon beat Bomann, 4 up and 3 to play.

Second Eight.—Semi-Final Round—P. Kountze, Bedford, beat Charles Pierson, Essex Fells, 3 up and 1 to play; H. C. Bell, Scottish-American, beat F. Taussig, St. Andrews, 7 up and 6 to play.

Final Round—Bell beat Taussig, 1 up.

Third Eight.—Semi-Final Round—Charles Somner, New York Golf, beat W. Farrell, Scottish-American, 5 up and 4 to play; J. J. Trippe, Apawamis, beat W. Howe, Bedford, 2 up and 1 to play.

Final Round—Trippe beat Somner, 4 up and 3 to play.

Fourth Eight.—Semi-Final Round—H. Solomons, Scottish-American, beat R. L. Grimler, New York Newspaper, 1 up; H. B. Furlong, St. Andrews, beat F. Mitchell, Siwanoy, 3 up and 2 to play.

Final Round—Furlong beat Solomons, 3 up and 2 to play.

VALOR WINS HANDICAP.

Beats Good Field in the Hanover at Aqueduct.

Prince Aage of Denmark was the guest of Andrew Miller of the Jockey Club at the Aqueduct race course yesterday, and with many thousands of the untitled enjoyed good sport in a cooling breeze.

The feature race, the Hanover Handicap, was won with something in reserve by William Martin's Valor, a chestnut son of Ballot, which with not too much weight to act as a brake turned off the distance on this occasion in the good time of 1:37 3-5.

The full brother to the Futurity winner, Campfire, R. T. Wilson's Thunderstorm, and Valor were the public favorites in the early betting, but at the close Valor was the favorite at 6 to 5. With Callahan up, Valor was the first to show at the barrier, and left it running on his toes, going easier the further he went, so that his backers were never for a moment disturbed. African Arrow led the group next in line, but when he challenged Thunderstorm Ensor, who had been waiting behind the pace, had no trouble in supplanting African Arrow and moved up to second place.

No fewer than fifteen faced the starter for the first race, a sprint of six furlongs. Although he tied the last time out, the Kentucky Stable's Right Angle was most in demand and he did not prove disloyal to his supporters. Getting off rather slowly, Alvord set the early pace, but getting through next the rail under masterly handling by Fator Right Angle darted to the front and won without being ridden out.

Fencing and running as nicely as when he won on the first day of the recent United Hunts meeting, Mrs. Payne Whitney's Syosset won the steeplechase in a manner to justify his position of a 1 to 2 odds-on favorite. Nicely placed by Powers, Syosset moved up when asked and won by a length and a half, eased up, from Skibbereen, which made his run just before the last jump, but took the obstacle in a slovenly w castoff from that stable, Neddam, which spoiled any chances he may have had.

Sand Bed was the choice for the third race, but after hot speed for four furlongs died away and the Madden entry was not heard from again. W. Booth's cast off from that stable, Neddam, which is Madden with a reverse English, had a firm group of supporters, and after racing with Ral Parr's Anzac and My Laddie in the stretch he won handily. Anzac gained the place as easily from My Laddie. Troxler, who rode the latter, lodged a complaint against Neddam, for being crossed shortly after the start, but it was not allowed.

Tenons Bon was the warmest sort of a fancy for the fifth race and probably carried as many wagers as the actual favorite, Ting-a-Ling. Ballast, owned by J. E. Griffith, who owns that champion steeplechaser, The Brook, was off in front and was the easiest of winners. Tenons Bon chased Ballast with vim, but the long pursuit was fruitless. When Tenons Bon quit Ting-a-Ling made his run, but could never get up, while Ivry finished strong in third place.

H. T. Oxnard's The Young Cavalier, with Schuttinger up, sent the throng away smiling, for he justified public opinion by winning as a favorite should. Rating along in third place until the three-quarters, The Young Cavalier then came through and fought it out in a drive with the early pacemaker, Leading Star, a 12 to 1 shot. Leading Star's lead of two lengths was quickly cut down by The Young Cavalier, who gained an advantage of half a length at the seven-furlong post and won hand-ridden by a head.

PRINCETON GOLFERS WIN COLLEGE TITLE

Take Intercollegiate Championship Easily, with Harvard and Yale Following.

PHILADELPHIA, June 25.—Princeton won the championship of the Intercollegiate Golf Association today by the comfortable margin of thirty-one strokes. The Tiger Quartet had a team total of 1,335 strokes for their four rounds of the Merion Cricket Club's championship course.

The Orange and Black linksmen were so far ahead at the end of the third round that it was obvious they could not be headed, barring a complete collapse by the entire team. Because of this interest shifted to the keen battle for second place between Yale and Harvard, this turning out to a single stroke. Sidney Scott, the youthful Eli, who made such a fine showing at the Wilmington tournament last week, chucked the Blues' chance for victory away by taking a seven on the sixteenth hole. A five, the usual figure for the sixteenth, would have given second place to the New Haven aggregation by one stroke.

Harvard had a total of 1,386, while Yale's was 1,387. Pennsylvania was fourth, with 1,410; Columbia, fifth, with 1,489, while Williams was a bad sixth, with 1,513.

Individual honors went to A. L. Walker, Jr., the Columbia Captain, who averaged eighty for a grand total of 320 for his four rounds. T. B. Davis, the Yale skipper, was a close second, with 323 for his seventy-two-hole grind. R. W. Woolworth of Princeton was third, with a total of 328. None of the others broke 330.

J. S. Dean, the Princeton Captain, who won the qualifying round medals at the recent Lynnewood Hall and Wilmington links matches, fell by the wayside, and took 337, being beaten by five strokes by Sidney Scott, who had a card of 332.

The scores ran high today, the young contenders playing as if they had become stale. The best card of the day was a 78 in the afternoon by C. W. (Sonny) Baker of Harvard. He had a total of 180 for the first two rounds, but came back yesterday with an 80 in the morning, and a 78 in the afternoon. His remarkable work made it possible for the Cambridge clan to beat out the Bulldogs.

Out ......4 5 4 5 5 5 3 3 3—37
In ......4 5 4 4 4 6 5 4 5—41—78

Walker, the Columbia star, who is a former metropolitan interscholastic champion, displayed a very consistent brand of golf throughout the seventy-two holes. Starting today with a total of 158 for the first day's play, he reeled off an 80 in the morning and an 82 in the afternoon session. A 7 on the eleven, and a 6 on the sixteenth prevented him from breaking 80 in the afternoon.

His card of today follows:

MORNING ROUND.

Out ......5 6 6 5 4 4 3 4 3—40
In ......5 4 5 3 4 5 5 6 6—40—80

AFTERNOON ROUND.

Out ......5 3 5 5 5 4 5 3 5—40
In ......3 7 5 3 5 4 6 4 5—42—82

The qualifying round for the individual championship of the association will be run off tomorrow morning, and the first round of match play will be staged in the afternoon. The second and semi-final rounds will be fought Friday, and the thirty-six hole final will be decided Saturday.

Sixteen players will qualify for the championship flight, while there will also be a second sixteen to keep the also-rans busy while the big event is being decided.

The summary of the team championship:

CHAMPION CUP GOES TO ROYAL DIAMOND

"American mounts for American polo players" was the motto back of the first American show of polo ponies, held with great success yesterday at the Meadow Brook Hunt Club. Over 300 animals, all bred and fit for the game, including stallions, mares, weanlings, yearlings, two-year-olds, three-year-olds and novice and "made" polo mounts were evidence that America has the foundation stock, and that the motto is to be worked out with business efficiency was shown by the organization of the National Polo Pony Society during the luncheon hour which is to print a stud book and encourage the newest line of American livestock industry.

Every prominent polo or hunting man on Long Island and the women of their families were present except August Belmont and H. P. Whitney, but the latter furnished two of the winners, which were ridden by his son, Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney, so it is evident the affair had fashionable support. The setting was a delightful one, the ring being placed between the big field used in the international matches of 1900, 1911, 1913 and 1914, and the new Westerly Field, the gift of Alex. Smith Cochran, and just opened for play. A bank of turf shaded by trees made a natural grandstand for the women and casual onlookers, while the officials of the show were in under a canopy, among them H. L. Herbert, William A. Hazard and James C. Cooley. Major Robert E. Strawbridge was the sole judge of the breeding classes in the morning, but he requested Lieut. Col. Jack Giffard of the British Army to be his coworker in the afternoon for the riding classes. Harry H. Holmes was ring manager.

The value of the American polo stock was revealed by the breeding of the different classes shown under saddle. The class mounts likely to produce polo ponies was won by the thoroughbred, Angel Face, a 4-year old, exhibited in the name of Mrs. Edward H. Carle, daughter of Oakleigh Thorne, M. F. H. of the Millbrook Hunt, but she sold the nag before the judging to Thomas Le Boutillier, who will play the filly when more mature. He paid a price close to $1,000 and was being congratulated as "some picker" by his friends, for after the victory Angel Face at least doubled in value. Eugene S. Reynal had the mount.

The middle weight polo pony class, also a large and cosmopolitan one, went to H. P. Whitney's English mare, Royal Diamond, Mr. Whitney's son riding, with the California mare, Selina, owned and ridden by Stoddard, 2d. Royal Diamond was an unbeaten mare in England and said to have been the best of her time when Whitney bought her for $10,000 from the Duke of Westminster in 1916. War had spoiled Royal Diamond's usefulness at home and the Duke needed the cash for his Red Cross work, it was reported at the time.

The Champion Cup was won by Royal Diamond, with Selina in reserve. All the first and second ponies in the riding classes took part.

After luncheon H. L. Herbert, as temporary President, called the meeting to organize the National Polo Pony Society to order. The details of incorporation and organization were left to a committee of nine, as follows: F. S. von Stade, Chairman; J. W. Webb, Q. A. Shaw, Robert E. Strawbridge, L. E. Stoddard, H. T. Peters, J. C. Cooley, Secretary; D. S. Iglehart, and Horace Havemeyer.

E-Z—The New Idea in Garters

GOOD-BYE to the nuisance of hooks and cords on your garters. Also to the discomfort of tight-binding narrow elastic.

E. Z. Garters end all that. The broad webbing grips tight without pressing. You can't feel it.

Nothing to adjust. Slip on in half an instant. Single or double grip.

Gray Goods Still Selling.

Active buying of gray goods, especially printcloths, continued in this market yesterday. For delivery in the last quarter of the year, first hands sold 39-inch 68-72s and 38½-inch 64-60s at 19¼ and 16¾ cents, respectively. Eastern 38½-inch 60-48s for July shipment brought 14 cents. July-August deliveries of 39-inch 56-44s were sold at 13 cents, with 16¾ cents got for similar lots of 38½-inch 64 squares. Sheetings and other coarse-yarn goods were in comparatively light demand. Sateens and twills continued their recent activity, and sellers were able to get practically anything they wanted for their holdings. Fine-yarn goods were firmly held on the basis of 23½ cents for 40-inch 88-80s, 8.50-yard combed lawns.

Exhibition of Batik.

An exhibition of batik art work will be given in the library of the International Buyers' Club in the Bush Terminal Sales Building the last week in July. The exhibition, it is said, will be one of the most complete to be seen outside of Java. Pieter Myer, one of the leading professional batik art workers, will attend the showing, and Mlle. Eva Gauthier, who spent several years in Java, will exhibit. A first class piece of work, large enough to make a skirt, will bring four or five hundred dollars.

Belted Styles in Men's Wear.

One of the style developments in men's clothing that is expected to grow stronger as the Fall season advances is the belted design. One of the leading houses is showing a novelty model, embodying the belted idea, that has several interesting features. A box pleat is carried from the waistline in front over the shoulder to the belt in back. The belt is of the "disappearing" type. That is to say, it may be worn outside or inside the coat in front, as slits on either side allow the belt to pass through.

Restrict Yarn Sales.

Yarn spinners, on account of smaller production and late deliveries, are asking their customers to figure out their minimum requirements so that what can be supplied may be distributed among as many concerns as possible. The yarn dealers do not believe that present prices show an undue inflation, although it is admitted that in the long staple branch the advances look larger because the basic value is greater. Besides this, it is pointed out, buyers are supplying the competition that is shooting up values, premiums being offered in many cases for deliveries of certain of the scarce counts. Production is stated to be on less than an 80 per cent. basis.

To Build Fur Storage Plant.

Plans for the building of a large cold storage plant for furs, with a salesroom attached, have been put under way by the Metropolitan Fur Exchange, 168 West Twenty-fourth Street. It is probable that the plant will be installed in the basement of the concern's premises, where there is considerable floor space for the purpose. Its facilities will be available to buyers and to shippers of furs to the twelve public fur auctions which the Exchange is planning to hold annually, in addition to semi-weekly "floor sales." Only raw furs will be handled at the "floor sales," which will be started in November. The next monthly sale will be held on July 13, and the offerings will include raw, dressed, and dyed pelts. A feature of these sales will be the right given to buyers to remove their purchases on presentation of trade acceptances.

BUSINESS RECORDS

In Town.

MR. JAMES MORRISSEY, an actor, living at 235 West Seventy-first Street, has filed a petition in bankruptcy with liabilities of $24,214 and no assets. The liabilities were contracted in this city and Chicago, and are for printing, lithographing, engraving, advertising and salaries of 37 actors and actresses. Among the creditors are Elizabeth Bryce, $9,620; Chicago Herald-Examiner, $1,842; New York Calcium Light Company, $1,504; André Sherri, $1,300; Illinois Publishing and Printing Company, $1,392; Harry Kelly, $500; Mariano Zingope, $450, and Mr. Hostl, $300.

H. C. LOUP & CO., stock brokers, at 50 Broad Street.—Martin Conboy has been appointed receiver by Judge A. N. Hand with a bond of $3,000. It was stated that the liabilities are not yet known but amount to hundreds of thousands of dollars, while the assets in sight may prove to be very little.

UNEXCELLED DRESS CO.—Isidore and Florence Turner, doing business at the Unexcelled Dress Company, manufacturers of dresses at 17 East 125th Street, have filed schedules showing liabilities of $12,803, and assets of $2,144, consisting of stock, $1,000, and accounts, $1,144. Among the creditors are Alex. Weiner, $2,686; Shunsky & Rothchild, $1,443, and Henry Jaffee, $1,128.

TANNEY PRINTING CO., of 200 West Forty-second Street.—Judge A. N. Hand has dismissed the petition filed on Oct. 18, as a settlement with creditors at 10 cents on the dollar, payable cash 5 cents, and 5 cents in 30 days.

A DISCOVERY THAT BENEFITS MANKIND

Two discoveries have added greatly to human welfare.

In 1835 Newton originated the vacuum process for condensing milk with cane sugar to a semi-liquid form.

In 1883 Horlick at Racine, Wis., discovered how to reduce milk to a dry powder form with extract of malted grains, without cane sugar.

This product HORLICK named Malted Milk. (Name since copied by others.) Its nutritive value, digestibility and ease of preparation (by simply stirring in water) and the fact that it keeps in any climate has proved of much value to mankind as an ideal food-drink from infancy to old age.

ARMY MONEY BILL PASSED BY SENATE

NOW GOES TO CONFERENCE

WASHINGTON, June 25.—The Army Appropriation bill, carrying $888,000,000 and providing for an average army of 400,000 men next year—an increase over the House bill of $171,000,000 in funds and 100,000 in personnel—was passed late today by the Senate without a roll call and sent to conference.

Before passage of the bill, Senator Fall, Republican, of New Mexico, withdrew his amendment to declare the war with Germany and Austria at an end, explaining that he expected action within a day or two on his joint resolution, to the same effect as regards Germany now before the Foreign Relations Committee.

The Senate, following disposal of the army measure, began consideration of the annual Naval Appropriation bill, carrying $646,272,000, an increase of $45,000,000 over the House bill. Passage of the naval bill tomorrow is desired, and leaders, in their effort to enact all appropriation bills needed by July 1, plan then to rush through the $500,000,000 sundry civil budget.

Final vote on the army bill was delayed temporarily by protracted discussion of the Peace Treaty and League of Nations. In this connection Senator Borah, Republican, of Idaho, opposed the increase of the army for 1920 from 300,000 to 400,000 men, but without a record vote the Senate approved the 400,000 provision, which is estimated to give pay and subsistence for 322,000 men in the army after next September.

As passed by the Senate, the principal items of the army bill are $215,855,000 for army pay, $523,991,000 for subsistence and transportation, $54,400,000 for aviation, an increase of about $30,000,000 over the House appropriation; $12,215,000 for the National Guard, $19,000,000 for ordnance, and $45,000,000 for storage and shipping facilities.

The Senate reduced from $3,260,000 to $2,660,000 the appropriation for purchase of the Dayton Wright Aviation Field at Dayton, Ohio, under an amendment by Senator Lenroot, Republican, Wisconsin, which also stipulates that not more than $1,000,000 shall be spent in acquiring 1,500 additional acres of land adjoining the Wright field, after appraisement and recommendation by an army board.

Another amendment adopted and reapproved would limit the salary of C. W. Hare, in charge of disposal of surplus war supplies, to $12,000 a year, a reduction of $13,000 from Mr. Hare's present salary.

A proposal by Senator McKellar, Democrat, Tennessee, to strike out a provision for bonuses in Government arsenals was defeated without a roll call.

The proposal to make permanent the rank of General conferred upon General Pershing early in the war failed on a point of order.

Look for Conference Fight.

House conferees on the Army bill will fight obstinately three definite changes made by the Senate, according to Julius Kahn, chairman of the House Military Affairs Committee. Mr. Kahn said he was positive the House would support objection by its conferees to the proposals made by the Senate to increase the strength of the army, to increase the aviation appropriation and to permit the War Department to buy camp sites already contracted for.

There will undoubtedly be compromises. For one thing, Mr. Kahn indicated that the House conferees might accept an appropriation of from $25,000,000 to $35,000,000 for army aviation, the Senate having set a figure of $35,000,000, as contrasted with the House appropriation of $15,000,000. Ever since the House made this small appropriation for the army air service members have been flooded with letters of reproach.

ATTERBURY APPEALS FOR A STRONG ARMY

Laments Past Neglect, Lauds Wood's Preparedness Work, Pays Tribute to Pershing.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Penn., June 25.—An appeal for a strong army to be established immediately as a barrier against future aggression and to carry warfare into an enemy country, if need be, was made tonight by Brig. Gen. W. W. Atterbury, in an address at the Union League, where he was a guest of honor.

It was General Atterbury's first public speech since his recent return from France. He did not hesitate to criticise what he called past neglect, declaring "there is nothing we had done prior to our entry into the war for which we have any reason to be proud." He said the nation should be proud of what was done by but one man, Maj. Gen. Leonard Wood, in his advocacy of preparedness.

He said the attitude of the country toward preparedness before America entered the war was "a shameful exhibition of the lack of ordinary precautions to safeguard the country, which in counterpart, if permitted in ordinary business, would spell ruin."

The Nation cannot be re-made along the same lines that existed before the war, he said. A new picture must be drawn, and in the remaking force must be used, "and, no matter how great the sympathy or honesty of purpose of those now engaged in its reconstruction, the new composite will be one of which time alone can fill in the interstices."

The aftermath of the war will be a train of bitterness, he said, which will be greater than the bitterness engendered between France and Germany over Alsace and Lorraine. There has been forced on the United States, General Atterbury said, a position which has drawn this country into the maelstrom of international politics, and the situation must be met in such a way as to protect the best interests of the United States.

Mr. Atterbury suggested the establishment of a national defense board, paid high tribute to the National Guard, opposed the use of militia in labor controversies, and paid a glowing tribute to Gen. Pershing, "upon whose broad shoulders were thrown the responsibility and burden of our army abroad—a responsibility such as was borne by no other commander in chief—a personal responsibility so great that even with the lapse of time the wonder still is with me that he could carry it all."

General Atterbury also paid tribute to General Harbord, who, "having made a gallant record in the field, later and equally successfully served as commanding general entirely responsible for the procurement, distribution and maintenance of supplies."

The two generals, he said, were largely responsible for the success of the American expeditionary force.

$2,000 FOR POLITICAL ESSAY

PHILADELPHIA, June 25.—The essayist who advances the best plan for the conduct of Congress and the President in our foreign relations will win the Henry M. Phillips prize of $2,000 in gold.

Announcement was made today by the American Philosophical Society for Promoting Useful Knowledge that competing essays must be submitted before the end of next week. The subject is:

"The Control of the Foreign Relations of the United States: the Relative Rights, Duties and Responsibilities of the President, of the Senate and the House and of the Judiciary, in Theory and in Practice."

The committee in charge of the competition consists of John Bassett Moore, David Jayne Hill, former Governor Simeon E. Baldwin of Connecticut; John Cadwalader and Dr. W. W. Keen, Philadelphia, and William B. Scott, Professor of Geology at Princeton.

Essays are to be submitted incognito and may be written in any language, but if they are not in English they must be accompanied by an English translation.

DECLARES IRELAND OPPOSES TREATY

De Valera Gives Out Letter to Clemenceau, Warning the Peace Conference.

SENDS MESSAGE TO MEXICO

TELLS OF WIDE CAMPAIGN

Canada and Australia Are to be Asked to Support the Proposed Loan.

The treaty of peace, just about to be signed, will not have the sanction or the moral support of the recently organized Sinn Fein Republic of Ireland, according to Eamonn de Valera, President of the Sinn Fein Government. The Germans may take their pens in hand and settle for all time the late German Empire after much protesting, but the Sinn Fein Republic, having registered its protest to Clemenceau a month ago, will not be bound by the treaty. The reason the treaty cannot have any particular significance for Irish people, as explained yesterday by Professor de Valera at his headquarters in the Waldorf-Astoria, is that Lloyd George and the rest of the British delegation had no authority to sign anything for Ireland.

The position of Professor de Valera's "Government" with respect to the treaty was disclosed in a letter to Premier Clemenceau, a letter which M. Clemenceau has failed up to the present to acknowledge or answer. This is the letter which Dr. de Valera gave out yesterday:

Mansion House,
Dublin, 17th May, 1919.

To M. Clemenceau, President de la Conference de Paris:

Sir—The treaties now under discussion by the Conference or Paris will, presumably, be signed by the British plenipotentiaries claiming to act on behalf of Ireland as well as Great Britain. Therefore we ask you to call the immediate attention of the Peace Conference to the warning which it is our duty to communicate, that the people of Ireland, through all its organic means of communication, has repudiated and does now repudiate the claim of the British Government to speak or act on behalf of Ireland, and consequently no treaty or agreement entered into by the representatives of the British Government in virtue of that claim is or can be binding on the people of Ireland.

The Irish people will scrupulously observe any treaty obligation to which they are legitimately committed but the British delegates cannot commit Ireland. The only signatures by which the Irish nation will be bound are those of its own delegates, deliberately chosen.

We request you to notify the Peace Conference that we, the undersigned, have been appointed and authorized by the duly elected Government of Ireland to act on behalf of Ireland in the proceedings of the Conference and to enter into agreements and sign treaties on behalf of Ireland.

Accept, Sir, the assurance of our great esteem.

EAMONN DE VALERA,
ARTHUR GRIFFITH,
GEORGE NOBLE
(Count Plunkett).

Professor de Valera, before handing out copies of the letter, read it over and remarked that he thought it was particularly timely, as the treaty was just about to be signed.

Sends Message to Mexicans.

Another touch of the international cropped out during the day, when Dr. de Valera, complying with the request of a representative of El Heraldo de Mexico, a Mexico City daily, gave out a "message for the people of Mexico." The communication was as follows:

"I sincerely hope that the people of Mexico will finally compose their domestic differences and as children of the same mother" (presumably a reference to the Catholic Church) "combine to exalt that mother. Having established a government of the people by the people, let them give it due obedience. That is a necessary condition of progress and ordered peace."

Professor de Valera began to work on his heaped-up correspondence yesterday morning just as soon as there was light enough to guide his pen to the inkstand. Incidentally, Dr. de Valera asked that his sincere thanks be extended to the thousands who had written him wishing success to him and to his adherents.

Later in the morning, when the sun was higher and the pile of correspondence lower, Dr. de Valera was accessible for interviews. One of the first things he made known was the fact that the campaign for a liberated Ireland was to be conducted in Canada and in Australia as well as here. As Dr. de Valera said, "We have sympathizers just as strong in those places as we have in the United States and we can float a portion of our loan in those two countries."

It appeared as if the stress which had been placed on the Irish loan annoyed Dr. de Valera, because he made it evident that his main mission here was to get official recognition for Ireland. "And if I cannot get it from the American Government," he said, "I hope to get it from the American people."

"This is the most suitable time to get a proper League of Nations started," he remarked, turning to that topic, "and I wish it understood that I am not against a League of Nations, but in favor of a real league, a proper league, and I believe that the present covenant should be amended, particularly Article 10. As an amendment to that article there should be substituted an obligation on the part of the league members that it hold no nation in its dominion against the will of the people, hold no people in bondage. If England had freed Ireland at the outset of the war, the world would have been assured of England's sincerity that it was fighting for the freedom of small nations."

By the time the night talking period came around the news was out that the Waldorf in a short time would have three Presidents under its roof. On the eleventh floor, of course, would be Dr. de Valera, down on the third are the rooms of Dr. Epitacio Pessoa, President-elect of Brazil, and reservation has been made for President Wilson on the fifth floor, it was reported. Dr. de Valera was asked if he expected to meet Dr. Pessoa and President Wilson, and he said he would be "glad to discuss Ireland's cause with any one."

While there seemed to be some doubt whether the three Presidents would get together, one thing was settled—the Sinn Fein chieftain is going to call on Mayor Hylan, and he may go down today. The Mayor is now considering a suggestion that July 5 be observed as a holiday in recognition of the Sinn Fein republic and also giving thought to a suggestion that the Sinn Fein green, yellow, and white be flown over the City Hall on that day.

Speaking of the action of the Board of Aldermen in granting him the freedom of the city, Professor de Valera recalled that Limerick did the same thing, but he had not availed himself of the privilege, because he thought "the people might make a demonstration, and this would be seized upon by the British soldiers." He laughed when he was reminded that the chances of agents-provocateurs being in City Hall Park were slim.

Dr. de Valera also said that he intended to leave on Saturday for Boston, where on the following day he will address a mass meeting called to discuss Irish freedom. A group of Bostonians telegraphed the invitation yesterday. On the way, in obedience to a request, he will speak at Providence from the rear coach of his train. Another journey of the near future would be to Indianapolis, he said.

Dr. de Valera last night distributed the diplomas awarded to the young graduates of the Carmelite School, 338 East Twenty-ninth Street. The rector of the Carmelite parish, the Rev. Peter A. Magennis, is President of the Friends of Irish Freedom. The hall was packed and there was a big crowd outside to welcome Dr. de Valera. Dr. de Valera made a short speech and was cheered heartily.

Just before departing with Dr. de Valera for the graduation exercises, Harry J. Boland, Sinn Fein Member of Parliament for South Roscommon, acting as Dr. de Valera's secretary at present, referred to the presence of Dr. Pessoa in the same hotel with Dr. de Valera and said it reminded him of the old traditions handed down in the Emerald Isle. Some people, he said, called them superstitions, but this was wrong, because they were really traditions.

At any rate, superstition or tradition, it seems that ages ago, presumably just after the Druids and just before the fairies inhabited Ireland, there was current a legend having to do with "Hy Brazil"—that is hte English spelling of the Gaelic word—which meant a paradise or a heaven westward over the then unsailed seas. The legend ran that in that land, "Hy Brazil," there would develop a movement that meant the freedom of Ireland.

Mr. Boland marked it as a curious coincidence that the President-elect of Brazil should be in the hotel and that the Sinn Fein flag and the colors of Brazil should both run strongly to orange and green. Another tradition that had been told and retold through the generations was that Ireland would be free when "the east wind blew off Bantry." And only recently, said Mr. Boland, the wind had blown on Bantry from that direction.

"It is the telling of such traditions," he added, "coming down through time, and the full belief the common people give them, that gives the Irish their invincible spirit and will keep them so until they have finally achieved their independence."

Sims to Reveal in Book Part Our Fleet Took in War

NEWPORT, R. I., June 25.—Just what the United States Navy accomplished in European waters during the war, which could not be told because of censorship, will become known, it is understood, from a book being written by Rear Admiral William S. Sims, who was Commander in Chief of the United States naval forces operating in European waters.

The book will be non-technical so that laymen can readily understand it.

O'Ceallaigh and Duffy Present to Peace Conference Further Claims for Recognition.

PARIS, June 25.—A supplementary memorandum regarding Ireland's claim to recognition by the Peace Conference was presented today to Premier Clemenceau, along with a letter from Edward de Valera, Arthur Griffith, and Count Plunkett.

In forwarding the memorandum, Sean O'Ceallaigh and George Gavan Duffy, the Irish delegates here, suggested that they, being now in Paris, were ready to act as Ireland's representatives if the Peace Conference were unable to grant safe conduct to the delegation previously named.

50 FLIERS TO GREET READ.

Officers at all the army and navy aviation fields within airplane radius of this port had completed their plans last night for the great air squadron of at least fifty planes that is to fly to sea to greet Lieut. Commander A. C. Read of the crew of the NC-4 and the other members of the NC seaplane expedition under Commander J. H. Towers when they return on the steamship Zeppelin tomorrow afternoon. It is expected that the vessel will dock at Army Pier 2, Hoboken, about 3 o'clock in the afternoon.

Although the army planes may not go so far out, all the navy seaplanes and the dirigibles will fly at least 150 to 200 miles out to sea to greet the men who were first to fly over the Atlantic Ocean. Lieutenant David Mount, aid in command of aviation in the Third Naval District, said yesterday he expected at least eight seaplanes would be in the squadron.

The C-4, the seagoing dirigible at the naval air station at Rockaway Beach, will go out, accompanied by the smaller dirigible at the station. Dirigibles at Montauk Point will sail as far as Nantucket Light, and in returning they will form a squadron with the other dirigibles and probably fly in formation over the city after the Zeppelin has reached her pier.

As many as twenty army airplanes may go from the army aviation fields on Long Island. At least six planes will leave the Hazelhurst, or Roosevelt, Field at Mineola, and as many more from Mitchel Field, under command of Colonel Archie Miller. A bombing plane, piloted by Lieutenant Melville Stanley, will accompany them.

The Aero Club of America had reported yesterday that at least fifteen airplanes owned by manufacturers or by sportsmen would go out to meet the ship. One of the fliers will be Lieutenant Kenneth M. Murray, who flew 140 miles from Atlantic City to Farmingdale, L. I., on Tuesday.

ASKS ABOUT MAIL LOST WITH AIRPLANE

"A HIGH-HANDED OUTRAGE"

Bank Collections Totaling $63,000, Transferred to Airplane Without Air Mail Stamps, Burned.

WASHINGTON, June 25.—Postmaster General Burleson was called upon, through a resolution introduced in the House today, to give information concerning the loss of mail when a postal airplane was destroyed by fire between Cleveland and Chicago on or about May 24. The resolution originated through complaints made by the Harriman National Bank of New York, which believes that some of its mail, containing checks and drafts worth $63,000, was lost at the time.

Representative Steenerson of Minnesota, Chairman of the Committee on Post Offices and Post Roads, who introduced the resolution, asserts that it has become the practice of the Postmaster General to forward mail by airplane without the desire, knowledge, or consent of the sender. J. W. Harriman, President of the bank in question, describes himself in correspondence as being "hot under the collar" that the Post Office Department should "hazard bank mail in experiments." In a telegram to Senator Wadsworth of New York Mr. Harriman asked:

"Why was this loss mysteriously covered up from the banks, not even being reported to the press, so that the banks could protect themselves, with their customers, against possible loss and inconvenience?"

The correspondence in the case, as made public by Mr. Steenerson, apparently begins with a telegram sent June 12 by Mr. Harriman to Postmaster General Burleson, reading:

"On May 24 our mail to Chicago, containing 210 cash collection items aggregating $63,000 odd, was not received by our corresponding banks, and has presumably been lost or destroyed in the mail. Inasmuch as we are credibly informed that the mail of several large New York banks was destroyed in an airplane accident en route from New York to Chicago on or about the same time, please advise if any New York City mail was carried by the said wrecked airplane. A prompt answer will oblige."

"A High-Handed Outrage."

Letters from postal authorities at New York were sent to the bank, asserting that search was being made. On June 13 Mr. Harriman telegraphed again to the Postmaster General as follows:

"By what authority has the Post Office Department the right to hazard bank mail in experiments? I consider it a high-handed outrage. In any event, why was not the loss reported so the banks could have an opportunity to protect themselves? Please answer, as this is to be reported to the press."

A telegram to the Harriman Bank from Otto Praeger, Second Assistant Postmaster General, sent under date of June 13, reads:

"Some letter mail was taken off train 19 which left New York, 5:31 P. M., 24th, to go via airplane Cleveland to Chicago. A portion of this was destroyed."

Mr. Harriman sent a telegram to Senator Wadsworth, June 14, in part as follows:

"This seems to be a new Burleson game, and I ask that you investigate, so that a repetition of the offense may not be in order."

A letter sent to the Harriman Bank on June 19 by John C. Koons, First Assistant Postmaster General, said the Post Office Department was "earnestly striving to eradicate any existing evil in the service and to render all of the postal service that is necessary and of such a character as the business interests may require. With this object in view, meritorious criticisms and legitimate complaints are invited as a means of disclosing irregularities which should be eliminated."

"I do not believe that any further comment is necessary just at this time, but I can assure you that if I cannot get satisfaction I will go further.

"I am very hot under the collar over this matter, and I cannot yet understand why the Government lends itself to experiments with valuable mail and, when accidents occur, endeavors to hide the performance and give misleading accounts of losses.

"We have suffered to a considerable extent, due to this experiment, which ended so disastrously, and I cannot even get the assistance of those in your Department who are responsible for the loss."

At the same time Mr. Harriman enlisted the services of Representative Steenerson and sent copies of the correspondence to Senator Townsend, Chairman of the Post Office Committee.

According to Mr. Steenerson, postal planes have been carrying mail without special stamps for some time. This is done in place of carrying ballast, he stated, whenever the amount of special mail is below the plane's capacity.

Text of the Resolution.

The resolution offered by Mr. Steenerson follows:

"Resolved, That the Postmaster General be, and he is hereby, requested, to furnish to the House the following information, to wit:

"First, whether, on or about May 24, 1919, according to the reports and information in possession of the Department, letters mailed by the Harriman National Bank of New York to the Federal Reserve Bank, Chicago, Ill., the Illinois Trust and Savings Bank, Chicago, Ill., and the Union Trust Company, Chicago, Ill., alleged to contain drafts and checks and papers to the amount of $63,000, were, after having been mailed in New York without the consent of the sender, placed in an airplane for transportation to Chicago, which airplane, together with said mail, was destroyed by fire on the way to its destination.

"Second—What, if any, statutory or other authority exists or is claimed to exist for transporting or attempting to transport mail by airplane, without airplane stamps affixed.

"Third—To what extent and under what circumstances the practice prevails for transporting mail by airplane, without special stamps.

"Fourth—By what authority has mail matter, without special stamps or extra postage, been placed in airplanes for transportation.

"Fifth—Whether, after the discovery of the loss of said mail, referred to in Paragraph 1 above, by the burning of the airplane containing the same, the department refused or neglected to inform the said Harriman National Bank of New York of the facts in regard thereto.

"Sixth—Whether the practice of transporting mail by airplane, without the consent of the sender, expressed by the presence of special aero mail stamps affixed, is the established policy of the department.

Seventh—Under the rules of the department, what precaution can the sender of mail take to prevent the same being exposed to the hazards of aero mail transportation?"

Carries Feud Inside Sing Sing Walls And Severs Fellow Convict's Spine

Special to The New York Times.

OSSINING, N. Y., June 25.—John McGlynn, a newly-arrived convict at Sing Sing prison, was mortally wounded today, when Albert Gergulio, a "lifer," stabbed him in the back and neck, severing his spinal cord. The attack was the sequel to a feud between the men when they lived on the west side of Manhattan along Tenth Avenue, according to prison officials.

The attack took place on the second floor of one of the inner prison buildings, used by the outside construction honor men as a sort of rest room. McGlynn, who had arrived a few hours before, was invited by some of his fellow-prisoners to go with them to this room. In some unknown way Gergulio got into the building just behind his old enemy. As McGlynn was mounting the last few steps of the stairway leading to the second floor, Gergulio began slashing him in the back and neck.

McGlynn fell to the floor and Gergulio was overpowered by other prisoners and turned over to the guards, who, attracted by McGlynn's screams, hurried to the wounded man. McGlynn was taken to the prison hospital, where he was treated by Dr. Amos O. Squire, the surgeon. Warden Brophy sent for Assistant District Attorney Walter Ferris and Coroner Robert F. Jones, who took the wounded man's statement. Gergulio was placed in close confinement.

The prison authorities are uncertain what kind of instrument Gergulio used, as he threw it away before he was overpowered. It is believed he used a table knife, which he had obtained in the dining room at meal time.

Warden Brophy's action in summoning outside officials caused considerable comment, as it was a distinct departure from the policy of previous regimes. As a rule, other wardens ignored outside public authorities.

CAPTAIN TURNS ON MRS. HUMISTON

NO LICENSE FOR DANCE HALL

Woman Lawyer Says License Commissioner Told Her She Didn't Need One for Her Club.

Mrs. Grace Humiston, whose investigations in connection with the Cruger case two years ago led to the arrest of Alfredo Cocchi, the girl's alleged slayer, was arraigned yesterday in Washington Heights Court on a charge of violating Section 1490 of the Penal Code, which prohibits operating a dance hall without a license. After Mrs. Humiston, her lawyer, Miss Rothenberg, and three witnesses had been heard, Magistrate William Sampson reserved decision until next Wednesday, when briefs will be presented by the defendant.

The charge was made by Police Captain Patrick Gargan of the 125th Street Precinct, in which is situated the bicycle shop of Alfredo Cocchi, in whose cellar Mrs. Humiston found Ruth Cruger's body after the police had reported that it was not there. Captain Gargan also stated in court yesterday that there were present at this "dance hall" at 70 Manhattan Street "vicious loafers" whom he had often seen congregating on street corners and who on the night of his sudden entrance into the hall were seen dancing with girls, some of whom were not more than 13 years of age.

Mrs. Humiston said that the hall had been hired by her, there to house the Be Kind Club, which she said she formed for the purpose of educating and entertaining the young folks of that district. There were to be lectures, classes in athletics, dancing, and the maintenance of a "nursery home" during the day to relieve the mothers of caring for their children when necessary.

The "club" was opened on June 17, it was said, at which a lecture was followed by a dance. A charge of 5 cents was charged each participant in the dancing to help defray the cost of rent, lighting, &c. It was also thought advisable to run another dance for last Monday night, but before doing so a license was sought by the lawyer. She asserted that, after explaining the nature of the dances to Commissioner Seabecker of the Bureau of Licenses, he told her that he did not believe a dance license was necessary, and that the police would not molest them if the dance were to take place that night. With that assurance, she said, the dance was held. A large sign announcing it had been placed at the doorway on Saturday afternoon, she added, and it had remained there until Monday night.

While the dance was in progress, she said, Captain Gargan entered and after being told that she had no license ordered that the dancing be stopped. This was done, the people filed out quietly, and a little later the Captain arrived with two policemen and also a summons for Mrs. Humiston.

After examination by Miss Rothenberg in court yesterday, Captain Gargan admitted that perhaps the young men were not vicious, but he remembered seeing them on street corners. Mrs. F. H. Halland, one of the witnesses, testified that Gargan was very insulting to Mrs. Humiston and acted in a way not fitting a member of the Police Department. She therefore tendered her resignation as Sergeant of the Police Reserves that night, which he accepted.

WANT NONE OF LA FOLLETTE

Ocean Grove Hotel Men Urge That His Speech Be Canceled.

OCEAN GROVE, N. J., June 25.—United States Senator Robert M. La Follette is not the type of American the people of this place care to hear talk, according to a resolution presented to the Ocean Grove Camp Meeting Association today. The resolution, which was drafted at a meeting of the Ocean Grove Hotel Association, reads:

"That, in view of the announced intention of the use of the Auditorium platform for an address by Senator La Follette, this association respectfully requests the Ocean Grove Camp Meeting Association to take immediate steps to use its influence to compel the cancellation of the engagement of the speaker named."

It was said that despite this resolution the Camp Meeting Association has refused to have the engagement of the Senator canceled. The speech is scheduled for July 5.

Veterans of Company E, 114th Infantry, recently discharged after service in France, have expressed indignation and a determination to prevent the speech.

EDNA MAY TO GET $630,458.

Lewisohn Estate Executors Ask for Judicial Settlement.

Walter and Frederick Lewisohn, executors under the will of their father, Leonard Lewisohn, who died in 1902, filed an application in the Supreme Court yesterday for judicial settlement of the affairs of the estate, to determine the sum payable to Edna May Lewisohn, actress, as sole heir to the estate of her husband, Jesse Lewisohn. The latter left virtually nothing for his wife except part of the property he inherited from his father.

The petition said Jesse Lewisohn received one-ninth interest in the estate of his father, one-fourth of it outright when he became 25 years old, and another fourth at 30, the total received amounting to $1,011,011. He was permitted to dispose of half the remainder by his will. This half, now valued at $630,458, is the amount the former actress will receive.

CHARGES THE POLICE DECOYED TWO GIRLS

Cuvillier Declares Sleuths Posing as Sailors Trapped Innocent Young Women.

SENDS LETTER TO MAYOR

Says Victims Were Lured Into Cafe, Accosted and Were Later Taken to Jail.

Ex-Assemblyman Louis A. Cuvillier gave out yesterday a copy of a letter which he said he had sent on Tuesday to Mayor Hylan protesting against the methods of police vice squads in making arrests of unescorted women on the streets on charges of vagrancy or disorderly conduct. Cuvillier asserts that policemen wearing naval uniforms arrested two innocent girls, whose names he is ready to give, together with all facts in the case. In his letter to the Mayor he wrote:

"I desire to call to your attention the action of the vice squad of the Police Department in arresting innocent working girls in the City of New York, under the disguise of being members of the army and navy and wearing army and navy uniforms. I can well appreciate the good work of the Police Department in preventing vice in the streets of the City of New York, but I think the time has come that the Police Department should be more cautious in making arrests of innocent women on the streets of this city, and especially using the subterfuge of the army and navy uniform for this purpose."

Mr. Cuvillier told the Mayor that the two girls, aged 19 and 20, employed in a Harlem shirtwaist factory, went on June 18 to a Harlem dressmaker and were returning to their homes, when accosted by two policemen garbed in the uniform of the navy. When the girls in a spirit of patriotism replied to the supposed sailors and accepted their invitation to "soft drinks," says Cuvillier, the policemen took them to the rear room of a café, afterward made improper proposals, offered them money, and when this offer was refused the girls were placed under arrest and charged with vagrancy.

According to Mr. Cuvillier, his client, the mother of one of the girls, got them out of the cell that night by putting up $300. On the following morning in court, he says, the girls being unable to get counsel, pleaded guilty and were remanded for sentence, pending which a medical test was made of their blood. They were finally freed on a suspended sentence.

No comment on this complaint could be obtained from Police Commissioner Enright. A police official said the vice squads performed their work under the direction of the different commanders of the inspection districts. Detectives and policemen engaged in this work had not been authorized to wear military or naval uniforms so far as known at Police Headquarters, it was said.

HANDLEY-PAGE STILL WAITS.

Transatlantic Flier Again Stormbound at St. John's.

Special to The New York Times.

HARBOR GRACE, Newfoundland, June 25.—Clouds and rain, all the way across the Atlantic today caused another postponement of the start of the Handley-Page biplane on the Newfoundland-England flight. Major Gran, the navigator, again expressed himself as hopeful of "tomorrow."

It was explained today that the military leave granted to Gran and Major H. G. Brackley, the principal pilot of the expedition, is on the eve of expiring and this adds to their desire to get away.

Discussing the continued urging from the United States that the plane fly there, Admiral Kerr said today that he thought a trip there, possibly with the idea in mind of returning to Newfoundland in order to set out upon the ocean voyage originally planned, would be inadvisable because there are no spare parts available in the United States for the machine, and the shipment of such parts from Newfoundland to some point in the United States and then back here again when the plane returned would mean many weeks of delay.

Gran and Brackley today were the stars of the Handley-Page football team, which opened the local season in a match with the Harbor Grace team.

MEETING ENDS IN RIOT.

Rival Union Factions in Fist Fight at Manhattan Lyceum.

A hand to hand battle between union members of the cloak and suit makers' trades and radicals of the same industry broke up a meeting in Manhattan Lyceum, 66 East Fourth Street, called for the purpose of establishing a separate union of workers along the lines of the Russian Soviets. By the time the police had cleared out the hall and had driven the quarreling factions into the streets, the hall was completely wrecked. Bits of clothing strewn about the floor gave testimony to the intensity of the encounters, which provided the police with an exciting half hour. There were 800 persons at the meeting.

The police arrested Harry Rosenbaum of 2,946 Thirty-fifth Street, Coney Island, on complaint of Herman Levine of 226 South First Street, Brooklyn, who charged that Rosenbaum struck him over the head with a chair. Samuel Schiffer of 59 East Third Street, Manhattan, was placed under arrest by Patrolman William Manning charged with disorderly conduct. The police were followed to the police station by a crowd estimated at more than a thousand.

JURY TO SEE HOME OF WILKINS TODAY

MAY GIVE VERDICT TONIGHT

MINEOLA, L. I., June 25.—The taking of testimony in the case of Dr. Walter Keene Wilkins, on trial for the murder of his wife, Julia, at their Long Beach home on Feb. 27, was ended today, and tomorrow morning the jurors will visit the Wilkins home. They will then return to the Court House, listen to the summing up of the case, and, after Justice Manning charges them late in the afternoon, they will retire to decide whether he should be acquitted or convicted.

At the trial today Dr. Wilkins showed more signs of nervousness than he had before. The accused physician crossed and recrossed his legs and hesitated often while question after question was put to him in rapid succession by District Attorney Weeks. He still maintained, however, that his wife had met her death at the hands of burglars, who had come to his Summer home for the purpose of robbery.

A crowd of persons, larger than had witnessed any preceding session of the trial, was present today, and many came to the court, only to find that entrance into it was impossible.

After the examination of Dr. Wilkins a number of witnesses were called to the stand who testified that the relations between the man and his wife were very cordial and loving. Two chauffeurs declared that the hammer which was supposed to have been used for the murder was not of the sort that auto mechanics use, it being twice as heavy and its handle twice as long.

One of the questions put to the defendant by District Attorney Weeks was whether Dr. Wilkins had examined the hammer when he found it lying alongside his wife's body.

"Yes, but not closely," answered the doctor.

"What did you see?"

"It was bloody and I was impressed by the unusual long handle."

"Did you see any paper wrapped around the handle?"

"It was so smeared with blood I could not tell."

"When the burglars were holding you down in the vestibule, did you see a hammer or lead pipe in their hands?"

"I did not."

Dr. Wilkins also said he did not know if he was hit with a pipe or a man's fist. He said, however, that it was a large man that delivered the blow.

"It has been testified that you did not go to the hospital until nearly an hour and three-quarters after your wife was taken there," continued the prosecutor.

"Well, I did not take time on it. I was so disturbed that I forgot all about the time," replied the doctor.

"What were you doing then?"

"I took the dogs out for a run. They had not been out all day, so I thought I would give them a little exercise that would only take a moment."

"Isn't it right that you did not get to the hospital until after your wife was dead?"

"I believe that is right. If the timekeeper said so, it must be."

"You were much concerned about the condition of your dogs, were you not?"

"Well, I thought best to give them a little exercise. It would only take a few moments."

Although Dr. Wilkins admitted that he had practically full control of his wife's property, he said that he did not know much about her financial affairs, adding that he had collected between $300 and $400 in rents since her death.

"Doctor, when did you first find out that witnesses to a will were necessary?" inquired District Attorney Weeks.

"Why, I always had sense enough to know that," was the reply.

"Why didn't you want to go to the District Attorney with the will that was made in 1915?"

"That will was not attested, so I didn't think it was of any use."

"Why did you look at that will? Did your curiosity get the better of you?"

"Yes, I wanted to see what was in it."

"When you called Mr. Freese up on the telephone on March 16 from the Flatbush Avenue station in Brooklyn, did you not tell him that you would be arrested if you came to Port Washington with the will?"

March 16 was a Sunday, and the District was in his home at Port Washington on that day. The witness hesitated, then replied:

"Why—now—well, I telephoned to Mr. Freese and he asked me where I was. I told him. He asked me to meet him in Lynbrook to go with him to the District Attorney in Port Washington. I asked him if there was any likelihood of my being arrested. He said he wouldn't wonder."

After a few more questions regarding Dr. Wilkins's trip to Baltimore, witnesses appeared who testified that the physician and his wife were apparently loving and cordial in their home life.

When asked if Mrs. Wilkins had said anything before she died, Major Robert E. Grant, who had assisted in the attempt to save her life, said that she had begged him, "Please don't kill me."

Justice Manning ordered the jurors to meet at the Court House at 8 o'clock tomorrow morning, when they will motor to the scene of the tragedy. When the jury returns in the afternoon, counsel will commence summing up, after which the jury is expected to be charged.

National Meeting of Hospitals.

Superintendents and financial agents of all Protestant hospitals in the United States have been invited to attend the National Conference on Denominational and Missionary Hospitals in Columbus, Ohio, July 1 and 2 to organize an association aiming at co-operation and general welfare. The meeting was announced in this city yesterday by the Executive Committee of the Interchurch World Movement of the United States, under whose direction it will be held. Delegates representing seventy-six denominations are expected to participate.

Hunter College Gave 212 Degrees.

Through an error in THE NEW YORK TIMES last Friday it was stated that 312 young women received their degree of bachelor of arts from Hunter College, Park Avenue and Sixty-eighth Street. the number was 212. It has also been learned that nineteen received diplomas from the Hunter College Kindergarten Department.

Nearly $3,000,000,000 Saved by War Contract Liquidations

WASHINGTON, June 25.—"Purchase and storage" contracts outstanding June 1 aggregated $107,000,000 against more than $1,000,000,000 when hostilities ceased, according to a War Department report issued today.

Of the 17,000 contracts which have been liquidated, more than half were settled without cost to the Government, suspension having caused the contractors no loss.

It is estimated that liquidation of war contracts has saved more than $1,000,000,000, and contracts still to be liquidated will result in additional savings of more than $1,800,000,000.

CONSPIRACY ISSUE RAISED

MOUNT CLEMENS, Mich., June 25.—Counsel for Henry Ford, who is suing The Chicago Daily Tribune for $1,000,000 on a charge of libel, today continued efforts to show that the editorial of June 23, 1916, headed "Ford is an Anarchist," was the culmination of an organized and malicious conspiracy within The Tribune office.

Perley Boone, city editor of the newspaper, who in 1916 was acting city editor, was a witness. His cross-examination failed to elicit anything but that news items about Mr. Ford found their way into the paper in a routine manner and not in fulfillment of instructions from the publishers.

The cross-examination of Mrs. Ernest Prall by Alfred J. Murphy, of Ford counsel, which culminated in her fainting, left the spectators with mixed feelings. The witness, a frail little woman, and the mother of three children, testified yesterday that in the six weeks which elapsed between the departure of her husband for Texas and the time that the Ford Company came to her relief she was ill and in dire need. Her secret was hinted at on Mr. Murphy's first question.

"When were you married?" asked the lawyer.

"I didn't come here to talk about my family affairs," replied the witness. She finally admitted that she was married December 26, 1910.

"Isn't it a fact that you were married a year ago at the intercession of a Ford investigator?"

"It's none of your business," cried the woman. "I was married in 1910; it was a private marriage."

Murphy continued his questioning until the witness left the stand sobbing. Her husband, was called and had begun to testify when the courtroom was aroused by renewed cries from Mrs. Prall. She rushed toward the doorway, where she fell across the threshold in a faint. The hearing was suspended for fifteen minutes.

Mrs. Stella Champney, a Detroit Journal reporter, testified that she talked with Mr. Ford on June 19, 1916, the day after the National Guard was called out and quoted the manufacturer as saying:

"All this talk about preparedness both political parties are making, is simply political play. Both Democrats and Republicans are talking preparedness for that purpose."

TRIAL OF COCCHI IS INTERRUPTED

BOLOGNA, June 25.—The trial of Alfred Cocchi, charged with the murder of Ruth Cruger in New York in 1917, has been interrupted for an indefinite period to enable the court to examine the American court records with reference to testimony given in the Cocchi case regarding Cocchi's wife.

There was a spirited exchange between Signor Bagnoli, President of the court, and Cocchi yesterday over the latter's change of attitude toward the crime, in which the court spoke vehemently in citing incidents narrated in the confession made by Cocchi and the findings of American tribunals.

Cocchi told of having sawed the body of Miss Cruger so that he might hide it. Then he broke down, crying in a broken voice:

"I took the body and tried to conceal it in the cellar, but the door was not large enough and I sawed the body in two. The girl was dead when this was done."

Then followed a discussion between Signor Bagnoli as to whether the girl was dead or not before her body was dismembered. The whole courtroom was aghast at the prisoner's narration, but Cocchi proceeded with his story rapidly, being apparently very nervous.

Cocchi continued his morning's narrative in the afternoon. When he concluded, the court went into secret session to consider the defendant's charges against his wife and their relation to his own case. After a session of more than an hour the court announced that the trial had been postponed.

Signor Venturini, attorney for Cocchi, said he had received a letter from J. J. Lynch, Municipal Building, New York, containing sensational allegations concerning the death of Miss Cruger. The attorney said he would present the letter in evidence.

Judge Bagnoli, the President of the court, gave this explanation of the postponement to The Associated Press:

"We were afraid the story related by Cocchi and his charges against his wife had influenced the jury, who appeared to us to be somewhat affected by this development. We will await a transcript of the evidence in the wife's case. We expect to continue the trial before October at the latest."

Podeyns' Divorce Suits Dismissed.

The suit for absolute divorce brought by Lieutenant Emil M. Podeyn of Freeport, L. I., attached to the 2d Field Artillery, against Mrs. Edna Rosa Podeyn, and the countersuit of Mrs. Podeyn against her husband, were thrown out of court today when a jury before Justice Clark in the Brooklyn Supreme Court returned a verdict finding that both the husband and his wife had been guilty of misconduct as charged by each other.

TO STOP SENDING SOLDIERS ABROAD

War Department Withdraws Offer of Service in Europe for Army Recruits.

NO MORE OFFICERS GOING

Only the Latest Graduates of West Point Will Be Sent as Originally Planned.

FORCES STAY EAST OF RHINE

Three Divisions Will Remain on Other Side of Bridgehead Until Peace Is Signed.

WASHINGTON, June 25.—Offer of service in Europe to recruits obtained under volunteer enlistment will be withdrawn under orders prepared by the War Department. The policy of sending regular officers overseas to relieve those in the American Expeditionary Forces also will be abandoned.

This action was said today to have resulted from the improved situation in Europe growing out of the imminent signing of the Peace Treaty. In the orders officers here foresaw an early return of all troops now abroad, excepting the comparatively small American contribution to the Army of Occupation.

"Troops are now being returned to the United States at such a rate," said an official announcement, "that at the request of General Pershing, no more officers will be sent overseas, except the class of student officers composed of recent graduates of the United States Military Academy, scheduled to leave about July 11."

At the same time notice was given of the withdrawal of permission for wives and children of officers and enlisted men to go abroad. This was necessitated, the Department said, by the fact that it will be impossible to say which individual soldiers will be kept overseas until the composition of the Army of Occupation is determined.

Secretary Baker said today he had not been advised from Paris as to the size of the American army which is to be maintained for the time being in Germany. The fact that the 4th and 5th Divisions of regulars were definitely slated for return in June, until the crisis of last week caused the cancellation of these plans, is cited here as evidence that the American forces will not be larger than three divisions, or about 120,000.

It is estimated that the 1st, 2d, and 3d Divisions would require around 40,000 replacements to take the place of men in those organizations who are eligible for discharge. Voluntary enlistments totalling more than 70,000 men already have been reported, thus forcing the department to cancel its offer of European service to volunteers.

COBLENZ, June 24. (Associated Press.)—The three American divisions which were concentrated east of the Rhine in the American bridgehead area will remain there until the peace treaty is actually signed, according to an announcement made here today.

As soon as peace is signed the Americans will begin to return to the quarters they occupied before the concentration of a week ago which was ordered by Marshal Foch in preparation for an advance into Germany if the Germans rejected the peace conditions. It is expected the troops will remain in these quarters until orders come to start for home.

The Third Army consists of five divisions and the auxiliary units of the Third Corps, approximately 160,000 men. Transportation officers said today that the divisions and the various units could be out of Germany by Aug. 1 if General Headquarters gave orders to that effect.

The First and Second Divisions, which hold the east bank of the Rhine, will be the last to depart in the event that no complete American division is to remain in Germany as part of the permanent army of occupation.

NAMED "SECOND BRAVEST."

Frank Gaffney, Who Took 80 Prisoners, Gets Congressional Medal.

CAMP DIX, N. J., June 25.—Lauded as "the second bravest man" in the American Army, First Class Private Frank Gaffney of New York, formerly a member of Company G, 108th Infantry, was decorated by Major Gen. Hale at a special ceremony on the parade grounds here this morning with the Congressional medal of honor, the highest award given an enlisted man in the American Army.

Gaffney is cited "for conspicuous gallantry" at Ranssoy, France, on Sept. 29 last, when single-handed and wounded he captured a machine gun nest and with the aid of the captured weapon and a supply of hand grenades brought in 80 prisoners. His lieutenant and Sergeant killed, Gaffney found himself in command of a shattered platoon and when he led it to the attack he was the only survivor to reach the objective.

R-34 MAY HELP US CELEBRATE THE FOURTH

British Dirigible Will Be Ready for Start Across Atlantic Saturday.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, June 25.—It is quite possible that the R-34 will make her Atlantic flight just in time to share in Long Island's celebration of the Fourth of July.

It had been arranged that she was to start yesterday but then came the little German unpleasantness and her unadvertised trip across the North Sea. She will be ready for another long voyage on Saturday and it will not be surprising if she is held back for a few days so as to time her arrival for the Fourth.

WELCOME POLISH MISSION.

Manufacturers' Association Offers Aid in Business Negotiations Here.

The members of the Polish Mission which has arrived in this country to organize facilities for the purchase of raw and manufactured materials were entertained at luncheon at the Machinery Club yesterday by the National Association of Manufacturers. The members of the commission were welcomed by George S. Boudinot, the Secretary, who placed the facilities of the National Association of Manufacturers at their disposal.

Konstanty Buszczynski, the Polish Consul General, speaking on the mission, said that Poland looked to the United States for guidance in matters of liberal government and for co-operation in the development of Poland's resources.

To equip itself for the demands of the future, Europe, he said, must look to this country for guidance.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

A decreased volume of trade and an irregular price movement characterized yesterday's stock market. The day's business was on the smallest scale for a full five-hour session of any seen since the middle of April and marked the ending of the longest sequence of "million-share days" the Stock Exchange has ever seen; forty-six such days have been recorded since April 17, against the sequence of forty-four in 1901. As for the price movement, it was irregular throughout most of the day. In the afternoon it turned weak, but just before the close there was a rally, none too vigorous but sufficient to lift prices from their extreme low levels and close them with only slightly more net losses than net gains.

Taken by itself, the stock market disclosed little that was significant. The action might mean any one of a number of things. It might, for instance, indicate that the market has worked into one of those interludes which frequently occur in bull markets when development has been too rapid and the market needs time to regain its breath. Or it may be that the upward movement is definitely ended, for the time being, and that it will not be resumed until fairly drastic readjustment, within the market and without, is accomplished. Last night there were experienced observers who argued both ways.

The call money market again performed in a way which, to put it mildly, was not reassuring to the bulls. Opening and renewing at 7 to 7½ per cent., it held around those figures until shortly after midday, when it rose to 3 per cent. for mixed collateral and to 10 per cent. for all industrial loans. After 2 o'clock the real activity started, and then, by very rapid changes, the rates for both kinds of accommodation moved up until each stood at 15 per cent. On the advance, no uniform relation between the two classes was maintained at one time all industrial loans being quoted more favorably than the mixed collateral loans. Just before 3 o'clock the rate broke to 6 and 6½ per cent., respectively.

This action of the money market was disconcerting. It may be true that the sudden advance in rates will not definitely check a bull market. But when the advance to high figures becomes a regular performance, the influence is apt to be cumulative, and carried on over any considerable period, it is likely to act as a most positive brake, which, while it may not bring trading to a sudden halt, is designed to slow it down a good deal. To some this influence was plainly evident yesterday both in the action of prices and in the diminished volume of business.

The trade reviews of the iron and steel industry were again favorable, but if one cared to interpret unfavorably some of the passages it was not difficult to do so. The comment on the quickening of the business abroad may not please some of the stock market enthusiasts who have been counting heavily upon foreign demand to sustain the domestic industry. In the weekly weather bulletin wheat and corn are reported to be enjoying almost ideal conditions, but cotton is not quite so well.

The movement against London was the chief feature of the foreign exchange market. The rate for sterling checks fell to within a fraction of the year's low record. No satisfactory explanation for this was forthcoming, unless it was to be found in the final removal of all restrictions on foreign exchange dealings. Spanish bills sold at the lowest in several years, within about 40 points of parity.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

A Trading Market.

The sentiment was expressed yesterday that while the high money rates prevail the stock market would lapse into trading sessions with a small turn one way or the other, satisfying profit-seekers. There were some signs of this in evidence about midday. It was pointed out that while the tense money rates were acting as a brake on operations there was little influence exerted by the situation to cause a selling movement such as that of several days ago when there was a sharp decline on 15 per cent. money.

Million Share Sequence Broken.

For the first time since April 21 the trading yesterday fell under 1,000,000 shares. The indication that this was to happen shortly has been shown in figures of recent days which have recorded a steadily declining volume of business. The drop below 1,000,000 shares was however rather abrupt when it did come, for on Tuesday the figures were some 300,000 shares above this mark. In the minds of some, the decline below the million-share turnover is indicative of an easing off in the bull market. The check to enthusiasm came when the warning against speculation was brought convincingly to the public by tense money rates.

Government Withdrawals.

For several days the Government has been making withdrawals from local banks, and it now develops that a withdrawal of rather large proportions will be made from the Federal Reserve Bank today. This will temporarily at least make for tighter money conditions unless of course the money flows back quickly into local channels. There is no intimation of just what use is to be made of the Government funds, and it may be that they are to be taken out of the local district.

Marine Common Strong.

There was a considerable degree of activity in the shares of Marine common during yesterday's session with the advance amounting to nearly 4 points. Since the cancellation of the plan to sell the British holdings of International Mercantile Marine the common shares have been looked upon with favor by the speculative element in the market, but without any particular demonstration until yesterday. The speculation is based apparently on the earnings outlook for the junior shares. The statement from the company, which was issued just before the special meeting of stockholders to pass on the Marine sale, was to the effect that present earnings were running higher than in 1918 or 1917. Many apparently presume that the present earning rate will continue, a fact which is of course open to debate in that ocean freight rates are inclined to lower levels.

Another Oil Strike?

Reports were in circulation yesterday that oil had been found on the properties of the Anaconda Copper Mining Company in Montana. It has been rather common of late to impute oil development to companies which are in no way associated with the oil industry, the instance of American Beet Sugar being a notable example. In the case of Anaconda there was a possibility in that the Elk Basin Field of Wyoming extends into Montana and also there has been drilling along the Canadian line on the north in the hope of striking oil. Furthermore, it has been known for some time that the Anaconda company was drilling gas wells, and it is not without the realm of possibility that where there is gas there may also be found oil. The Anaconda company has opened up gas resources for use in connection with its smelting plants, and it is probable that the reported strike of oil was due to there being a small percentage of oil with the gas. Neither confirmation or denial of a strike of oil could be had at the Anaconda offices here, the word being that there had been no message relating to it from Butte. If there had been the uncovering of a big oil deposit it was assumed that news would have immediately been dispatched East. Anaconda is apparently quite content to hold to the development of its mining properties.

Call Money Rates.

Call money rates followed an erratic course yesterday. This was especially true during the last hour, the fluctuations being so wide that there were some traders who made the remark that they would like to buy money on a margin and get quick action. Renewals were at 7 and 7½ per cent. on mixed and industrial collateral. Shortly after 2 o'clock the rate moved up, and in the course of a few minutes it had climbed from 8 per cent. to 15 per cent. Then came another downward swing and at the close money was 6 and 6½ per cent.

Compensation Contracts.

Up to June 23 eighty-three compensation contracts had been signed by fifty-one railroad companies with the Railroad Administration, providing for an annual rental payment by the latter of $560,299,623 and three lump sum contracts with small roads aggregating $129,734,000. The contracts cover fifty-one Class 1 roads, and their subsidiaries and the total compensation agreed upon compares with the estimated $940,000,000 total annual compensation of the roads under Federal control. Many contracts now pending with the big roads have been held up because of disagreement between the carriers and the Railroad Administration on the question of equipment allocations and special compensation. In many instances the Administration has refused to sign the contracts when the carriers have refused to accept the equipment allotted to them.

July 1 Requirements.

The fact that only four days remain before the July 1 financial requirements of the railroads will have to be met caused a fair amount of comment in the financial district yesterday. It was asserted that these requirements aggregated approximately $109,000,000 and that word was being awaited from Washington as to how the situation would be met. That President Wilson will sign the bill appropriating $750,000,000 for the Railroad Administration before the end of the month is generally believed, and it has been suggested that the Director General might meet conditions by paying in cash. It was also suggested that if the bill is not signed before July 1 there will be a tacit agreement among security holders to extend time to the roads until provision can be made to meet the requirements.

Railroad Legislation.

It is expected that when the House Committee on Interstate Commerce begins its hearings on railroad legislation, probably immediately following July 4, those who have formulated plans for such legislation will go to the Capital to urge the adoption of those plans upon Congress. Among those who will be represented at the hearing will be the Association of Railway Executives, the National Association of Owners of Railroad Securities, the Citizens' National Railroads League, and others. It is believed that the hearings will be expedited.

Baltimore & Ohio Off.

It was reported yesterday that the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad would engage in about $35,000,000 of new financing very soon, and the stock market began to discount this after the opening, the stock selling down as low as 48, with a subsequent recovery of more than a point to 49¼, which made the net loss only ½ of a point. There was some buying in the late afternoon, apparently of a supporting nature. The sale of $35,000,000 ten-year bonds to a syndicate of bankers was announced late in the afternoon.

Cerro de Pasco Gains 4¾.

Cerro de Pasco was easily the outstanding feature in the copper group yesterday. The stock was fairly active, and, on good demand, sold up to 58½ at the close, which was also the day's high quotation. There has been steady accumulation of the stock over a considerable period, the upward movement beginning more than a month ago, when a strike in the company's mine in South America was reported to have been made.

A Stock Exchange Holiday.

It was announced at the New York Stock Exchange yesterday that the big board would close on Saturday, July 5. This was welcome news to brokers and the office employes in the financial district, after a succession of million-share trading days, which have meant late hours and hard work for the better part of the last three months.

TREASURY CERTIFICATES.

Series of Two Short-Term Notes to be Dated July 1.

WASHINGTON, June 25.—Two new series of short-term 4½ per cent. certificates of indebtedness were announced today by the Treasury Department, to be dated July 1. One issue will mature Sept. 15 and the other Dec. 15, dates on which income and excess profits taxes are due.

The certificates will be tax exempt except for estate or inheritance taxes and income surtaxes. The announcement said a limited amount would be issued.

All Kinds of Sport.

CALL MONEY AGAIN GOES TO 15 PER CENT.

Cause of Advance Due, It Is Said, to Calling of Deposits by the Government.

BACK TO 6% AT THE CLOSE

Call money again rose to 15 per cent. yesterday, when that rate was bid on the Stock Exchange for accommodation on both good mixed collateral and all industrial collateral. Time money, it was reported by money brokers, was practically non-existent, with the legal maximum of 6 per cent. bid for all maturities, but with none offered. The volume of business done in call money on the Exchange was not unusually large, but in the late afternoon, when the flurry occurred, there was very little to be had until just before the close of the stock market, when liberal offerings broke the rate to 6 per cent.

The immediate cause of yesterday's advance was said to be the calling of deposits by the Government. It was reported unofficially that the Government was taking 10 per cent. of its deposits, which, on Saturday last, amounted to $354,987,000 in the New York Clearing House banks and are estimated to have been approximately $800,000,000 in the New York Federal Reserve district. This would mean that something like $35,000,000 was wanted from local institutions and about $25,000,000 from the other banks in the district.

It was also reported that interior banks were calling for funds from their New York correspondents. It is a little early for interior banks to be withdrawing metropolitan balances for crop moving purposes, but, as has been explained, the interior demand this year has been somewhat quickened by the demands for financing over the tax date and other rather large needs.

An interesting sidelight on the money market developed yesterday when the exchange rate on London fell to within a small fraction of the lowest for the year. It was suggested by one banker that London might be sending funds here to lend at our high levels. Money in London is commanding only about 3 to 3½ per cent., as against the 12 and 15 per cent. rates which have been seen here recently, and with virtually all restrictions now removed from foreign exchange transactions it was said to be possible for this movement to be taking place. Bankers who might be expected to know definitely whether or not such is the case refused to comment on it yesterday. In normal times such a movement would be perfectly natural, but just now, with sterling at a discount of about 6 per cent., the chief hazard would be a possible speedy recovery in exchange, in which case most, if not all, of the money lending profits would be wiped out.

MONEY IS SOLD AT AUCTION.

Six 500-Lire Italian Pieces Bring $395 at Police Sale.

For the first time in the history of auction sales at Police Headquarters money was auctioned off yesterday at the 200th auction sale of unclaimed and condemned property, consisting of articles of every size and character which had been found by the police and had remained unclaimed after having been held by them for six months. The money consisted of six 500-lire Italian pieces, which were offered in one lot, and brought $395.

None of the articles offered were guaranteed, and the auctioneer, Jacques Cohen, repeatedly admonished the bidders to be careful in their valuation of the articles on which they were bidding. A lot of pink pajamas brought $8, four baby carriages, offered as one lot, $16, and a lot of U. S. Tariff Stamps, the face value of which was not disclosed by the auctioneer, brought $16. Auto tires were sold on bids ranging up to $38 each. Three gallons of olive oil brought a total of $12.50, while two kegs of ordinary mixed nails brought $4.25. A keg, one of the most peculiar lots offered, was composed of a quantity of braces and bits, such as are used in ripping open safes. It sold for $31.

SECURITIES AT AUCTION.

22 shares G. F. Putnam's Sons, $80 per share.

300 shares Federal Primer Corporation, $6 lot.

20 shares Manhattan Transit Company, $16 lot.

MAY START WORK SOON ON HUDSON TUNNEL

Bill Passed by Both Houses Will Be Ready for President When He Returns.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 25.—Construction of a traffic tunnel under the Hudson, between Manhattan and Jersey City, may begin as soon as the President signs the bill granting authority for the project.

The House today passed the Edge bill, recently adopted by the Senate. Practically the only alteration made was a reservation to "alter, amend, or repeal" the act at any future time. Senator Edge of New Jersey, author of the bill, said this amendment was entirely satisfactory to him. Any conference will be purely perfunctory and the bill will be ready for the President's signature when he returns to Washington.

Assurance was made to the House by Representative Siegel of New York that New York and New Jersey wish to commence work as soon as possible on the great traffic artery. Already an agreement has been reached between the two States for the construction, operation, repair, and maintenance of the tunnel. The permission of the War Department for the construction also has been obtained.

AIR EXPRESS LINE OPENS.

First Trip Made Between Philadelphia and Atlantic City.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., June 25.—James S. Clark, Assistant Secretary of the Land Title and Trust Company of Philadelphia, was the first passenger arriving here today on the new Philadelphia-Atlantic City Air Express. Clark chose the aerial route for the shore to attend the convention of the National Association of Real Estate Boards.

Frank Mills, head of the flying school field at Essington, piloted the craft. The pair left Essington at 9:20 this morning, manoeuvered over the Land Title Building in Philadelphia and then went to Atlantic City by way of Cape May, flying against a direct head wind. They arrived at the Curtiss flying field here at 11:30 A. M.

Mills and Clark traveled 140 miles in the air in 130 minutes, making better than a mile a minute in the face of difficult conditions. This was considered a remarkable record.

Mills flew back this afternoon, favored by the wind.

Today's flight was the first of a regular schedule for airplane service between Philadelphia and Atlantic City. The fare charged is $1 a minute. The trip takes from ninety minutes to two hours, depending upon the weather. Curtiss flying boats are used.

Offer Clinton Wright Wire Co. Stock

Liggett and Drexel, and Knauth, Nachod and Kuhne are offering for subscription at $38 a share 70,000 shares of the common stock of the Clinton Wright Wire Company of Massachusetts, which has a par value of $50. This is a new company, which has been formed to take over the assets and business of the Clinton Wire Cloth Company, the Morgan Spring Company, and the Wright Tire Company. The company has outstanding $3,500,000 first 7 per cent. cumulative preferred stock, and $1,500,000 cumulative 7 per cent. voting stock.

FINANCIAL NOTES.

The Fulton Trust Company has issued its quarterly circular entitled "Investments," which is being distributed to depositors and friends. The securities mentioned are not offered by the trust company, but are merely suggestions for investment.

Estabrook & Co. and Stone & Webster are heading a syndicate which is offering $1,750,000, 6 per cent. gold notes of the Columbus Electric Company at 97½ and interest to yield over 7 per cent.

H. A. Mathews has been elected a Vice President of the Irving National Bank. He was formerly Assistant Cashier. For ten years he was connected with the Anglo-South American Bank, and for two years and a half has been with the Irving in its foreign department.

The Hocking Valley Products Company has opened its brick-making plant at Greendale, Ohio, which had been closed during the war.

The Guaranty Trust Company has been appointed transfer agent for the capital stock of the Barnsdall Corporation.

B. & O. ISSUES $35,000,000 BONDS

PLAN APPROVED BY HINES

Directors Suspend Dividends on Common Stock in Adopting New Policy.

A syndicate composed of Kuhn, Loeb & Co., Speyer & Co., and the National City Company, has purchased from the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Company $35,000,000 ten-year 6 per cent. secured gold bonds. The issue will be offered before long for public subscription at 96½ and accrued interest, to yield investors approximately 6½ per cent. If the bonds are held until they mature, on July 1, 1929. The bonds are secured by the deposit and pledge of $6,000,000 par value Reading Company first preferred stock, $14,000,000 par value Reading Company second preferred, and $9,200,000 common stock, as well as $15,000,000 Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Company refunding and general mortgage 6 per cent. bonds, series B, due Dec. 1, 1995.

These securities have an estimated market value of $45,000,000, and it is understood that a 25 per cent. margin is to be maintained. The bonds were sold by the company to enable it to meet all its maturing obligations, and will not materially increase the railroad's annual fixed charges.

The maturing obligations which will be taken up are $22,500,000 notes and bank loans which were extended from February, 1918, to July 1, 1919. These include $4,000,000 bank loans, $10,500,000 6 per cent. notes, issued in June, 1918, for retiring $7,500,000 one-year 5 per cent. notes, $3,000,000 bank loans, extended for four months from Sept. 30, 1918, and $8,000,000 notes issued in January, 1918, which were due last July but were extended.

Following a meeting of the Baltimore & Ohio directors yesterday, President Daniel Willard said the company had reached an agreement with the Government on the question of compensation for the lease of the carrier's properties during the period of Federal control, and that a contract had been executed calling for the payment each year by the Government of $30,031,000. He also said the company's other income each year amounts to about $3,300,000 making the approximate annual income $33,331,008. This after the deduction of $22,063,000 fixed charges and corporate expenses, would leave a balance of $11,268,000 available for Federal income taxes, reserves, dividends, and so forth.

At yesterday's meeting, the directors determined to set aside part of the income to be devoted to capital expenditures so that the company's credit would not have to be extended further under present conditions. Because of the adoption of this policy, it was decided temporarily to suspend dividend payments on the common stock. The usual semi-annual dividend of 2 per cent. was declared on the preferred stock to holders of record July 19. This payment will be made Sept. 2, provided the company receives funds from the Government by that time.

In his letter to the purchasing syndicate, Mr. Willard said the issuance of the $35,000,000 bonds had been approved by the Director General of Railroads.

STALLED IN BUENOS AIRES.

BUENOS AIRES, June 24.—Hundreds of American businessmen who are in this city are unable to leave for home because of the lack of shipping and the interruption of the trans-Andine railway. Heavy snows this week again stopped the mule train which has been the connecting link between the points where the line is either blocked or swept away and which has provided the only means of egress from Buenos Aires to the United States.

More than a hundred men and women recently slept on the floor of a station at the end of the Argentine railway on the Bolivian frontier because they were unable to get transportation across the gap to the point where the Bolivian section of the Pan-American railway commences. This has discouraged efforts of people here to leave Buenos Aires by way of La Paz and Lima. The halting of the trans-Andine mule train has also left many who are part way up the Andes without means of going forward.

Among well-known Americans searching for means to leave Buenos Aires are Franklin Adams of the Pan-American Union; D. C. Collier, President of the San Diego Exposition, and J. D. Woodside, the South Carolina cotton operator.

American Steel Issues Bonds.

Richardson, Hill & Co. of Boston, the Chase Securities Corporation, and John Burnham & Co. of Chicago, have purchased $9,000,000 7 per cent. cumulative preferred stock of American Steel Foundries, and are forming a distributing syndicate to handle the issue. Preferred Stock 7% Cumulative	25,000,000	9,000,000
Common Stock	17,184,000	17,184,000

Purpose of issue — This issue will be used to purchase control of the Griffin Wheel Company, an old established business.

Business — Steel Foundries, operating nine plants, is the largest producer of steel castings in America. Its principal customers are railroads, steamship companies and machinery manufacturers. Griffin Wheel Company, operating eight plants, is the largest American producer of iron car wheels for steam railroad and street cars.

Assets — Net quick assets of the two companies, applicable to this preferred stock as of December 31st, 1918, are equal to $115 per share.

Earnings — Average earnings applicable to this issue, assuming purchase of all Griffin Wheel Company Common Stock, based on Steel Foundries operations for last thirteen years, and Griffin Wheel Company for last six years, after taxes and depreciation charges, are $2,574,596, or more than four times the dividend requirement of this issue. On the same basis, average earnings for the last three years are $5,236,799, or more than eight times the dividend requirements.

Protection — No mortgage or lien may be placed upon the property of the company, nor can the stock owned by the company in any corporation of which a majority of the capital stock is owned by the company be voted in favor of the creation of any mortgage or lien upon the property of such corporation, nor can the authorized amount of preferred stock be increased, nor the rights of its holders be diminished, by the issue of stock of prior or equal rights or otherwise except by vote or consent of the holders of two-thirds in amount of the preferred stock. A sinking fund is provided for the retirement of the preferred stock.

General — Steel Foundries' products are used principally in new construction; Griffin Wheel Company's business is 85% renewal work. The two lines therefore fit into each other particularly well. The present managers will remain in control. The only securities of American Steel Foundries outstanding prior to this issue are $1,372,800 four per cent. debentures, which are being paid off at the rate of $344,000 a year. Common stock of Steel Foundries, a security junior to this issue, has a par value of $17,184,000 (shares of par of $33⅓), and a present market value of more than $21,000,000.

All legal matters in connection with the proceedings authorizing the creation of this preferred stock have been passed upon by Messrs. Pam & Hurd of Chicago, Goodwin, Procter & Ballantine of Boston, and Lindabury, Depue & Faulks of Newark, N. J.

Application will be made to list this stock on the New York Stock Exchange

Clinton-Wright Wire Company

First Preferred Stock, 7% Cumulative

Convertible, at the option of the holder, into Common Stock on the basis of two shares of Common Stock (par value, $50) for each share of First Preferred Stock.

CAPITALIZATION
(As officially reported as of June 26, 1919)

	Authorized	Outstanding

Voting Preferred Stock, 7% Cumulative	1,500,000	1,500,000
Common Stock (Par Value, $50)	7,500,000	7,500,000

The Company will have no Funded Debt

From a letter of George M. Wright, Chairman of the Board of Directors, we summarize as follows:

The Clinton-Wright Wire Company, incorporated under the laws of Massachusetts, has acquired all the assets and business of the Clinton Wire Cloth Company, founded 1856; The Morgan Spring Company, founded 1881, and the Wright Wire Company, founded 1883. The Company is one of the largest manufacturers of wire and wire products. Its six plants in Worcester, Clinton and Palmer, Massachusetts, have an aggregate floor space of about 36 acres and employ over 2,500 hands. The gross sales for the latest fiscal years aggregate over $12,000,000.

The First Preferred Stock, 7% Cumulative, is protected by conservative restrictions, and has preference as to both assets and earnings. A cumulative sinking fund commencing July 1, 1920, is estimated to redeem the entire issue within twenty years, by call or by purchase at not exceeding 110 and accrued dividends.

The fixed assets have been appraised by Messrs. Ford, Bacon & Davis at a sound value of $8,225,000, or $235 for each share of First Preferred Stock. The net quick assets, according to an approximate consolidated balance sheet prepared by Messrs. Marwick, Mitchell, Peat & Company, are in excess of $4,200,000, or $120 for each share of First Preferred Stock. The net assets are thus over 3½ times this issue.

The average net earnings of the constituent companies for the past three years have aggregated over $1,000,000, or over 4 times the annual dividend requirements of the First Preferred Stock. The demand for the products of the Company is national in its scope and increasing rapidly.

STEADY ADVANCE IN COTTON MARKET

Midafternoon Prices Show an Average Rise of 60 Points—July Sells at 33 Cents.

SLIGHT REACTION AT CLOSE

Further rains over most of the belt, and predictions of still more to come today, more than offset any possible influence the unsettlement at Liverpool and the flurry in money on the Stock Exchange might have had on yesterday's cotton market, and after a brief hesitation at the outset prices rose steadily. By the middle of the afternoon they were up about 60 points on the average, July selling at 33 cents, while October and January of the new crop months sold at 32.93 and 32.70, respectively, the highest prices recorded thus far this season.

The continued rains, it is now feared, have lasted long enough to definitely interfere with the ultimate yield of the crop. Until recently, it was felt that replanting could be done on a sufficiently large scale to offset the early damage, with the chief harm the setting back of the crop, with, of course, attendant dangers at picking time. But now there is a growing belief that the final crop will be affected adversely, and some observers are predicting a final showing of something less than 12,000,000 bales.

If the final crop is no larger than that there is very likely to be a shortage, as the final carry-over at the end of the season is not apt to be in excess of 4,500,000 bales, which, with a new crop of 12,000,000 or less, would give a visible supply of not more than 16,500,000 bales, whereas cotton experts are now figuring on an aggregate foreign and domestic demand of upward of 17,500,000 bales.

The July condition report, to be issued next Tuesday, as of June 25, was yesterday estimated at around 73, as against 75.6 a month ago, 85.8 on June 25 last year, and a ten-year average of 80.3. June is usually a month of improvement. In the last twenty-five years this has been the case on seventeen occasions, and in the last eight years the June improvement has been regular. This year, with the exceedingly wet weather in March and April and most of May, the trade had counted on a clear and warm June. This has not been realized.

At the close yesterday there was a slight reaction from the high prices, but the market closed well, with net gains of 40 to 43 points for the new crop months and of 55 points for July.

Yesterday's quotations follow:

BUYS WOOL AT 60¼ CENTS.

Clip of 41,000 Pounds Bought in Montana by Boston House.

GREAT FALLS, Mon., June 25.—Announcement was made today by a representative of a Boston wool house that he had purchased of one grower his clip of 41,000 pounds of wool for 60¼ cents a pound.

This was said to be the highest price ever paid for wool in this vicinity.

BEND, Ore., June 25.—The highest price paid in the State this year for range sheep fleeces was given today at the sale held by the Central Oregon Wool Growers' Association when the American Woolen Mills of Boston paid 54½ cents a pound for one lot. The greater part of the total of 420,515 pounds sold went to supply Eastern mills.

FLAYS MARRIED SLACKERS.

Judge Says Cowards Took Wives to Avoid Military Service.

While hearing evidence in the divorce suit of Mrs. Yetta Forman, of 37 Morgan Avenue, against Morris Forman, of 415 Bushwick Avenue, in which the husband is charged with misconduct, Justice Aspinall in the Brooklyn Supreme Court took occasion to flay marriages of young people during the marriage rushes after the draft law was enacted, declaring that he believed most of them were contracted to evade military duty.

"I believe every one of the marriages of these young men and women," he said, "or nearly every one, was made to avoid military service. Ninety per cent of these men are cowards. After the fight they come here to get a divorce. It is easy to plant such evidence. That young lady, (pointing to the plaintiff) is as unconcerned over what is going on here as though she was sitting at a movie."

Then the Justice asked if the defendant was in the room, and when Forman responded, the Judge asked him:

"Did you get married to escape military service?"

"No," Forman replied.

The Justice told him to leave the courtroom, and not to be seen there again. He reserved decision in the case.

NEW WHEAT RULES FOR FOREIGN TRADE

SUPERSEDES TRADE BOARD

Few Modifications Are Noted in the Regulations as Already Established.

Julius Barnes, United States Wheat Director, announced yesterday that President Wilson had signed a proclamation covering the importation and exportation of wheat and wheat flour. The proclamation is effective July 1, 1919, and provides that no wheat or wheat flour shall be imported into or exported from the United States except at such time or times and under such regulations or orders as may be prescribed by the Wheat Director. Mr. Barnes also announced regulations covering exportation and importation of wheat and wheat flour for the present. These regulations will be changed from time to time.

Whereas, Congress has enacted and the President has on the 4th day of March, 1919, approved "An act to enable the President to carry out the price guarantees made to producers of wheat of the crops of 1918 and 1919, and to protect the United States against undue enhancement of its liabilities thereunder," which act contains the following provisions:

"That whenever the President shall find it essential in carrying out the guarantees aforesaid, or to protect the United States against undue enhancement of its liabilities thereunder, and shall make proclamation thereof, it shall be unlawful to import into the United States from any country named in such proclamation, or to export from or ship from or take out of the United States to any country named in such proclamation, wheat, semolina, or wheat flour, except at such time or times, and under such regulations or orders, and subject to such limitations and exceptions as the President shall prescribe, until otherwise ordered by the President or by Congress, provided that no preference shall be given to the ports of one State over those of another."

Now, therefore, I, Woodrow Wilson, President of the United States of America, by virtue of the powers conferred upon me by the aforesaid act of Congress, as well as by virtue of the powers conferred upon me by any and all other acts of Congress conferring authority upon me in the premises, hereby find and proclaim to all whom it may concern that it is essential in carrying out the guarantees aforesaid and to protect the United States against undue enhancement of its liabilities thereunder that wheat and wheat flour, on and after July 1, 1919, shall not be imported into the United States from, and shall not be exported from or shipped from, or taken out of the United States to Abyssinia, Afghanistan, Albania, Argentina, Austria, Belgium, her colonies, possessions, and protectorates; Bolivia, Brazil, Bulgaria, China, Chile, Colombia, Costa Rica, Cuba, Czechoslovakia, Denmark, her colonies, possessions, and protectorates; the Dominican Republic, Ecuador, Egypt, Finland, France, her colonies, possessions, and protectorates; Germany, Great Britain, her colonies, possessions, and protectorates; Greece, Guatemala, Haiti, Hedjaz, Honduras, Hungary, Italy, her colonies, possessions, and protectorates; Japan, her colonies, possessions, and protectorates; Liechtenstein, Liberia, Luxemburg, Mexico, Monaco, Montenegro, Morocco, Nepal, the Netherlands, her colonies, possessions, and protectorates; Nicaragua, Norway, Oman, Panama, Paraguay, Persia, Peru, Poland, Portugal, her colonies, possessions, and protectorates; Rumania, Russia, Salvador, San Marino, Serbs, Croats, and Slovenes; Siam, Spain, her colonies, possessions, and protectorates; Sweden, Switzerland, Turkey, Uruguay, Venezuela, or any other foreign country, except at such time or times and under such regulations or orders, and subject to such limitations and exceptions as shall be prescribed, until otherwise ordered by the President or by Congress.

The regulations, orders, limitations, and exceptions will be prescribed and administered by and under the authority of Julius Barnes, United States Wheat Director, from whom such licenses, in conformity with said regulations, orders, limitations, and exceptions, will issue.

The powers and authority heretofore vested in the War Trade Board by any proclamation or executive order heretofore issued by me in respect to the prohibition or regulation of imports or exports of wheat or wheat flour, are hereby transferred to and vested in the United States Wheat Manager as of July 1, 1919.

Mr. Barnes announced that he would establish regulations under this proclamation from time to time. Present regulations covering the exportation of wheat and wheat flour are as follows:

1. Wheat: Licenses for the export of wheat will be issued only to the United States Grain Corporation or its nominees.

2. Wheat Flour: Licenses will be issued for the export of wheat flour to all destinations in the Western Hemisphere; the East Coast of Asia; British, French, and Portuguese West Africa; Liberia and the Belgian Congo. For the exportation of wheat flour to other destinations licenses will be issued only to the United States Grain Corporation or its nominees.

Mr. Barnes announced regulations covering the importation of wheat and wheat flour to be:

The United States Wheat Director announced the regulations covering the importation of wheat and wheat flour to be:

1. Wheat: Licenses for the importation of wheat will be issued only to the United States Grain Corporation or its nominees.

2. Wheat Flour: Licenses for the importation of wheat flour will be issued only to the United States Grain Corporation or its nominees.

Applications for licenses to export wheat flour to the Western Hemisphere, the East Coast of Asia, and the West Coast of Africa, and applications for licenses to import wheat or wheat flour should be filed with the United States Wheat Director, 42 Broadway, New York.

It was said that the foregoing rules do not constitute any material modifications of the regulations heretofore existing as established by the War Trade Board.

OHIO CLAIMS 47 CENTS.

WASHINGTON, June 25.—The Federal Government and the State of Ohio are at loggerheads as to which shall pay 47 cents incurred in establishing offices of the Fuel Administration in Columbus.

The Ohio State Purchasing Agent advanced $523.23 for furniture, freight, and drayage, and obtained reimbursement of $522.76 from the Federal Government. Appealing from the settlement with a claim for the additional amount, the Ohio authorities were informed today by Controller of the Treasury Warwick that the original check was correct, so far as Washington is concerned, the eliminated 47 cents being 6 cents freight overcharge and 41 cents Federal freight tax erroneously assessed against a Government shipment.

American Crude Advanced

Standard Oil Company of California has advanced the price of high gravity California Crude 6 cents a barrel. Oil of 37 to 39.9 degrees Baume will be quoted at $1.63, with three cents additional for each full degree above 37. A new basis is established for the heavier oils at $1.25 a barrel for 19 to 19.9 degrees Baume, 2 cents additional for each full degree above 19. Standard Oil Company of Louisiana announced Thursday, June 5th, that on that date the posted market price for Homer crude oil had advanced 10 cents a barrel, making current quotations $2.25. This is the oil from the new field in Northern Louisiana for which a quotation was first posted, on May 2d, of $2.15 per barrel.

CAPITALIZATION
Officially reported as of June 26, 1919
NO BONDED DEBT.

First Preferred Stock, 7% Cumulative	$3,500,000	$3,500,000
Voting Preferred Stock, 7% Cumulative	1,500,000	1,500,000
Common Stock (par value $50)	7,500,000	7,500,000

REGISTRAR: First National Bank, Boston; Equitable Trust Company, New York
TRANSFER AGENTS: Old Colony Trust Company, Boston; Mercantile Trust Company, New York

We summarize from letter of George M. Wright, Chairman of the Board of Directors of the new Company:

EARNINGS—"For the past three years net earnings after taxes and liberal allowance for depreciation have averaged over $1,100,000, or after allowing for full 7% dividends and sinking funds on both the First Preferred and Voting Preferred Stocks, the equivalent of 8% or $4.00 a share on the Common Stock outstanding. The demand for the products of the Company has never been greater than at present, and I estimate that the net earnings of the Company applicable to dividends on the Common Stock for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1920, will be in excess of 13% on the amount of Common Stock outstanding, or equivalent to $6.65 a share.

TRADE POSITION—"The Company will occupy a dominant position in the wire industry and be in a position to increase its business substantially and to make a considerable reduction in its unit costs. Among the advantages of consolidated operations I may mention that the output of wire will be increased about 10,000 tons by reason of the fact that the Clinton Plant has heretofore purchased elsewhere its supply of wire which will now be manufactured in the Worcester and Palmer Plants of the Company."

PROPERTIES—The Clinton-Wright Wire Company, incorporated June 23, 1919, under the laws of Massachusetts, has acquired the assets and business of the Clinton Wire Cloth Company, founded in 1856, the Morgan Spring Company, founded in 1881, and the Wright Wire Company, founded in 1883.

ASSETS—The land, buildings, machinery, equipment and other fixed assets of the Company have been appraised by Messrs. Ford, Bacon & Davis, with due allowance for physical condition and fair costs, at a sound value of $8,225,000. The net quick assets of the Company, according to an approximate consolidated balance sheet prepared by Messrs. Marwick, Mitchell, Peat & Co., are in excess of $4,200,000. Physical property and net quick assets of the Company therefore aggregate $12,425,000 or $100 for each share of First Preferred and Voting Preferred Stock outstanding and $49.50 for each share of Common Stock now outstanding.

Application will be made in due course to list this stock on the New York and Boston Stock Exchanges.

HINES DEFENDS PLAN OF RATE CONTROL

Urges House Committee Not to Approve Taking Power from President.

FEARS CONFLICTING ACTION

Director General Also Opposes Adding to Federal Responsibility for Judgments.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 25.—Opposition to the bill to give the Interstate Commerce Commission, instead of President Wilson, authority to initiate rates, was voiced today by Director General Hines when he appeared before the House Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee.

"It is neither logical nor significant to deprive the President at this time of his power to initiate rates," Mr. Hines said. "The railroads will not remain under Federal control for any considerable time. The conclusion of peace is near, and presumably the operation of the railroads in a short time will be restored to the private owners."

Mr. Hines also asked that nothing be included in the proposed bill to interfere with the power of the President to issue orders. He said on this point:

"My suggestion is that if there is any fear of the power of the President, it can be removed by inserting an express provision that the President's orders must be consistent with the Federal control act. The President has the power only to make orders in line with the purposes of the act. Beyond that point his orders are unlawful."

In asking that the rate-making power over both intrastate and interstate rates be left as it now exists, the Director General said:

"This should be true, for one thing, because the United States Government for the time has assumed responsibility for all the railroad situation. It must find the necessary funds to pay expenses. There is a single and individual question of national policy in regard to the revenues of railroads.

"If the Government remains responsible for the whole situation, and is nevertheless dependent upon a wholly independent study of this subject in any State as to intrastate rates, we have a division of authority in a matter in which the responsibility of the Government is single."

In reference to the section in the Senate bill making the United States responsible for the payment of judgments which originated before the period of Federal control, Mr. Hines said:

"Any such debt is the debt of the railroad and not the debt of the Government, and to make the Government liable for such payment is unjust to the Government and to the people, and is not necessary for the protection of the reasonable interests of judgment creditors."

PAN HANDLE STOCK.

When asked to comment yesterday on the report that the Pennsylvania Railroad Company would acquire the minority holdings of the Pan Handle (Pittsburgh, Cincinnati, Chicago & St. Louis Railroad Company) stock, President Samuel Rea of the Pennsylvania company stated that neither the Directors of that company nor the board of the Pennsylvania Railroad had given the matter any attention. He also said that the present does not seem a propitious time, considering the financial condition and uncertainty as to the future railroad policy of the country for the adoption of plans looking to the acquisition of stocks of subsidiary companies.

GIVES COURSES IN CHINESE.

Columbia School to Teach Composition and the Spoken Language.

For the first time in the history of the Columbia Summer School, Chinese will be taught this year. Following compliance with the request of the Peking Government that Professor John Dewey should receive further leave to aid in the educational reconstruction of China, James C. Egbert, Director, announced yesterday that two courses in spoken Chinese would be given. A first course in Chinese consists of easy conversational lessons in Mandarin, with the use of Romanized Chinese, and the principles of the construction of essential Chinese characters. Chinese composition and oral practice will include conversation and composition on topics relating to commercial and everyday life, with the object of increasing idiomatic expression and of imparting fluency in the speaking of the Chinese language.

Mayor's Advisory Committee to Quit

In a letter to Mayor Hylan yesterday Hubert Cillis, Chairman of the Mayor's Citizens' Advisory Committee, appointed by the late Mayor Mitchel and continued by his successor, for the purpose of dealing with the situation created by the presence in New York of thousands of alien enemies during the war, asked the Mayor for permission to dissolve the committee. Mr. Cillis said that the time has now come when conditions in the City of New York no longer require such a committee.

HOLLAND'S CHIEF NEED IS RAW MATERIALS

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

THE HAGUE, June 24.—"The only American business men who have gone half-way satisfied from Holland were those selling raw materials, especially coal, cotton, and copper," said a representative of one of the largest American import houses in Holland to THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent.

"Coal appears to be the essence of the whole business world here. Without coal they can do nothing. They are now getting a certain quantity of coal from America, but they also need raw materials in order to start the plants going. The Dutch, however, cannot export; they can only supply the home and Dutch Indies markets. The Indies furnished their main business before the war, but this is another market where Japan has stepped in during the war, and Dutch manufacturers are up in arms. While the war lasted they were unable to trade with their colonies, and Japan is now supplying colonial needs and has started a steamship line to the Indies. The Dutch fear that they cannot compete with Japan in the future if high freights continue.

"It may be possible for Americans to do business with Holland in certain manufactured textiles until such time as the Dutch industrial plants are able to get their own material and supply their own market, but after that there will be little chance. The American Allied Textile Corporation, a large cotton combination, has extensive offices in Amsterdam.

"The Dutch are still waiting to buy, hoping that prices will fall, but this is impossible for another year at least, owing to high freights and the scarcity of goods. They are also afraid to sell much to Germany, as they are uncertain about payments there.

"A small crowd of American business men is waiting for peace to be signed to go to Germany and see what has happened to their business and property there, but they do not expect to do much business. One importer of chemicals told me he was returning to the United States without doing any business, because prices were so high in Germany that by the time the goods had been shipped and the duty paid there was no profit."

COXEY PREDICTS REVOLT.

Leader of "Army" Offers Employment Plan as Alternative.

WASHINGTON, June 25.—Jacob S. Coxey of Massillon, Ohio, who in 1894 led his famous "Army of Unemployed" to the Capitol, appeared before the House Banking and Currency Committee today to advocate legislation which he said would end unemployment, but after he had distributed copies of a pamphlet to members the committee adjourned suddenly.

The publication discussed various proposals for correcting conditions of unemployment and contained this final passage:

"Or failing in this peaceful and desirable mode, then revolution. Think it over: is there anything else left for us to do?"

Coxey told the committee "revolution" in the generally accepted sense was not meant, but he refused to explain just what he did mean.

Year's Surplus $1,107,382.

The Federal Sugar Refining Company, for the year ended May 31, 1919, reports a surplus, after charges and taxes, of $1,107,382. After allowing for preferred dividends, this is the equivalent of $13.52 a share on the common stock. In the preceding year the amount available for the common stock was $11.15 a share.

A Record For Safety

When a corporation has always paid the interest and principal on its obligations, and in addition has an earning capacity which has permitted it to pay substantial stock dividends regularly for years, there is reason to believe in the safety of the bonds and notes issued by that corporation.

We recommend at current quotations the note of a corporation which has the above record. The yield at present is over 7.35%.

Investment vs. Speculation

Investment bonds and notes are issues which are regarded safe as to payment of interest and principal. There are, of course, several degrees of safety, and the strong issues, as a rule, command a higher price. The speculative issues are those in which there is a question as to permanency of interest payments or receipt of principal at maturity.

We have an Investment Department for handling problems of this character, which you may consult freely, without obligation or cost to you.

Excerpts from Report on Bacon Multiplying Machine

Look for products bearing this seal

Findings:

*"Mechanically the device is new in its plan of construction"— * * * "Commercial investigation discloses that no successful multiplying machine has been built or placed on the market, and there is a demand for a small and large listing machine of this type."*

The Slocum, Avram and Slocum Laboratories made the above report to Mr. George M. Bacon, of Salt Lake City, Utah. The full report contained recommendations for change of methods in construction, and a review of the patent situation.

As a result of our investigation we were assigned to commercially develop the machine so that as soon as possible it might be put on a sound business basis. Consistent with our service to our clients we believe this machine, as developed by us, will prove a mechanical and commercial success, and we anticipate our client will place quantity manufacture with us in view of our preliminary service.

Our mechanical laboratories and factory are especially organized for the work of industrial investigation, development and production. Many manufacturers not having need of our facilities for investigation and report could, through placing production in our hands, achieve better results and greater profits by devoting their entire effort to sales.

We will be pleased to place one of our experts at your disposal to discuss with you any phase of our service.

POSTAL TO RESTORE OLD TELEGRAM RATE

Deegan Says the 20 Per Cent. Increase Will Be Dropped on Return of Land Lines.

EXPECT NO CHANGE ON W. U.

Carlton Asserts Company Does Not Intend to Set Aside Charges Fixed by Burleson.

Commenting on the agreement reached between Senate and House committees for the return of the land wires to private control on August 1 next, William J. Deegan, Secretary of the Mackay Companies, the holding corporation of the Postal Telegraph-Commercial Cable Company, said yesterday that the Postal would immediately put in force the old telegraph rates just as soon as the wire return had been completed.

Postmaster General Burleson, asserting that cost of materials and increased wages made the step imperative, advanced telegraph rates 20 per cent. on April 1 last. This step, it was estimated by telegraph officials, added $16,000,000 to the cost of business communication, and the Postal Company vigorously protested against the increase, declaring that it was wholly unnecessary.

"Yes," replied Mr. Deegan, "the Postal company will adhere to its promise to reduce the present cost of telegraph service by 20 per cent. Mr. Mackay has always maintained that there was no excuse for this added burden on the public, and just as soon as the wires are returned, which apparently will be on Aug. 1, we shall go back to the old rates."

When Newcomb Carlton, President of the Western Union Company, was asked if his corporation would follow the lead of the Postal, he replied:

"I've nothing to say about the return of the wires, or the reported plan to return them. No, we do not contemplate setting aside Postmaster General Burleson's instructions to increase the rates by 20 per cent."

As for the strike of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union against the wire companies, it was said for the men yesterday that everything depended upon the outcome of a conference between Mr. Burleson and a committee appointed at the American Federation of Labor meeting at Atlantic City. The committee will meet the Postmaster General armed with authority to demand that the telegraphers be accorded the right to bargain collectively.

The usual force of pickets were patrolling the Western Union office at 24 Walker Street and the Postal's headquarters at 253 Broadway yesterday. The pickets, principally girls, contented themselves with marching up and down. Leaders among the strikers said that there had been no let-up in the efforts to induce allied workers to cast their lot in with the strikers.

The members of the Eastern Brokers' Division of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union were scheduled yesterday to meet the Board of Governors of the New York Stock Exchange for further light on steps to end the strike. The financial wiremen, it was said, had no intention of giving more than financial support to the commercial keymen. It was impossible to ascertain at the broker men's headquarters, 44 Broad Street, the outcome of their negotiations.

GERMANY IS MAKING STEEL.

Taking Business at Price Which English Cannot Meet.

Germany has begun taking some steel business in neutral markets, according to the Iron Age, at prices which English manufacturers cannot consider. Belgian producers also are reported to be offering bars, plates and shapes at Antwerp at prices below British competitors. The amounts in either case are not large. Within two months, it is asserted, Luxemburg will have its blast furnaces in full operation, with the marketing channel through Antwerp. Italy is said to be looking forward to getting large quantities of scrap from France, Germany and Austria, and also seeks Westphalian coke. The American product is not apparently regarded even as favorably as English coke. For the present, American manufacturers are able to sell pig iron at $3.45 a ton below the British product.

Attention is called to the course of prices in England. Rails, it is said, are quoted at $73.00 a ton, as compared with $45 in this country. Wages have been increased 12½ per cent., and the mill operatives are demanding the six-hour day.

In regard to domestic conditions, the publication says:

"Production is now at about 60 per cent. of ingot capacity, and June's output will probably be fully 10 per cent. more than May's. The greater activity in pipe, wire, and sheets is offset by the still relatively small demand for bars, plates, and shapes. Orders are coming in faster than the shipment rate, and some accumulation of bookings is the tangible evidence of the continued improvement.

"The old law of supply and demand is receiving some recognition. Buying of wire and wire products and of iron and steel pipe remains sufficiently vigorous, so that talk persists of an early advance. It happens, however, that the strong hands among producers are opposed to a price change, at least for several months, but one mill demands $2 more a ton on wire and 25 cents more a keg on nails for export.

"Structural steel lettings continue to grow, and the East is beginning to get the pace of the Central West. The June total will exceed the figures for May, which at 88,000 tons were double the business taken in April.

"Pig iron activity is mainly in foundry and malleable grades. Sales of 7,000 and 8,000 ton lots are reported from Cleveland. Inquiry which is not considered has come for contracts for the first half of next year.

"A manufacturer in the Chicago district was unable to consider an inquiry for 2,000,000 bolts from an automobile builder because prompt delivery could not be made.

"Unless shipbuilding and locomotive and car building soon show considerable expansion there will undoubtedly be idle plate capacity. Cuba has bought 500 and Chile is in the market for 600 cars.

"Large sales of coke for last-half delivery have been made in the Pittsburgh district, and prices are stiffer, with foundry coke 25 cents higher."

WARNS AUSTRALIAN LABOR.

Acting Premier Says Disputes Must Be Settled Peaceably.

MELBOURNE, Australia, June 25.—Outlining the political and industrial situation of the Commonwealth, Acting Prime Minister Watt in a public address declared that the Government "will stand for the settlement of labor disputes by law and order under all circumstances, rather than by the use of brute force," adding: "The people have expressed their will by the laws of the country and they will not allow any force, however arrogant or powerful, to usurp the functions of the Government or to challenge the forces of the Government."

After reviewing the break which occurred in the Labor Party over the first conscription issue and the resulting union of the forces of the National Labor Party, led by William M. Hughes, the present Premier, and the more numerous Liberal Party, Mr. Watt said:

"The only safety for the country rests in the reaffirmation of this union, so that the two may be a national party in fact, as well as in name."

BUY GULF OIL GOLD NOTES.

$18,000,000 Serial 6 Per Cent. Issue Is Taken by Four Banks.

The Union Trust Company and the Mellon National Bank, both of Pittsburgh, and the Guaranty Trust Company and the Bankers Trust Company of New York have purchased an issue of $18,000,000 serial 6 per cent. gold notes of the Gulf Oil Corporation. It is believed that a public offering will be made shortly.

The Gulf Oil Corporation was organized twelve years ago and is engaged in producing, refining, transporting, and distributing petroleum and its products. The new notes, it is said, constitute the only indebtedness of the company and its subsidiaries. Its properties are valued by the company at more than $150,000,000, and its earnings for the last three years have averaged $12,000,000, while they have not been below $8,000,000 for any single year in the last eight, after all charges, depreciation, and taxes have been deducted.

We are advised by cable that, subject to the approval by the shareholders of the Royal Dutch Company, at a general meeting to be held in Holland on June 30, 1919, the holders of outstanding Ordinary Shares are offered the right to subscribe at par, plus stamp tax in Holland, to one share of new Ordinary Stock for each four shares of stock held. The new stock to be subscribed for will be entitled to the dividends for the fiscal year of 1919 (payable in 1920). We are further advised that the final dividend for 1918 has been fixed at 25% and that the date for the payment of this dividend (on the old stock) will be the same as the date for the payment of the subscription in Holland on the new stock offered. This date will probably be July 16, 1919.

In view of the fact that subscription applications must be filed in Holland between June 16 and July 4, 1919, and in order to protect the rights of holders of "New York Shares" and of "American Shares" we have taken steps to file application to subscribe to the new stock to which all of the stock deposited with us under the Agreements of September 10, 1918, (covering "New York Shares,") and December 22, 1916, (covering "American Shares,") is entitled.

Transferable warrants will be issued to the holders of "New York Shares" of record July 7, 1919, as soon thereafter as practicable, entitling them to subscribe to new "New York Shares" at the rate of one "New York Share" for each four "New York Shares" held on the record date.

Subscription payments must be made at the office of the undersigned at 37 Wall Street, New York City, on or before the close of business July 22, 1919.

The amount per share to be paid will be fixed at the time of issuing the subscription warrants. This payment will include the subscription price plus taxes, expenses and fee for depositing new ordinary stock subscribed for under the "New York" Agreement, and will probably be between $3.73 and $4.00 on each old "New York Share." Any excess of this payment not required for the above purposes will subsequently be refunded to the subscribers. It is impossible to fix the exact amount of the payment at this time, as this depends upon the rate of exchange for guilders and also upon the exact amount of the expenses.

Owing to the fact that additional "American Shares" can only be issued against the actual deposit with the Depositary in New York City of Royal Dutch Company Ordinary Sub-shares, "American" Shareholders wishing to avail themselves of the subscription privilege and to receive their new stock in New York in the form of "New York Shares" may do so by exchanging their present holdings of "American Shares" for "New York Shares" without cost to them, at the office of The Equitable Trust Company of New York, 37 Wall Street, New York City, ON OR BEFORE JULY 7, 1919.

Otherwise transferable warrants will be issued to the holders of "American Shares" of record July 7, 1919, as soon thereafter as practicable, entitling them to subscribe to new Royal Dutch Ordinary Sub-shares at the rate of one such Royal Dutch Sub-share for each twelve "American Shares" held on the record date.

We recommend, however, that holders exchange their "American Shares" for "New York Shares," so that there may ultimately be only "New York Shares" outstanding. The "New York Shares" represent exactly the same par value of Royal Dutch Ordinary Stock as the American Shares. The "New York" Agreement is more elastic in that it makes possible the issue of "New York Shares" against the deposit of Dutch Stock in Holland, thus eliminating the necessity of shipping the Dutch stock to New York City.

Subscription payments must be made at the office of the undersigned at 37 Wall Street, New York City, on or before the close of business July 22, 1919. Holders of "American Shares" upon making payment of their subscriptions will receive receipts entitling them to Orders on Holland calling for delivery of Royal Dutch Sub-shares in Holland upon surrender of such Orders.

The amount per share to be paid will be fixed at the time of issuing the subscription warrants. This payment will include the subscription price plus taxes and expenses and will be approximately the same as the amount to be paid by the subscribers to "New York Shares," but will not include any charge which may subsequently be made by our correspondents for delivery of the Sub-shares upon the surrender of the Order in Holland.

Final Dividend for 1918.

This dividend will be paid to holders of "New York Shares" and of "American Shares" of record July 7, 1919, as soon after July 22, 1919, as practicable. The amount of this dividend will be announced after its payment in Holland. Dividend checks will be mailed only when income tax ownership certificates properly filled out have been filed with the undersigned.

Special Attention Is Called to the Following:

1. The foregoing is dependent upon favorable action at the general meeting to be held in Holland on June 30, 1919.
2. No "New York Shares" in exchange for new Ordinary Dutch Stock will be issued and no Orders on Holland for Sub-shares will be issued until we are advised that the Royal Assent has been obtained to the alteration of the statutes in connection with the proposed stock increase, as the Royal Dutch Company reserves the right to return subscription payments in case of failure to obtain Royal Assent. In this event, upon surrender of subscription warrants, we will return to the subscriber the amount paid less the proportionate amount of our expenses actually incurred in this matter.
3. Fractional scrip certificates will be issued for all fractional interests.

THE EQUITABLE TRUST COMPANY OF NEW YORK.
Depositary under Agreements dated December 22, 1916, and September 10, 1918.

MEETINGS AND ELECTIONS.

Notice is hereby given that a meeting of the stockholders of American Molybdenum Co., Inc., will be held at the office of the company, 165 Hudson Street, New York, on the 3rd day of July at 12 o'clock noon for the purpose of electing two directors for the ensuing year, and two inspectors of election to serve at the next annual meeting, and to determine whether the business of the corporation shall be continued, and whether the corporation shall be continued or dissolved, and for the transaction of such other business as may properly come before said meeting. Polls will remain open one hour. Transfer books will be closed from July 2nd to July 5th, 1919.

A. McC. BARNES, Jr., Secretary.

PREDICTS BREAKUP OF SURFACE LINES

Judge Mayer Says Roads Must Go Back to Owners if Rentals Are Defaulted.

BURR FILES A PROTEST

Receiver Declares He Cannot Pay and Have Enough Left to Continue Operation.

The first definite indication that the system of surface roads operated by the New York Railways Company would be broken up came yesterday, when Federal Judge Mayer announced, after a long discussion by lawyers representing various interests, that if the company could not pay its rentals for the Eighth and Ninth Avenue lines, they would be returned to their owners. That the company cannot pay the rentals and interest on bonds due July 1, and have capital enough left to carry on the business, was announced by Job E. Hedges, the receiver, in an application asking the court for instructions.

Morgan J. O'Brien, representing the Eighth and Ninth Avenue lines, complained of the default in rental payments, and asked that the lines be turned back. The owners, he said, would accept the rentals if they were offered, but as the amount grows larger each day, with the prospects of payment remaining stationary, he thought the owners should have their properties. An effort would be made to operate them at a profit.

Under the lease to the Railways Company a rental of $215,000 a year was to be paid for the Eighth Avenue line. This, with other costs, would bring the annual payments up to $263,675.37, or, according to the estimate of Corporation Counsel Burr, the payments were to be equivalent to 26½ per cent. on a capitalization of $1,000,000. The rental of the Ninth Avenue line is $64,000 a year, which, with costs, totals $98,670.35, or, according to Mr. Burr, enough to pay a dividend of 12.33 per cent. on a capitalization of $800,000. Rent on the lines is due for the first quarter of the year.

To Take Up Transfer Charges.

Mr. Burr objected strongly to the severance of the lines. He said the system should be retained, that the public might receive the benefit of transfers. Mr. O'Brien insisted that the receiver be directed to pay the rent or return the lines. Mr. Burr said there were franchise obligations to be observed and that the Public Service Commission controls the property. He was sure there could be no severance of the system and no abrogation of the existing method of universal transfers without the consent of the commission. He thought the receiver should have at least six months in which to try to bring order and profit out of the situation.

During the discussion reference was made to a letter dated June 16, received by Mr. Hedges from Public Service Commissioner Lewis Nixon, in which Mr. Nixon referred to the application of the Railways Company for authority to charge for transfers. The letter said the application was heard while war was in progress, and that now, if the company desired it, hearings would be held and speedy action taken. A reply to this letter, it was announced, would be sent to Mr. Nixon today.

It was said that if Mr. Nixon exercised his power and gave the company the right to charge 2 or 3 cents for transfers at about 80 of the 113 transfer points, the revenues of the company would increase from $700,000 to $900,000 a year.

Mr. Burr argued that it was the duty of the receiver to keep the lines together, and it was pointed out that if they were separated the charge for each ride would be 5 cents. It was also indicated by those opposed to the separation that a unified system could be operated more cheaply because the overhead charges would be much less.

In reply to a question by Judge Mayer, Mr. O'Brien said he thought there would not be much difficulty in arranging for transfers between the Eighth and Ninth Avenue lines and several crosstown lines. Judge Mayer told him that if he would submit a plan by July 8 showing that the interests of the public would be safeguarded he would instruct the receiver to turn over the lines.

No Right to Run Property at Loss.

"The time has come," Judge Mayer said, "when we must have more action and less talk. The Court wishes to keep the system intact, but it has no right to destroy property. The New York Railways Company is running at a deficit every day. There is no doubt about that. Public Service Commissioner Nixon has indicated that he will take up the matter of transfers, and I presume he will give an answer at an early date. I believe the solution of the transfer problem will mean the solving of the problems we have been considering.

"As for the Eighth and Ninth Avenue lines, we know we cannot pay the rentals, and we have no right to keep the property running at a loss. The owners promise to run the cars in a way that will serve the public if we return them. The responsibility of breaking up the property cannot be charged to the Court, which is not going to take money out of the pockets of the owners of the lines. If Judge O'Brien will present to me by noon on July 8 a satisfactory plan of operation I will instruct the receiver to return the lines."

Receiver Hedges also asked for instructions as to what action he should take regarding the payment of interest due July 1 on the first real estate and refunding mortgage 4 per cent. bonds, which amounts to $361,225.80, and the interest on the 5 per cent. underlying bonds, as well as those of the leased lines. He said the system had been operating cars over the Williamsburg Bridge since Sept. 1, 1915, on temporary permits, and that during the six months ended March 31 last it had fallen short $1,210,011.74 of earning the interest on its bonds.

Mr. Hedges said that by discontinuing the operation of cars over the bridge and sending them only to the bridge entrance a saving, including rentals, &c., of $144,504 a year would be effected. Bronson Winthrop, counsel for the receiver, estimated the saving at $289,000 a year.

Burr Makes Protest.

Mr. Burr vigorously objected to stopping car traffic over the bridge. He said 37,000 persons a day cross the bridge in the cars, and that the application to cut off the service had been made without the receiver trying to make any arrangement with the city. He asked for a delay of two weeks before any definite action is taken. Godfrey Goldmark, chief counsel for the Public Service Commission, also objected to stopping the cars. This subject was also adjourned until July 8.

Mr. Winthrop, by aid of a table of expenditures, showed that the Railways company was running at a loss, and that if the interest on the 4 per cent. bonds was paid there would be a deficit for the nine months ended March 31 last of $1,382,078.85.

Joseph Cotton, in behalf of a committee of the first mortgage bondholders, who have $18,000,000 of the bonds, said he represented 1,600 bondholders, each owning less than $10,000 of bonds. Their holdings, he said, represented their chief source of income. He said that a default in payment of interest would make it necessary to begin foreclosure proceedings. Asked by Judge Mayer if he would foreclose if the interest was paid, he replied that if offered the payment it would be accepted and marked "on account." Judge Mayer said:

"It seems inadvisable to instruct the receiver to pay this interest under the circumstances since nothing will be gained. There is no course left to the Court but to instruct the receiver not to pay it."

MRS. CARHART'S ESTATE.

$1,272,007 Goes to Son of Testatrix—$10,000 to an Employe.

Special to The New York Times.

TUXEDO, June 25.—An appraisal of the estate of Mrs. Marion B. Carhart of New York City and Tuxedo, just completed by Transfer Tax Appraiser Joseph M. Wilkin of Orange County and made public today, places its gross value at $3,160,071.06. The estate must pay an inheritance tax of $101,893.73 to the State of New York.

Mrs. Carhart died Oct. 1, 1917, and the will was filed with Surrogate J. B. Swezey. It leaves $1,272,007 to the testatrix's son, A. S. Carhart, and a like amount to her daughter, Marion R. Carhart. The sum of $100,000 is left to Mrs. Marion Brookman, mother of the testatrix; $10,000 to William T. Reynolds, a faithful employe of the Carhart estate, and $5,000 to her nephew, John Van Neck.

Besides the transfer tax in this State, Mrs. Carhart's estate must pay taxes in other States on the transfer of securities there, and an inheritance tax to the Federal Government. Mrs. Marion P. Brookman, mother of Mrs. Carhart, is executrix of the estate.

Mrs. Carhart's real estate, located in New York City and Tuxedo, has been appraised at $467,769. The personal estate is valued at $2,692,307. While the gross estate is appraised at $3,160,071.06, deductions for funeral and testamentary expenses and debts allowed by the appraiser total $501,056, leaving the value of the net estate $2,659,014.

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE

Despite the 15 per cent. call money rate, which prevailed late in the day and caused a considerable final hour liquidation on the Consolidated Stock Exchange yesterday, numerous of the copper, steel, and marine issues ended the session with prices well above those of Tuesday night. International Mercantile Marine common was in demand throughout the day, gaining 4⅝ to 51⅞, and closing near the top, while Marine preferred netted an advance of 1¼ to 117⅜, and American International Corporation 1⅝ from its early low to 107⅛. The steel properties held steady, United States Steel common moving up 1⅛ from the early low. International Nickel advanced 2 points to a new high level, while United States Rubber, after selling at 128, fell back to 125½, and finished at 127.

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT, Southern District of New York.—In the matter of A. B. GEORGE, bankrupt.

Notice is given that, pursuant to an order of the United States District Court for the Southern District of New York, the undersigned, Arthur Y. Dalziel, Receiver in Bankruptcy of A. B. George, offers for sale the property, assets, and effects of the said bankrupt.

The property to be sold consists of the following: Soda water fountain with all attachments, wall cases, show cases, tables, chairs, glasses, glass holders, ice cream holder, cash register, scale, carbonator, stove, stock of candy, and all other fixtures and now contained in the premises, No. 29 Main St., Yonkers, N. Y. The receiver will sell all his rights, title, and interest in and to the above property.

The above-described property will be sold subject to all valid liens and incumbrances of record. Further particulars in regard to said liens may be obtained from the receiver or his attorney. The above-described property may be inspected on the premises from June 28th, 1919, until June 29th, 1919, between the hours of 10 A. M. to 5 P. M.

Bids for the above-described property, assets, and fixtures as an entirety may be submitted to the receiver at his place of business, No. 56 South Broadway, Yonkers, N. Y., Room 312, on or before 10 o'clock in the forenoon of June 30th, 1919, which time and place bids will be opened by him, and creditors may attend and express themselves in reference thereto. Each bid must be accompanied by a certified check or cash for at least 10% of the amount of the bid. The receiver reserves the right to reject any or all bids, in which event the said property will be sold at public auction on the premises by an auctioneer on the 3rd day of July, 1919, at 11 o'clock noon of that day.

Dated Yonkers, New York, June 23rd, 1919.

DAVID GORFINKEL, Attorney for Receiver, No. 53 South Broadway, Yonkers, N. Y.

REAL ESTATE FIELD

As a site for a business building for his own occupancy a New York merchant has acquired the old Norrie residence at 377 Fifth Avenue, held at $350,000.

The property, which has a frontage of 24.6 feet and depth of 100, is located between Thirty-fifth and Thirty-sixth Streets and has been occupied by members of the Norrie family for over fifty years.

With the exception of the Wendel dwelling on the northwest corner of Thirty-ninth Street and Fifth Avenue it is about the last private house in this once fashionable residential section to withstand the northward march of trade.

Owing to the interest of minors in the property the sale will have to be confirmed by the court. It is understood that the buyer will improve the property just as soon as title is obtained. Pease & Elliman and Douglas L. Elliman negotiated the transaction.

Operator in Three Deals Aggregating $555,000.

Frederick Brown, operator, figured in several transactions yesterday, important among which was the resale of Le Roy Hall, a six-story elevator apartment house at the southeast corner of Fordham Road and Valentine Avenue. The property has a frontage of 110 feet on Fordham Road and 134 feet on Valentine Avenue, and shows an annual rental of about $30,000. It was held at $275,000.

The property is opposite the two large theatres now being built by the B. F. Keith and the United States Theatre interests. Richard H. Scobie negotiated the sale.

Mr. Brown also sold to Isadore Montefiore Levy the five-story new-law apartment house, on a plot 100 by 100, at 547 to 553 West 147th Street, 125 feet east of Broadway. The asking price was $200,000.

In another transaction Mr. Brown sold to the Benenson Realty Company, through S. Rosen, 752 East 179th Street, two five-story apartments, each 36 by 100, held at $80,000. He took in part payment 245 Rivington Street, a four-story tenement, 25 by 75.
